OR the which cause the Lord our God hath persecuted us, and our heads that ruled in Jerusalem, yet, and our kinges, our princes with all Israel & Juda. And such plagues hath the Lord brought upon us, as neuer came to passe vnder the heauen, lyke as it is fulfilled in Jerusalem, * accordyng as it is wyrtten in the lawe of Moyses: that a man shulde eate the flesh of his owne soune, & the flesh of his owne daughter. Moreover, he hath deliuered them into the bandes of all the kinges, & are rounde about vs: to be confounded & desolate, and scattered them abrode in al landes & nations. Thus are we brought beneath and not aboue, because we haue sinned against the Lord our God, and haue not bene obedient vnto his voyce. * Therfore the Lord our God is ryghteous, and we with our fathers (as reason is) are brought to open shame, as it is to se this daye. And as for these plagues that are come vpon vs already, the Lord hath deuyled them for vs: yet wolde we not praise vnto the Lord our God, & we myght turne euery man from his vngodly wayes. So the Lord hath caused such plagues to come vpon vs: for he is ryghteous in all his wayes, whiche he hath commaunded vs: whiche we also haue not done, nor hardened vnto his voyce for to walke in the commaundementes of the Lord that he hath geuen vnto vs.

And now, O Lord God of Israel, thou that hast brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, with tokens and wonders, with thy great power, and our stretched arme: & hast gotten thy selfe a name, as it is come to passe this day, O Lord our God we haue sinned, we haue done wyckedlye, we haue behaved our selues vngodly in all thy righteuousnes. Turne thy wrath from vs we beseeche the for we are but a fewe leste among the heathen, where thou hast scattered vs. * Heare our prayers: O Lord, & our petitions: hyng vs out of captivitye, for thyne owne sake: geue vs fauour in the sight of them, which haue led vs a way: that all landes may know that thou arte the Lord our God: and & Israel and his generation callest vpon thy name.

O Lord, looke downe from thy holy house vpon vs: encline thyne eare, & heare vs. * For the dead that be gone downe to their graues, & whose soules are out of thes bodies, & ascribte vnto the Lord, neyther praise, nor ryghteous making: but & soules that is vered for the multitude of her synnes whiche goeth on heuelp, and we they, whose eyes begynne to faile: yet such a soule ascribeth praise & righteousnes vnto the Lord: O Lord we praye out our prayers before the, and requyre mercy in thy syde. O Lord our God: not for any godlynes of our fathers, but because thou hast sente out thy wrath and indignacion vpon vs: accordyng as thou dydest threaten vs, by thy seruantes the prophetes, sayng. * Thus sayeth the Lord: Low downe your shoulders & neither and serue the kyng of Babylon, so shall ye remaine tyl in the lande, that I gaue vnto your fathers. * If ye wyl not do this, nor heare the voyce of the Lord your God, to serue the kyng of Babylon: I shall destroye you in the cyties of Juda: within Jerusalem & wythoute. I wyl also take you from the voyce of mirth, and the voyce of ioye, the voyce of the bydegrome and the voyce of the byde, & there shal no man dwel more in the lande. But they wolde no hearken vnto thy voyce, to do the kyng of Babylon seruyce: & therefore hast thou persecuted the wyddes that thou spakest by thy seruantes the prophetes: namelye, that the bones of our kinges and the bones of our fathers shulde be translated oute of thes places. And lo, now are they layed out in the heate of the sunne, & in the colde of the nyght, & dreed in great misery, with hunger, with sweate with pestilence, & are cleane cast forth. As for the temple wherein thy name was called vpon, thou hast laide it waste, as it is to se this daye: & that for the wyckednes of & house of Israel, & & house of Juda. O Lord our God, thou hast increased vs after all thy goodnes, & accordyng to al that great louyng mercy of thyne, lyke as thou spakest by thy seruante Moyses, in the day when thou didst comande him, to wryt thy lawe before the chyldren of Israel, sayng: * If ye wyl not hearken vnto my voyce, then shall this greute multitude be turned into a verie small people, for I wyl scatter them abrode. Notwithstandyng, I am sure & this folke wyl not heare me: for it is an hardnecked people, but in the lande of their captivitye, they shall remember them selues, and learne to know, that I am the Lord their God, whi I geue them an herte to vnderstand, and eares to heare. Then shall they praise me in the lande of their captivitye: and thynke vpon my name. Then shall they turne them from thes harde backs, and from thes vngodly nesses. Then shal they remember the thynges, that happened vnto they, for fathers, whiche sinned agaynst me. So I wyl hyng them agayne into the lande to which I promysed with an oth vnto they fathers: Abraham, Isacac, & Jacob, & they shall be lordes of it: yet, I wyl increase them, and not mynyshe them. * And I wyl make another couenant with them: such one as shal endure for euer, namely, that I wyl be they God, & they shal be my people: and I wyl nomore dryue my people the chyldren of Israel, oute of the lande that I haue geuen them.

The iii. Chapter.

The people continually in they, purges began for their belouance. The playfylls lye vnto the people, & they say that so great abundance came vnto them for the dryfing thereof. Whi God hath the father of his lode, & the incarnation of christ.

AND now, O Lord Almighty, thou God of Israel our soule that is in trouble, and our spyrete that is vered, cryeth vnto the: heare vs (O Lord) and haue ppyte vnto vs for thou arte a merciful God, be gracious vnto vs, for we haue sinned before the. Thou endurist for euer, shulde we then vterly perishe? O Lord almighty Lorde Almyghty, thou God of Israel.

Hear now the prayer of the deede Israelites and of theyr children, which haue sinned before the, and not hearkened vnto the voyce of thy Lord thy God, for the whiche cause these plagues haue nowe vpon vs: O Lord, remember not the wyckednes of our forefathers, but thyne vpon thy power and name nowe at this tyme: for thou art the Lord our God: & the (O Lord) wyl we praye. * For thou hast put thy seate in our dectes, to the intente that we shulde call vpon thy name, and praye the in our captivity, and that we myght turne from the wyckednesse of our forefathers, & synned before the.

Beholde, we are yet this daye in oure captivity, where as thou hast scattered vs, to be an abhominacion, curse, and syn: y<sup>e</sup> as it hath happened vnto our forefathers also, because of theyr wyckednesse, and departing from the.

O Israel, heare the commaundementes of lyfe: ponder them wel with thyn eares, that y<sup>e</sup> mayst learne wysedome. But how happened it Israel, that thou art in thyn enemies lande thou arte waken olde in a straunge countrie, & despyled wth the deade. Why art thou become lyke them, & goode downe to theyr graues? Euen because thou hast forsaken the wel of wisdom: For yf thou haddest walked in the way of God true, thou shuldest haue remained styl safe in thyn owne land. * O learne then where discrecion is, where vertue is, where vnderstanding is, that y<sup>e</sup> mayst knowe also from whence cometh longe lyfe, a necessary luyng, the lychte of the eyes, & quietnes. Who euer found out her place? & who euer came into her treasures.

Where are the Dynces of the heathen become, & such as ruled the bestes vpon the earth? They that had theyr pastyme wth the foules of the ayre, that doo: ded vth silver & gold: wher in men trust so muche) & made no ende of theyr gathering: What is become of them y<sup>e</sup> copied silver, and were so carefull, & coulde not byng theyr woyles to passe? They be roted out, and gone downe to hell, and other men are come vth in their steades. Yong men haue sene lycht, and dwelte vpon earth: but the waye of reformation haue they not knowne, nor vnderstande the pathes thereof: nether haue they children receyued it: yea, righte sarre is it from them. It hath not bene heard of in the lande of Canaan, nether hath it ben sene at Theman.

The Agarenes soughte after wysedome, but that whiche is earthly, lyke as the marchaunt is of the lande do. They of Theman are conynge also, and they labour for wysedome and vnderstanding: but the way of true wysedome they knowe not: nether do they thynke vpon the pathes thereof. O Israel howe greates is the house of God: and howe large is the place of his dwelling. * Great is he & hath no ende: yea, & vnderstande. What is become of those famous Spanyes, that were so great of bodies, and so stout y<sup>e</sup> men of warre? Those had not thy Lord chosen, nether haue they founde the waye of reformation, therefore wer they destroyed, and so muche as they had no wisdom, they perished because of theyr folye.

Who hath gone vth into heauen, to take wyl come there and broughte her downe from the cloudes? Who hath gone ouer the sea, to fynde her, & hath chosen her a boue gold, & so broughte her hether? No man knoweth the wayes of wyl come, neither is there any that can seke out her pathes. But he that wotteth al thinges, knoweth her, and he hath founde her oute with his foreknowledge. * This same is he whiche prepared the earth at the beginning, and fylled it with all maner of foules and bestes. * When he sendeth out the lycht, it goeth: and when he calleth it again, it obeyeth hym with feare. * The starres kepe theyr watche, and geue theyr lycht: yea & that gladly. When he calleth them they saye: here we be. And so with cheerefulnes they shewe lycht vnto hym that made them.

* This is oure God and there shall none other be compared vnto hym. It is he that hath founde oute all wysedome, and hath geuen her vnto Jacob his seruaunte, and to Israel his beloved. * Afterwarde dyd he shewe hym selfe vpon earth, and dwelt among men.

The .iii. Chapter.

The remembrance of them that hope the same, & the punishment of them that despise it. A comforting of the people being in captivity. A comfort of Jerusalem & vnder the figure thereof of the church. A consolation & comforting of the same.

This is the booke of the commaundementes of God, and the lawe that endureth for euer. Al they that hope it shal come to lyfe: but such as forsake it, shal come to deathe. Turne the, O Jacob, take holde of it: walke by thy waye thow shalt see his byghtnes and shynne. Geue not thynne honoure to another, and thy worshippe to a straunge people. O Israel, & howe happye are we, seeing that God hath shewed vs such thynges as are pleasant vnto hym: Be of good chere, thou people of God, O thou ancient Israel. * Nowe are ye solde among the heathen, howbeit, not for your viter destruction: but because ye prouoked God the Lord to wrath, and dyspleasure, therefore were ye deliuered vnto your enemies: for ye dyspleased the euellasyng God that maketh pou offering vnto deuyls & not to God. Ye haue forgotten hym that broughte you vth, and your nurse haue ye greued, O Israel.

When he sawe that the wrath of God was comynge vpon you, he sayde hearken. O ye & dwell about syon, for God hath broughte me into great heynesse, and wher I se the captivity of my people, of my sonnes & daughters, whiche the euellasyng God wyl byng vpon them. With toye dyd I noy the them, but now must I leane them with wepyng & sorrow.

Let no man reioyce ouer me wyddome, and forsaken: whiche for the synnes of my children am desolate of euery manne. For wher they departed frome the lawe of God: they would not knowe his righteousnesse, nor walke in the way of his commaundementes: & as for y<sup>e</sup> partes of y<sup>e</sup> truth & godlynes, they had no lust to go in the

Oye

C Ope dwellers about Ierusalem, come and he call to remembrance the dayes, that euerlastyng God hath brought upon my son-nes and my daughters. * He hath brought a people upon them from farre, an vncircumcised people and of a straunge language which they regard the olde, nor yet the yonge.

These haue carryed awaye the here beloued of my wyddowes, leauyng me alone, both desolate and chydlike. But alas what can I helpe you? Naue he that hath brought these plagis upon you, deliuer you also from the handes of your enemies.

Go your way (O my chyldren) go your way for I am desolate & forsaken. * I haue put of clothyng of peace, and put upon me the sacke-cloth of payer, & for my tyme I wyll cal vpon the most myghty. Be of good cheere: O my chyldren, crye vnto the Lorde, and he shall deliuer you from the power of your enemies.

For verely, I haue euer a good hope of your prosperous helth: yea, a very gladnesse is come vpon me from the holy one, because of your mercy that ye shal haue of our euerlastyng saluour.

With mourning and weeping byd I let you go from me, but with ioye & perpetual gladnesse shal the Lorde bring you again vnto me. Like as the neighbours of Sion sawe your captiuite from God, euen so shal they also se howe your helth in God, whiche shal come in you w great honoure and euerlastyng worship.

O my chyldren, * suffer patiently & wyth that shal come vpon you. For the enemye hath persecuted the, but howe shal he be his destruction, and shalte treade vpon his necke.

My darlynges haue gone rougher harde way-es, for they are led awaye as a flocke that is sca-tered abrode with the enemies. But be of good comferte (O my chyldren,) and crye vnto the Lorde: for he that led you away, hath you yet in remembrance: & lyke as ye haue ben mynde to sturue from your God: so shal ye now endeuoure your selues ten tymes moze, to turne again and to seke hym. For he hath brought these plagis vpon you shal bring you euerlastyng ioye again, with your helth. Take a good best vnto the O Ierusalem: for he whiche gaue the that name, exhorteth the so to do.

The wyched doores that now put the to trouble shal perishe, and such as haue reioy-sed at thy fall, shal be punyshed. The cytyen whome thy chyldren seue, and that haue carry-ed awaye thy sonnes, shal be correct. For like as they be now glad of thy decay (& reioyce at thy fall) so shal they moune in their owne destruction. The ioye of theyr multitude shal be taken away, and theyr cheere shal be turned to so-rowe. For a fyre shal fall vpon them from the euerlastyng God longe to endure: and it shal be inhabited of deuils for a great season.

The .v. Chapter.

Jerusalem is brought backe againe for the remembrance of her people, and shal be the ioye of the people.

Jerusalem, loke aboute the toward the East, and beholde the ioye that cometh vnto the God. For lo, thy sonnes (whome thou hast forsaken, & that were scattered abrode) come gathered together, from the east and west, reioysing in the word of the holy one, vnto the honour of God.

Put of thy mournyng clothes (O Ierusalem) and thy sorrowe, & decke the with the worshippe and honoure, that cometh vnto the from God, with euerlastyng gloire. God shal put the garmentes of righteousnesse vpon the, and sette a crowne of euerlastyng worshippe vpon thy heade, for vpon the wyll God declare his righteousnesse, & is vnder the heauen. Yea, an euer-lastyng name shal be geuen the of God, w peace of righteousnesse, & the honoure of Gods feare.

Aryse, O Ierusalem, stand vp an hye: loke about the toward the East: & beholde thy chyldren gathered from the East, vnto the West whiche reioyce in thy holy worde, hauing God in remembrance. They departed from the on foot, and were led awaye of their enemies: but now shal the Lorde bring them carryed w honoure as children of the kingdome. For God is purposed to bring downe all stoute mountaynes: yea and all hye rockes, to fyll the valleyes, & so to make them euen with the ground: that Israel maye be diligent to lye vnto the honoure of God.

The woodes and all pleasaunt trees shal ouer-shadowe Israel, at the commaundement of God.
For herber shal God bringe Israel w ioyfull mirth, and in the light of his mercie: w the mercy and righteousnes that cometh of hym selfe.

The .vi. Chapter.

A copy of the pssalme that Ieremye sent vnto the Iewes, whiche were taken awaye prisoners by the kyng of Babylon: wherein he exhorteth them of the thyng that was commaunded hym of God.

Because of the synnes, that ye haue doone agaynst God, ye shal be ledde awaye captiue vnto Babylon, euen of Nabuchodonosor, the kyng of Babylon. So when ye be come into Babylon, ye shal remaine there manye yeres, and for a longe season: namelye seven generacions, and after that wyll I bring you awaye peaceably from thence. Nowe shal ye se in Babylon god-des of golde, of syluer, of woode, and of stone, borne vpon mens shulders, to caste on a featfulnesse before the heathen. But looke that ye do not as the other: be not ye a fraide, & let not the feare of them overcome you.

Therefore when ye see the multitude of people worshyping them behynde and before, laye ye in your hearts: O Lorde, * it is thou youghtest onely to bee worshyped. Wyne aungell also shal be wyth you, and I my selfe wyll care for your soules. As for the tymber of those goddess, the carpenter hath polished them: yea, gristed be they, and layde ouer with syluer: yet are they but vaine thynges, and cannot speake lyke as a wench & loueth paramours is trymlyd, euen so are these made and hanged with golde. Crowns of gold were they haue their God des goddess vpon their heades: so the prestes them selues take gold and syluer from them: and put it to theyr owne vses: yea, they geue of þe same vnto harlots, and trimme theyr whores with all agayne, they take it from their whores, and beche theyr gods there with. * Pet cannot these gods deliuer them selues from rust and moches.

When they haue couered them with clothyng of purple, they wypp theyr faces for the dust of the temple, wherof there is much among them.
One hath a scepter in his hande as though he were Iudge of the countrey: yet can he not slay suche as offende hym. Another hath a swerde or an axe in his hande: for all that he is neyther able to defende him selfe from battaile, nor fro murderers. By this ye maye vnderstand, that they be no gods: thefoze se that ye neyther woz shyp them, nor feare them. For lyke as a vessel that a man vseth, is nothyng woorth when it is broken, euen so is it with their gods. Whil they be set vp in the temple, theyr eyes be full of dust thowze the fete of those þe come in. And lyke as the doores are shut in rounde aboute vpon him that hath offended the hyng: O as it were a dead bodie kepte besyde the graue. Euen so the prestes kepe the doores with barres and lockes least theyr gods be spoiled with robbers. They set vp candels befoze them: yee, verely and that manye where of they cannot se one but euen as blowes, so stande they in the temple. It is sayd that the serpent and wyrmes, whych come of the earth, knowe out theyr vertes, eatynge the and their clothes also, and yet they feele it not.
Theyr faces are black thowze the smoke that is in the temple. The oules, swalowes and byr-des, fly vpon them, yee, & the cattes runne ouer their heades. By this ye may be sure, that they are not gods, therfoze feare them not. The gold that they haue, is to make them be wythfull: for all that, excepte some bodie byght of theyr rust they wyll geue no hyne: & when they were cast into a fourme, they felt it not. They are bought for money and haue no byeth of life within them.
* They muste be bozne vpon mens shulders, as those þe haue no fete: whereby they declare vnto men, that they be nothyng woorth. * Confouded be they then that wozshyp them, for yf they fall to the grounde, they cannot rylle vp agayne of them selues. Per though one helpe them vp & set them ryghte, yet are they not able to stande alone: but must haue pyoppes set vnder the like dead men. As for the thyng that is offred vnto them, theyr prestes sell it, and abuse it: yee, the prestes wines take therof: but vnto the sicke and poze, they geue nothyng of it: the women with childe, and the menstruous laye handes of theyr offerynge. By this ye maye be sure that they are no gods, therfoze be not ye assayde of them. Frome whence cometh it then, that they are called gods? The women sit befoze the god-des of syluer, golde, & woode, & the prestes sit in their temples, hauing open clothes, whose hebes & beedes are shawen & haue nothyng vpon their heades: rooyng, and cryng vpon theyr gods as men do at the feaste when one is deade.

The prestes also take awaye the garmentes of the ymagyns and beche theyr wyues and chyldren withall. Whether it be good or euill that any man do vnto the, they are not able to redresse it: they can neyther sette vp a hyng nor put hym downe. In lyke maner they may neyther geue ryche, nor rewarde euill. * Though a man make a vowe vnto the and kepe it not, they wyll not requyre it. They can saue no man frome deathe, neyther deliuer the meake frome the myghtye. They can not restore a bynde ma-to his syghte, nor helpe anye man at his neede.
They can shewe no mercy to the wyddowe, nor do good to the fatherlesse. Theyr goddesses of wodde, ston, golde, and syluer, are but euen as other stones, that be becom of the mountayne.
They that wozshyp them, shalbe confounded.
Howe shulde they than be taken for goddesses?
Yee, howe dare men call them goddesses? And though the Caldees wozshypp them not, hearing þe they were but idome & coule not speake: Per theyr the selues offre vnto Well, and walde sayne haue hym to speake: as who saye, they coule fele, that may not moue. But when these men come to vnderstandyng, they shal forsake the, for their goddesses haue no helyng. A greare sorte of women gyde with coardes, sette in the stretes, & burne olue beries. Howe yf one of the be churyed awaye, & yf is any such as come by: she casteth her neyghbours in the fete, because she was not so woorthely reputed, nor her coard broke. What soeuer is done for the, it is but in vayne and lost. Howe maye it then be sayde or thought, þe they are goddesses? Carpenters & gold-smithes make them, neyther be they any other thyng: but euen what the wozechman wyll make of them. Yee, the goldsmithes them selues that make them, are of no longe continu-aunce. Howe shulde then the thynges that are made of them, be goddesses? Wapne therfoze are the thynges (yee, verely same is it) that they leauie behynde them for theyr piosperitie. For as soone as there cometh any warre or plage vpon them, then the prestes ymagyne, where they maye hyde them selues wyth them. Howe can men thynke then, þe they be goddesses, whyche neyther may defende them selues frome warre, nor deliuer them from misfortune? For seynge they be but of wood, & stone, of syluer and of golde: all people and hynges shal knowe hereafter that they be but vayne thynges: yee, it shalbe openly declared, that they be no goddesses: but euen the very wozeches of mens handes, and that God hath nothyng to do with them. (It is manifeste then that they are no goddesses, but the wozeches of mens handes, and no wozech of God in them.) They can set no hyng in the lande, nor geue raine vnto men. They can geue no sentence of a matter, neyther defende the land frome wyngge. For they are not able to do so much as a crowe, that flyeth betwyxte heauen and earth.

When there happeneth a fyre into the house of those goddesses of wodde, and syluer, and of golde, the prestes wyll escape and saue them Sgg selues

selues, but the goddes borne in the halles ther in. They cannot withstande any kynge or battell: howe may it then be thoughte of greated, that they be goddes? Wo be to these goddes of woode, of stone, of golde, and syluer may nether defende them selues frome theues nor robbers: yee, the very wyched are stronger the they These styppen them out of theyr apparrell, that they be clothed withall. these take theyr golde & syluer from them, and so get the away: yee, cathey not helpe them selues. Therefore it is moche better for a man, to be a kynge, and so to thewe his power: or els a profitable vessel in a house, wherin he that owne it, myghte haue pleasure: yee, or to be a doze in a house, to kepe lache thynges safe as be therein, the to be suche a vayne god. The sunne, the moone, & all the starres, seyng they geue theyr shynne and lyghte, are o-bedyent, and do men good. Whan the lyghte-nyng glistereth, all his cleare. The winde bloweth in every countre: and whan God commaun-derh the cloudes to go rounde aboute the whole worlde, they do as they are hydden, whan the fyr is sent downe from a heuene commaunded, it burneth vpon hylls and woddes. But as for those goddes, they are not like one of these thin-ges, neyther in bewte, neyther strenght. Altherfoze, men shoulde not thynke nor saye that they be goddes, seyng they can neither geue ientence in iudgemente, nor do men good. For so muche nowe as ye are sure, that they be no goddes, then feare the not. For they can neyther speake euell nor good for kynnes. They can the we no tokens in heauen for f hearthen, neyther wyne as the sunne, nor geue lyghte as the moone:

The story of Susanna

whiche is the thyrtyene Chapter of Daniel after the Latyn.

Here dwelt a man in Babylon called Iochym, that tooke a wyfe, whose name was Susanna, & daughter of Helchia, a verie sapie woman and such one as feared God. Her father & her mother also were goodly people, & thought their doughter accordyng to the law of Moyses. Nowe Iochym (her husband) was a grete ryche man, & had a faire orchard ioinig vnto his house. And to him resorted the Jewes comenly, because he was a man of reputation among the. The same yere were there made two iudges, suche as the Lord speakh of: All the wyse men of Babil-lon committed from the elders: that is from the iniquity, which seme to rule people. These came out to Joachim's house, and all they had any thing to do in law came thither vnto them.

B Now when the people came againe at after noon, Susanna went into her husband's orchard to walke. The elders sawe this that she went in dayly, and walke, they burned for lust to her: yet they were almost out of their wits and cast downe their eyes, that they shoulde not be seene, nor remember that God is a righteous iudge. For they were boorth wounded with floure of her, neither durst one shewe another his greif. And for shame, they durst not tel her their inordinate lust, that they shoulde saue hure to do with her. Yet they laied waite for her earnestly from day to day, that they might (at the last) haue a sight of her. And y<sup>e</sup> one saied to the other say, let vs go home, for it is dinner time. So they went their way from her.

When they returned againe, they came together, enquiring out the matter betwixte them selues: y<sup>e</sup> one tolde the other of his wicked lust. Then appointed they a time when they might take Susanna alone.

C It happened also that they spied out a conuenient time, whē she went forth to walke (as her maier was) and nobody with her, but ii. mapdens, and thought to walke her self in the garden, for it was an hote season: And there was not one parson there, except the two elders that had hid them selues to depolde her. So they saied to her maidens: go for me oyle and soape, and shut the orchard doore, that I may walke me. And they did as she had them, and shut the orchard doore and went out them selues at a back doore, to see the thing that she had commaunded: but Susanna knew not, that the elders lay there hid with in. Now when the maidens were gone forth the two elders gat them vp and came vpon her, saying: now the orchard doore is shut, that no man can see vs: we haue a lust vnto the, therefore consent vnto vs, and lye with vs.

Y<sup>e</sup> first said, we will hyng a testimony all against the, that there was a yong felow with the, and that thou hast sent a way thy maidens from the for the same cause. Susanna sighed, y<sup>e</sup> said: Alas, I am in trouble on euery side.
I thought I folow your mynde, it will be my death, and y<sup>e</sup> I consent not vnto you, I cannot escape your hands. Well, it is better for me, to fall into your hands without the drede doying men to synne in the sight of the Lord, and with that, she cried out with a loud voyce: the elders also cried out against her.

Then came they one to the orchard doore and smote it open. Now when the seruantes of the house heard the cry in the orchard they rushed in at the back doore, to see what the matter was.
Now when the elders tolde them, the seruantes were greatly ashamed, for they there was neuer such a report made of Susanna. On y<sup>e</sup> mo-row after came the people to Joachim her husband, and the two elders came also, full of malicious imagination against Susanna, to bring her vnto death, and spake thus before the people: Send for Susanna the daughter of hei-rich Joachim's wife. And immediately they for her, so she came with her father and mother, her chylde and all her kynred. Now Susanna was a tender person and marvellous fayre of face. Therefore the wicked men commaunded to take of the clothes from her face: for she was concealed that at the last they myghte so be satisfied in her bewtie. Then her frendes: y<sup>e</sup>re, and all they that knew her, began to wepe.

These two elders stood vp in the myddest of the people, and laied their hands vpon Susanna, which wept and looked vp toward heauē for her hert had a sure trust in the Lord. And the elders saied: As we were talking in the orchard alone this woman came in with her two mapdens to home the sent away frome her, and spared the orchard doore: with that a yong felow (whiche there was hid) came vnto her, and lay with her. As for vs, we stood in a corner in the orchard. And when we saw this wickednes, we came to her: and perceiued that they had medled together. But we coulde not holde him, for he was stronger then we: thus he opened the doore and gat him away.

Now when we had taken this woman, we asked her what yonge felow this was: but she would not tell vs. This is the matter, and we be witnesses of the same. The common sort beleued them: as those that were the elders and iudges of the people, and so they condemned her to death. Susanna cried oute with a loude voyce and saied: O euerlasting God, thou searcher of secrettes, thou that knoweste all thynges afore they come to passe: thou wottest, that they haue borne false wytnesse agaynst me, and behold, I muste dye, where as I neuer dyd suche thynges as these men haue maliciously inuented agaynst me. And the Lord heard her voyce. For when she was led forth to death, the Lord raised vp the spyte of a yonge chylde, whose name was Daniel, which cried with a loude voyce: I am cleane from this bloude. Then all the people turned them toward hym, and saied: What meane these wordes, that thou hast spoken? Daniel stood in the myddest of them and saied: Her ye such fooles, O ye chylde of Israel, that ye can not discern nor knowe the truth: Ye haue here condemned a daughter of Israel vnto death, and knowe not the truth: wherefore, go sit on iud-gement again, for they haue spoken false wytnes against her.

Wherefore the people turned againe in all the hall. And the elders (that is the principall head-es) said vnto him: come sit downe here among vs, and shew vs this matter, saying God hath geuen thee as great honour as an elder. And Daniel saied vnto them: But these two albe one and the same, and then shal I heare them. When they were put a longer one frome another, he called one of them and saied vnto hym, O thou can-st not carle, y<sup>e</sup> hast used thy wickednesse so long thine vngracious dedes whiche thou hast done alway, now become to lye.

The story of Bel and of the Dragon, whiche is the fourtene Chapter of Danyell after the Latyn.

Danyell dyd eat at the kynges table, and was had in reverence about all his frendes. Ther was at Babylon an Image, called Bel: and there were spent vpon hym euery daye, thowse cakes, loafes & shepe, and syxe great pottes of wyne.
Hym dyd the kyng woshypp hym selfe, & went daylye to honoure hym: but Danyell woshypp-ed his owne God. And the kyng sayde vnto hym: why dost not thou woshypp Bel? he answered and sayde: * Because I maye not woshypp thynges & bemade wiche handes. * But the liuyng God, whiche made heauen and earth, and hath power vpon all feth. The kyng sayd vnto hym: thinkest thou not & Bel is a liuyng God? O seest thou not how muche he eateth & dyspyketh euery daye? Danyell smiled and sayde O kyng, dyscreue not thy selfe, for this is but made of claye within, and of metall wythoute, * neyther eateth he euer any thyng.

Then the kyng was wroth, & called for his prestes, & said vnto them: If ye tel me not who is this, feareth ye these experiences, ye shall dye: but if ye can certify me & Bel eateth them, then Danyell shal dye, for he hath spoken blasphemys agaynst Bel. And Danyell said vnto & kyng: let it so be, accordyng as thou haste sayde: The prestes of Bel were. lxx, besyde they wyues and chylidren. And & kyng went vnto Danyell into the temple of Bel. The Belis prestes sayde Lo, we wyll go oute, and sette thou the meate there (O kyng) & powre in the wyne, then shut the doze fast, and seale it wiche thynne owne syg-net: and to morowe when thou comest in, if thou fyndest not that Bel hath eaten up all, we wyll suffer deathe, or els Daniel that hath lyed vpon vs. The prestes thought them selues sure ynough, for vnder the aulter they had made a pryue entraunce, and there went they in euer, and dyd care vp what there was.

So when they wer gone forth, the kyng se-meated before Bel. Now Daniel had commaunded his seruauntes to dyspyng a shes, and these he spsted thowout all the temple, that & kyng myght se. Then went they out, and spared the doze, sealyng it wiche the kynges sygnet, and so departed. In the myght came the prestes, wiche they wyues and chylidren: as they were wonte to doo) and dydeate and dyspyne up all. In the morning betymes at the byrache of the day, the kyng arose, and Daniel wiche hym. And & kyng sayde: Daniel, are the seales whole yete? he answered: Yee: O kyng) they be whole. Howe as soone as he had opened the doze, the kyng looked vnto the aulter, and cryed wiche a loude voyce Greate art thou (O Bel) and wiche the is no discreyte. Then laughed Daniel, and helde & kyng that he shulde not go in and sayde. Beholde the pauement, marke well whose foote steyppes are these? The kyng sayde: I se the foote steyppes of men, women, and chylidren.

Therfore the kyng was angrie, and tooke the prestes, wiche they wyues and chylidren: and they shewed hym the pryue dozes, where they came in, & dyd eat up such thynges as wer vnder the aulter. For the whiche cause the kyng lyste them, * and deliuered Bel into Daniels power whiche destroyed hym and his temple.

And in that same place there was a greete dragon, whiche they of Babylon woshypped.
And the kyng sayde vnto Daniel: sayest thou, & this is but a god of metall also? lo, he lyueth, he eateth and dyspyketh: so that thou canst not saye, that he is no lyuynge god, therfore, woshypp hym. Danyell sayde vnto the kyng: I wyll woshypp the Lorde my God, * he is the true liuyng God: as for this, he is not & God of life. But graue me leave: O hyng, and I shall be kroye this dragon without feare of death.

The kyng said I geue the leave. Then Daniel tooke pitch, fatte and heary well, and did sethe them together, and made lompes therof, this he put in the dragons mouth, and so the dragon burst in sunder: and Daniel saide loo, these is he: whom ye woxypped. When thei of Ba-bilon heard that, thei tooke greute indignacion and gathered them together against the kyng sayng. The kyng is becom a Jewe, and he hath destroyed Bel, he hath slayne the dragon, and put the prestes to deathe. So thei came to the kyng, and saide: let vs haue Daniel, as eyles we will destroy the and thyne house.

Now when the kyng sawe, that thei rushed in so soze vpon him, and that necessite constray-ned him: he deliuered Daniel vnto them which cast him into the Lyons denne, wher he was vi. dayes. In the denne there were. vii. Lyons and thei had geuen them euery day two bodies and two depe: which then wer not geuen them, to the intent that thei myght deuour Daniel.

¶ Ther was in Jewry a pprophet called Iba-cuc, which had made potage, and broken bread in a depe platter, and was goyng into the selde for to hyng it to the reuer. But the angell of the Lord saide vnto Abacuc. go carry the meate thou hast into Babilon. vnto Daniel, which is in the Lyons den. And Abacuc saide: Lord, I neuer saw Babilon: as for the denne, I know it not.

¶ Then the angel of the Lord toke hym by the toppe, and bare hym by the beare of the head and: through a myghtie wynde set hym in Babilon vpon the denne. And Abacuc cried sayng: O Daniel thou seruast of God, haue take the breakfast that God hath sent the. And Daniel saide: O God hast thou thoughte vpon me? well, thou neuer faylest them that loue the.
So Daniel arose, and did eate: and the angel of the Lord set Abacuc in his owne place & gayne immediatly.

¶ Upon the. vii. day, the kyng went to be depe Daniel, and when he came to the denne beholde in: and beholde, Daniel sat in the middell of the Lions. Then cryed the kyng with a loude voyce sayng: great art thou O Lord God of Daniel. and he drew hym out of the lions denne. ¶ As for those that were the cause of his destruction, he did caste them into the denne, and thei were deuoured in a moment before his face.

After this, wrote the kyng vnto all people, hynches and countres, that shoulde in all countries, sayng: peace be multiplied with you. My commandement is in all the domination of my realme, that men here and thande in a be of Da-& hast sealed it for thy fearful & laudible name which all men feare, and tremble before the face of thy vertue, and for the anger of the chete-nyng, the which is impossible to sinners. But the mercy of thy promise is great and unfear-cheable, for thou art the Lord God most hye & aboue all the erth, long suffering, and exceeding merciful, and repentant for the malice of men.

Thou Lord after thy goodness hast promysed repentaunce of the remission of synnes: and thou that art the God of the righteous hast not put repentaunce of the righteous Abraham, Isaac and Jacob: vnto them that haue sinned against the. But because I haue sinned aboue the nomber of the sandes of the sea, and that myne in-iquities are multiplied, I am humbled with many bades of pson, and ther is in me no byerhing I haue prouoked thine anger, and haue done euell before the, incommyttinge abhominacion and multiplying offences. And now I bowe the knees of my heart, requyringe goodness of the.
O Lord I haue sinned, Lord I haue sinned, and know mine iniquitie. I desire the by prayer, Lord forgive me: forgive me: and destroy me not with mine iniquities nether do I alwayes remember mine enels, to punish them, but saue me: which am vnto thy after thy great mercy: & I wil praise the euermeking, all the dayes of my life: for al the vertue of heauen prayseth the, and vnto the belongeth glory woulde with out ende. Amen.

The firste booke of the Maccabees.

The first Chapter.

¶ When the death of Alexander the kyng of Macedonia, Antiochus tooke the kingdom, & one of the chyldren of Israhel, made common with the Gentiles. Antiochus sent word to Egypt and Iudahim were his enemies. Jerusalem beinge bounde with the lawe of the Lord, and desirous to bepe Maccabees. Antiochus sent up an armye vnto the citye of Ierusalem.

¶ After that Alexander the sonne of Philippe, kyng of Macedonia went south of the land of Egipt, and drew Maccabees king of the Persians and Me-des. It happened that he tooke the great warren in hand, and very many strong cities, and led many kinges of the erth, goyng through to the

to the endes of the world, and gettinge manye troopers of the people: in so much that the world rode in greute awe of hym, * & therfore was he proude in hys bette. Some tyme he had gathered a myghty stronge host, & subdued the landes and people wth theyr paynes, so that they became tributaries vnto hym: he fell sycke. And whē he perceaued y he must nedes dye, he called for hys noble estates (which had bene broughte vp wth hym of chyliden) * and parted his kyngdome amonge the, whyle he was yet alyue. So Alexander raygned. xii. yere and then dyed.

After hys death fell the kyngdome vnto hys prynces, and they obtayned it euerie owne in his rowme, and caused the selues to be crowned as kynges: and so dyd they: chyliden after the many yeres, and much wickednes increased in the world. Out of these came the vnglacious rote, noble Antiochus y sonne of Antiochus y kyng (* whych hadde bene a pledge at Rome) and he raygned in the C. and seuen and therty yere of the Emperre of the Grekes.

In those dayes went ther out of Israel wyched men, which moued much people wth theyr counsell, sayenge: * Let vs go and make a coue-nante wth the heathen, that are rounde about vs: for sence we departed from the we haue had much sorowe. So a thys deuys pleased them wel and certayne of the people toke vpon them for to go vnto the kyng, which gaue them licence to do after the ordinaunce of the heathē. * Then set they vpon an ope scole (at Jerusalem) of the lawes of the heathen, and were nomore cōsumpsed: but forsoke the holy testament, & ioynd the selues to the heathen, * and were cleane solde to do myghte. So whē Antiochus begonne to be myghty in hys kyngdome, he wente aboute to optayne the land of Egypte also, that he myght haue the domynion of two realmes. * And thus entred he into Egypte, with a strong host, with charrettes, Elephanter, horsemen, and a greute nombze of wyppes, & begonne to warre against Ptolomey the kyng of Egypte. But Ptolomey was afrayde of hym, and fled: and manye of hys people were wounded to death. Thus Antiochus hadde many stronge cyties, & toke awayne great good out of the lande of Egypte.

* And after y Antiochus had submytted Egypte he turned agayne in the Cxliii. yere, and wente towarde Israel, & came vp to Jerusalem wth a myghty people: & entred proudly into y Sanctuary, & toke awayne the golden aulter, the can-delstyk and al the ornamente therof, the table of the shewbread, the pomeyngre vessel, the chargers, the golde spoces, the vayne, the crownes, & the golden apparel of the temple, & by a he doctore all. He toke also the spiner and golde, the precyous Jewels, & the secret treasures that he founde.
 And when he had taken awayne altogether, caused a great murdres of mē, & so fulfilled his malicious payde, he departed into his owne lande.

Thus there arose a great heynesse & myscre in all the lande of Israel. * The prynces & the elders of the people mourned, the yong men & the maydens were desyied, and the saye despoyle of women was chaunged: the hydegrome and the wyde toke them to mourning: the lande & those that dwelte therein, was moued: for al the house of Jacob was brought to confusion.

* After thow yeres the kyng sente hys chefe treasurer into the cyties of Iuda, whiche came to Jerusalem wth a great multytude of people speahyng peacable wordes vnto them, but al was dyccate: for when they had geuen hym credence, he fell sodenly vpon the cytie, and smote it sore, & destroyed muche people of Israel. * And when he had spoiled the cytie, he set fyre on it, castyng downe houses & walles on euerie syde.
 The women and theyr chyliden toke theyr captyue, and led awayne theyr catell. Then buylded they the cytie of Dauid with a great and thicke wall, and wth myghty towres, and made it a stronge holde for them. Besyde all thys they set wyched people and vngodly men to kepe it, stored it wth weapens and vytayles: gathered the goodes of Jerusalem and layed them vp there: thus became it a thewche castell.

And thus was done to lare wayte for the people that wente into the Sanctuary, and for the cruel destruction of Israel. Thus they shed innocent bloude on euerie syde of the Sanctuary, & despyled it: In so much y the cyteyns were sayne to departe, and the cytie became an habytacyon of straungers, beyng desolate of her owne sede for her owne natyues were sayne to leaue her.
 * Her Sanctuary was cleane wasted, her holpe dayes were turned into mournyng, her Sabbothes were had in dyspyson, and her honour brought to naught. Lone howe great her glozy was afore so great was her confusion, & her ioye turned into sorowe.

* Antiochus also the kyng sente oute a commysyon vnto all hys kyngdome, that all the people shulde be one. Then they leste euer man hys lawe, and all the heathē agreed to the commaundement of kyng Antiochus: Pre, many of the Israelytes consented therunto offeryng vnto Idols, and despyng the Saboth. So the kyng Antiochus sente hys messaungers wth hys commissyon vnto Jerusalem, and to all the cyties of Iuda: that they shoulde folowe the lawes of the heathē, and forbad eyther burnt offeryng, meat offeryng: or peace offeryng to be made in the temple of God, & that there shoulde no Saboth nor hys feast day be kept, but commanded that the Sanctuary and the holy people of Israel shulde be despyled. He commaunded also that there shulde be set vp other aulters, teples, and Idols: to offer vp swynes fleshe, and other uncleane beastes, y men shulde leaue theyr chyliden vncircumcised, to despyle theyr soules wth al maner of uncleannes & abhominacions that they myght forget the lawe, & chaunge all the holpe ordynaunces of God: and that whosoeuer wolde not do accordyng to the comman-demēt of kyng Antiochus shulde suffer death.
 In lyke maner commaunded he thowout all hys realme, & set rulers ouer the people, for to ch-pell them to do these thynges, commaundyng the cyties of Iuda to do sacrifice vnto Idols.

¶ Then

The fyrste booke

If Then went the people vnto the heathen by deapes, forsoke the lawe of the Lorde, and committed much euill in the lande: yee, and banished out the secret Iherosolymes, whiche was by the felmes in corners and pynne places. The fyfteenth daye of the moneth Cadden, in the hundred & fyue and fortye yere, let kynge Antiochus an abhomynable Iool of desolacion vpon the altare of God, and they byghed altars thowout all the cyties of Iuda on euery syde besyde & doers of the houses, and in the stretes; wher they byent incense, and byd sacrifice. * And as for the boches of the lawe of God, they byente them in the fyre, and rente the in petes. Whatsoeuer he was that had a boke of the Testamente of the Lorde fownde by hym, yee, whosoever endeouered him selfe to hepe the lawe of the Lorde, the kynge's commaundement was, that they shuld put hym to death. And thowowe his auctorite they executed these thynges euery moneth vpon the people of Irael that were fownde in the cyties.

C * The fyue and twentye daye of the Moneth, what tyme as they byd sacrifice vpon the alter (which stode in the steade of the alter of s Lorde) accordyng to the commaundement of kynge Antiochus, they put certayne women to death, whiche had caused theyr chyldren to be circumcysed: Not only that, but they hanged vpon & chyldren by the neckes thowout all theyr houses, and slewe the circumcysers of them.

Yet were there many of the people of Irael which determined in the felmes, that they wolde not eate vncleane thynges: but chose rather to suffer death, then to be defyled with vncleane meates: So because they wolde not bryake the blessed lawe of God, they were cruellie slayne. And this greete tyrannye increased verie soze vpon the people of Irael.

The ii. Chapter.

The mourninge of Mithathias and his sonnes for the destruction of the holy cytye. They refuse to be sacrifice vnto Idoles. The reit of Mithathias for s lawe of God. They are slayne and byp not fght agayne because of the Mithathias. Mithathias dying, commaundeth his sonnes to fghte by the lawe of God, after the example of the fathers.

In those dayes there byd stonde by one Mithathias the sonne of John the sonne of Simeon the prest: out of the kyndred of Iourys from Ierusalem, and dwelte vpon the mounte of Modin, & had fyue sonnes, Ihon called Godby, Symeon called Chasyl, Judas, otherwyse called Mithathias: Eleazer, otherwyse called Abaron: & Jonathan, whose sname was Apus. These sawe the euill that was done amonge the people of Iuda and Ierusalem. And Mithathias sayde: Woots me, alas that euer I was bozne, to se this mysery of my people, and the pteous destruction of the holy cytye: and thus to let so byll, it byng deliuered into the handes of the enemyes. * Her Sanctuary is come into the power of straungers: her Temple is, as it were a man & hath lost his good name: her precious ornaments are carryed a waye captyue. her old men are slayne in the stretes, and her yonge men are fallen thowowe the swerde of the enemyes.

What people is it, that hath not some possession in her kyngdome? Or who hath not gotten some of her wyoles? Al her glory is take away. She was a free woman, and now she is become an handmayde.

Schelde our Sanctuarie, oure betwpe, and honoure is wasted awaye, & defyled by the Gentyles. What helpeth it vs the to lyue? And Mithathias rent his clothes, he & his sonnes, & put sackcloth vpon them, and mourned verie soze.

Then came the men thither whiche were sent of kynge Antiochus, to compell suche as were fled into the cytye of Modyn, for to do sacrifice, and to burne incense vnto Idoles, and to forsake the lawe of God. So, many of the people of Irael consented and enclyned vnto them but Mithathias and his sonnes remayned sted fast. Then spake the commysioners of kynge Antiochus, and sayd vnto Mithathias: Thou arte a noble man, of hye reputacyon and greate in this cytye, hauinge manye chyldren & byethen. Come thou therfore fyrste, & fulfyll the kynge's commaundement, lyke as all the heathen haue done, yee and the me of Iuda, & such as remayne at Ierusalem: so shalte thou and thy chyldren be in the kynge's fauoure and enryched with gold, syluer, and great rewardes.

Mithathias answered, and spake with a loude voyce. Though all natiōs obey the kynge Antiochus, & sal awaye euery mā from hepyng the lawe of theyr fathers: though they consent to his commaundementes, yet wyl I and my sonnes & byethen, not fall from the lawe of oure fathers. God forbyd we shoulde, that were not good for vs: that we shoulde forsake the lawe & commaundementes of God, and to agre vnto the commaundementes of kynge Antiochus. Therfore we wyl do no such sacrifice, neyther bryake the statutes of our lawe: to go another waye. And when he had spoken these wordes, ther came one of the Jewes, whiche openlye in the syght of all, byd sacrifice vnto the Idoles vpon the alter in the cytye of Modyn, accordyng to the kynge's commaundement.

Whiche Mithathias sawe this, it grieved him at the herte, so that his raynes woke wythall, & his wyche kyndled for verie reit of the lawe. With that he starte vp, and kyled the Jewe besyde the altare: yee, and slewe the kynge's commysioner, that compelled hym to do sacrifice, and destroyed the altare at the same tyme: suche a zeale had he vnto the lawe of God. * Lyke as Phineches byd vnto zambyl the sonne of Moyses. And Mithathias cryed with a loude voyce thowowe the cytye, sayenge: Whoso is seruente in the lawe, and wyl hepe the couenaunt, let hym folowe me. * So he and his sonnes fled into the mountaynes, and left all that euer they had in the cytye. Manye other goble men also departed into the wyldernesse with theyr chyldren, theyr wyues and theyr catell, and remayned there: for the tyranny increased soze vpon the.

Nowe when the kynge's seruantes, and the booke, whiche was at Ierusalem in the cytye of David harde that certayne men had broken the things commandement, and were gone they waye to the wilderness into secret places, and there were many departed after them: they sold wed upon them, to fight agaynst them on the Sabboth day & sayd wyl ye yet rebel: Set you hence & do the commandement of hynges An-tiochus: and ye shal lyue. They answered: We wyl not go forth, neither wyl we do the hynges commandement, to desyle the Sabboth daye.

Then beganne they to fight agaynst them: ne-uertheless they gaue them none other aid: were neither call they on: stone at the, nor made faste they: pteup places, but sayde: We wyl dye all in our innocenpe, heauen and earth shall testyfy wth vs, that ye put vs to death wrongfullpe.
Thus they fought agaynst them vpon the Sabbath, and slewe both men and catel, their wines & they: chylidren to the number of a .v. people.
When Mithathias and hys frendes hearde this, they mourned for them right sore & sayde one to another: If so be that we al do as our brethren haue done, and fighte not for our lyues & for our lawes agaynst the heathen, the shal they the soner rote vs out of the earth: So they concluded among the selues at the same tyme, sayinge: what soeuer he be that commeth to make battel with vs vpon the Sabboth day, we wyl fighte agaynst him and not dye all: as our brethren that were murdered so heynouslye. Vpon this came the Synagog of the Jewes vnto the stronge men of Israel, all such as were feruent in the lawe. And all they that were fled for per-secucion, came to helpe them, and to stande by them: In somuch that they gathered an host of men, & slewe the wicked doers in they: groloupe and the vngodly men in they: warch. Some of the wycked fled vnto the heathen, and escaped.

Thus Mithathias and hys frendes went about: and destroyed the alters, and circumcised the chylidren, that had not yet receaued circum-cison: as many as they found withyn the costes of Israel, & followed myghtely vpon the chylidre of pryde, and this acte prospered in they: handes.
In so much that they kepte the lawe agaynst the power of the Gentyles and the hynges, and gaue not ouer their dominion vnto wicked doers.
After this, when the tyme dye on faste, that Mithathias wuld dye he sayd vnto his sonnes Now is pryde and persecucion increased, now is the tyme of destruction and wrathful dysple sure: wherfore (O my sonnes) be ye feruente in the lawe, and leaue your lyues for the Testament of the fathers cal to remembraunce what actes our fathers byd in they: time, so shal ye receave great honour and an euerlastyng name.

* Remember Abraham, was not he founde saythfull in temptacon, & he was reckned vnto him for righteousness: * Joseph in time of his trouble kepte the commandement, and was made a lord in Egypte. * Dinches our father was so feruent for the honour of God, that he ob-tayne the couenant of an euerlastyng prest-hode. * Joshua for fulfilling the worde of God was made the captayne of Israel. * Caleb bare recorde before the congregation & receaued an heritage. * David also in his mercifull handes, obtayne the throne of an euerlastyng kyngdome.

* Elias hynges grolous and feruent in the lawe was taken vp into heauen. Hananias, Azarias and Misael remayned steadfaste in sayth, & were deliuered out of the fyre. In lyke manner * Daniel being vngodly, was saued from the mouth of the Lyons.

And thus ye maye consyde the goodnes of all ages since the world beganne, that whosoer put they: trust in God, were not overcome. * He are not ye then the wordes of an vngodly man.
* For hys glory is but donge & doymes: to day is he set vp, & to morowe he is gone: for he is turned into earth, & his memorial is come to naught.
Wherfore, (O my sonnes) take good hertes vnto you, and quite your selues lyke men in lawe for ye do the thynges that are commaunded you in the lawe of the Lorde your God: ye shal obtaine great honour therein.

And beholde: I knowe that youre brother Symon is a man of wysdome: se that ye geue eare vnto hym alwaye, he shal be a father vnto you. As for Judas Machabeus, he hath euer bene myghty & strong from his youth vp, let him be your captaine & orde the battel of the people thus shal ye bringe vnto you all those that fa-uour the lawe, & se that ye auenge the wrong of your people & recompence the heathen agayne and applye your selues whole to the commandement of the lawe. So he gaue the hys blessing and was layde by hys fathers: and dyed in the C. xlii. yere at Dobin, wher hys sonnes buryed hym in hys fathers sepulchre: and all Israel made greete lamentacon for hym.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Judas made ruler ouer the Jewes. * Apollonius gouerned the prynces of Syria. The confidence of Antiochus God, Judas drempteth to fight agaynst him: wherby Antiochus had made captaine ouer his host. The prynces of the Syrians

When shode vp Judas Machabeus in his fathers steede, and al his brethren helped hym and so byd al they: that belde wth hys father, and fought with chertuines for Israel. So Judas gat hys people grete honour. He put on a brestplate as a Gyantte, and arayed hym selfe wth his harnesse, and defended the host wth hys swearde. In hys actes he was lyke a Lyon and as a Lyons whelp roaringe at hys praye.
* He was an enemye to the wicked, and hunted them out: and bent vp those that vexed his people: So that hys enemyes fled for feare of hym and all the workers of vngodlynes were put to trouble: such lucke and prosperyte was in hys hande. Thus greued dyuers hynges, but Jacob was greatly reioysed the more his actes, and he gat hym selfe a greete name for euer.

He went the more the cities of Juda, destroy-inge the vngodly out of them, turninge a way from Israel, and receauing such as were oppressed, & the fame of hym went vnto the be-termost parte of the erth. Then Apollonius (a prynces of Syria) gathered a myghty grete host of heathen, and out of Samaria, to fight a-gaynst Israel. Which wyl Judas perceaued he egg v went hym and a grete myltitude with hym. the reumount fled. and he toke their substance. Judas also toke Appollonius other thynge. & fought with it all his lyfe longe.

Now when Heron (another prince of Siria) hearde say: that Judas had gathered vnto hym the congregacyon and church of the faythful he sayde: I will get me a name & prayse thowowe-out the realme: for I will go fyghte with Judas and they that are with hym. As many as haue be-spiced the kinges comendement. So he made him ready. and there went with hym a grete myghty host of the vngodly. to stand by hym & to be aduenged of the chyldren of Israel. And when they came nye vnto Bethzon. Judas went forth agaynst the in a smal company. And wylhis people sawe such a grete host before them they sayde to Judas: Howe are we able (being so fewe) to fyghte agaynst so grete a multitude and so stronge. Icinge we be so derpe. and haue fasted all this daye:

* But Judas sayde: It is a smal matter for many to be overcome with fewe: yee. there is no difference to the God of heauen. to deliuer by a great myltitude or by a smal company: * for the victorie of the battell standeth not in the multitude of the host. but the strength cometh from heauen. Behold. they come agaynst vs with a presumptuous and proud multitude. to destroy vs: our wyues. & our chyldren. and to robbe vs.
But we will fyghte for our lyues. & our lawes and the Lord hym selfe shall destroye them before our face. therefore be not ye afraied of them

As soone as he had spoken these wordes. he lepte sodapnyly vpon them. Thus was he smitten and his host put to flight. and Judas followed vpon them beyonde Bethzon vnto the playne felde: where there were slaine egypte hundred men of them. and the residue fled into the lande of the phylistines. Then all the heathen on euery syde were afraied of Judas and his brethren: so that a rumour of him came vnto the kynges eares. for all the Gentyles coule tell of the warres of Judas:

Now when kynge Antiochus hearde these tydynges. he was angry in his mynde. wherfor he sent forth. and gathered an host of his whole realme. very stronge armyes. and opened his treasury and gaue his host a prynces wages in hand commendinge them to be readye at all tymes wherheles. when he sawe. that there was not mony ynough in his treasures. and for the dyscorde & persecucion. which he made in the land. to put to none of his lawes he had bene of olde tymes) his customes & tributes of the land were imposed: he feared he was not able for to beare the cosse & charges any longer. nor to haue such gyfte. to geue so lyberally as he had afore. more then the kynges & there before hym.

Wherfore he was heuy in his mynde. and thoughte to go into Persia. for to take tributes of the land. & so to gather much mony. So he left Lilius a noble man of his kynges bloude to ouersie the kynges busshes. from the water Euphrates vnto the bayes of Egypt. and to kepe wel his sone Antiochus. till he came agayne Wherfore. he gaue him halfe of his host & Elephantus. committed vnto him euery thinge of his mynde. concerning those which dwell in Juda and Jerusalem. that he shuld send out an army agaynst them. to destroye and rote out the poder of Israel and the remnant of Jerusalem: to put out their memorye from that place. to let straungers for to inhabite all their quarters and parte theyr lande amonge them: Thus the kyng toke the other parte of the host. and be-parted from Antioch (a cite of his realme) ouer the water of Euphrates. in the C. xliiij. praye.

and went thowowe the hye countreys.

* And Lilius chose vnto him Helomy the sonne of Doriminius. Archand: and Gorgyas myghtie men. and the kinges frendes. These he sent with. xl. thousande sote men. and. viij. th. horse men. for to go into the lande of Juda and to destroye it. as the kyng commanded. So they went forth with all theyr poder. and came to Emaus into the playne felde. When the mar-chauntes harde the rumoure of them. they. and theyr seruantes. toke verie muche syluer. and golde. for to be the chyldren of Israel to be their bonde men. There came vnto them also yet momen of warre on euery syde. out of Siria and frome the phylistines.

Nowe when Judas and his brethren sawe that trouble increased. and that the host dyue nye vnto theyr borders conspyng the kynges wordes whiche he commanded vnto the people: namely that they shulde vtterlye waste and destroye them: They sayde one to another.
Let vs redresse the decaye of oure people. let vs fyghte for oure folke and for oure Sanctuarie.
Then the congregacyon were sone readye gathered to fyghte. to praye and to make supplica-cyon vnto God for mercy and grace.

* As for Jerusalem. it lay voyde and was as it had bene a wyldernes. There wente no man in or out at it. and the Sanctuarie was troden downe. The aleuantes kepte the castell. there was the habitation of the heathen. The mythe of Jacob was taken away. the pyper & the harpe was gone from amonge them.

The Israelites gathered them together and came to Walspha before Jerusalem. for in Wal-pha was the place where they prayed afore tyme in Israel. So they fasted that daye. and put sackeclothes vpon them. and caste ashen vpon theyr heades. rent theyr clothes. and layd forth the bookes of the lawe (wherout the heathen sought the likenes of theyr ymages) & brought the preestes ornaments. the fyrstlynges & the tithes. They let ther also a fastayners which had fulfilled theyr dayes before God. and cryed with aloud voyce. towarde heauen: saying.

What shall we do with these? and whether shall we carrye them awaye? For the Sanctuarye is troden downe and despyled. thy preastres are come to heynesse and dishonour: and be-holde. the heathen are come together for to de-stroye vs. Thou knowest what thynges they ynogge agaynst vs: Howe maye we stand

save them, excepte thou (O God) be our helper.

They blew oute the trumpet also with a lowde voyce. Then Judas ordeyned captaynes ouer the people: ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fifty, and ouer ten. But as for such as buylded them houses, marped wyues, planted them vineyardes, and those þe were fearful be comounded them euery manne to go home againe, accordyng to the lawe. So the hoste remoured, & pitched vpon þe southsyde of Emmaus.

And Judas sayde: Arise youre selues, be strong (O my chyldren) make you redy against to morowe in the morning, that ye maye fyght with these people, which are agreed together to destroye vs and oure Sanctuarie. Better is it for vs to dye in battayle, then to see our people & our Sanctuarie in such a miserabile case. * Reuerthelesse, as thy wyll is in heauen, so be it.

¶ Judas gath agaynste Gorgias wherewith in hysp. & p. 100. Gorgias and his hoste to fyght. Lysias inuadeth Jerusalem. Judas departyth hym oute. Judas purifyeth the temple & dedicateth the altar.

When toke Gorgias fyue thousande men of foote, and a thousande of the beste horsmenne, and remoured by nyghte, to come nye where the Jewes hoste laye, and so to slaye them sodenlye. Howe the men that kepte the castell, were the conueyers of them. Then arose Judas to sympte the chefe and principall of þe hynges hoste at Emmaus, for the army was not yet come together. In the meane season came Gorgias by nyghte into Judas tentes: & when he founde no man there, he soughte them in the Mountaynes, and thoughte they had ben fled awaye, because of hym. But when it was daye, Judas shewed hym selfe in the felde with thye thousande men only, which had nether harnesse nor swerdes to theyr mynides.

But on the other syde, they sawe that the heathen were mygthie and well harnessed, and theyr horsmen aboute them, and all these well expery in feate of warre. Then sayde Judas to the men that were with hym: Feare ye not the myltitude of them, be not asfayde of theyr vyolente runnyng: remember, howe oure fathers wer deliuered in the red see, when pharaos folowed vpon them with a great hoste.

Euen solet vs also crye nowetoward heauen: and the Lorde shall haue mercy vpon vs, & remember the couenante of oure fathers: yea, and destroye this hoste befoze your face this day. And all the heathen shal know, that it is God hym selfe, which deliuereth and saureth Israel.

Then the heathen lyfte vp theyr eyes: and when they sawe that they wer chymyng against them, they went out of their tentes into the battayle: and they that were with Judas, blew vp the trompettes. * So they buckled together, & the heathen were discomfyted and fled ouer the playne felde: but the hymnosse of them were layne. For they folowed vpon them vnto Aslarmoth, and into þe felde of Idumea toward Azot and Jamnia: so that there were layne of them vpon a thye thousande men. So Judas turned agayne with his hoste, and sayde vnto the people: Be not greyde of þe spoyle, we haue yet a battayle to fyghte, for Gorgias and his hoste are here by vs in þe mountaynes, but stand ye fast agaynst your enemies and ouercome the: then maye ye safely take the spoyle.

As Judas was speakyng these wordes: Beholde, there appered one parte of them vpon the mount. But when Gorgias sawe that they of his partye were fled, and the tentes byene vp for by the smoke they might vnderstand what was done: they perceyving this, were very sore agrayed: and when they sawe also that Judas and his hoste were in þe felde redy to stryke the battayle, they fled euerychone into the lande of the heathen.

So Judas turned agayne to spoyle the tentes, where they gat much golde and syluer, precyous stones, purple and greate richesse. Thus they went home, and songe a Psalm of thankesgeyng, and praised God in heauen: * for he is gracys, and his mercede endureth for euer. And so Israel had a great victory in þe daye.

Howe all the heathen that escaped, came and tolde Lysias euerye thyng as it happened. Wherfore Lysias was sore agrayed, & grieved in his mind, because Israel had not gotten such myfortune, as he woulde they shoulde, nether as the kyng commanded. The nexte yere folowing, gathered Lysias thye scoze thousand chosen men of foote, and fyue thousande horsmen to fyght agaynst them.

So they came into Jetyry, and pitched their tentes at Be: hazon, wher Judas came agaynst them with .x. thousand men. And when he sawe so great and myghty an hoste, he made his prayer, and sayde: Blessed be thou (O claspour of Israel) * which bydest destroye the vyolent power of the Spauit, in the hande of thy seruant Dauid, * and gauest the hoste of the heathen into the hand of Ionathas (the sonne of Saul) and of his weapon bearer.

But thys hoste nowe into the hande of thy people of Israel, and let them be confounded in theyr myltitude and horsmen. Make them agrayed, and dyscomfytte the boldnesse of theyr strengthe: & they maye be moued thow theyr destruction. Cast them downe thow thou swerd of thy louers, then shal all they that knowe thy name, prayse the with thankesgeyng.

So they stroke the battayle, and there wer slayn of Lysias hoste, fyue thousand men. Then Lysias seying the dyscomfytynge of his menne, and the manynesse of the Jewes, how they were redy, epyther to lyue or dye lyke men: he wente vnto Antioche, and chose oute men of warre: & when they wer gathered together, they might come agayne into Jetyry. Then sayde Judas to his byeten, beholde, oure enemyes are dyscomfytied: Let vs nowe go vp, to cleanse & to repaire the Sanctuarie.

* Upon thys, all the hoste gathered them to gether, and wente vp into mounte Syon.

Howe when they sawe the Sanctuarie layed waste, the altar defiled, the doores byent vp, the Shrubbes growyng in the courtes, lyke as in a boode of upon mountaynes: yea, and that the pleasant Celles were broken downe: They rent theyr clothes, made great lamentacion, cast after upon theyr heades, fell downe flatter to the ground, made a great noyse with the trompet-tes, and cryed toward heauen.

Then Judas appoynted certayne men to syghte agaynst those whiche were in the castell tyll they had censed the Sanctuarie. So he chose wyrtens that were vnbefiled, such as had pleasure in the lawe of God: and they censed the Sanctuarie: and bare oute the defyled stones into an vncleane place. And for so muche as the altar of burnt offering was vnbefiled, he tooke aduysments, what he myght do withall so he thoughte it was best to destroye it (lesse it shoulde happen to do them any shame) for yea then had defyled it, and therfore they brake it downe. As for the stones, they layed them vp vpon the mountayn by the house in a conuen-ent place: tyll there came a prophete, to shewe what shoulde be done with them.

 Verses 1.
 John. 8.

So they tooke whole stones accordyng to the lawe, and builded a newe altar such one as was before, and made vp the Sanctuarie with in and without, and halowed the house and the courtes. They made newe ornaments, and brought the candelltycke, the altar of incense, and the table into the temple. The incense laied they vpon the altar, and lighted the lampes whiche were vpon the candelltycke, that they myght burne in the temple. They set the shewbread vpon a table, and hanged vp the wayle set vpon the temple, as it was afore.

And vpon the fyue and twenty day of the nyynth moneth, whiche is called the moneth of Casius, in the hundred and cyghte & fortye yere they rose vp by tymes in the morning for to do sacrifice (accordyng to the lawe) vpon a newe burnt offeringe altar that they had made: after the tyme and season the heathen had destroyed it. The same day was it set vp again with songes, pipes, harpes, and cymbales.

 Verses 1.

And all the people fell vpon their faces, wor-shippinge & thanking the God of heauen which had given them the victory. So they kepte the dedicacyon of the altar cyghte dayes offeringe burnt sacrifices and thank offeringes with gladnesse. They dede the temple also with crownes and wythes of golde, and halowed the postes and celles, and hanged doores vpon the toppe there was very grete gladnesse among the people, because the blasphemie of the heathen was put away. So Judas and his brethren with the whole congregacyon of Israel, as becom, that the tyme of dedicacyon of the altar shoulde be kepte in hye season from yere to yere, by the space of cyghte dayes from the fyue and twenty daye of the moneth Casius with myght and gladnesse.

And at the same tyme buylded they vp the mounte sydon with hye walles and strong towers round about: lest the Gentyles shuld come and troade it downe, as they had afore. Therefore Judas let men of warre in it, to kepe it, and made it strong, for to defende. Verbum: the people might have a refuge agaynst the enemyes.

The x. Chapter.

Of Judas vnto the heathen that he should to destroye the temple, and as he had of the heathen Symeon and Jonathan. He was the cytye of Tyberias whiche they kepte bym for a tyme.

It happened also that when the heathen rounde about heard, howe that the altar and the Sanctuarie were set vp in theyr olde estate: it displeased them verie sore, wherfore they thoughte to destroye the generacyon of Jacob that was among them: In so muche that they beganne to slaye and to persecute certain of the people. Then Judas fought agaynst the children of Esau in Joumen, & agaynst those whiche were at Arabathane (for they dwelte rounde about the Israelites) where he slew and spoiled a grete multitude of them. He thoughte also vpon the malice and vncharitableness of the chy-dren of Beniamin, how they were a snare & a strophe vnto the people, & how they layde waite for the in the hye way. Wherfore he shut vp them into towres, and came vnto them, destroyed them utterly and burne theyr towres, with all that were in them.

Afterward, wente he agaynst the chyldren of Ammon, where of he founde a myghty power and a grete multitude of people, with Tymothy theyr capitayne. So he stroke manie battayles with them, whiche were destroyed before hym. And when he had slayne them, he wanne Sazer the cytye, with the townes belongyng thereto, & so turned agayne into Jerusaleme.
 The heathen also in Galaad gathered them together agaynst the Israelites that were in theyr quarters, to slay them: but they fled to the castell of Datheman and sente letters to Judas & his brethren, sayng: The heathen are gathered a-gaynst vs on every syde, to destroye vs, & now they make them ready for to come, & laye siege to the castell, where vnto we are fled, & Tymothy is capitayne of theyr hoste: come therfore and deliuer vs out of theyr handes: for there is a grete multitude of vs slayne already, & oure brethren that were at Tubyn, are slayne, & destroyed (well nye a thousande men) and their wyues, theyr chyldren, and theyr goodes haue the enemyes led away captiue.

Whyle these letters were yet a readyng, & beholde, there came other messengers from Ga-lyle with rente clothes: whiche tolde euen the same tydings, and sayde: that they of Beolo-maps, of Tyzus and of Sydon were gathered agaynst them, and that all Galyle was fylled with enemyes to destroye Israel. When Judas and the people heard this, they came together (a grete congregacyon) to denie what they myghte do for theyr brethren, that were in trouble, and besieged of theyr enemyes. And Judas sayde vnto Symon his brother: chole the oute certayne men, & go deliuer thy brethren in Ga-lyle: As for me and my brother Jonathan, we will go into Galaad by hym. So he left Jolephus

gave the sonne of zacharye, and Jazaryas to be Captaynes of the people, and to kepe the remnant of the hoste in Jewrye, and commaunded them sayng: Take the overlyghte of this people, and let that remaue no warre againste the heathen, untill the tyme we come again. And unto Symeon he gave thre thousande men for to go into Galyle, but Judas hymself had eight thousande in Galaadyschyn.

Then went Symeon into Galyle, & strooke bynners battayles with the heathen: whome he dyscomfited, and folowed vpon them vnto the porte of Ptolomys. And there were slayne of the heathen almoste thre thousande men. So he toke the wyues of them, and caried awaye the Israelites that were in Galyle and Ierusalem with theyr wyues, theyr chyldren, and all that they had, and brought them into Jewrye with greates gladnesse. Judas Machabees also and his brother Jonathas went ouer Jordan, and traunpled iii. dayes iourney in the wyldernes. Where the Arabes met them, and receyued them lounge, and tolde them every thyng that had happened vnto theyr brethren in Galaadyschyn, and howe that many of them were besegged in Barasa, Boso, Almys, Calphoz, Wagerth and Carnaum: all these are strong walled & myghtie great cities, and that they were kept in other cyties of Galaad also: & to mozt they are appoynted to byng theyr hoste vnto these cyties, to take them, & to wyne the in one daye.

So Judas and his hoste turned in all the halle in the wyldernes toward Boso, & wan the cyrie, slew all the males with the sword, toke all theyr goodes, and set fyre vpon the cyrie. And in the nyght they tooke theyr iourney fro thence, and came to the castell. And by tymes in the morning when they lohed vp, behold, there was an innumerable people bearynge ladders and other instrumentes of warre, to take the castell and to ouercome them.

When Judas sawe that the battaille began and that the people therof wente vp, and range into heauen, and that there was so great a crye in the cyrie: he sayde vnto his hoste: fyghte this daye for your brethren. And so came behynde theyr encyres in thre compaynes, and blew vp the trompettes, & cryed in their waile to God.

But as soone as Tymotheus perceyued that Machabees was there, they fled from hym, & the other slew them downe ryght soze: so that there was kyled of them the same daye, almoste eynghthe thousande men. Then departed Judas vnto Walspha, layde siege vnto it, and wanne it: slew all the males in it, spoyled it, and set fyre vpon it: From thence wente he and toke Calbon, Wagerth, Boso, and the other cyties in Galaad.

After thys gathered Tymotheus another hoste, whiche pyched theyr tentes before Raphon beyonde the water. Judas also sent to espye the hoste, and they brought hym wordes agayne, sayng: All the heathen that be rounde aboute vs, are gathered vnto hym, and his hoste is very great. Per, they haue byred the Arabys and to helpe them, & haue pyched their tentes beyonde the water and are ready to come and fyghte agaynst the. So Judas went on to mete them.

And Tymotheus sayde vnto the captaynes of his hoste: when Judas and his hoste come npe the ryuer: if ye go ouer fyfte, we shall not be hable to withstand hym, for why? he wyll be so stronge for vs. But if he dare not come ouer so that he pyche his tentes beyonde the water: then wyll we go ouer, for we shalbe stronge ynough agaynst hym. Now as soone as Judas came to the ryuer, he appoynted certayne scribes of the people, and commaunded them, sayng: see that ye leaue none behynde vpon the syde of the ryuer, but let every man come to the battayle. So he wente fyfte ouer vnto them, and his people after hym.

And all the heathen were dyscomfited before hym, and let theyr weapons fall, and rane into the temple that was at Carnaum. Whiche cyrie Judas wanne, and burnt the temple with all that was in it: So was Carnaum subdued, & myght not withstande Judas. Then Judas gathered all the Israelites that were in Galaadyschyn, from the leaste vnto the mozte, with thei wyues and theyr chyldren, a very great hoste for to come into the lande of Israel.

So they came vnto Ephron, whiche was a myghty grate and stronge cyrie, and lay in theyr waye. For they could not go by it, neither of the ryght hande nor of the left, but must go thowowe it. Nevertheless they that were in the cyrie wolde not let them go thowowe, but walled vp the portes with stones. And Judas sent vnto them with peaceable wordes sayng: Let vs passe thowowe your lande, that we maye go into our owne countree, there shal no bodie do you harme, we wyll but onely go thowowe on foote. But they wolde not let them in.

And Judas beseged the cyrie all that daye and all that nyght, and so wanne it, where they slew agmany as were males, and destroyed the cyrie and spoyled it, and wente thowowe all the cyrie ouer them & were slaine. Then went they ouer Jordaine into the plain felde before Bethsam. And Judas helped those forwarde & came behynde, and gaue the people good thortacyon all the waye thowow, tyll they were come into the land of Juda. Thus they went vnto the mount Syon, where they offred with mirth, and thankesgyung: because there was none of them slain, but came home again peaceably.

Some what tyme as Judas & Jonathas were in the lande of Galaad, and dwined theyr brother in Galyle before Ptolomys: Then Josephus the sonne of zachary & Jazaryas the captaynes, bearynge of the actes that were done of the battayles that were stryken, sayde: Let vs get vs a name also, and go fyght agaynst the heathen that are rounde aboute vs.

So they gaue theyr hoste a commandement and went towards Jamnia. Then came Sosias and his men out of the cite, to fight against them. Josephus also and his army were called vnto the borders of Ierusalem, & there were layne that day of the people of Israel, two. Women so that there was a greafe misery among the people: and all because they were not obeyed vnto Judas and his brethren, but thought they shuld quyte them selues manfully. A curte shewe they came not of f side of the se men, by whome Israel was helpe. But the men that were with Judas, were greatly commended in the sight of al Israel, & all the heathen where soeuer they name was hearde vpon, & the people came vnto them, bydding them welcome.

After this went Judas forth with his brethren, and fought against the chylzen of Esau in the lande that lyeth toward the south where he wanne the cite of Esion, & the towne that lyeth beynde it: and also the walles and towne rounde about it, he bent them vp.

Then remoued he to go into the lande of the Philistines, & went thow Hamaria. At the same tyme were there many pyetes slain in the battail, whiche wyllfully and without aduylment went out for to fight, to get them honour. And when Judas came to Azot in the Philistines land, he brake doune theyr altars, bent the Images of theyr idoles, spoiled the cyties and came again into the lande of Iuda.

The vi Chapter.

Antiochus building to take the cite of Elymas for a prey to his army of the cyrenians. He taketh into synagoga and upon the same Antiochus to make hym. He taketh into synagoga of Elymas. Antiochus cometh into Ierusalem with a greafe army.
The battail of the chylzen.

Other when kynge Antiochus trauayled thow the hye countreys, he hearde that Elymas in Persya was a noble and pientous cytie in syluer and gold, and that there was in it a very ryche temple: where as were clothes cote armoures and wyldes of golde, whiche Alerandrie the sonne of Philip, kynge of Macedonia (that raygned fyfte in Greke lande) had lette beynde hym. Wherfore he wente aboute to take the cytie and to spoile it, but he was not hable: for the citizens were warned of it, and fought with hym. And he fled & departed with greafe heynesse, and came agayne into Babylon. Wherfore there came one whiche brought hym tidynges in Persye, & his holles which were in the lande of Iuda, were dysruyned awayne, and he wote that Lysias wente forth fyfte wyth a greafe power, and was dysruyned awaye of the Iewes: so that they had wonne the vpetoy and gotten greafe goodes out of the holles that perished, how they had broken doune the abhominacyon whiche he set vp vpon the altar at Jerusalem, and sented f Sanctuarie with hye walles, yf he as it was afoye: yee, and Bethlara his cytie also.

So it chaunced, that when the kynge had heard these wordes, he was afrayd and greued very soe. Wherfore he layde hym downe vpon hys bed, and fell syche for very sorowe: and all because it had not happened as he had dreymed.

And there continued he long, for his greafe was euer more and more, so that he sawe he must ne-dye. Therfore he sente for his frendes, and sayde vnto them: the shepe is gone from myne eyes, for the very sorowe and vexacyon of heart that I haue. For when I consider in my mynde the greafe aduersyte that I am come vnto, and the shondes of dreynesse whiche I am come in, where as afoye tyme I was so mery, & so greatly set by (by reason of my power.) Agayne, considering the euill that I haue done at Jerusalem, from whence I tooke all pryche of gold and syluer that were in it, and sente to fetch awaye the inhabytours of Jewye wythoute anye reason why: I knowe that these troubles are come vpon me for the same cause. And behold, I must dye with greafe sorowe in a straunge lande. Then called he for one Philyp a frende of hys, whome he made ruler of all his realme, and gaue hym the crowne, hys roobe and hys ryng: that he shuld take his sonne Antiochus vnto hym, and byng hym vp, tyll he myghte raygne hym selfe. * So the kynge Antiochus died there, in the hundred and fortye and nyne yere. When Lysias knewe that the kynge was dead, he ordained Antiochus his sonne (whom he had brought vp,) to raygne in his fathers stead and called hym Eupator, now he they that were in the castell (at Jerusalem) kepte in the Jemes rounde about the Sanctuarie, and fought euer tyll to doo them harme for the strengthe-nyng of the hea then.

Wherfore, Judas thought to bestrope them and called all the people together, & they might laye sege vnto them. So they came together in the hundred and fiftie yere, & beseged them, layng forth theyr ordynance and instrumen-tes of warre. Then certayn of them were beseged, went forth vnto whome some vngodly men of Israel toyned them selues also, & went vnto the kynge, sayng: how longe wyll it be, or thou puny the and aduenge oure brethren? We haue euer bene mynded to do thy father seruyce to walke in hys statutes, and to obey hys com-mandementes: Therfore our people fell from vs, and wher soeuer they found any of vs, they slew them: and spoiled oure inherytaunce and they haue not onely medled w vs, but with all our countreys: and beholde, this daye are they beseging the castell at Jerusalem, & haue made vp the strong holde in Bethsura. And if thou dost not pzeuant them ryght sone, they wyll do more then these, and thou shalt not be able to ouercome them.

* When the kynge heard these, he was very angrie, and called all his frendes, the capi-tanes of his souldiers, and of all hys hostemen together. He bydd men of warre also out of other realmes & out of the Isles of the see, which came vnto hym. And the nombre of hys hostes was an hundred thousande foote men, & thretye thousande hostemen, & two and therty Elephantes wel exercysed in battayl. * These came thow Iude

so Ioue Iudas vnto Bethsura, & beleagred it a longe season, and made dyuers instrumentes of warre agaynst it. But the Jewes came out and brynte them, and foughte lyke men. Then departed Iudas from the castell at Jerusalem, and remoued the hoste toward Bethsacaran our agaynst the hynges armie.

So the hynges arose before the dape, and broughte the power of his hoste into the waye to Bethsacaran, where the hostes made theim redye to the battaile, blowing the trompettes. And to prouoke the Elephantes for to fyghte, they shewed them the sap of red grapes & molberyes, and deuyded the Elephantes among the hoste: so that by every Elephante there stode a thousande menne wel harnessed, and helmettes of stele vpon theyr heades. Yee, vnto every one of the Elephantes also were ordeined fyue hundred hoysmen of the best, whiche waited on the Elephante, going wher soeuer he went, and departed not from hym. Euerie Elephante was couered with a stronge tow of wood, where vpon were two and thirtie valesant men with weapons to fyghte, and wythin was a man of Jude to rule the beaste.

As for the remnaunte of the hoysmen, he set vpon both the sydes in two partes wyth trompettes, to prouoke his hoste, and to styre vp such as were slowe in the armie. And when the sunne shone vpon theyr wyldes of golde and stele, the mountaynes glistered agayne at them, & were as bright as the cressettes of fyre. The hynges hoste also was deuuyded, one parte vpon the hie mountaynes the other lowe beneth: so they wet on takyng good hede: and keepyng theyr order. And all they that dwelt in the lande, were afrayed at the noyse of theyr hoste, when the multitude wente forth, and when their weapons smote together, for their hoste was both great and myghty. Iudas also and his hoste entered into the battaile, and slew fyue hundred menne of the hynges armie. Nowe when Eleasar the sonne of Saura, dyd see one of the Elephantes decked wyth the hynges badg, and was a moze good lyf beaste then the other: he thoughte the hyng shulde be vpon hym, and so ordeined hym selfe to deliuer his people, and to get hym a perpetual name. Wherefore he ranne wyth a coage vnto the Elephante in the myddest of the hoste, smytyng them downe of both sydes, and slew many aboute hym. So wente he to the Elephantes feet, and gat hym vnder hym, and slew hym then fell the Elephante downe vpon hym, and there he died. Iudas also and his men seyng the power of the hyng and the myghty violence of his hoste departed from them. And the hynges armie went vp agaynst them toward Ierusalem and pitched theyr tentes in Jewry beside mount Syon. Whereafter, the hyng tooke truce wyth them that were in Bethsura.

But when they came oute of the cytie (because they had no vyttayles wythin, & the land laye vntilled) the hyng tooke Bethsura, & set men to hepe it, and turned his hoste to the place of the Sanctuarye, and laide siege to it a great whyle. Where he made all maner ordynance handchewes, fyre hartes, rackettes to cast stones, scappons to shoot arrows, and hynges. The Jewes also made ordynance agaynst thei, and fought a longe season.

But in the cytie there wer no vyttayles, for it was the seventh yere of the warre & those that remained in Jewry, had eaten vp all their store. And in the Sanctuarye wer fewe melleste, for the hunger came so vpon them, & they wer scattered abrode every man to his owne place.

So when Lysias heard of this, he sent Antiochus the hyng whyle he was yet luyng had ordeined to luyng vp Antiochus his sonne that he myght be hyng, was come agayne oute of Persya, and Media, wyth the hynges hoste and thoughte to obteyne the hyngdome: he gat hym to the hyng in all the hall, and to the capptaines of the hoste, and sayde we decrease daylye, and our vyttayles are but small: Againe the place that we laye siege vnto is very strong and it were oure parte to see for the realme. Let vs agree wyth these men, and take truce wyth them, and with all theyr people, & graunt them to lye after theyr lawe, as they byd also. For they be greued, and do all these thynges agaynst vs, because we haue despyled theyr lawe. So the hyng and the prynces were contente, and sent vnto them to make peace, and they receyued it. Nowe when the hyng & the prynces had made an othe vnto them, they came oute of the castell and the hyng wente vp to mount Syon. But when he sawe that the place was wel defended he brake his oth that he had made, and commaunded to destroye the wall rounde about. Then departed he in all the hall, and returned vnto Antioch, where he founde Philipp haung dominion of the cytie. So he fought agaynst hym, and tooke the cytie againe in his handes.

The vii Chapter.

Demetrius raygned after he had kylled Antiochus, and Lysias. He translateth the cytyzen of Iherusalem the counsaile of certain wyshed persons. The pater of the pater agaynst Syrachus. Iudas kylled Syrachus, after he had made hym proper.

In the hundred and one and fiftie yere came Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from the cytye of Rome with a small company of men, vnto a cytie of the sea coaste and there he bare rule. And it chaunced that when he came to Antioch the cytie of his progenytours, his hoste tooke Antiochus and Lysias, to luyng them vnto hym. But when it was told hym, he sayd: let me not se theyr faces: So the hoste put them to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the thron of his hyngdome, there came vnto hym wyched and vngodly men of Iherusalem whose captayn was Alcimus, that wold haue bene made hye prynces: These men accused the people of Iherusalem vnto the hyng, sayng: Iudas and his brethren haue slayne thy frendes, and dyuen vs oute of oure owne launde. Wherefore sende nowe some man (to whom thou gapest credence) that he maye go and sle all the destrukyon, whiche he hath done vnto vs and to the hyngesland, and let hym be punished with all his frendes and fauourers.

B Then the kyng shole Bachydes a friend of hys, whiche was a man of grete power in the realme (beyond the great water) and sayethful vnto the kyng, and sente hym to see the destruc-cion that Judas had done. And as to that tyme had Alcimus, he made hym hys priest, and commaunded hym to be auenged of the chyldren of Israel. So they stode by, & came with a great hoste into the lande of Iuda, sendyng messengers to Judas and hys brethren, and speaking vnto them with peaceable wordes: but vnder discreete. * Therfore Judas and his people be-leued not theyr sayng, for they sawe that they were come with a great hoste.

After this came the scriybes together vnto Alcimus and Bachydes, trustyng the beste vnto them. And fyrste the Audeans requyred peace of them, sayng: Alcimus y priest is come of the seide of Aaron, howe can he dyscrepe vs?
So they gaue them louyng wordes, and swoze vnto them, and sayde: we wyl do you no harme neyther your frendes: and they beleued them.
But the very same daye toke they .iii. scoze me of them, and slewe them accordyng to the wodes that were writen. * They haue cast y flesch of thy sayntes, and shed theyr bloude rounde about Ierusalem, and there was no man y wold burie them. So there came a grete feare and dredge among the people, sayng: there is neyther truth nor ryghteousnesse in them, for they haue broken the appoyntemente and othe that they made. And Bachydes remoued his hoste from Ierusalem, and pytched his tente at Betzcha: where he sent forth y tooke many of them that had forsaken him. He slewe many of the people also and cast them into a great pyt. Then committed he the land vnto Alcimus, & left men of warre with hym to helpe him. And Bachides hym selfe went vnto the kyng. And thus Alci-mus defended his bygh priesthode, and all such as vered Israel resorted vnto hym: In somuch that they obtayned the lande of Iuda, and byd much euell vnto the Israelites.

Howe when Judas sawe all the myschefe that Alcimus and his company had done (yea, more then the heathen them selues) vnto the Israelites. he wente forth rounde aboute all the borders of Jewry, and punished those vnfaithfull renegates, so that they came nomoze out into the countrey. So when Alcimus sawe that Judas and his people had gotten y vpper hand and that he was not hable to abyde them, he went again to the kyng and said al the worst of them y he coude. Then the kyng sent Sycha-nos one of his chiefe prynces (whiche beare euell wyl to Israel) and commaunded hym, that he shoulde utterly destroye the people.

So Sychanos came to Ierusalem with a great hoste, and sent vnto Judas and his brethren with frendly wordes: (but vnder discreit) sayng: there shalbe no warre betwixt me and you: I wyl come with seuer men, to see how ye do, with frendly pyte. Upon this he came vnto Judas, and they saluted one another peaceably but the enemyes were appoynted to take Judas by vyolence. Acurr the selfe, it was told Judas, that he came vnto hym but vnder discreit therfore, he gat hym away from hym, & wolde se his face nomoze. When Sychanos perceyued that his counceill was betrayed, he wente oute to fyghte agaynst Judas, besyde Capparisamala: where there wer slain of Sychanos host foure thousande men: and the resydue fled vnto the castell of Dauid.

After this came Sychanos vnto mounte Syon: and the dycaules with the elders of the people went forth to salute hym peaceably and to shewe hym the burnte sacrifices that were offered for the kyng. But he laughed them and the people to scoone, mocked them, despyed their offerpynges, and spake dishonourfull yee, and swoze in his wrath, sayng: * If Judas and his hoste be not deliuered now into my handes, as sone as euer I come agayne (I fare well) I shal burne y this house. With that, went he oute in a grete anger. Then the dycaules came in, and stode before the aulter of the temple, de-pyng and sayng.

* For so much as thou (O Lorde) haste chosen this house, that thy name myghte be called vpon there, and that it shoulde be an house of prayer and petycon for thy people. Be aduen-ger of this man and hys hoste, and let them be slain w the sword, remeber y blasphemys of them, & suffer the not, to contynue any longer.

When Sychanos was gone from Ierusalem he pytched his tente at Bethozon, and there an hoste met hym out of Siria. And Judas came to Adasa with thye thousande men, and made his prayer vnto god, sayng: O Lord, * because the messengers of kyng Sennacherib blasphe-med the, the Angell wente forth, and slewe an hundred foure scoze and fyue thousand of them.
Euen so destroye y this hoste before vs to day, that our people maye knowe how that he hath blasphemed thy sanctuary, and punyssh hym accordyng to his malyciousnes.

And the hostes stroke the selfe, the thyrtyent day of the moneth. * Adar, and Sychanos host was discomfyted, & and he hym selfe was fyrst slayne in the battayle. When Sychanos men of warre sawe that he was kyllid, they cast awaye theyr weapons and fled, but the Jewes folowed vpon them an whole daies iourney fro Adazar vnto Gazara, blowyng with the trompettes and making tokens after them. So the Jewes came forth of all y townes there about and blewe out theyr hoznes vpon them, & turned agaynst them. Thus were they all slayne, and not one of them left.

Then they toke theyr substance for a praye and smote of Sychanos heade and hys ryghte hande: * which he held y so proudly y brought it with them, and hanged it y afoze Ierusalem therfore the people were excedyngly reioy-sed, and passed ouer that daye in great gladnes And Judas ordeined, that the same daye (name lye the thyrty fourth daye of the moneth Adar) shoulde

So Sychanos came to Ierusalem with
a great hoste, and sent vnto Judas and his brethren with frendly wordes: (but vnder discreit)
sayng: there shalbe no warre betwixt me and

should be kept in mynde every yere. Thus the lande of Iuda was in rest a lytle whyle.

The viii. Chapter.

¶ ¶ Judas considering the power and goodly pathes of the Romaynes made manye peace treatyes. And he soughte for the Romaynes to be his frendes.

Iudas heard also the fame of the Romaynes, that they were mightie and valiaunt men, & agreeable to al thynge that was required of them, and make peace with al men, which come vnto them, and how they were doughtie men of strength. Wherfore that, it was told hym of their battayles, and noble actes which they did in Galacia, how they had conquered them, and brought them vnder tribute: and what great thynges they had done in spayne: howe that with theyr wisdom and sober behauiour they had wonne the mynes of siluer and golde that are there, and obtained all the land, with other places farre from them: howe they had discomfited and slaine downe the kynge that came vpon them, from the bittermost part of the earthe, and howe other people gaue them tribute euery yere. Howe they had slayn and overcome Philip and Perces kynge of Cethim, and other mo (in battail) which had brought theyr dynaunce agaynst them, how they had discomfited great Antiochus kyng of Asia: that would nedes fyght with the Iudaung an. C. and. xx. elephants, with horse, charrettes, and a very great host: how they toke hym selfe alive, & ordained hym (with such as would raigne after him) to pay them a greete tribute. ¶ And to fynd them good suerties & pledge besides all this, how they had taken from him India, Media, and Lidia (his best landes) and geuen them to kyng Eumenus. Agayne, howe they perceauynge that the Grekes were commynge to vere them: sent agaynst them a captain of an host, whiche gaue them battayle slew many of them, led away their wyues and children captiue, spoyled them, tooke possession of theyr lande, destroyed theyr strong holdes and subdued the to be their bondmen, vnto this daye. ¶ And ouer, howe that as for other kyngdomes and isles whiche sometyme withstoode them, they destroyed them, and brought them vnder theyr domynion. But helped euery their owne frendes, and those that were confederate with them, and conquered kyngdomes, bothe farre and nye, & that whosoever heard of theyr mighte was afrayed of them: for whom they would helpe to their kyngdomes, those raigned and whom it liked not them to raigne, they put him downe. And howe they were come to great premyence: hauing no kyng among them, neither any man clothed in purple, to be magnified there though, but had ordeined them selues a parlyamente, wherin they sat. iii. C. and. xx. senators daily vpon the councel, to dispatche euery the busines of the people and to kepe good order. And howe that euery yere they chose a waye to haue gouernance of al their land to whom euery man was obedyente, and there was neither euil nor discrecion among the.

Thon, the sonne of Jacob, and Jason the sonne of Eleazar, and sent them vnto Rome for to make frendshipp and a bonde of loue with them that they myght take from them the bondage of the Grekes, for the Jewes saw that the Grekes would subdue the kyngdom of Israel. So they went vnto Rome (a very greete iourney) and came into the parlyamente, and saide: Iudas Machabeus with his brethren and the people of the Jewes hath sent vs vnto you, to make a bond of frendshipp and peace with you, and ye to note vs as your louers and frendes. And the matter pleased the Romaynes ryght well wherfore it was written by of the whiche the Romaynes made a writing in tables of brasse and sent it to Ierusalem: that they myght haue by them a memoial of the same peace, & bonde of frendshipp after this maner. God saue the Romaynes and the people of the Jewes bothe, by sea and by land and kepe the swerde and enemy from them for euermore. ¶ After come first any warre vpon the Romaynes or any of their frendes throughout al their dominion, the people of the Jewes shall helpe them (as the tyme requyere) and that with all theyr dractes. Al so they shall neither geue nor sende vnto theyr enemyes vitayles, weapons, mony, nor shypes: but fulfill theyr charge at the Romaynes pleasure, and take nothing from them therfore. Agayne if the people of the Jewes happen first to haue warre the Romayns shall stand by the with a good wyll, accordyng as the tyme wyll suffer. Neither shall they geue vnto the Jewes enemyes, vitayles, weapons, mony, nor shypes. Thus at the Romayns contente to do, and shall fulfill theyr charge without any disceate. Accordyng to these articles, the Romaynes made the bonde with the Jewes. ¶ Howe after these articles, sayed they, if any of the parties wyll put to them, or take any thyng from them they shall do it with the consente of bothe: and whatsoeuer they adde vnto them, or take from them, it shall stand fast. And as touchyng the euill that Demetrius hath done vnto the Jewes, we haue wyrtten vnto hym sayng: wherfore latest thou thy deuy pocke vpon the Jewes our frendes and louers: if they make any complaint of the agayne vnto vs, we shall defende them, and fyghte with the by sea and by lande.

The ix. Chapter.

¶ After the death of Demetrius Demetrius findeth his army agaynst Judas. Judas is slayne. Jonathan is put in the stead of Iudas. The story between Jonathan and Bacchides. Alcimus taken vnto the palse, and bysch. Bacchides continually agaynst vnto the kyng. He commeth vpon Jonathan by the counsell of Alcimus which perfumes, and is ouercome. The tyme of Iudas. Iudas with Bacchides.

In the meane season when Demetrius heard that Alcimus and his host was slaine in the filde. He proceeded further to send Bacchides and Alcimus agayne into Jewrye, and those that were in the ryght wyng of his host with hym. So they wente forth by the waye that leadeth vnto Galgala, and pyched theyr tentes before Bethsaior whiche is in Ierusalem and wanne the cyter and kewe muche people.

The first booke

In the first moneth of the C. and ii. yere, they brought their host to Jerusalem, and rose up, & came to Berra, with .xx. thousand men and .ii. thousand men. Now Judas had pitched his tent at Laia, with .iii. thousand men. And when they sawe the multitude of the other army that it was so great, they were sore afraid, and many censured the leaders out of the host. In so much that there abode no more of the but .viii. C. men. When Judas sawe that his host failed him, & that he must needs fyght: it bzait his heart, that he had no time to gather them together: wherefore the ma was in extreme trouble. After the les, he said vnto them: that remained with him. Clp, let vs go against our enemies, peradventure we shalbe able to fyghte with them. But they would haue stopped him, sayng: we shall not be able, therfore let vs now save our liues & turne again to our brethren, and then wil we fyghte againste them, for we are here but fewe.

And Judas said: God forbid that we shuld fle from them. Wherfore, yf oure time be come let vs die manfully for our brethren, and let vs not staine our honour. Then the host remoued out of the tentes, and stood agaynst them. The horsemen are deuided in two partes, the syngers casters and archers wente before the host and all the myghtie men were foremost in the feilde. Bachides himselfe was in the ryghte wyng of the battail, and the host drew nye in two partes, and blew the trompettes. They of Judas side blew the trompettes also, & the cry shoke at the noyse of the hostes, & they stroke a feild from the moztowtill nyght. And when Judas sawe that Bachides host was strongest of the rightside, he toke with him al the hardy men, & brake the right wyng of their order, and folowed vpon them vnto the mounte Azot.

Now when they which were of the left wyng sawe that the righte syde was dyscomfite they persecuted Judas and them that were with him. Then was there a soze battail, for many were slain and wounded of both parties Judas also him self was killed, and the remnaunt fled. So Jonathan and Simon toke Judas their brother and buried him in his fathers sepulchre in the cite of Boda. And al the people of Israel made great lamentation for him, and mourned long sayng: Alas that this worthy should be slayn which deliuered the people of Israel. As for other thinges pertaining to the battailles of Judas, the noble actes he did and of his worthyness: they are not wytt for they were very many.

And after the death of Judas, which men came vpon in all the coastes of Israel, & ther arose all suche as were vngodlines. In those dayes was there a great dearth in the land, and all the countrey gaue out them selues and theys vnto Bachides. So Bachides chose wicked men, & made them lordes in the lande. These soughte oute and made searche for Judas frendes, and brought them vnto Bachides: whiche aduenged vpon them with greate dyspyte. And there came so greate trouble in Israel, as was not lene yf tyme yf no prophet was sene there

Then came all Judas frendes together, and said vnto Jonathan: for so muche as thy brother Judas is dead, ther is none lyke hym to go forth against our enemyes, against Bachides and suche as are aduersaries vnto oure people. Wherfore, this day we chose the for hym, to be our prince & captain to order our battayl. And Jonathan toke the gouernance vpon hym at the same tyme and ruled in stead of his brother Judas. When Bachides gat knowledge there of, he soughte for to sle hym. But Jonathan and Simon his brother, perceiuyng that, fled into the wyldernesse of Checua with all theys company, and pitched theys tentes by the water poole of Aspar.

Which when Bachides vnderstod, he came oure Jordan with all his host vpon the Sabboth day. Now had Jonathan sent his brother Jhon (a captain of the people) to pray his frendes the Nabuthites, that they would lend them their ordnance, for they had much. So the children of Jambry came out of Gadaba, & rooke Jhon and al that he had, and went their waye with al. Then came word vnto Jonathan and Simon his brother, that the children of Jambry made a great marpage, and brought the byrde from Gadaba with great pompe: for she was daughter to one of the noblest princes of Canaan. Wherfore they remembred the bloude of Jhon their brother, and wot vp, and hid them selues vnder the shadowe of the mountayne.

So thei lift vp their cries, & looked, and beheld ther was much a do, and great repayze: for the bydgrome came forth, and his frendes and his brethren met them with trumpantes, instrumentes of musyk, and many weapons. Then Jonathan and they that were with hym, rose oute of theys lurking places against them, and slew many of them. As for the remnaunt, they fled into the mountaynes, & they toke al their substance. Thus the marpage was turned to mournyng, & the noyse of their melody into lamentacyon. And so when they had aduenged the bloude of their brother, they turned agayne vnto Jordan.

Bachides hearing this, came vnto the very border of Jordan with a great power vpon the Sabboth day. And Jonathan sayd vnto the company, let vs get vp, and fight agaynst our enemyes: for it standeth not with vs to day as in tyme past: Beholde our enemyes are in our waye the water of Jordan vpon the one side of vs, with banches, fennes and woodes of the other syde, so that there is no place for vs to departe vnto. Wherfore cry now vnto heauen, that ye maye be deliuered from the power of your enemyes. So they stroke the battayl. And Jonathan stretched out his handes to smyte Bachides, but he fled backward. Then Jonathan & they that were with hym, leapt into Jordan & swimmied ouer Jordan vnto him & they were slain of Bachides side that daye a thousand men.

Therfore Bachides with his host turned agayne to Jerusalem, and buylt vp the castell and strong holdes that were in Jewrye, Jericho, Emmaus, Berthozon, Berthell, Chamnata where, and Tops, with high walles, with portes and with lockes: and let men to kepe them, that they myght vse theyr malice vpon Israel. he walled vp citee Bethsurath, Gazarah and the castell and prouided them with men and vntayles. he tooke also the chiefe men sonnes in the cottes for pledges, and put them in the castell at Jerusalem to be kepte.

Afterwarde in the C. and. liii. yere in the second moneth, Alcimus commaunded, that the walles of the inmost sanctuarie shoulde be destroyed, and the buildyngs of the prophetes also. And when he beganne to destroye them, the chynge that he went about, were hindred, for he was smitten with a palsy, and hys mouthe shut, so that he coude nomoze speake nor commaunde any of hys house: concerning hys bu-sines. Thus died Alcimus in great mysery at the same time. And when Bachides sawe that Alcimus was deade, he tourned agayne to the kyng, and so the lande was in rest two yeres.

Then all the vngodly men helde a counsell, sayynge: Beholde, Jonathan and hys companye are at ease, and dwell without care. Wherefore let vs byng Bachides hys ther, and he shal take them all in one nyghte.

So they wente and gaue Bachides thys counsell which arose to come with agreat host & sent letters pynely to hys adherentes, which were in Jewrye, to take Jonathan & those that were with hym: but they might not, for the other had gotte knowledge of theyr deuice. And Jonathan took. I. men of the countre (whiche were the ryngleaders of them) and slewe them.
Then Jonathan and Symon with theyr company departed vnto the cyte Bethbessen which lyeth in the wyldernes, and repayred the decay thereof, and made it stronge. When Bachides knewe thys, he gathered all hys host, and sent word to them that wer of Jewry. Then came he and layd siege to Bethbessen, and fought a-gaynst it a longe season, and made instrumen-tes of warre. Nowe Jonathan left his brother Simon in the citee, & went forth hym selfe into the countre, and came with a certayne number of slewe Odarus and hys brethren and the chyldren of Phasaron in theyr tenten: so that he became to be stronge, and to increase in power.

As for Simon and hys company, they went out of the cyte, and byent vp the instrumentes of warre, and foughte agaynst Bachides, and discomfited hym. And Bachides was soze vexed, because his counsell & traual was in vayne.
Wherfore he was wroth at the wyched men (for gaue hym counsell to come into theyr land) and slewe manie of them. Then purposed he with hys company to go awayne into hys owne coun-tre: wherof when Jonathan had knowledge he sente ambassadours vnto hym, for to make peace with him, and that he shoulde deliuer him hys pylsoners agayne. To the whiche Bachydes consented gladly, and did accordyng to his desyre: and made an othe, that he shoulde neuer do hym harme all the dayes of his lyfe. So he restored vnto hym all the pylsoners that he had taken out of the land of Iuda, and then turned and went hys way into hys owne lande, nether proceeded he anye further to come vnto the borders of Iuda. Thus Israel hadde nomoze warre. And Jonathan dwelte at Nachemas, and began there to gouerne the people, and destroyed the vngodly men oute of Israel.

The .x. Chapter.

Demetrius desyred to haue peace with Jonathan. Alexander much more agaynst Demetrius. Demetrius is slayen. The fynall of ptolomus and Alexander

At the C. and. lx. yere came Alexander der the sonne of noble Antiochus and tooke ptolomays, whose citeyns receiued him, and ther he rayg-ned. When Demetrius heard ther-of, he gathered an excreadyng greate hoste and wente to the agaynst hym to fyghte. Wherefore Demetrius sente letters vnto Jonathan, with lounge wordes, and prayled hym greatly. For he said: we wyl fyght make peace with hym, befoze he bynde hym selfe with Alexander agaynst vs: elles he shal remember the cruel that we haue done agaynst hym, hys brother & his people. And so he gaue Jonathan leaue to gather an hoste, to make weapens, and to be cofederate with him, & commaunded the pledges that wer in the castel to be deliuered vnto him.

Then came Jonathan to Jerusalem, and red the letters in the audyence of all the people, and of them that were in the castel. And therefore wer they soze afrayed, because they heard that the kyng had geuen hym licence to gather an hoste. Thus were the pledges deliuered vnto Jonathan, whiche restored them to their eldes.
Jonathan also dwelt at Jerusalem, and began to build vp, and to repayre the cyte: commaundyng the wyche men to wall it, and the monnte Syon rounde aboute with free stone, to be a stronge holde, and so they dyd. As for the heathen that were in the castelles whiche Bachydes had made vp, they fledde: so that euery man left the place, and wente into hys owne coun-tre. Only at Bethsura remayned certayne of the Jewes, whiche had forsaken the lawe and commaundementes of God, for Bethsura was theyr refuge.

Nowe when kyng Alexander hearde of the promises that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathan, and when it was tolde hym of the battayles and noble actes, whiche he and his brethren had done, and of the great traualles that they had taken, he sayed: where shall we fynde suche a man? Well, we wyl make him our frend and be confederate with hym. Upon thys he wrote a letter vnto hym, with these wordes: Kyng Alexander saluteth hys brother Jona-thas. We haue heard of the, that thou art a valeunte man, and mete to be our frende: wherefore, this daye we ordayne the to be the chyefe este of the people, and to be called the kynges frende. Upon thys, he sente hym a purple clothyng, and a crowne of golde: that thou mayest consider what is for oure profyte, and kepe frendshyppe toward vs.

The firste booke

So in the vii. moneth of the C. and ix. yere vnto the solempne feast day of the tabernacles Jonathas put his holy raiment vpon hym. The gathered he an host, & made many weapons.
Which when Demetrius heard, he was maruelous soze, and sayed: Alas, what haue we done that Alexander hath persecuted vs in getting the frendship of the Jewes for his owne defence.

Yet wyl I wylle louyngly vnto them also, ye, and promise them bygynners and rewar-des, that they may be of my lyde. Whereupon he wrote vnto them these wordes. King Demetrius sendeth greetynge vnto y<sup>e</sup> people of the Jewes Wher as ye haue kept your conuauent towarde vs, and continued in oure frendshipp, not enuy-nyng to our euemyes, we were glad, when we hearde thereof. Wherfore, remaine still, and be faithful to vs: and we shal wel recompense you for the thynges that ye haue done on our party.
We shal release you of many charges, and geue you rewardes. And nowe I discharge you and all the Jewes from tributes: I for geue you the customes of salte, and release you of the crowne taxes, of the third part of the lede, and halfe of the frute of trees which is myne owne dewtye.
This I leaue for you frome this daye forth, so that they shal not be taken of the land of Iuda, nor of the cities whych are added therunto out of Samaria and Galilee, from this daye forth for evermore. Jerusalem also with all thynges belongynge thereto, shal be holpe and free, yee, the ritches and tributes shal pertain vnto you. As for the power of the castell which is at Jerusalem, I remyt and geue it vnto the priest that he may let in such men, as he shal chuse to kepe it. I frely deliuer all the Jewes that are prysoners throughout all my realme, so that euery one of them shal be free from payng any trybu-te, yee, euen of theyr cattell. At the solempne fea-stes, sabbathes, new mones, the dayes appointed the iii. dayes before and after the feast, shal be free for all the Jewes in my realme, so that in them no man shal haue power to do any thyng or to moue any busines agaynst any of them in any manner of cause. Ther shall xxx. M. also of the Jewes be written vp in the kynges booke, and haue their wages paid as al other me of warre of the kynges would haue, & of them shal be ordained certein to kepe the kynges strong holdes yee, and some of them shal be let oure the highe-busines, that they may saye fullie deale with the same. The Jewes also shal haue princes of their owne, & walk in their owne lawes as the kyng hath commaunded in the lande of Iuda.

And the thre cities that are fallen vnto Jewry frome the countre of Samaria and Galilee, shal be take as Jewry, and be vnder one: neether be subject to any strange Loyde, but to the hye priest. As for Ptolomais and the lande pertyning thereto, I geue it vnto the sanctuary at Jerusalem, for the necessary expences of the holpe thynges. Wherefore, I wyl geue euery yere xv.
M. sicles of syluer oute of the kynges cheker (which pertyneth vnto me) to the woche of the temple: yee, & loke what remaineth, which they that had our matters in hande in tymes past haue not payed,) the same shal they ge-ue vnto them also. And besides all this, the foure thousande sicles whych they tooke pety-ly of the rentes of the sanctuary, shal belong vnto the priestes that do scrvice.

Item whosoever they be that her vnto the temple at Jerusalem or wythin the lybertyes therof, wher as they are fallen into the kynges daunger for any manner of busynes, they shal be pardoned, and all the goodes that they haue in my realme shal be free. For the buydynge also and repayynge of the woche of the sanctuary, expences shal be geuen oute of the kynges checker: Yee, and for the maynynge of the wal-les rounde aboute Jerusalem, for the breaking downe of the olde and for the setting vp of the strong holdes in Jewry, shall the costes and charges be geuen oute of the kynges cheker.

* But when Jonathas and the people heard these wordes, they gaue no credence vnto them neether receiued them: for they remembred the greate wychednes that he had done vnto Israell, and howe soze he had vexed them. Wherefore, they agreed vnto Alexander, for he was a prince that had deale frendlye with them, & so they stode by hym alwaye. * Then gathered kyng Alexander a greate host, & brought his armye agaynst Demetrius. So the two kynges strooke battayle together, but Demetrius tooke the better, and Alexander followed after, and fell vpon them. A myghtie sooze ferde was it, continuing tyl the sunne went downe and Demetrius was slayne the same daye.

And Alexander sente Ambassyours vnto Ptolomy the kyng of Egypte with these wodes, sayng: For so muche as I am come agayn to my realme, and am sette in the thron of my progenytours, and haue gotten the domynyon ouercommed Demetrius, conquered the lande and wythen ferde with hym, so that we haue discomfited booth hym and his host, and byt in the thron of his kyngdome: Let vs nowe make frendshipp together, geue me thy daughter to wife, so that I be thy sonne in lawe, and both geue the rewardes, and her greate dignite. Ptolomy the kyng gaue answer, sayng: It shal be the daye wherein thou art agayne vnto the lande of thy progenytours, and sit in the thron of thy kyngdome. And nowe wyl I ful-fyll the wytyng: but make me at Ptolomais that we maye be one another, and that I maye marry my daughter vnto the: accordyng to thy desyre. So Ptolomy went out of Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolomais in the hundred. lxxi. yere, wher kyng Alexander mette hym, and he gaue Alexander his daughter Cleopatra, and married them at Ptolomais with greate magnyfyce, lyke as the manner of kynges is to be. Then wote kyng Alexander vnto Jonathas, that he shoulde come and mette hym. So he wrote honurable vnto Ptolomais, and there he met the two kynges, and gaue them greate quantites of golde and syluer, and founde fauour in theyr synner. And

there came together agaynst Jonathas certain wycked men and vngacious personnes of Isea all, making complayntes of him, but the kyng regarded them not. As for Jonathas, the kyng commaunded to take of hys garmentes, and to clothe hym in purple, and so thei dyd. Then the kyng appoynted hym to spt by hym, and sayed vnto his bynnes: Go with hym into the myd-dest of the cyter, and make a proclamation, that no man complain agaynst him of any matter that no man trouble him for any maner of cause.

So it happened, that wher his accusers sawe the worshippe whiche was proclaimed of him and that he was clothed in purple, they fled enerychon. And the kyng made much of hym, wot hym amonge hys cheefe frendes, made hym a duke, and partaker of hys domynyon. Thus Jonathas wente agayne to Jerusalem wyth peace and gladnes. In the hundred thre scoze hys pere came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius from Creta into his fathers lande: wher-of when Alexander heard tell, he was ryght sory, and returned vnto Antioch. And Demetrius chose Appolonius, (whiche had the gouernaunce of Celociria) to be hys capitayne.

So he gathered a greate host, and came vnto Jamnia, and sent worde vnto Jonathas the hye preeft, sayng: Darest thou wythstande vs thy selfe aloner? As for me I am but laughed to scorne and shamed, because thou prouedest thy strength agaynst vs in the mountaines. Now therfore if thou trustest in thyn owne strengthe, come dothine to vs into the playne felde, and there let vs proue oure strength together thou walte fynde that I haue valeaunte menne of warre wyth me, and walte knowe whome I am, and the order that stande by me.

Whiche saye: that your foote is not able to stande before our face, for thy fathers haue ben twayled into theyr owne lande. And now howe wyte thou be able to abyde so greate an host of horsemen & footemen in the felde where as is neither rocke, stone, nor place to flee vnto.

When Jonathas hearde the wordes of Ap-pollonius, he was moued in his mynd: wherefore he chose ten thousand men, and went out of Jerusalem, and Simon his brother met hym for to helpe hym. And they pitched theyr tentes at Joppa, but the citee kepte hym forth, for Joppa was an hold of Appollonius then Jonathas layed siegeto it, and thei that were in the citee, for very feare let hym in, and so Jonathas wan Joppa. Appollonius hearyng of this, toke iii thousand horsemen, wyth a great host of fote and wente as though he would go to Azotus and came immediately into the playne felde: because he had so manye horsemen, and putte his trust in them. So Jonathas soloed vpon hym to Azotus, and there they stroke the battayle.
Some had Appollonius left a thousand horse men behynde them pseynt in the tentes. And when Jonathas knewe that suche wayte was layed behynde them they wente rounde aboute the enemyes host, and shot barres at the people frome the maynyng to the enemyng. As for Jo-natthas people, they kepte theyr order as he had commaunded them, and the enemyes horse were euer labouryng. Then brought Symon forth hys host, and let them agaynst the fote men, for the horsemen were very al redy. So he discomfited them, and they fled. And they that were scattered in the felde, gat them to Azotus, and came into the temple of Wags their ydol, that thei might ther saue their liues. But Jonathas set fyre vpon Azotus and all the cy-tees rounde aboute it, and tooke theyr goodes and brente vp the temple of Wagon, wyth all them that were fled into it.

Thus were slayne and brente twelue myght thousand men. So Jonathas remoued the host frome thence, and broughte theym to Ascalon: where the men of the cyter came forth, and met hym wyth great worshippe. After this went Jonathas and his host agayne to Jerusalem, wyth great substaunce of good. And when king Alexander hearde these thynges, he thought to do Jonathas more worshippe and sente hym a collar of golde, as the vse is to be geuen vnto such as are of the kynges nexte blood. He gaue hym also the cyter of Accaron, with the landes belongyng thereto in possession.

The. xi. Chapter.

The defence on betwixt Demetrius and Alexander hys sonne in lawe. The death of Alexander. Demetrius reigneth after the death of Demetrius. Upon is begyn of Jonathas. Demetrius saying that noman refused hym, sendeth hys army agayne. Celphon meteth Antiochus agaynst Demetrius. Demetrius is helped by the favour of Jonathas. After hys helpes he breaketh hys covenants that he had made.

And the kyng of Egypte gathered an hoste (lyke the lande that lyeth vpon the sea coaste) and many ships and went about through byscrept to obteyne the kyngdom of Alexander, & to soyne it vnto hys owne realme. Upon this he tooke his iourney into Siria, and was let into the cytees, and men came forth to mete hym: for king Alexander had commaunded the so to do, because he was his father in law. Now when Demetrius entered into anye citee, he leste me of warre to hepe it, and this dyd he throughout all the citers. And when he came to Azotus & they shewed hym the temple of Wagon and Azotus that was brent vp, with the other thin-ges whiche were destroyed, the deade bodies cast abod, and the graues that they had made by the waie syde, for such as were slaine in the felde. And tolde the kyng that Jonathas had done all these thynges, to the intent thei myght get hym euell wyll. But the kyng sayde not a worde thereto. And Jonathas mette the kyng wyth great honoure at Joppa, where they saluted one another, and toke theyr rest. So wher Jonathas had gaue wyth the kyng vnto the water that was called Cleutherus he turned a gayne to Jerusalem.

Nowe Demetrius had gotten the domynyon of the citers vnto Cilicia vpon the sea coaste, ymagynyng wycked counceils agaynst Alexander, and sent ambassadours vnto Demetrius, sayng: Come let vs make a bond betwixt vs
h. ii. iii. to

to whal I geue the my daughter that Alexander hath, and thou shalt reigne in thy fathers king dome. I repect that I geue Alexander my daughter, for he goeth about to slay me. And thus he flattered Alexander, because he would haue had his realme.

Thus he toke his daughter from hym, gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsook Alexander, so that his malice was openly knowne. And Ptolomy came to Antioch, where he set two crownes vpon his owne head: the crowne of Egypt and of Asia. In the meane season was kynge Alexander in Sicilia, for they that dwelt in those places, had rebelled agaynst hym. But when Alexander hearde of this, he came to warre agaynst hym. So king Ptolomy brought forth his host and met hym with a myghtie power and chased hym awaye. The fled Alexander into Teaby, ther to be defended, and kynge Ptolomys honour increased. And iabdiel the Arabian smote of Alexanders head, and sent it vnto Ptolomy. But the thyrde daye after, dyed kynge Ptolomy hym selfe: and they whome he had let in the strong holdes, wer slayne of those that were within the cyties. And Demetrius reigned in the hundred and seuen & sixtie yeare.

At the same tyme gathered Jonathan then that were in Jewry, to lay siege vnto the castell C whiche was at Ierusalem, and so they made many instrumentes of warre against it. Then went there certayne vngodly persons (whych hated theyr owne people) vnto kynge Demetrius: & told hym that Jonathan besieged the castell. So wher he heard it, he was angry, and ymmediately came vnto Ptolomais, and wrote vnto Jonathan, that he shoulde lay no siege to the castell but come and speake with hym in all the haste. And wher he lesse when Jonathan hearde this, he commaunded to beseye it. He chose also certayne of the elders and prestes of Israel, and put him selfe in the parrell, and toke with hym gold spuer, clothynge, & diuerse prestes, & went to Ptolomais vnto the king, and found him gracious. And though certayne vngodly men of his owne people made complayntes vpon hym, yet the kynge entreated hym as his predecessours had done before: and promoted hym in the syght of all his frendes: confirmed hym in the hys prest hood with all the worship that he had afore, and made hym his chiefe friend. Jonathan also beseyed the kynge, that he would make Jewry free with the thre head cities of Samaria and the landes pertainyng thereto: vpon this dyd Jonathan promysse hym. iii. C. talentes. And hereunto the kynge consented, and gaue Jonathan writing of the same, containing these wordes: Kynge Demetrius sendeth greeting vnto his brother Jonathan and to the people of the Jewes. We send you here a copie of the letter which we did write vnto our elder Lathmus, concerning you, that ye shoulde knowe it.

D King Demetrius sendeth greeting vnto Lathmus his elder. For the saythfulness that our frendes the people of the Jewes kepe vnto vs, and for the lowng kindness which they bear to warden vs: we are determined to do them good. Therefore, we ordaine al the coastes of Jewry with. iii. cities, Libda, and Ramatha, (whych are added vnto Jewry from Samaria) and al the landes pertainyng therunto, to be frely separated for such as do sacryfice in Ierusalem: bothe concerning the paymentes which the king toke perely also, and the frutes also of the earth and trees. As for other tythes and tributes that belongeth vnto vs, we discharge them therof from this tyme forth. In like maner we graunt vnto them all the customes of salte and cronne taxes, whiche were brought vnto vs. And this freedom shal they haue firme and sted fast, from this tyme forth for euermoze. Therefore let that ye make a copy of these our letters and deliuer it vnto Jonathan: that it maye be kept vpon a holy mount in a conuenient place.

After this when Demetrius the kynge sawe that his lande was in easse, and that no resistance was made hym: he sent awaye all his host, euery man to his owne place, excepte an army of straungers, whom he broughte frome the illes of the heathen, wherfore all his fathers host had euell will at hym. * Nowe was there one Triphon (that had ben of Alexanders part afore) whych when he sawe that all the host murmured agaynst Demetrius he wente to Elnacnel the Arabian (that brought vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander) and laye fore vpon hym, to deliuer hym this young Antiochus: that he myght reygne in his fathers stead. He told hym also, what greates euell Demetrius had done, and how his men of warre loued him not and so remayned there a longe season.

And Jonathan sent vnto kynge Demetrius to dyue them out whych were in the castell at Ierusalem, and in the other refuges for they dyd Israel great harme. So Demetrius sent word vnto Jonathan, sayng: I wyll not onely dooe these thynges for the and thy people, but at tyme conuenient I wyll do both the and thy people great good. But nowe thou shalt do me a pleasure, if thou wylt sende me men to helpe me: for all myne army is gone frome me. So Jonathan sent hym. iii. M. stronge men vnto Antioche, and they came vnto the kynge: wherfore the kynge was verie glad at theyr commynge. But then that wer of the cytee (euen an. C. and xx. M. men) gathered them together: and would haue slayne the kynge, whiche fledde into his courtte, and the citezens kepte the stretes of the cytee, and beganne to fyghte.

Then the kynge called for the Jewes helpe, which came to him altogether, and were abode through the citee, & slew the same day an. C. M. men set fyre vpon the citee, gat many spoiles in that day, & deliuered the king. So when the cytezens sawe that the Jewes had gotten theyr wyl of the citee, & that theyr selues disappointed of theyr purpose, they made their supplication vnto the kynge, sayng: Graunt vs peace, & let the Jewes cease from troubling vs & the citee, & vpon this they cast awaye their weapons. Thus they made peace, and the Jewes gat great worship in the lyght of the kyng, and in the syght of al þe were in hys realme, and were spoken of throughtout the kyngdome, and so they came agayne to Jerusalem wyth grete goodes.

So the kyng Demetrius sat in the thron of hys kyngdom, and had peace in hys lande. Nevertheless, he dissembled in al that ever he spak and wythþewe hym selfe frome Jonathas, ne ther rewarded hym accordyng to the benefytes whiche he had done for hym, but troubled him verye soze. After this came Triphon agayne wyth younge Antiochus, whiche reigned and was crowned kyng. Then there gathered vnto hym all the men of warre, whome Demetrius had putte awaye: these foughte against Demetrius whiche fledde and turned hys backe. So Triphon toke the Elephantes, and wanne Antioche. And younge Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathas, sayng: I confyrme the in thy pfectiō and make the ruler of four countreys, that thou mayest be a frende of the kynges.

Upon this he sent hym golden vessels to be serued in, and gaue hym leane to dynk in gold to be clothed in purple, and to weare a colar of golde. He made hys brother Symon also cappytaine, frome the coastes of Cyrus vnto the borders of Egypte. Then Jonathas toke his iourney, and wente through the cittyes beyonde the water of Iordane, and all the men of warre of Syria gathered vnto him for to help him. So he came vnto Ascalon, and they of the citee receiued hym honourably, and from thence went he vnto Gaza, but they would not let hym in: wherfoze he layd siege vnto it, burnyng vp and spoilyng the places that were aboute the citee.

And the cittyzens of Gaza submytted theim selues vnto Jonathas, which made peace with them, but tooke of their sonnes to pledge, sente them to Jerusalem, and went through the countree vnto Damascus. Nowe when Jonathas heard that Demetrius pynners were come in to Cades (whiche is in Galilee) wyth a great host, purposyng to put Demetrius oute from medlyn in the realme, he came agaynst them, and left Symon his brother in the land which came to Bethsura, and layd siege to it a long season, and dyscomfyred them. So thei desired to haue peace wyth hym, whiche he graunted them, and afterwarde putte theim oute frome thence, toke the citee and set men to kepe it. And Jonathas wyth hys hoste came to the water of Genesar, and betymes in the moynyng gat them to the playne felde of Azot.

And beholde the hostes of the heathen met them in the felde, and layd watche for them in the mountaynes: so that when Jonathas came agaynst them, the other (whiche were layd to watch) rose out of theyr places and fought and they that were of Jonathas syde, fledde euery man, and there was not one of them left except Nathathias the sonne of Absolomus and Iudas the sonne of Calphyr the cappytaine of the host. Then Jonathas rente hys clothes, layd earth vpon his heade: made hys prayer and turned agayne to theim in the felde, where they fought together, and put them to flight. Now when hys owne men, that were fledde wyth theys they turned agayne vnto hym and helped hym to folowe vpon all theyr enemyes vnto thei tentes at Cades. So there were slayne of the heathen the same daye thier thousande men, and Jonathas turned agayne to Jerusalem.

The xii. Chapter.

Jonathas secretly ambassadours to Rome and to the people of Sparta to renewe theyr conuynent of frendshipp. Jonathas purpōse to fflyght the pynners of Demetrius. Triphon taketh Iona than by surpryse.

Jonathas saynge that the tyme was mete for hym, chose certayne men and sente them vnto Rome for to stablish and to renewe the frendshyppe wyth them. He sente letters also vnto Sparta and to other places in lyke maner. So they wente vnto Rome, and entred into the counsaile, and sayde Jonathas the hye pfecte and the people of the Jewes sente vs vnto you, for to renewe the olde frendshyppe and bonde of loue. Upon this the Romaynes gaue them fre passpoites, that men should lede them home into the lande of Iuda peaciably. And this is the cōpy of the letters þe Jonathas wrote vnto the Spartians.

Jonathas the hye pfecte with the elders, pfectes and the other people of the Jewes, send gretyng vnto the Spartians their bretheren. Ther were letters sent long ago vnto Onias the hye pfecte, from Irlus, which than reigned among you, that ye are oure bretheren, as the outpyng made thcreupon specyfeth. And Onias entreated the ambassadour that was sente, honourably, and receiued the letters: wherin ther was mencyon made of the bonde of loue and frendshyppe. But as for vs, we nede no suche wrytinges: for why we haue the holy booke of scripture in our handes to our comfort. Nevertheless we had rather send vnto you, for the renewyng of the brotherhode and frendshyppe: lest we shoulde be straunge vnto you: for it is long sence the tyme that yelent woode vnto vs. Wherfoze, in þe sacrifices that we offer and other ceremonies vpon the hye solempne dayes and other, we alway remember you without fealing (like as reason is, as it becometh vs to thinke vpon our bretheren) yee, & are right glad of your spouspous honour. And though we haue had greete troubles and warres, so that the kynges about vs haue fought agaynst vs: yet would we not be greuous vnto you, nor to other of our louers, & frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe from heauen, so that we are deliuered, and our enemyes subdued. Wherfoze we chose Eumenys the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Jason, and sent them vnto the Romaynes, for to renewe the olde bonde of frendshyppe and loue wyth them. We commaunded theim also to come vnto you, and to salute you, and to deliuer you our letters, concernyng the renouacyon of our brotherhode. And now ye shall do righte well to geue vs an answer thcrunto.

And this is the cōpy of the wrytyng, whiche Arius the kyng of Sparta sente vnto Onias. Arius the kyng of the Spartians sendeth gretynges tyng vnto. And the hye priest. It is found in wrytyng, that the prophetes and Jewes are byrthen, and come out of the generation of Abraham. And now forsomuch as this is come to our knowledge, ye shal do well, to wryte vnto vs of your prosperite. As for vs, we haue wryten our mynd vnto you. Our catel & good des are pourses, and pourses ours. These thinges haue we commanded to bee shewed vnto you.

Whē Jonathan hard, that Demetrius piti-ers wer come forth to fyght agaynst him, with a greater host then afore, he went from Jerusalem, and met them in the land of Symath, for he gaue them not space to come into his owne countre. And he sente spyes vnto thei tentes which came agayn and told hym, that thei wer apoynted to come vpon hym in the nyght season. Wherefore, whē the sunne was gone downe Jonathan commaunded his men to watche all the nyght, and to be readye wth weapons for to fyght and sent watchmen round aboute the hooste. But when the aduersaries hearde that Jonathan was ready with his men to the battaye, they feared, and wer afrayed in their her-tes, and kindled fyres in their tentes, brake vp and gat them awaye. Neerthelesse, Jonathan and his companie knewe it not tyll the mornyng, for they sawe the fyres burnyng.

Then Jonathan solo wed vpon theym, but he might not ouertake them, for they wer gone ouer the water Eleutherus. So Jonathan departed vnto the Treabians (whiche wer called Zabadei) & he theym, and tooke they goodes.
He pceded furth also, & came vnto Dama-tus, and went thyngh al the countre. But Symon his brother toke his iourney and came to Ascalon and to the nexte strong holdes, departyng vnto Joppa: and dwanne it. For he harde that thei woulde stande of Demetrius parte, wherefore he set menne of warre in the cytre, to kepe it. After this came Jonathan home again and called the elders of the people together and deuyded wth them for to buyld vp the strong holdes in Jewry, and the walles of Jerusalem to set vp an hye wall betwyxe the castell and the cleer, for to seuerate it frome the cytre, that it myght be alone and that men woulde nether by nor sell in it. Upon this they came together for to buyld vp the cytre, and for so muche as the wal vpon the broke of the west syde (called Capbetath) was fallen downe, thei repayded it.

And Symon set vp Adiabab in Sephelah and made it strong setting portes and loches vpon it. Some when* Tryphon purposed to reigne in Asia, to be crowned, and to slay the kynge An-tiochus: he was afrayed that Jonathan would not suffer hym, but fyght agaynst hym. Wherefore, he wente aboute to take Jonathan and to kyl him. So he departed, and came vnto Beth-san. Then went Jonathan forth agaynst hym: to the battaye with xi. thousand men, & came vnto Bethsan also. But when Tryphon sawe that Jonathan came wth so great host to be-strop hym, he was afrayed: and therefore he receued hym honorably, commaunded hym vnto al his frendes, and gaue him rewarde, and commaunded his men of warre to be as obedyent vnto hym as to hym selfe. And sayed vnto Jonathan: why haste thou caused this people to take suche trouble, sayng there is no warre betwixt vs? Therfore send them home agayne, and chuse certayne men to waite vpon the, and come thou wth me to Ptolomais: for I wyl grace it the, wth the other strong holdes, men of warre and their offcers: As for me I muste depart, this is only the cause of my commyng.

Jonathan beleued hym, and byd as he sayed, puttyng awaye his hooste, whiche wente into the lande of Iuda. He kepte but three thousande by hym, whereof he sent two thousand into Ga-lyle, and one thousande wente wth hym selfe.

Nowe as soon as Jonathan entered into Ptolomais, the cytreins spared the gates of the cytre, and toke hym, & slewe al them wth the sweard, that came in wth hym. The sent Tryphon an host of foremen and boismen into Galylee and into the great playne, to destroy Jonathan company. But whē they knewe that Jonathan was taken, and al they layne that waityed vpon hym, they toke counsaile together, & came forth rebv to the battayl. So when they which folowd vpon theym, sawe that it was a matter of lyfe, they turned backe agayn. As for the other they went into the land of Iuda praciably and bewapled Jonathan, and them that were with him right so. And Israel made great la-mentacion. Then al the heathen that wer rounde about them sought to destroye them. For they sayde: now we haue they no captayne, nor anye man to helpe them. Therfore, let vs overcome them, and rote out their name from among me.

The xi. Chapter.

After Jonathan was taken Symon is chosen captayne of iudea Tryphon takinge his chylde and manye for the redemption of Jonathan kyleth hym and his chylde. The grace of Jonathan. Tryphon hateth Antiochus, and possideth the countre. Demetrius taketh truce wth Symon. Symon iourneth wth vs possideth the countre of Asien, he maketh his sones Jhou captayn Nowe when Symon heard that Tryphon gathered a great host to come into the land of Iuda, and to destroy it: and sawe that the people was in greate fearefainesse and care: he came vp to Jerusalem, and gathered the people together, and gaue them exhortacion sayng: Ye know what greate battayles I and my brethren and my fathers house haue foughte for the lawe and the sanctuarie, and what maner of troubles we haue sene: thyngh occasion whereof, *all my brethren are slayne for Israels sake, and I am lefte alone. And nowe let me not spare myne owne lyfe in anye maner of trouble, for I am not better then my brethren: but wyl aduenge my people and the sanctuarie, oure chylde and oure wyues: for all the heathen are gattered together to destroy vs of very malice.

At these wordes the heartes of the people were kyndled together, so they cryed wth a loud voyce, sayng: Thou shalt be our captayn in steade of Iudas and Jonathan thy brethren ordie thou oure battayle, and whatsover thou commaundest vs, we shall do it. So he gathered all the men of warre, making hast to finish all the walles of Ierusalem, whyshe he made stronge rounde aboute. Then sent he Jonathas the sonne of Absalomes wyth a freche host. vnto Ioyppa, whiche dyone them oute that were in the castell, and remayned there hym selfe. Tryphon also remoned fro Babilonia with a great armye, to come into the lande of Iuda, and Jonathas wyth hym in warde. And Symon ppeched his tentes at Addus before the playne field.

But when Tryphon knewe that Symon rode vp in steade of his brother Jonathas, and that he wolde warre agaynst hym, he sent messengers vnto hym sayng: Where as we haue kepte Jonathas thy brother, it is for money & he is dwyng in the kynges accompt concerning the busynes that he had in hande. Wherfoze, sende nowe an hundred talentes of syluer, and his two sonnes for suretye, that when he is letten fozthe, he shall not forsake vs, and we shall sende hym again. Aeuerthelesse, Symon knew that he dissembled in his wordes, yet commaunded he the monney and chyldren to be deliuered vnto hym, lest he shulde be the greater enemye agaynst the people of Israel, and say: because he sent hym not the money & the chyldren, therefore is Jonathas dead.

So Symon sente hym the chyldren and an hundred talentes, but he dyssembled, and wolde not let Jonathas go. Afterward came Tryphon into the lande to destroye it, and wente rounde aboute by the waye, that leadeth vnto Adon. But where soeuer they went, thether went Symon and his hoste also. Nowe they that were in the castell sente messengers vnto Tryphon, that he shulde make haste to come by & wylbernes, and to sende them bytailes. And Tryphon made redye all his hostemen to come the same nyght. Aeuerthelesse it was a very great snow so that he came not in Galaditbi. And whē he dyewenye Baschamo, he slew Jonathas and his sonnes there, & then turned foz to goo home into his owne lande.

Then sent Symon to let his brothers dead corse, and buryed it in Modin his fathers cytie. So all Israel bewayled hym with great lamentacyon, and mourned foz hym very longe. And Symon made vpon the sepulchre of his father and his brethren, a buyldyng hys to looke vnto, of fre stone bepynd and before, and set vpon seuen pylers, one agaynst another (foz hys father, hys mother, & foure brethren) & set greates pylers rounde aboute wyth armes vpon them foz a perpetuall memoire, and carued wyppes bepyde the armes that they myght be sene of men sayyng in f. This sepulchre which he made at Modin, standeth yet vnto this day.

Nowe as Tryphon went foz to walke wyth the yong kyng Antiochus, he slew hym trayterously, and raygned in hys steade, crowning hym selfe kyng of Asia, and dyd much euil in the lande. Symon also buylde vp the castles in Jewye, making them stronge wyth hys to ers, great walles, portes, and locked, and layde by wyppes in the stronge holdes. And Symon chose certayne men, and sent them to kyng Demetrius, to deliuer hym, that he wold discharge the lande from all bondage, foz Tryphon had spoyled it very soze. Wherupon Demetrius & kyng and deere hym, and wrote vnto hym after this maner.

Demetrius the kyng sendeth gretyng vnto Symon the hys pleasure his frende, wyth the elders & people of the Jewes. The golde crowne and precyous stone that ye sente vnto vs, haue we receyued, and are ready to make a fre faste peace wyth you: per, and lo wyte vnto our officers, foz to releas you, concerning the thynge & wherewith we made you fre, and the appointment & we make wyth you, shalbe syme & stable. The stronge holdes which ye haue buylded shalbe youre owne. As foz anye ouer syghte of lause comyted vnto this daye, we forgue it and the crowne tax that ye ought vs also. And wher as was any other trybute in Ierusalem it shalbe nowe no trybute: & loke who are mete among you to be in our court, let them be wyrtten vp, that there maye be peace betwyte vs.

Thus the yoke of the heathen was taken frome Israel in the hundredth and seuententh yere. And the people of the Jewes beganne to wyte in they letters and actes on this maner. * In the fyfthe yere of Symon the hys pleasure, 1. mac. xii. and pynce of the Jewes.

In those dayes wente Symon vnto Gaza and besegged it rounde aboute, where he set vpon dynaue of war. And wanne a towre, which he toke. So they gat into the towre, leape into f. cytie, which was in a great feare: In so much that the people of the cytie rente they clothes, and clymed vpon the walles wyth they wyues, and chyldren, besechynge Symon to be at one wyth them, sayng.

O rewarde vs not after oure wyckednesse but be gracious vnto vs, and we shal do the seruice. Then Symon sayd very pitye wolde fyghe nomoze agaynst them, but put them oute of the cytie, and caused the houses (wherin f. images were) to be clenched, and so entred the cytie wyth psalmes of prays, geuyng thanks vnto the Lozde. So when he had cast all abhominacyon oute of the cytie, he set suche men in it as kept f. lawe of God and made the cytie stronge & buylde a dwellyng place foz hym selfe.

Nowe, when they in the castell at Ierusalem were kepte so straitely, & they coulde not come fozthe into the countrie, and myght nether hys nor sell, they were very hungrye, and many of them famyshed to death: In so muche that they besought Symon to be at one wyth them, which he graunted them. So he put them oute from thence, and clenched the castell from f. synnesse. And vpon the thye and thientye daye of the seconde moneth in the. Cxxi. yere they entred in to it wyth thankesgraynge and bryanches of Balme trees, with harpes, Crowdes, Symballes, and lutes, syngyng psalmes and songes of prays vnto God, foz that the greates enemye of hys Israel

Israel was overcome.

And Symon obeyed that the same daye shoulde be kepte euerie yere in gladnesse, & made strong the hyll of the Temple that was besyde the castell, where he dwelte hym selfe with hys compaignes. Symon also perceyvinge that John hys sonne was a myghty man of armes made hym Captayn of all the hostes, and caused hym to dwell at Gaza.

The xiiii. Chapter.

Demetrius is crowned of Antioch. Symon beinge captayne sheweth great quietnes in Israel. The continuance of frendshipp betwixt the Romans, & betwixt the people of Sparta in Jerusalem.

In the xliiii. yere gathered kynge Demetrius hys hoste, and departed vnto Media, to gett him helpe for to fighte agaynst Tryphon. Nowe when Isidore the kynge of Persia & Ordes hearde, that Demetrius was entred in his borders he sent one of his princes to take hym alyue: and to bringe hym vnto hym. So he went & slew: Demetrius hoste, toke hym selfe broughte hym to Isidore whiche kepte hym inward. And all the lande of Iuda was in rest so longe as Symon lyued, for he soughte & weith of hys people, therfore, were they glad to haue him for their ruler, & to do him worship alway.

Symon wanne the cite of Joppa also for an haven toun, and made it an entrance into the fies of the see. He enlarged the borders of hys people, and conquered them more land. He gathered vnto many of the people & were prisoners: he had & dominyon of Gaza, Bethlura and the castell, which he clenched from spylthines and there was noman that resysted hym. So & euerie man tilled hys ground in peace, the land of Iuda, and the trees gaue they fruite and increase. The elders sat all in iudgement & toke they deuyce for the weith of the lande, & ponge men put on worship & danielles vpon them. He prouyded bytayles for the cyties, & made good lye stronge holdes of them, so & the same of hys worshippe was spoken of vnto the ende of the worlde. For he made peace thowout the lande, & Israel was full of mych and loye.

Euerie man sat vnder hys vyne and figge trees, and ther was noman to fray them a way. There was none in the lande to fyghte agaynst them, for then the kynge were overcome. He helped those & wer in aduersyte among his people, he was diligent to se the lawe kepte, as for such as were vngodly & wyched he toke them awaye. He set vnto the sanctuary, and increased the holie vessels of the Temple.

When the Romans & the Spertians had gotten word, & Jonathan was dead they were ryght soye. But when they hearde & Symon hys brother was made hys weith in his strede & howe he had wonne the lande agayne with the cyties wit: they wrote vnto hym in tables of byasse, turninge the frendshipp, & bonde of lons which they had made afore with Judas & Jonathan his brethren. Whiche writinges were red before the congregacion at Jerusalem.

And this is the coppye of the letters that the Spertians sent. The Senators & cytyzens of Sparta sende greetynge vnto Symon the great Dredde, with the elders, Drestes, & the other people of & Jewes they brethren. When your ambassidours that were sente vnto our people certified vs of poure woorthynesse, honour & pious perons weith, we were glad of they comming and haue witten the errand which they spake before the consail of & people, namely & Rumenius & some of Antiochus, & Antipater & sonne of Jalon the Jewes ambassidours are come vnto vs, for to renue the olde frendshipp with vs. Upon this the people consented, & the men shoulde be honourably intreated, & that the copy of they errande shoulde be wrytten in & special booke of the people, for a perpetual memoire vnto the Spertians: yee, & that we shoulde send a copy of the same vnto Symon the great priest. After this dyd Symon sende Rumenius vnto Rome, w a golden shylde of a thousand pound weyght, to confyrme the frendshipp with them: which when & Romans vnderstode, they sayde what thanckes shall we recompence agayn vnto Symon and his chyldren? For he hath stablyshed his hys thien, & overcome the enemyes of Israel. Wherfore they graunted hym to bee free. And all this wrote the Jewes in tables of byasse, & nailed it vnto & pylers vpon & mount Syon. The copy of the wrytynge is this.

The cytyes & twentye daye of the monethe * Elul in the hundred. lxxii. yere, in the thyrtye yere of Symon the hys Dredde, in the greete congregacion of the priestes, rulers of & people and elders of & countre at Asarame, wer these wordes openly declared.

For somuch as there was muche warre in our land, therfore Symon & sonne of Machabias (come of & chyldren of Jacob) and his brethren put them selues in parel, & resysted & enemyes of the people: & they sanctuarye and lawe might be mayntayned, & dyd they people greete worshippe: Jonathan in like maner, after & he had gouerned his people & ben their hys priest: dyed, & lyeth buried besyde hys elders.

After & woulde they enemyes haue troden they holy thynges vnder soote, destroyed the lande, & utterly wasted their sanctuary: The Symon withstode them, & foughte for his people, spent muche of his owne monye, weapened the valeaunt men of his people, gaue them wages, made strong the cities of Iuda, with Bethlura & lyeth vpon the borders of Jewry (wher the ordynance of they enemyes laye somtyme) and set the Jewes there for to kepe it.

He made fast Joppa also, which lyeth vpon & sea, & Gaza & boundeth vnto Aiotus, (where the enemyes dwelt afore) and there he set Jewes to kepe it: & whatsoeuer was mete for & subduynge of the aduersaries, & layd he therein. Nowe wher the people sawe the noble actes of Symon, and what worshippe he was purposed to do for them his godly behauiour, & faithfulness which he kepte vnto them, & howe he soughte by alwayes the weith of hys people, because he dyd all theys thynges they chose hym to be they prince, & hys meast. And in his tyme they prospered well by hym, so þe heathen were taken out of the land: & they also which were in the cite of Ierusalem in the castle where they went out and despoiled all thynges that were about þe Sanctuary, and dyd great harme vnto clenynesse, and Symon put men of the Jewes in it, for the defence of the lande and cite, and set by the walles of Ierusalem.

And kynge Demetrius conspyred hym in hys hye preasthode, made hym his frende, & dyd hym great worlde. For he heard that the Romans called the Jewes thyr frendes, loners & brethren, howe honourably they receyued Symon ambassadours: how the Jewes and preastres consented that he shuld be thyr prince and hye preast perpetually (till God rapled up þe true prophet) & that he shuld be thyr captayn to care for the Sanctuary, & to set officers vpon the workes therof, ouer the lande, ouer the weapons, ouer the houses of defence, to make prouision for the holy thynges, & to be obeyed of euery man, & all the wyspings of the lande to be made in hys name: þe shuld be clothed in purple & golde, and sit shuld be lawfull for none of the people nor preastes to bryake any of these thynges, to withstande hys wordes, nor to call any congregacyon in the lande without hym, that he shuld be clothed in purple, and weare a colar of golde. And yf there were anye whiche dysobeyed or bryake thys ordynance þe shuld be punysshed.

So all the people consented to allowe Symon and to do accordyng vnto these wordes: Symon also hym selfe toke vpon hym, & was contente to bee the hye preaste, the captayne, and pryncer of the Jewes and preastres, & to gouerne them all. And they commaunded to make this wyrtynge in tables of brasse, and fasten it to the compass of the Sanctuary in an open place, & laye vpon a cove of the same in the treasure, that Symon and his posterite myght haue it.

¶ Antiochus made a covenant of frendshipp with Symon & Crispion is persecuted. The Romans sent letters vnto Symon and Crispion in the defence of the Jewes. Antiochus refusing the helpe that Symon sent hym, whereby his covenant.

Moreouer kynge Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sente letters from the Isles of the sea, vnto Symon þe hye preast and pryncer of the Jewes, and to all the people, containyng these wordes: Antiochus the kynge sendeth greetynge vnto Symon the hye preast, and to the people of the Jewes. For so much as certain wycked men haue gotten the kyngdome of our progenytours: I am purposed to chalenge the realme again, and to restore it to the olde estate.

Wherfore I haue gathered a greate hoste and made shippes of warre, that I may go the roade the country, & be aduenged of them whiche haue destroyed oure lande, & wasted manye cyties in my realme. And therfore, nowe I make the free also from all the tributes, wherof all kynge my progenytours haue discharged the and from other customes, wherfrom they haue released the: what so euer they be: per, I geue þe leaue to synke many of thine owne within thy lande. As for Ierusalem, I wyl that it be holy and free: and all the weapons and houses of defence, which thou haste buylded, and kepeste in thine handes, shalbe thine. Wher as any thing is of shalbe owynge vnto the kynge, I forgeue it the, from this tyme forth for euermore. And when we haue obteyned our kyngdome, we shal do the, thy people, & the temple greate worship so that your honour shalbe knowne thowoutoute the whole world.

In the thirtieth yere wente Antiochus into Syria his fathers lande, and all þe men of warre came together vnto hym, so that fewe were left with Crispion. So the kynge Antiochus folowed vpon him, but he fled vnto Doza, which lieth by the see syde: for he sawe that there was myscheif comyng vnto hym, and that his hoste had forsaken hym. Then came Antiochus vnto Doza with an. C. & twenty thousande men of armes vpon foot, & cyght thousande horsemen. So he compassed the cite rounde aboute, and the shippes came by the see. Thus they vered þe cite by lande and water, in so muche þe they sufferd nonian to go in or oute.

In the meane season came Numenius (and C. they that had bene with hym) from the cite of Rome, hauyng letters wyrtten vnto the kynge and prynces, wherby were containyd these wordes: Lucius the Mayre of Rome sendeth greetynge vnto Dozompe the kynge. The ambassadours of the Jewes oure frendes being sent from Symon the hye preast, and from the people of the Jewes, came vnto vs for to reuue the olde frendshipp and bond of loue, brought a shilde of golde weyng a thousande ponde, whiche we were contente to receyue of them. Wherfore we thoughte it good to wyrtte vnto the kynge & prynces, to bid them no harme nor to take parte agaynst them, thyr cyties, nor countreys, neyther to mayntayne thyr enemyes agaynst them. Yf there be any wycked persones therfore fled from thyr countrey vnto you, deliuer them vnto Symon þe hye preast that he maye punishe them accordyng to thyr owne lawe.

The same wordes wrote the Romans also vnto Demetrius the kynge, to Italus, Araba, Arfaces, and to all the regyons, as Samlana, to them of Sparta, Delo, Mido, Sidon, Caria, Samos, Pamphilia, Licia, Ilcaruallid and to the Rhodes, to Falsis, Coe, Sida, Araba, Gortina, Gnidi, to Cyprus, & Ciren. And of euery letter they sente a cove to Symon the hye preast and to the people of the Jewes. So Antiochus the kynge broughte hys hoste vnto Doza the second tyme to take it: where he made dyners ordynance of warre, and kepte Crispion in, that he shuld not come forth. Then let Symon to Antiochus two thousande chosen men to helpe hym with golde, spuer, and ocher plentous gere: Neuertheles, he wolde not receiue them, but bryake all þe couenaunt which he made w. Symon afore, & w. Jew himselfe fro hym he sente

He sent Ithenobius also a frende of his vnto Symon, for to reason wth hym, saying: Pe wythholde from me Joppa and Gaza, wth the castell that is at Jerusalem, whiche are cyties of my realme, whose borders ye haue destroyed and done greute euill in the lande, hauynge the dominacyon in many other places of my kyngdome. Wherfore nowe deliuer ye cyties whiche ye haue taken, wth the tributes of the places that ye haue rule vpon wythout the borders of Jewry. Or els geue me fyue hundred talentes of syluer, yee, & for the harme that ye haue done in the cyties, and for the tributes of the same other fyue hundred talentes. If no, we shal come and fyghte agaynst you.

En Ithenobius the kynges frende came to Jerusalem, and when he sawe the greute woorthynesse and honour of Symon in golde, syluer, and so great plenty of ornaments, he maruailed, and tolde Symon as the kyng commaunded hym: Then answered Symon & sayd vnto hym: * As for vs, we haue nether taken other mens landes, nor witholden them, but only our fathers heretage, whiche our enemyes had vnrightheously in possession on a certain tyme. This heretage of oure fathers haue we chalenged in processe of tyme. And where as thou complayned concerning Joppa & Gaza, they dyd greute harme to oure people and in our lande, yet wyl we geue an hundred talentes for them.

Reuerthelesse, Ithenobius answered hym not our woide, but turned agayne wth fulsome vnto the kyng and tolde hym al these wordes, & the greute bygynne of Symon, wth all that he had sene, and the kyng was very angry. In the meane tyme fled Tryphon by hyppie vnto Otholadia. Then the kyng made Cendebeus captayn of the see coast, & gaue hym an hoste of fote men & horsemen, commaunding hym to remoue the hoste toward Jewrye, and to buylde vp the cytie of Cedion, to make by the portes, and to warre agaynst the people of the Jewes. As for the kyng hym selfe: he folowed vpon Tryphon. So Cendebeus came vnto Jamnia, and began to herse the people, to treade downe Jewrye, to take the people prisoners, to slay them and to buylde vp Cedion, where he set horsemen and other men of warre: & they myght come to the and go thowoe the stretes of Jewry, yke as if the kyng had commaunded.

The cxi. Chapter.

Of Cendebeus the captayne of Antiochus hoste to fighte at the battell of Jerusalem. Wherbynto the kyng of Antiochus sent Symon and his two sonnes at a battell. John bylyth the that he receyved the hitte.

When came Ithon vnto Symon & Gaza and tolde Symon his father, what Cendebeus had done among theyr people. Vpon this called Symon two of his chylde sonnes, Judas & John and sayde vnto the: I and my brethren and my fathers house, haue euer from our yowthe vnto this daye foughten agaynst the enemyes of Israel, & God gaue vs good fortune to deliuer Israel of tyme. And now for so much as I am olde, be ye in stead of me & my brethren, to go forth and fyght for oure people and the helpe of God be wth you. So he chose twentye thousande fyghtyng men of the country wth horse men also, which went forth agaynst Cendebeus, and rested at Gadera.

In the morning they arose, and went in to the playne feilde: and behold a myghty great hoste came agaynst them both of fote men and horsemen. Howe was there a water brooke betwixt them, & John remoued the hoste towarde them. And when he sawe that the people was a fraied to go ouer the water brooke he went ouer hym selfe, & the men seeing this, folowed hym.

Then Ithon set his horsemen and fote men in order, the one by the other, for theyr enemyes horsemen were verie manye. But when they blew vp the p<sup>er</sup>fectes trompettes Cendebeus fled wth his hoste, wherof many were slayne, and the remnaunte gat them to theyr stronge holde. Judas also Johns brother was wounded at the same tyme. And Ithon folowed syl vpon the enemyes, tyl he came to Cedion, which he builded. The enemyes fled also vnto the towres that were in the feildes of Azotus, and thole did John burne vp. Thus were there slayne two thousande men of the, and Ithon turned agayne peacably to Jewrye.

And in the feilde of Jericho was Ptolomy the sonne of Abobus made captayn, which because he had aboundance of syluer and golde, (for he had maryed the daughter of Symon the hye p<sup>er</sup>fect) waxed proude in his mynde, and thought to conquere the lande, ymagyning falsed agaynst Symon and his sonnes to destruy them. Howe as Symon was goynge a boue thowoe the cyties, that were in the country of Jewrye, and carryng for them he came doun to Jericho wth Dathathias and Judas his sonnes, in the Elxviijth yere in the xi. moneth called Sabat. Then Ptolomy the sonne of Abobus receaued them (but wth disceate) into a strong house of his, called Doch, which he had buylde wher he made them a bancket.

So when Symon and his sonnes were merry and had dronken well, Ptolomy stode vp wth his men, whom he had byd there, and toke their weapons, entred into the bancket house, & slewe Symon wth his two sonnes, and certayne of his seruantes. Suche greute vnsaythfulnesse dyd Ptolomy in Israel, & recompened euill for good. Then wrote this Ptolomy the same vnto the kyng Antiochus, requyrynge hym that he shoulde lende hym an hoste to helpe hym: and so shoulde he deliuer hym the lande, wth the cyties and tributes of the same. He sente other menne also vnto Gaza, for to take Ithon, and wrote vnto the captaynes to come to hym, and he shoulde geue them syluer, gold and rewarde. And to Jerusalem he sente other to take it, and the Sanctuarie.

Then ranne there one besage, and told Ithon in Gaza, that his father and his brethren were slayne, and how that Ptolomy had sent to slay hym also. When Ithon hearde this he was sore abashed, and layde handes of them that were come come to destroye hym, and serue them, for he knewe that they wente aboute to kyll hym. And for other thynges concerning Jonathas of his courage, of his noble actes, wherein he behaued hym valiantly of his buylde of wylles which he made, & other of his dedes. They are written in the chronicles of his posterite, from the sage that he was made his pyncall after his father.

The fyfte Chapter.

The Synagoge of the Jewes that dwelt at Jerusalem, sent unto them that dwelt in Egypte: wherein they sheweth that he was sent but for the heale of Antiochus. Of the fyve that were sent to the prynces. The synagoge of Jerusalem.

The byethen of the Jewes which be at Jerusalem, & in the lande of Jewry, wrothly unto those bye-ethen of the Jewes that at the rowe oute Egypte: good fortune, health, and peace.

God be gracious vnto you and thinke vpon his couenaunt that he made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: he sayth full seruantes: * and geue you al suche an herte, that ye may loue and serue hym per, and perfoyme his wyl with an whole hert and of a wyllyng mynde. He open your hertes in his lawe and in his commaundementes, sende you peace, heare your prayers, be at our with you, and neuer forsake you in tyme of trouble.
This is here our prayer for you.

What tyme as Demetrius raygned, in the C. lxx. yere, the Jewes toke vnto you in the trouble & violence that came vnto vs. In those yeres, after that Jason departed oute of the holie lande and hyng home, they byent vpon the postes and shed innocent bloude. Then made we our prayer vnto the Lorde, and were hearde: we offered, and lyghted the candles, setting for the cakes and breade: * And now come ye vnto the fraut of tabernacles in the month of Casli.

In the C. lxxviii. yere, the people that was at Jerusalem & in Jewry, the counsaill of Judas hym selfe sent his wholsom saluacion vnto Antistobolus kynge of Ptolomais maister, whiche came of the generation of the annointed pyncall and to the Jewes that were in Egypte: In so much as God hath deliuered vs from great perilles we thanke hym highly. In that we respyed so myghtie a kynge. And why he broughte us out of Persia by heaped, to fight agaynst vs & the holie cytle. For as he was in Persia (namely, the captayn with the great bolle) he perished in the temple of Samas, being dyscreued thowgh he drupe of Samas pyncall. For as he was pur-posed to haue dwelt there, Antiochus & his fredes came thither, to receyue muche monye for a downe. So whil Samas pyncall had lade forth the monye, he entred in a small company into the temple, & so they shut the temple.

Now when Antiochus entred by opening the pyncall instance of the temple, the pyncall stoned the captayn to death, he wode them in peeces & wode with hym, smote of theyr heades, and thurwe them out. In al thynges God be praised, which hath deliuered the wyched into our handes.

Wher as we are nowe purposed to kepe the purificacon of the Temple vpon the fyue & twentye daye of the month Casli, we thought necessary to certifie you therof, for also myghte * kepe the tabernacles, feast daye, & the daye of the fyve, whiche was geuen vs, whil Nehemias offered, after that he had set vp the Temple and the auter. For what tyme as our fathers were led awaye vnto Persia, the pyncall (whiche the louge the honoure of God) toke the fyve pyn-cally from the auter & byd it in a vallye, where as was a hye pynt, & therein they kepte it, so the place was unknowen vnto euery man.

Nowe after many yeres when it pleased God, Nehemias shulde be sent from the kynge of Persia, he sent the chylders chyldre of those pyncalls (whiche had hid the fyve) to seke it. And as they tolde vs, they found no fyve but thicke water. Then commaunded he the to byde it vpon and to bying it hym, & the offerpuges wythall.
Nowe when the sacrificers were laid on & byd the pyncall Nehemias commaunded to sprynkle them & the wood with water. When this was done, & the tyme come of the sunne shone, whiche as afore was byd in the cloude: there was a great fyre byndled. In so much that euery man marua-led. Nowe all the pyncalls prayed, whyle the sacrifice was a making. Jonathan prayed for and the other gaue answere.

And Nehemias prayer was after this manner, O Lorde God maker of all thynges, I fearful & stronge, thou righteous & merciful, I pray art only a gracious kynge, only lyberall, onely just & myghtie and euerslasting, thou that deli-uerest Israel from all trouble, I pray that haste chosen the fathers, and halowed them, receyue the offering for the whole people of Israel, preserve thyme owne poeple, & halowe it, gather those together, that are scattered abrode from vs: de-lyuer them that are vnder the heathens bondage, loke vpon them which are dyspyled and abhorred, that the heathen may knowe & se how that art our God: shew them that oppresse, & prou-de ly put vs to dishonoure. Let the people agayne in thy holy place: lyke as Moyses hath spoken.

And the pyncalls songe psalmes of thank-helguyng, so longe as the sacrifice endured.
Nowe when the sacrifice was byent, Nehemi-as commaunded the greates to be sprynkled with the resydue of the water: * Whiche when it was done, there was kyndled a flame of them also: but it was consumed, thowgh the lyght, that shyned from the auter. Nowe when this matter was knowen, it was tolde for kynge of Persia, that in the place where the pyncalls which were led awaye, had byd the fyve, there appeared

Then the King continuing a wondering & inquiring diligently, made him a temple to pour & thynge that was done. And whē he found it so in dede, he gaue & bestowed many giftes and byuers rewarde: yee, he tooke them with his owne hand and gaue them. And Achemias called the same place Rephtar, which is as much to say, as a cleansing: but many me call it Rephi.

The II Chapter.

Of course Jeremy had the tabernacle, the Ark, and the altar in the 1st. Of the four books of John contained in one.

3 It is found also in the writinges of Jeremye the Prophet, that he commaunded them which were carped awaye to take hys, * as it is sayde afors. <sup>2</sup> He commaunded them also, that they shoulde not forget the lawe and commaundementes of the Lord, and that they shuld not erre in theyr myndes, when they se ymagis of syluer and gold, & their oymamentes. These and suche other thynges commaunded he them, and exhorted them, that they shoulde not let the lawe of God goo oute of theyr hertes.

It is wyrtten also: howe the prophet (at the chaimndement of God) charged them to take the tabernacle & the arke with them: & he went forth vnto the mountain, where Moses clymed vp, & sawe the heritage of God. And when Jeremy came there, he founde an open caue, where in he layd the tabernacle, the Arke, & the altier of incense, & so stopped it whole. Ther came certain me together also folowynge hym to marke the place, but they coulde not finde it. Which

When Ieremy perceived, he rejoyced them, saying: As for that place, it shall be unknowne, untill the tyme that God gather his people together againe, & receiue them vnto mercy. Then shall God shewe them these thynges, & the ma-iesty of the Lorde shall appere: & the cloude also lyke as it was shewed vnto Moses: & lyke as when Salomon desired, & the place myght be sanctified, and it was shewed hym.

For he bring a wise man, handled honourably & wisely, offering unto God in the halowynge of the temple, when it was synned.

And lyke as wile Moles prayed vnto f Loth the fyre came downe from heuen, & consumed f burnt offering: Euen so, prayed Salomon also, * & the fyre came downe from heauen, and co-sumed the burnt offering. And Moles sayd: because f hymne offeringe was not eaten, therefore is it consumed. In lyke maner Salomon kept the dedicacyon (or halowynge), viii. dayes.

C In the annotacy and dyspynges of Ier mie. were these thinges put also: & how he made a lyberace, and how he gathered oute of all countrys the booke of p<sup>r</sup>ophetes, of Dauid the Exiles of the hynges and of the p<sup>r</sup>esentes Euen so Iudas also. Ioke what he lea<sup>r</sup>ned by ex peryce of warre & such thynges as had happe ned vnto vs, he gathered them alsogether, and so we haue the by vs. If ye nowe desire to haue the same, sende some bodye to fetch them vnto ym. all here as we then are about to celebrate the purificacion. we haue wytten vnto you.

Therefore, ye shall doo well, yf ye haue the same dayes. We hope also, yf the God (which helpe red his people, and gaue them all the heritage kyngdome, & iherusalem, & sanctuary, & yf he promysed them in the lawe) shall shewely haue mercy vpon vs, and gather vs together from vnder the heauens into his holy place: for he hath saued vs fro great perils, & hath cleauesd vs place

As concerning Judas Maccabeus and his brethren, the purgacion of the great temple the dedicacion of the altar: yea, & of the warres & conuerse noble Antiochus, and Eutapor his sonne, of the thynges & came downe from heauen vpon those whiche manfully defended the Jewes. For though they were but fewe, yet defended they the whole lande, drove away the enemies hoste, recovered agayne the temple & was spoken of throughout all the worlde, deliuered the citty, doyng they best, that the lawe of & Lorde which was put downe, myghte with all tranquillite be restored agayne vnto the Lorde, that was so merciful vnto them. As touchyng Jason also of Cyren, we haue vnder taken compendiously to bring into one booke the thynges that were comprehended of hym in fyue. For we considering the multitude of & booke, and howe harde it shoulde be for them y wolde medle wyth storyes and actes (and that because of so diuers matters) haue vnder taken so to comprehend the storyes: that such as are disposed to reade, myghte haue pleasure and pastyme therein: and that they whiche are diligent in suche thynges, myghte & better thynke vpon them: yet, and that whosoever read them myghte haue profyte thereby.

Herewithelle, we oure selues that haue meddled with this matter for the shortening of it: haue taken no small labour, but greates byp-gence, watchynges and trauaile. Ipe as they that make a fealt: wold faine do other me pleasure: Euen so we also: for manie mens sake) are very well content to take the labour wher as we maye shortly comprehend, the thynges that other men haue truly wyrtten.

For be that buyldeth an house a newe, must proupde for many thynges, to the whole buyldyng, but be that paynteth it afterwarde sekerth but ouely what is comly, mete and conuenient to garnyshe it wthall. Euen so doo we in lyke maner. And wher be that begynneth to wyte a story for the first, muste with his vnderstandyng gather the matter together, set bys wodes in order and bypgentle seke oute of euery parte. But he that afterwarde wyll wryte it, dith seme woordes, and toucheth not the matter at the largesse. Let thys be suffycente for a Biologe, now he wyll be begynne to shewe the matter, for it is but a foolyshe thyng to make a longe Biologe, & to be wryte in a story it selfe

CCDe.III.Chapter

C As the journeyers have made the temple by the hands of the God of Israel, Jerusalem is the temple. Therefore, you are to take them away. He is the God of Israel and he is the God of the people of Israel.

What tyme as the holy cytie was inhabited in al peace & welth & when the lawes were yet very well kept (for so was it ordeined by Onias the hye preast and other godly men that wer enemies to wickednesse) It came ther to that euen the kynge and pryneed them selues wth the place grete wozthpype, and garnished the temple with grete gyftes. In somuche that Seleucus kynge of Asya of hys owne rentes, beate all the coastes belonging to the seruyce of the offerynges. Then Symon of the trybe of Ben Iamin, a ruler of the temple, laboured to worke some myschefe in the cytie, but the hye preaste resysted hym.

Nevertheless, when he might not ouercome Onias, he gat hym to Appolonius the sonne of Thersa which then was chiefe Loyde in Celocynthia and Phenycies) and tolde hym that the treasury in Jerusalem was ful of innumerable money, and howe the comen goodes (whyche belonged not vnto the offerynges) were excreasyng grete also: per, & howe it were possible for all thes myght come vnder the kynge's power.

Nowe when Appolonius had thewed the kynge of the money, as it was tolde hym: the kynge called for heliodorus hys steward, and sente hym wth a commaundement, to byng hym the same monie. Immedyately heliodorus toke his iourney, but vnder a colour as though he wolde go thowowe Celocynthia and Phenycies to vset the cyties, but hys purpose was to fulfill the kynge's pleasure. So when he came to Jerusalem, and was lounge lyce receyued of the hye preaste into the cytie: he tolde what was decreed concerning the money, and shewed the cause of hys commaundynge, he asked also if it were so in dede. Then the hye preast tolde hym that there was suche money layde vp for byholpyng of widowes and fatherlesse chyldren and howe that a certayne of it belonged vnto hyrcanus. Tobias a noble man, and that of al the money (whyche the wicked Symon had be- trayed) There were. liii. C. talentes of syluer and two. C. of gold: per, and that it wer vnpossible for those mens meanynge to be dysceyued that had laide vp theyr monye in the place and temple (whyche is had in wozthpype thowowe the whole world) for the mayntenance & honoure of the same. Wherunto heliodorus answered, that the kynge had commaunded hym in any wise to byng hym in the money.

So at the daye appoynted, heliodorus entered into the temple to ordeyn this matter. But there was no small feare thowowout the whole cytie. The preastes fell downe befoze the altire in their vestimentes, & called vnto heauen vnto hym which had made a lawe concerning stufte given to kepe, that they shoulde be safely preserued for suche as comyt them vnto hepyng. Then who so had looked the hye preaste in the face it wolde haue greued his herte. For his countenance and the chaungynge of his colour, declared the inward lozowe of hys mynde. The man was al in heuyness, & his body in feare, wher by they that looked vpon hym, myght perceyue the greife of his herte, the other people came out of theyr houses by heapes vnto the comen place, because the place was lyke to come into confusion. The women came together thowowe the stretes, wth hepyr clothes aboute theyr byastes.

The byrgins also that were kept in, ranne to Onias, some in the walles, other some looked out of the wyndowes: per, they al held vp theyr handes toward heauen, and prayed. A myserable thyng was it to looke vpon the comen people, and the hye preaste beyng in suche trouble. But they belonght Almyghty God the good des which were comytted vnto them, myghte be kept whole, for those that had deluyered the vnto theyr hepyng. After thes, the thyng which heliodorus was determyned to do, & performed he in the same place, he hym self personall lyce beyng aboute the treasure wth hys men of warre. But the spiryte of almyghty God shewed hymself openly, so that they which presumed to abyde heliodorus, felt thowowe the power of God into a grete fearfulnesse and drede.

For there appered vnto them an hoyle wth a teryble man syttyng vpon hym, deckt in good lyce arape, and the hoyle smote at heliodorus wth hys foze feet. Nowe he that set vpon the hoyle had harnesse of golde vpon hym.

Moreover, there appeared two sayre & betwixtfull yonge men in goodly arape, which stode by hym scourged him on both the sydes, & gaue hym many sterypes wthout ceasynge. Which that fell heliodorus sodenly vnto the ground. So they tooke hym vp (beyng compassed aboute wth grete darckenesse) and bare hym out vpon a bere. Thus he came wth so many runners and men of warre into the sayde treasury, was bozne oute, where as no man myght helpe hym: and so the power of God was manifest and knowen. He laye styll domme also by the power of God destitute of all hope & lyfe. And they prayed the Loyde that had shewed his power vpon hys place and temple, whyche a lytle afore was full of feare and trouble: & that thowowe the reuelacyon of the Almyghty Loyde it was fylled wth hope and gladnesse.

Then certayn of heliodorus frendes praised Onias, that in all hast he wolde cal vpon God to graunt hym his lyfe, which was geuyng by the ghost. So the hye preaste consyderyng the matter, and leasse the kynge shoulde suspect that the Jewes had done heliodorus some euill: he offered an healtbofferyng for hym. Nowe wher the hye preast had optayned hys peticyon, the same yonge men in the same clothynge appeared and stode belyde heliodorus, sayng: Thanke Onias the hye preaste, for his sake darthe the Loyde graunted the thy lyfe: therfore seyng that God hath scourged the, geue hym praise & thankes, and shewe euery man hys myghte and power. And when they had spoken these wordes, they appered nomore.

So heliodorus offered vnto God, made grete vowes vnto hym, which he had graunted hym hys lyfe, thanked Onias, toke hys hoste and and went agayne to the kyng. Then testified he vnto every man of the great wothes of God that he had sene with hys eyes. And when the kyng asked Heliodorus who were mete to be sente yet once agayne to Jerusalem, he sayde: yf thou haste anye enemye or a duersary vnto thy realme, sende hym thither, and thou shalt haue hym punyshed, yf he escape with his lyfe: for in that place (no doubte) there is a speciall power and working of God. For he that dwelleth in heauen, visytreth and defendeth that place, and all that come to do it harme, he punysheth and plagerh them. Thys is now the matter concerning Heliodorus, and the keepynge of the treasure at Jerusalem.

The .iiii. Chapter.

Symon reporteth death of Hyrcanus. Jason desyring the office of the hye preeste carreyeth the kyng with rewards. The wicked intents of Jason.

This Symon now (of whome we spake afore) being a brewer of money and of his owne natural collyre, reported the wothe of Onias: as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto this, and as though he had ben a bringer vp of euil. Thus was he not ashamed to cal hym an enemye of the realme: that was so faithfull an ouerser and defender of the cytie & of his people: yee, & so feruent in the lawe of God: But when the malice of Symon encreased so farre, that thow his frendes there wer certain men-slaughters committed: Onias considered the peril that myght come thow he thys sryfte, and howe that Apollonius (namely the chiefe Lorde in Celociria and Phenicia) was al set vpon tyranny, and Symons malice increased the same. He gat hym to the kyng not as an accuser of the cityzens, but as one that by hym selfe intended the comen welthe of the whole multitude.

For he sawe it was not possible to lyue in peace, neither Symon to leaue of from hys follys, excepte the kyng dyd loke thereto. But after the deathe of Helucus, when Antiochus (which is called the noble) toke the kyngdome Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be hye preeft. For he came vnto the kyng, and promysed hym .iii. C. lxx. talentes of syluer, & of the other rentes, lxx. talentes. Besydes thys he promysed hym yet an. C. and. l. yf he myght haue a scole of schylzen, and yf he myght call them of Jerusalem Antiochians. Which when they had graunted, and he had gotten the superioryte, he beganne immediatly to drawe his kynsmen to the custome of the heathen, put downe the thynges that the Jewes had set vp of loue, by John the father of Eupolemius which was sent ambassadoure vnto Rome, for to make the bonde of frendship and loue. He put downe all the Jewes and lyberties of the Jewes & set vpon the wicked statutes. He durst make a fyrghyngscole vnder the castel, and set laper yonge men to learne the maners of whores and brothels.

Thys was now the begynnyng of the heathenlike & straunge conuersacyon, brought in thow the vngacious & vndeared wickednes of Jason, which shuld not be called a preeft, but an vngodly person. In somuche that the preefts were now nomore occupied about the seruyce of the aulter, but despyled the temple: regarded not the offerynges: yee, gaue they dyspence to leaue to fyghte, to waitle, to leape, to daunce, and to put at the stone, not setting by the honoure of they fathers, but lyked the glory of the Gyches best of all: for the whiche they stroue perelously, & were greedy to folowe their statutes: yee, they luste was in all thynges to be lyke them, whiche also were they enemyes & destroyers. Howbeit, to do wyckedly against the lawe of God, shall not escape unpunished, but of this we shall speake hereafter.

What tyme as the Olympiades sportes were plaide at Tyzus (the kyng hymselfe being presente) this vngacious Jason sent wicked men, bearing from them of Jerusalem (which now were called Antiochians). .iiii. C. drachmas of syluer for an offeryng to Hercules. These had they that carped them despyed them vnder suche a fashion, as though they shuld not be offered but bestowed to other vices. Nevertheless he that sent them, sent them to the intent that they shulde be offered vnto Hercules. But because of those that were presente, they were geuen as to smakyng of whypes. And Apollonius the sonne of Helius was sent into Egipte because of the noble men of king Ptolomy Philometor. Nowe when Antiochus perceyued, yf he was put oute from medlyng in the realme, he soughte hys owne profyte, departed from thence came to Joppa: and then to Jerusalem, where he was honourably receyued of Jason, & of the cytie, & was brought in with toschlyght and wyth grente prayle, and so he turned hys horse vnto Phenicia.

After .iii. yere Jason sente Menelaus, the forsaide Symons brother, to beare the money vnto the kyng, and to byng hym answer of other necessary matters. But he (when he was praysed of the kyng for magnifyng of hys power) turned the preeft hode vnto hym self, layng vp .iii. C. talentes of syluer for Jason. So when he had gotten the commaundement from the kyng (he came haunyng nothing that becommeth a preeft) but bearyng the stomache of a cruell tyrante, and the wyathe of a wyld brute beaste. Then Jason (whiche had dysceyued hys owne brother) seynge he hym selfe was begyled also, was sayne to ste into the lande of the Ammonytes, & Menelaus gat the dominyon. But as for the money that he had promysed vnto the kyng, he dyd nothing therein, when Dostratus the Ruler of the castell requyred it of hym. For Dostratus was the man that gathered the customes, wherfore they were both called befoze the kyng. Thus was Menelaus put oute of the preeft hode, and Lisymachus his brother came in his stead. Dostratus also was made lorde of the Cyrians.

It happened in the meane season, that the Charlians & Malacians made insurreycon because they were geuen for a preeft vnto kyng Antiochus king Antiochus concubine. The came the king in all the host, to fill them agayne, and to pacifye the matter, leaueing Andronicus ther to be his debite as one mete therfore. Nowe Menelaus supposing that he had gotten a right conuenient time, stole certain vessels of golde out of the temple, and gaue them to Andronicus for a present: and some he sold at Tirus and in the cities therby. Which when Onias knewe of a suretye, he reproveth hym: but he kept hym in a sanctuary beside Daphnis, that lyeth by Antioch. Wherfore Menelaus gat him to Andronicus, and praised hym that he would slay Onias. So when he cam to Onias, he counsaileth him craftily to come out of the sanctuary geuyng hym his hand with an othe (how be it he suspect hym) and then he sleth. Onias withoute any regard of rygheousnes. For the whych cause not onely Jewes but other nacions also toke indignacion, and were dyspiraled for the vnrightheous death of so goodly aman.

And when the kyng was come againe from Cilicia, the Jewes and certayn of the Grekes went vnto hym, complaynyng for the vnrightheous death of Onias. Yee, Antiochus him self was soz in hys mynde for Onias, so that it pited hym, and he wept, remembryng hys sobernes and manerly behauiour. Wherfore he was so hyndled in hys mynde, that he commaunded Andronicus to bee strypped out of his purple clothynge, and so to be led throughout the cite: yee, and the vnglacypous man to be slayn in the same place: wher he commytted this wickednes vpon Onias. Thus the Lorde rewarded hym hys punysshment, as he had deserued. Nowe whil Lysimachus had done many wyked dedes in the temple throughe the counsaile of Menelaus, and the voyce came abrod: the multitude gathered them together agaynst Lysimachus for he had caried out nowe muche golde.

So when the people arose, and were full of displeasure, Lysimachus armed. iii. M. vntyghtes to defende hym: a certayne tyraunt beyng theyr captayn, which was growen both in age and woodnes. But when the people vnderstod the purpose of Lysimachus, some gat stones, some good strong clubbes, and some cast styes vpon Lysimachus. Thus there were manye of them wounded, some beyng slayne, and all the other chased away. But as for the wyked church robber hym selfe, they killed him beside the treasury. Of these matters therfore ther was kept a court agaynst Menelaus. Now when the kyng came to Tyrys, they made a complaynte vnto hym of Menelaus, concerninge this busynesse of the ambassadours. iii. But Menelaus wylt and promysed Ptolomy, to geue hym much money, yf he woulde perswade the kyng. So Ptolomy wente to the kyng into a court: wher he was set to cole hym) and brought hym oute of that mynde. In so much that he discharged Menelaus from the accusations, that no wythstaunding was cause of all myschance, and those poore men, whiche he had sold thei cause: yee, befoze the Heathens, they shoulde haue bene iudged innocent. Item he condeigned to deathe. Thus were thei sone punyshed, whych solord vpon the matter for the cite, for the people, and for the holy vessel. Wherfore, they of Tyrys toke indignacion, and beied the honouerabyle. And so throughe the couerousnes of them that were in power, Menelaus remaned still in auctoritee increasing in malice, to the hurt of the cite tyrys.

Chap. v.

Of the signes and tokens sent in Jerusalem. Of the ende and offense of Jason, The pursuer of Antiochus agaynst the Jewes, The burning of the temple.

The same tyme Antiochus made hym redye to go agayn into Egypt. Then were thei sent at Jerusalem xl. dayes long, horsemen, runnyng to and fro in the ayre, whiche had raiment of golde, and speares. There wer sene also whole hostes of men weapened, and horses runnyng in an order howe they came together, howe they helde forth thei weldes, howe the harnesssed men dyede oute thei sweardes, and shot thei dartes. The shone of the golden weapons was sene and of all maner of armure. Wherfore, euery man praised, that those tokens myghte turne to good. Nowe when there was gone forth a false rumoure, as though Antiochus had bene dead: Jason toke a thousand me and came sodenly vpon the cite. The cytezens came vnto the wallis, at the last was the cite taken, and Menelaus fledde into the castel.

As for Jason, he spared not hys owne cyte tyrys in slaughter, neither considered he what greaue euell it were, to destroye the prosperitee of hys owne kynsmen: but dyd as one that had gotten the victorie of hys enemyes, and not of hys fryndes. For all thes gat he not the superloute, but at the last receiued confusyon for his malice, and fledde agayne lyke a vagabound into the lande of the Ammonytes.

Finally for a rewarde of hys wyckendes he was accused befoze Aretha, the kynge of the Arabians. In so much that he was fayne to flee from cyte to cyte, beyng dyspiled of euery man as a falsaker of the lawes, and an abhominable personne. And at the last (as an open enemy of hys owne naturall countree and of the cyte tyrys) he was dyspued into Egypte.

Thus he that afore put manye oute of thei owne natyue lande, perished frome home hym selfe. He went to Lacedemon, thynkyng there to haue gotten succour by reas of kinred. And he that afore had cast many one out vnburyed was thow oute hym selfe, no man mournyng for him, nor puttyng hym in hys graue: so that he neither enioyed the burial of a straunger, neither was he partaker of hys fathers sepulchre.

Now when this was done, the kyng suspect that the Jewes woulde haue fallen from hym: wherfore he came in a greaue dyspleasure out of Egypt, and to ke the cyte by violence, he commaunded hys men of warre also, thei shoulde kill and none spare, but slaye downe suche as wythstode them, or clymed vp vpon the houses. Thus was ther a great slaughter of young men, olde men, women, chyldren, and byrgens.

iii. In the

The seconde booke

In this dayes there were slayne. lxxx. & fourty thousande put in prison, and no lesse selde. Yet was he not content with this, but durst go into the most holy temple (Hieliaus that traitour to the lawes and to his owne natural coure, being bys guyde) and with his wyked handes toke the holy vessel, whiche other kynges & cytees had given thether for the garnysshing and honour of the place, thence toke he in his handes vnder thely, and despyed them.

D So madde was Antiochus, that he considered not, howe that God was a lytle wrothe for the synnes of them that dwelte in the cyte for the which such confusion came vpon that place. And why: yf it had not happened the to haue bene lapped in manie synes, this Antiochus (as some as he had come) had suddenly ben punyshed, and shut out for his presumption, & lyke as Heliodorus was, whom Heliculus the king sent to robbe the treasure. Neuerthelesse, God hadde not chosen the people for the places sake, but the place for the peoples sake: and therefore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but after ward that it enioy the welch of it. And lyke as it is now forsaken in the wrath of almyghthy God, so when the great God is reconcyled, it shal be set vp in hye wyl wyppye agayn.

So when Antiochus had taken a. & s. viii. C. talentes out of the temple, he gat him to Antioch in al the hast, thynkyng in his pryde, that he myght make men sayle vpon the dyse lande and to go vpon the see. Suche an hye mynde had he. He leftte debytes ther, to wete the people: At Jerusalem left he Phylip & Phylitia, in maners more cruel then him selfe that leftte hym there. At Casatin he left Andronicus and Hieliaus whiche were more greuous to the cite then other. Howe as he was thus set in malice agaynst the Jewes, he sente Apollonius an hated wynter, with. xlii. C. commandyng hym to slay those that wer of perfecte age, and to sell the women, maydens, and chyldren. When he came to Jerusalem, he sayned peace, and kepte hym styll vntyll the Saboth day. And then he commaunded his me to take the to the weapons (for the Jewes kept holys dayes) and so he slew all them that were gone forth to the ope playe, runnyng hert and there through the cyte with his men weaponed & murdered a great number. But Judas Machabeus whiche was the tenth, fled into the wyldernes, led his lyfe there with his compaigne amonge wyld beasts: and vpon the mountaynes, dwelling ther and eatyng grasse, lest they shoulde be partakers of the lythynes.

The. vi. Chapter.

The Jewes are compelled to leave the lawes of God. The temple is destroyed. The nation is brought into bondage. The king's purpose of conquest.

Of longe after this, sent the kyng a messenger of Antioch, for to compell the Jewes, to alter the ordynances of the fathers, and the lawe of God, to defile the temple that was at Jerusalem, and to call it the temple of Jupp ter Olympi: that they shoulde be in Gazarin as those whiche dwell at the place of Jupiter the herberous. This wyked sedicion of the whiche godlye was heauye vnto all the people: for the temple was full of voluptuousnes, bybbyng and bolling of the heathen, of ribaundes and harlottes together. The women went into the holy place, and bare in that was not lawfull. The altar also was full of vnlawfull thynges, which the lawe forbiddeth to laye vpon it. The Saboths were not kepte, the other solempne feastes of the lande were not regarded. To be plaine, there durste no man bee a knowne that he was a Jewe. In the day of the kynges byth they were compelled perforce to offer, and wete the feast of Bacchus was kepte, they were constrained to wete garlandes of pype, and so to go aboute to the honour of Bacchus.

Howeouer through the counsaile of Ptolomy, there wente oute a commaundement in the next cytees of the heathen, that they shoulde in treate the Jewes in like maner: namely, to compell them for to do sacrifice after the lawes of the Gentiles: and who so would not, to put the to death. A pitous thyng was it to se. There were two women accused to haue circumcised their sonnes, whom when they had led round about the cite (the babes hangyng at theyr byestes) they cast them downe headlonge ouer the walles. Some that were crepte in denues and had kept the Saboth, were accused vnto Phylip, and byent in the see: because that for fear of God they kepte the commaundement so stilly, and would not defende them selues. Howe I beseech all those whiche reade this booke, that they refuse it not for the fallies of aduersities: and iudge the thynges (that are hapened) for no destruction, but for a chastenyng of our people. And why: Whiche God suffereth not synners lye to folow theirowne mynde, but whiche punyssheth them. It is a token of his great lounyng kyndnes. For this grace haue we of God more then other people, that he suffereth not vs longe to synne unpunysht lyke as other nacions, that when the daye of iudgement cometh, he maye punyssheth them in the fulnesse of theyr synnes. If we synne, he correcteth vs, but he neuer wythdroweth his mercy from vs: and though he punyssheth with aduersitee, yet doth neuer forsake his people. But let this that we haue spoken nowe with fewe wordes be for a warnyng and exhortacion of the heathen.

Howe wyl we come to the declaring of the matter. Eleazar one of the principal scribes, an aged man and of a wel fauoured countenance, was constrained to gape with an open mouth, and to cate swines fleish. But he desiering rather to dye gloriously then to liue with shame offered hym selfe wyllynge to the martyrdom. Howe whi he sawe that he must needs go to it he toke it patiently: for he was at a paynt with hym selfe, that he would consente to do no vnlawfull thyng for any pleasure of lyfe. They that stode by being moued with pitye (but not a right for old frendship of the man, toke hym a lyte aside pitifully and pined him that he would let such helpe be brought hym as were lawfull to eate, & then to make a countenance, as though he had eaten of the fleshe of the sacrifice lyke as the kynge commaunded, so as he might be delivered from death, and so for the old friendship of the man, they shewed hym this kynnedesse.

But he beganne to comyde hym by secret and honourable age, hym noble and worshipfull stocke, and howe that fro hym yowth up he had bene of an honest and good conversation, yett, howe constantly he had kept the commaundmentes and lawes commaunded by God, wherfore he gave them this answer and sayed: Yet had I rather fynd myselfe delayed in my greave. * For it becometh not myne age (sayed he) in anye wyse to be defiled, whereby manye younge personnes myght thyncke, that Cleasur beinge lxx. yere olde and .x. were nowe gone to a strange lyfe and so through myne ypoctisye for a lytle tyme of a transitory lyfe they myght be dyscraued by this meane also should I despyle myne age, and make it abhominable. For though I were now deliuered from the tormentes of men, yett should not I escape the hand of almyghty God neither alpyue nor dead, wherfore I wyl dye fully and do as it becometh mine age. Whereby I make paradyventure leave an example of steadfastnes for suche as be younge, yf I wyth a redy mynde and manfully dye an honest death, for the moost worthy and holy lawes.

When he had said these wordes, immediatly he was drawen to torment. Nowe they that led hym and were myde a litle asyde, beganne to take displeasure, because of the wordes that he sayed, for they thoughte he had spoken then of an hye mynde. But when he was in hymmartrydom, he mourned and sayd: Thou (O Lord) which hast the holy knowledge: knowest openly, that wher as I might be deliuered from death I suffer these soe paines of my body: but in my mynde I am wel content to suffer them because I see the. Thus this man died leauing the mortal of his death for an exaple, not only vnto yong men, but vnto al people, to be steadfast & mayly.

¶ The punishment of the seven brethren and of their mother

It happened also that ther were vii. brethren (with their mother) take and copelled by the kynge against the lawe, to eate swynes fleshe, namely wyth scourges and leathen whippes. And one of them which was the chiefe sayed: What sekest thou and what requyrest thou of vs? As for vs, we are readye rather to suffer death, then to offende the lawes of God & the fathers. Then was the kynge angrye, and had heat coulours and blasphemies. Wherby when they were made hote, immediatly he commaunded the yowng of hym that spake fyrst to be cut out, to pull the skynne ouer hym heade, to pare of the edges of his habes and fete: yee, and that in the syghte of hym mother and the other of hym brethren. Now when he was cleue marred, he commaunded a fyre to be made & so while there was any breath in hym to be tried in the coulour: In the whiche when he had bene long payned, the other brethren wyth their mother exhorted hym to dye manfullye, sayyng: The Lord God shall regard the trust, and comfort vs, lyke as Moses testifyeth* and declareth in hym longe, sayyng: and he wyl haue compasyon on hym seruantes.

So when the fyrst was dead after this maner, they broughte the seconde, to haue hym in derision, pulled the skynne wyth the heare ouer hym heade, and asked hym, yf he would eate swynes fleshe, or he were payned in the other members also throughout hym body. But he answered boldlye, and sayed: I wyl not do it. And so was he tormented lyke as the fyrst, and whē he was euen at the geuyng up of the ghost he sayed: Thou moost vngacious personne puttest vs nowe to death, but the kynge of thy worlde shall rayse vs up (whiche dye for hym lawes) in the resurrection of euerlastyng lyfe.

After hym was the thyrde had in derision & when he was requyred, he putte out his tounge and bat ryghte sone, holdyng forth his handes manfullye, and spake wyth a steadfast sayeth: These haue I of heauen, but nowe for the lawe of God I despyle them: for my truste is that I shall receyue them, of him agayne. In so much that the kynge and they whiche were wyth him marvelled at the younge mans boldnesse, that he nothyng regarded the paines.

Now when he was dead also, they beere the fourth wyth the tormentes in lyke maner. So when he was nowe at hym death, he said: It is better that we beinge putte to death of menne, haue our hope and trust in God, for he shall rayse vs up agayne. * As for the, thou shalt haue no resurrection to lyfe.

And when they had spoken to the fyfth they tormented hym. Then looked he vnto the kynge and said thou hast power among men: thou art a mortal man also thy self, to do what thou wilt, but thynke not, that God hath forsaken our generation. Abide the tarye stil a while, and thou shalt see the greates power of God, howe he will punyssh the and thy seede.

After him they broughte the vi. which beinge at the poynt of death sayed: Be not dyscraued (O kynge) for thus we suffer for our owne sakes, because we haue offended our God, & there fore marvelous thynges are shewed vpon vs. But thynke not thou, whiche takest in hande to stryue agaynst God, that thou shalt escape unpunished.

This excellent mother (worthy to be well reported of, and had in remembrance) sawe her seven sonnes dye in one daye, and suffered patiently, because of the hope that she had in God yee, she exhorted euery one of them in special and that boldly and steadfastly with perfect wyl dome, wakyng up her wyrdly thought with a manly stomache, and said vnto them: I can not tel how ye came in my wombe: for I neither gaue you brethren nor soule, nor no lyfe. It is not I that sowed the seedes of your bodies to yether

But the maker of the world, who he fashioned the breath of man, and began all things. Can he also be without mercy? Can you think of a father who is not merciful to his own children? Can you think of a father who is not merciful to his own children?

Some thoughter Iurpochus that she had be-syppied hym, therefore he let her go wth her suppo(whiche yet was left) not onely wth wordes but (came vnto hym with an othe) that he shoulde make hym a rich and welthy man (if he wold forsake the lawes of his father) yee, and that he shoulde beue hym, whatsoeuer were necessary for hym. But when the young man woulde not be moued, for al these thinges, he called his e mother, & counsailed her to saue her sonnes lyfe And when he had exhorted her wth many wor-des, she promysed hym that she shoulde speake vnto her sonne. So she tourned her vnto hym:

spake wth a bolde voyce. O my sonne, haue my sonne looke vpon heauen and earth and all that is therein, & consider þ God made them and mannes generacyon of naughtee: so walte thou not feare this hangman, but suffer death stead-may receiue the agayne in the same mercy wth thy byrthzen.

Whiche he was yet speakinge these wordes the young man sayde whom loke ye for. Whiche vs by Moyses. As for thou that ymagineste all myselfe agaynst the Jewes thou shalt not cla pe the bande of God, for we suffer these thyn ges, because of our synnes.

And though God be angry wyth vs a litle whyle (for our challyenge and reformatyon) yet shall he be at one agayne wyth his seruants.
But thou (O shamefull and moost abhominable person.) Whyd not thy selfe through wayne hoopes, in beyng so malycious vpon the ser-uantes of God: for thou haste not yet escaped the iudgement of the God whych is almygh-tye, and seesthe all thynges. My brethren that haue suffered a litle payne are nowe vnder the covenant of euerlastyng life: but though the iudgement of God, thou walste be punished righteously for thy pryde.

As for me like as my brethren haue done I offer my soule and my body for slaves of oure fathers, calling vpon God, that he will soone be merciful vnto oure people: pec. & with paine and punishmentes* to make the graunte, that he only is God. In me now and in my brethren I waich of all my tyele God is at an end, which righteous ye is fallen vpon oure people.

When the young boy was kindled in anger, was made cruel upon him, then upon all the other, a more indignation, that he was so lightly regarded. So the young man died unbelieved, and was truly laid in the Road, East of all after.

sonnes, was the mother put to death also. Let this now be enough spoken, concerning the other things, and extreme cruelties.

Chapter.

When you're together you both experience a firm sense of purpose, your shared life revolves in one direction. One way or another, you're going to achieve what you both set yourselves to do. You're heading for the future and into the wilderness. You're both into that.

Then Judas Machabeus, and they that were with him, went privately into the tounes, called theyr synnibolles and seldes together, to be vnto the all suche as continued yet in the faith & lawe of the Iewes, & brought forth vi. h men. So they called vpon the Lorde, that he woulde haue an eye vnto his people, which was troden doune of euery man: to be gracious vnto the temple that was defiled of the vngodly: to haue compassyon vpon the destruction of the cite, which was wastefull like to be layde waste, to heare the voyce of the bloude & cryed vnto hym: to remember & mooue wrythefull deathes of yong innocēt chyldeyn, & blasphemys also done vnto his name & to punish the them.

\* Nowe when Nachabrus had gathered thys multitude together, he was to myghte for the heathen (for the wrath of  $\text{J}$  Lozbe was turned into mercy) he fell vpon the tonnes and Cyties viwares, bzent them, tooke the moſte commodious places, and ſlew many of the enemics. But ſpecially he made ſuche chaſes by myghte, in ſo muche that his manlynes was ſpoken of, euery where.

So when Polypppe ſawe  $\text{J}$  the man increaſed by lytle and lytle, and that the matter proſpered wyth hym for the mooste parte: he wrote vnto Ptolomy whych was a captayne in Cleopatria and Rhodes, to helpe hym in the kynges buſynes. Then ſent he Alcanor Patrocle a ſpe-cial frend of his in all the haſt and gaue hym of the comon ſorte of the heathen no leſſe then .xx th. armed men, to rote out the whole generacion of the Jewes, hauyng to help him one Coz-gias a man of warre, whych in matters concernyng battailes, had grea experience. Alcanor deſyred alſo the tribute which the Romaynes ſhould haue had, to be geuen vnto the kyng out of the captiuite of the Jewes, namely .ii. th. ta-lentes. And immediatly he ſent to the citres of the ſea-coaſt, requyryng the for to by Jewes robe their ſeruantes and bondmen, promiſſinge to ſell them .lxx. for ſo many talente: but he conſidered not the wrath of almyghtie God, that was to come vpon hym.

When Judas knewe of this he tolde the Jewes that were with him of Ananias comynge. Howe were thei summe of them fearfull, not trustynge unto the ryghteousnes of God, and sed there way.

But the other that remained, came together and besoughte the Lojbe, to deliver them from that wicked Tyranny, which hadde sold them o3 euer became nye them, and though he would not doo it fo3 the3e3e takes, yet fo3 the con-staunte that he made wyth the3e fathers and he because they called upon his holy and glorious name. And so Maccabees called his men together, namely about. vi. M. exhorting them not to agree, vnto their enemies: neither to be a preyed for the multitude of theyr aduersaries commynge agaynst them vncyphered: but to fight in alie, considering the rejoyce that they had done to the holy place without cause, howe they had despyssed and oppressed the cyter: per. & destroyed the lawes of the fathers. For they (saied he) trust in theyr weapons and boldnes but our confidence is in the almyghty Lozde which in the twynkyng of an eye may both destroy them that com agaynst vs, & at the world he exhorted the also to call to remembrance the helpe, that God shewed vnto theyr fathers as when there perished an. C. and. lxxv. M. of Mennacheribys people: And of the battaile they had in Babylon agaynst the Salacians: how all the Macedonians that came to helpe them, stode in feare: and howe they beyng but onelye vi. M. slew an. C. and. xx. M. through the helpe that was geue them from heauen, whereby they also had receiued many benefites.

Through these wordes the men toke good hartes vnto them, ready to dye for the law and the cōfess. So he set vpon euery companye a captain one of his owne brethren: Simon, Joseph and Ionathas, geuyng eche one. xv. C. men. he caused Eliaz also to reade the holpe booke vnto them: to geue them a token of the helpe of god.

Then he him self beyng captain in the fore fronte of the battaile, buckled with Bycarnoz. And God was their helpe, in so much that they slew about. ix. M. men and compelled the more part of Sicarnozs host to fle, they wer so wounded and feble. Thus they toke the mony from those that came to hye them, and solod vpon them on euery syde. But when the tyme came vpon them they turned, for it was the Saboth and therfore they solod nō moze vpon the. So they toke their weapons and spoyle and kept the Saboth, geuyng thanks vnto the Lozde whych had deliuered them that day, and shewed them his mercy. After the Saboth, they distributed the spoyle to the sicke, and to the fatherles, and to wyddowes, and the residue had they selues with theirs. When this was done, and they all had made a generall prayer: they besought the mercifull Lozde to be at one with his seruantes.

Of those also that were wyth Timotheus and Baphides, whych fought agaynst them they slew. xx. M. wanne hye and stronge holdes, and deuyded into spoyle: euer geuyng an equall porcyon vnto the sycke, to the fatherles to wyddowes, and to aged personnes.

And when they had diligently gathered their weapons together, they layed them all in conuenient places, and the remnaunte of the spoyle brought they to Jerusalem. They slew also whiliches that dyed personne which was with Timotheus, and had bereyed many Jewes. And when they helde the thankesgeuyng at Jerusalem for the victory, they byt those that had set type vpon the postes of the temple: namely Calisthenes, which was fled into an house: and so they put a worthy reward for theyr treachery. As for the most vngacious Sicarnoz, which had brought a. M. marchantes, to bye the Jewes he was through the helpe of the Lozde brought home out of them whom he regarded not, in so much that he put of his glorious raimente fled by sea, and came alone to Antioch, with greateshame & dishonour whiche he gat through the destruction of his host. Thus he that promysed the Romanes to pay them their tribute, when he toke Jerusalem: Beganne now to say plainly, that God was the defender of the Jewes, and therfore not possible to wounde them, because they solod the lawes whych God had made.

The. ix. Chapter.

Antiochus willing to spoyle Persopolis, is byrnen to Asgates as he persecuted the Jewes, he is byrnen of the Lozde. The sayng and repentance of Antiochus the tyrant.

The same time, came Antiochus agayne with dishonour out of Persia. For when he came to Persopolis, and undertoke to robbe the temple: and to subdue the citie, the people ranne together and defended them selues, in so much that he and his were faine to fly with shame. And so after that flight, it hapned that Antiochus came agayne with dishonour. But when he came to Ecbathana, he gat knowlege what was happened vnto Sicarnoz and Timotheus. Now, as he was aununcyng hym self in his wrath, he thought he was able to aduerge the intury that was done to them, vpon the Jewes and therfore commaunded to make ready his charet, hastnyng on his iourneys, without ceasinge, the iudgemente of God prouokynge hym because he had spoken so proude that he would come to Jerusalem, and make it a graue of the Jewes. But the Lozde God of Israel, that seeth all thynges, smote hym wyth an vnspylable plague, whiche no man coulde heale. For as sone as he had spoken these wordes, ther came vpon him an horrible payn of his bowelles, and a soze grete of the armes.

And that was but right: for he had martyred other mens bowels with diuerse and straunge tormentes, howe be it he woulde in no wyse cease from his malice. Per. he was yet the prouder and moze malicious agaynst the Jewes. But whyle he was commaundyng to make hast in the matter, it happened that he fell downe vpon lentye frome the charette so that it broued hym bodye, and byd hym greates payne.

And so he that thought he might commaunde the floudes of the sea (so proude was he beyonde the condicion of man) and to wey the hye mountaynes in a pair of balancer, was now brought home to the ground, and carped vpon an healytter, knouledgyng the manifest power of God vpon hym: so that the wyched bodye of hym was full of wormes whych in his payne fell quicke out of his flesch: In so much that his host was greued wyth the smell and synke of hym.

The seconde booke

Thus be that a litle afore thoughte he might reach to the starres of heauen, hym myghte no man now abyde nor beare for the vehemence of synche. Therefore, he byng broughte frome his great payde, beganne to come to the know ledge of hym selfe: for the punishment of God warned hym, and his payn increased more and more. And when he hym selfe myght not abide his owne synche, he sayed these wordes: It is reason to be obedient vnto God, and that a man desire not to be like vnto him. This myght per son prayed also vnto the Lord, of whome he should haue obtained no mercede. And as for the cyter that he came vnto so hastily, to byng it done to the grounde, and to make it a graue for dead men: now he despayeth to deliuer it free.

And as touchynge the Jewes, whom he had iudged not worthy to be buried, but would haue cast them oute for to be deuoured of the foules and wild beastes, sayng: that he would haue destroyed both olde and yong: Now he pzo miseth, to make them like the citizens of Athens. And where as he had spoiled the holy temple a fore, now he maketh promise to garnish it with great giftes, to encrease the holy ornaments, and of his owne rentes to beare the costes and charges belongynge to the offerynge: yee, and that he would also become a Jewe hym selfe to go throughte euery place of the wyloze, and to preache the wynde of God.

But when his paynes would not ceasse, for the righteous iudgement of God was come vpon hym) out of a very dyspaye he wrote vnto the Jewes, a letter of intercession, conteynyng thele wordes. The kyng and prince Antiochus witherh vnto the vertuous citizens of the Jewes, much health and good prosperite. Yf ye and your chyldren fare well, and yf all thynges go after your mynde: we geue greates thankes. In my sickenes also I do remember you louyngly for as I came out of Persia, I was taken with a sore disease: I thought it necessary to care for the comyn welch. Neither dispaire I in my self but haue a good hope to escape this sickenesse.

But considerynge that my father led an host sometyne in the hier places, and shewed who should reigne after hym, that (yf there happened any contrariety, or any heard thyng were declared) thei in the land myghte knowe they: c. the lord, that thei should be no insurrection: Again, when I ponder by my self, how that al the myghtie men, and neighbours round about are layng wayte, and lake but for opportunitie to do harme: I haue ordeined that my lone Antiochus shal reigne after me, whom I oft comed to many of you, when I was in the hier kin domes, and haue written vnto hym as foloweth hereafter. Therefore, I pray you and require you to remember the benefices that I haue done vnto you generally, and in special (and that euery man wilbe faithful to me and to my lone) For I hope that he shalbe of sober and louing behauiour, and yf he folow my deuice, he shalbe indiffe rente vnto you. * Thus I murderer and blas phemes of God was Iaye smytten: and yf he as he had intreated other men, to be died a misera ble death in a straung countre vpon a mountain And his body did Philip (p went with hym) ca ry away: which hearing the sone of Antiochus went into Egypte to Ptolomy Philometoz

The .x. Chapter.

¶ Judas Maccabees rebely the cyter and the temple. Hea begynneth to shew the actes of Eupator. The Jewes fight agaynst the Iu deans. Antiochus maketh Jewes, with whom Judas is partly battell. A Iewe men apere in the ayre to the helpe of the Jewes. A mathias is slayne.

Machabeus nowe and his companie (throught the helpe of the Lord) wan the temple and p cite again, destroyed the alters and chapels that p hea then had buylded throught the streets, clenched the temple, made an other alter of bryck stone, and after .ii. yeres thei offered sacrificers, set forth p incence, the lightes and shewbread. When that was done thei fel doune hat vpon the grounde and besought the Lord, that thei might come no more into such trouble: but yf they sined any more agaynst hym, be hym selfe to chasten them with mercede, and not to come in the handes of those aleauntes and blasphemous men. Nowe vpo the same daye that the straungers poluted the temple, it happened that on the very same daye it was clenched again namely: the .xii. day of p moneth called Caslew, thei kept egypt dayes in gladnes like as in the feast of the taberna cles remembryng, that not long afore thei held the feast of the tabernacles vpon the mountai nes and in denues like beastes. And to the same token thei bare grene bowes, bzanches & pal mes, before hym that had given them good for tune to clenche his place. Thei agreed also toge ther, and made a statute p euery yere those day es shoulde be solemnly kept of all the people of the Jewes. Now Antiochus then (p was called p noble) died: it is sufficiently tolde. Now wyl we speake of Eupator the sonne of that wyched Antiochus, howe it happened with hym: & so with the we wyldes to comprehend the aduer sitye that chaunced in the warres. When he had taken in the kyngedome, he made one Lysias which had bene captain of the host in Phenicia and Syria ruler ouer the matters of p realme For Ptolomy that was called Maccon, being a ruler for the Jewes (and specially, to spe in iud gement for such wrong as was done vnto the) undertooke to deale peaceably with them. For the whyche cause he was accused of the frendes before Eupator, & when he was suspecte to be a traytour (because he had left Cyprus & Philo metoz) had committed vnto him, and because he departed fro noble Antiochus, that he was come vnto) he poisoned hym selfe and dyed.

Now when Cozryas was gouernour of the same places, he toke straungers and undertooke oft tymes, to warre with the Jewes. Howe our the Iudewes that held the strong holdes, recei ued those p wer bynnen from Jerusalem & toke in hand to warre also. But thei that wer toiled Machabeus besought & prayed vnto the Lord p he would be thei helper, & so thei fell vpon p strong holdes of the Iudewes, & wan many pla ces Neuertheles some, no lesse then. ix. ¶. wer fled into two stronger towres, daupng all maner of ordynance to withstande them.

¶ Then Machabeus leauyng Symon, Josephus, zacheus, and those þ were to them (which were very many) went to besege the, & to fight where moste nebe was. Now they þ were to do money, thowwe certain of those play in þ towers toke. lxx. m. dragmars: & let so of the escape.

But whē it was told Machabeus what had happened, he called the capitaines of þ people together accusig those persons, þ thei had sold þ vie thien for money, & let thei enemies go. So he slew those traitours, & humedpaty wēt in þ d to the. ii. towres. And whē they had ordred the selues manly, w they weapons & handes, they Timotheus* whō þ Jewes had overcome afore gathered a multitud of strange people brought an hoste also of horsmen of þ Alians to wyne Jewrye by strength. But when he drew nepe, Machabeus & they þ were to hym* fell to thei prayer, sprinkled alben vpon thei beades, being gyrded w heavy clob aboute thei loynes, fell downe befoze þ altar, & besought þ Lord þ he wold be merciful to the, but an curay to their enemies, & to take part agaynst their aduersaries, * accordyng as it is promysed in the lawe.

So after þ prayer, they went on further from þ citie: & when they came nye þ enemies, they prepared them selues agaynst them. And by times in þ moynyng at þ beake of the day, both þ hostes buclid together. ¶ The one part had þ Lord for thei refuge, which is þ geuer of prosperite strength & vpetoy: The other had a manly to make, which is a capitaine of warre. The bat-thowwe they were confounded w blyndenes, & so soze afrayed, þ they fell downe. There were slayn of formen. xx. ¶. & v. C. & vi. C. horsmen.

As for Timotheus himself, he fled vnto Sazer a very stronge holde, wherin Cereas was captaine. But Machabeus and his company layed sege to it cherefullye four dapes.

¶ Nowe they that wer within trustyng to the strength of the place, cursed & banned exceeding stomaches, they & thei other companyons cly-med vp vpon þ towres, vnder taking to let fyre vpon þ portes & to burne those blasphemous persons quicke. Two dapes wer they destroyyng the castel, which when they found Timotheus (þ was crept into a cozner) thei killed hē, & slew Cereas his brother in lyke maner wth Appolophanes. Whē this was done, they song psalmes, & prayes & thanksguyng vnto þ Lord which had done so great thynges for Israel, & geuen them the vpetoye.

The. xi. Chapter.

¶ Lissas goeth aboute to overcome the Jewes. Account is made from heauen vnto the Jewes. The letter of Lissas vnto the Je-wes. The letter of Iyring Antiochus vnto Lissas. A letter of the same vnto the Jewes. A letter of the same vnto the Jewes.

¶ De long after this, Lissas þ hynges A steuward & a kynsman of his, (whiche had the gouernance of his matters) toke soze displeasure for the thynges þ had happened, & when he had gathered. lxxx.

ers w wepyng & teares befoze þ Lord. And all þ people in lyke maner besought him, þ he wold send a good angel to deliuer Israel. Machabeus him selfe was þ fyrst þ made him rebt to þ bat-reoparde them selues, & to helpe thei brethren.

And when they were goyng to the of Jerusalem together wth a redy & wylling mynde * there appered befoze them vpon horsbacke a man in men of fore. s. v. C. horsemen of s Arabians fought w him. So when s battail was earnest s prospered w Judas thozow s helpe of God: s relidue of s Arabians bring ouercome, besoughe Judas to be at one w them, s prompyed to geue hym certaine pastures, s to do h good in other thinges. Judas thynkyng s they shulde in dede be profitable concerning many thinges, promi sed them peace: wherupon they shoke handes, s so they departed to theyr tentes. Judas wente also vnto a cypre, whiche was very fast kept w hyspiges, fered rounde about s walles, s diuers captayned captaynes with Machabees, as we chose & Ty-motheus had left in the house of defence, euen M. men. And Machabees prepared him to the M. men & were about hym, let them in odyer by companies, & went forth against Tymothe-us, whiche had to hym an. C. xx. M. men of fote two thousande and syue hundred hoysmen.

¶ When Tymotheus had knowledge of Judas comynge, he sent & women, chyldren, & the other baggage vnto a castell called Carnion (for it could not be won, & was hard to come vnto, the waies of the same place were so narrow) & whē Judas company came fyrst in sight, & enemies were smytten with feare, thowgh & presence of God: whiche seeth al thynges. In so much & they lying one here, another there, were rather dy-conforted of theyr owne people, & wounded w the strokes of theyr owne swordes. Judas also was very earnest in folowynge vpon the pynning those vngodly, & slew. xxx. M. men of the Timotheus also hym selfe fell into & handes of Polytheus, & Dositheus, whome he besoughte w many prayes, to let hym go with his lyfe, because he had many of & Jewes fathers & byerthe in parys, whiche (if they put him to deathe) might be dysappointed. So whē he had promysed faithfully to deliuer them agayne accordynge to the eddyccion made, they let hym go withou harme for the helth of the byerthen. And when Judas had slayne xxv. M. he went from Carnion.

¶ Nowe after & he had chased awaye, & slayne his enemies, he remoued & host toward * Ephraa strong citie, wherein dwelt many diuers people of & heathen, & the strong yong men kept & wal-les defendynge them myghtelye. In this cytie was much ordynance & prouysion of darters. But whē Judas & his company had called vpon almyghty God (whiche w his power breaketh & strenght of & enemies) they wan & citie, & slew. xxv. M. of the & were w. From thence went they to & cy-tie of & Scythians, whiche lyeth. vi. C. furlonges from Ierusalem. But when & Jewes whiche were in & citie testified: & the cytyens delte lounge-ly to them: yee, & intreated the kyndly in & tyme of theyr aduersite, Judas & his company gaue the thankes, despyng them to be friendly styl vnto them, & so they came to Ierusalem, the hye feast of the weakes byng at hand. And after & feast of pentecost they went forth against Gorgias gouernour of Idumia, w. iii. M. me of fote and iii. C. hoysmen. Whiche when they met together it chaunced a fewe of & Jewes to be slaine. And Dositheus one of & Bachenors a mighty hoys-man toke holde of Gorgias, & wolde haue take him quicke. But an hoysman of Thracia fel vpon hym & smote of his arme so & Gorgias escaped & fled into Moza, when they now & were of Gorgias lyde, had fought long & were weary Judas called vpon & Lozde, & he wold be theyr help, & captain of the felde: & with & he began w a manly voyce to take vpon a longe of prayse, & a crye. In so much & he made & enemies afraied & Gorgias men of war toke their flight. So Judas gathered his host, & came into & cytie of Dbulai. And when & vii. day came vpon the, they clested the selues (as the custome was) & kepte the sabboth in the same place. And vpon & daye folowynge, Judas & his company came to take vpon the bodies of them & were slayne, & to burie them in their fathers graues. Now vnder & coates of certayne Jewes whiche were slaine, they founde ierwels & they had taken out of & temple & from the pholis of the * Janiters: whiche thyng is forbiode & Jewes by the lawe. The euery mā saw, & this was & cause wherfor they were slaine.

¶ And so euery mā gaue thankes vnto & Lozde for his ryghteous iudgement, whiche had opened the thyng & was hyd. They fell downe also vnto theyr prayes, & besoughte God, that the faute whiche was made, myght be put out of remembrance. Besides &, Judas exhorted & people earnestly, to kepe them selues from suche synne: for so muche as they sawe befoze theyr eyes, & these men were slayne for the same offence. So he gathered of euery one a certayne, in so muche & he brought together two. M. dragmars of syluer, whiche he sent vnto Ierusalem & ther myght a sacrifice be offered for the mysdoe. In the whiche place he byd well & ryght: for he had some consyderacyon & poudryng of the lyfe & is after this tyme. For yf he had not thought & they, whiche were slaine, byd yet lyue, it had bene superfluous and vaine, to make any vow or sacrifice for the & were dead. But for so muche as he saw, & they whiche were in the fauoure & belefe of God, are in good rest & ioie, he thought it to be good & honorable for a reconcyllynge, to do the same for those whiche were slaine, & the offence might be forgiven.

25 But the kyng was tood in his mynde, & came to the we hym selfe more cunnell vnto the Jewes then his father was. Whiche when Judas perceyved, he commaunded his people to call upon him. Leche nyght & day that he wold now helpe the also, lyke as he had done alway. For they were afrayed to be put from theyr lande, from theyr natural country & from the holy temple: & not to suffer the people (which a lytle while afore began to reuolt) to be subdued agayne of blasphemous nacyes. So when they had done this together, & besought the Lord for mercie, with weeping & fasting in dayes long flat vpon the ground. Judas exhorted them, to make the selues ready. But he & the elders together deuised to go forthfylt w theyr people, afore the kyng brought his hoste into Jewry, and afore he beleged the cite, & conuynct the matter vnto God.

Wherfore, he ascribed the power of al thynges vnto God, & maketh of himselfe a booke, & his people to fight manfully: yet, turn vnto death for the landes, the temple, the cite, theyr owne natyue country, & to defende theyr cytyens: & let his best befall. He gaue them also a tyeer w him a token of his vertye of God, chusing out of his manlyst pence men, went by nyght into his geyssyllion, & woe of his hoste, run. W. men. & a greatt Elephantes w those & sat vpon them.

D Thus when they had brought a great feare & rumour among the tentes of theyr enemyes, & all thynges went prosperously w them, they departed in the breake of the daye, God bring theyr helper & defender. Nowe when the kyng perceyved the manlynesse of the Jewes, he went about to take strong places by craft, & remoued his hoste vnto Bersura, which was a wel kepte house of defence of the Jewes: but they wer chased away, hurt & dyscomfyted. And Judas sent vnto them a tyeer in it luche thynges as wer necessary. In the Jewes hoste also there was one Rhodocus which tolde the enemyes theyr secretes: but they sought hym oute, & when they had gotten hym they put hym in pylson. After this byd the kyng comen with them & wer in Bersura, tooke truce with them, departed & strooke battaile with Judas, whiche overcame hym.

E But when he understoode, that Philyppe (whome he had left to be ouerser of his busynesse at Antioch) beganne to rebell agaynst hym, he was alyoued in his mynde: so that he yelded hym selfe to the Jewes, and made them an othe to do whatsoeuer they thought ryghte.

At the when he was reconcyled with them: he offered, made much of his temple, gaue grate gyftes vnto it, embajased Machabeus, making hym captaene and gouernoure from Betholoma vnto the Gerrenes. Nevertheless, when he came Betholoma, the people of the cite were not content with the bonde of frendshyppe: for they were afrayed, that he wolde breake the comenmant. Then wente Lysias vnto the seate and enuoyed the people, & woe them & cause theyr and pacified them. So he came agayne vnto Antioch. This is now the matter concerning the kynges iourney, and his returne.

The xliii. Chapter.

Why the manner of the laste, Demetrius which Symeon to the Jewes. Symeon maketh a comenmant with the Jewes, & he put himselfe through the mercy of the kyng, Symeon & Machabeus to be taken. The becom of Mach.

After this peres was Judas enforced, & meth howe that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come up w a grente power and shyppes, thowhe the hand of Crapinus, to take certayne comonious places and countreys, agaynst Antiochus and his captaene Lysias. Nowe Alcimus, whiche had bene hys pfeast, and dysfully despyled hym selfe in the tyme of the murther, leping by no means he coulde be helped, nor haue any moze entraunce to the anker: he came to kyng Demetrius in the C. s. li. yere, presentynge vnto hym a crowne of gold, a palme & an Olive tree: which (as men thought) belonged to the temple, and & daye he helde his tonge. But when he had gotten opozounyng for his madnes, Demetrius called hym to counsaill, and asked hym, what thynges he counsailes the Jewes leamed vnto, he answered: The Jewes that be called asyde (whose captaene is Judas Machabeus) mayntayne warres, make insurreccions, and wyl not let the realme be in peace.

For I beinge depyued of my fathers honour (I meane the hys pfeasthode) am come herber: partly because I was faythful vnto the kyng and partly because I sought the profyte of the cytyzens. And why? all our people, thowhe the wychednesse of them, are not a lytle troubled. Wherfore, I beseeche the (O kyng) consyder all these thynges diligently, & the make some prouision for the lande and the people, accordyng to the kynndes that thou hast offered vnto them. For as long as Judas hath the upper hand, it is not possible that men can lyue in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes, other frendes also haupng euell wyll at Judas, set the kyng Demetrius on hys agaynst hym: which immediately sent Richanor (ruler of the Elephantes) a captaene into Jewry, commaundyng hym to take Judas hym selfe alyne, but to slay them that were with hym, and to make Alcimus hys pfeast of the great Temple.

E Then the heathen which fled out of Jewry from Judas, came to Aicanor by Rothes, thynkyng the harme and decaye of the Jewes to be theyr welfare. Nowe when the Jewes hearde of Aicanors coming, and the gathering together of the heathen, they synchled them selues to earth: and besought hym which made them his people, and euer defended his owne pooyson & euident tohens, that he wold pfelesse the syl. So at the comendement of the captaene, they remoued from thence, and came to a toun called Bessalan. And Simon Judas brother sel in hande wth Aicanor, but thowhe the sodaine coming of the enemyes, he was afrayed.

Nevertheless, Aicanor hearinge the manlynesse of them that were with Judas, & the bold stomaches that they had to fighte for their natural country, durst not w one the matter w bloudshedding. Wherfore, he sent Theodorius Theodocius, and Mathias before, to geue and to take peace. So when they had take long aduise ment therupon and the captayne shewed it vnto f multytude, they wer agreed in one mind to haue peace. And they appoynted a daye to fyete vpon these matters quietly among them selues. the scoles also were brought & set forth beuertheles. Judas commaunded certayne men of armes to waite in conuenient places, leste there shoulde sodaynely arys any euell theiowe the enemyes. And so they communed reasona blye together.

D Apcanos, whyle he abode at Jerusalem, or dined hym selfe not vnreasonably, but sent a way the people f were gathered together. He loued Judas euer with his herte, and fauoured hym. he prayd hi also to take a wyfe, & to byg forth chyldren. So he maried, liued in rest, and they led a comen lyfe. But Alcimus perceyving f loue that was betwyxe them, and howe they were agreed together, came to Demetrius, and tolde hym f Apcanos had taken strange mat ters in hand, and ordeyned Judas an enemy of the realme to be the kynges successor. Then f kyng was soe dyspleased, and thozowe f wy ched accusacions, which Alcimus made of Ap canos, he was so prouoked, f he dyed vnto Ap canos saynge: that he was very angrie for the frendshipp & agreement, which he had made w Machabeus. Beuertheles, he commaunded hym in all the haste, that he shuld take Machabeus wylloner, and sende hym to Antioche.

E Which letters when Apcanos had sene, he was at his wyttes end, and soe greued, that he shoulde bryake f thynge wherein they had agre ed specially seying Machabeus was the man f neuer dyd hym harme. But because he myghte not withst ande the kyng he sought opoz tunte to fullfil his commaundement. Notwithstan dyng when Machabeus sawe that Apcanos be ganne to be churche vnto hym, and f he increa sed hym more roughlye then he was wonte, he perceiued f suche vnkynndnes came not of good and therfoze he gathered a fewe of his men, and withdrew hym selfe from Apcanos. Whiche when he knew that Machabeus had manfully puenient hym, he came into f great and moke holy temple: & commaunded f priestes (whiche were doynge they vusual offerpuges) to deliuer hym f man. And when they sware f they coulde not tell where the man was tohome he soughte he stretched out his hande, * and made an othe, sayng: Pf ye wyll not deliuer me Judas cap taine I shall remoue this Temple of God into a playne felde, I shall bryake downe the autter, and consecrate thys temple vnto Baccus. Af ter these wordes he departed.

F Then the priestes lyfte vp they bandes to ward heauen, and besought him that was euer the defender of they people, saynge: Thou O Lorde of all, which haste nede of nothyng, woldest that the temple of thy habitacyon shuld be among vs. Therfoze nowe O most holy Lord kepe this house euer vndefyled * whiche lately was clesed. Now was there accused vnto Ap nos, one Hasis an alderman of Jerusalem a lo uer of the holy cytie, and a man of god reposte: which for the kynde herte that he bare vnto the people, was called a father of the Jewes. This man oft tymes, when the Jewes wer mynded to kepe them selues vndefyled, defended and de liuered them, beyng content steddastly to spend his bodye and his lyfe for his people.

So Apcanos wylling to declare the hate f he bare to the Jewes, sent v. C. men of ware to take him: for he thought, if he gat hym, he shuld byng the Jewes in great decay. Now when f people began to rushe in at his house, to bryake the doores, and to set fyre on it: he beyng now ta ken, wold haue defended hym self w his sword chosyng rather to dye manfullye, then to pcyde hym self to those wyched doers: & because of his noble stocke, he had rather to haue ben put to f extreme cruelty. Notwithstanding, what time as he mydded of his stroke for hast, and f mul ty tude fell in vpolently betwyxt the doers, he ran boldly to f wal, and cast hym selfe doune man fully among f heape of them, whiche gaue some place to his fall, so that he fell vpon hys bellye. Beuertheles, whyle there was yet bryeth with in hym, he was kndled in his mynde, & whyle hys blonde gushed oute exceedingly: for he was verpe soe wounded, he ran thozow the myddest of the people and gat hym to f toppe of a rocke. So when his blonde was gone, he toke out his otone bowels with both his handes, and thyrw them vpon the people, calling vpon the Lorde of lyfe and spyrte to rewarde hym this againe and so he dyed.

The .xv. Chapter.

A Canos went aboute to come vpon Judas on the Sabbath daye. The Machabees of Samaria: Machabeus expounding vnto the Jewes the vppon vnkynndnes of the gentes. After the battell of Apcanos is done outcomer ap canos commaunded his hand and his bandes to be cut of: & his tounge to be prynced oute the foudes.

Now when Apcanos knew that Ju das was in the countre of Samaria, he thoughte with all hys power to styke a felde with hym, vpon a Sa bath daye. Beuertheles the Jewes that were compelled to go wyth hym, sayed: O do not so cruelly and vnkynndly, but halote the Sabbath daye, and wozypp hym, that seeth all thynges. For all thys, yet layed the vngacious perion * Is ther a myghtie one in heauen, f commaun ded the Sabbath daye to kepte? And when they sayed yee, the lyupng God, the myghty Lord in heau: & commaunded the seuenth day to be kepte: And I am myghtie vpon earth, to com maunde them for to arme them selues, and to perfourme the kynges busynes. Notwithstan dyng, he myghte not haue hys purpose.

Apcanos had deuised with great pyd to ouer come Judas, and to byng away the vptoype: But Machabeus had euer fast confydence and a perfect hope in God, that he would helpe him and exhorted his people, not to be afrayd at the commyng of the heathen: but alway to remem ber the helpe f had ben shewed vnto them from heauen: yee, & so be sure nothe also, f Almighty God

God wolde geue them þe victorie. He spake vnto the out of the lorde & prophetes, putting the in remembrance of þe battayles þe had kept hem afore and made the to be of a good courage

B So when they berres were putte up, he rebued them the discryfulnesse of the deathe and howe they wolde kepe no councaunte nor othe. Thus they weaponed them: not in the armour of wynde & speare, but in wholsome wordes and exhortacions. He shewed them a dreame also whereþo we he made the all glad, which was this: he thought þe he sawe Onias (which had bene hys prayse, a vertuous and a lounyng man sad, and of honest conuersacion, well spoken, & one that had bene exercised in godlynesse from a chyld) holdyng vp his handes toward heauen, and prayyng for his people. After this ther appered vnto hym another man which was aged honourable & glorious. And Onias sayde: This is a lover of the brythren, and of the people of Israel. This is he that prayeth muche for the people and for all the holyc cytie: Jeremy þe prophet of God. He thought also that Jeremy helde out his ryght hand, and gaue vnto Judas a sword of gold, sayyng: Take this holy sword a gyfte from God, wherewith thou shalt smyte downe the enemyes of the people of Israel.

C And so they were well comforted thowoe the wordes of Judas, & toke courage vnto them so that the ponge men wer determyned in their myndes to fyghte, and to byde styll þe at it: In somuche that the thynges whiche they toke in hande, they boldnesse the web the same, because the holyc cytie and the temple were in perel: for the whiche they toke moze care then for theyr wyues, chyldren, brythren and kynfolkes.

Agayne they that were in the cytie, were most careful for those whiche were to fyghte. Howe when they were all in a hope that the Judgemente of the matter was at hande, and the enemyes brywe nye, the hoste byyng sette in aray, the Elephantes & horsemen every one standing in his place: Wachaberg consyderyng the comyng of the myltitude, the ordynance of byrers weapons, the cruelnesse of the beastes, and helde vp his handes toward heauen, callyng

D upon the Lorde that doth wonders, & which geueth not the victorie after the myltitude of weapons and power of the hoste (but to them þe please hym) accordyng to his owne wyll. Therfore in his prayer he sayde these wordes.

O Lorde, & thou that bydest sende thynne Aungel in the tyme of Ezechias kynge of Juda, & in the best of Dennachers slewest an. C. lxxx and v. C. sende nowe also thy good aungel befoze vs: O Lorde of heauens in the fearfullnes and byrde of thy myghty arme, & they whiche come agaynst the holyc people to blasfeme them, maye bee straped. So he made an ende of his wordes. Then Aicanos and they þe were with hym, brywe nye wyth shawmes, and songes: but Judas and his compaigne with prayes and callyng upon God.

With theyr handes they smote, but with theyr berres they prayed vnto the Lorde, & knew no lesse then true & thyrtye thousande men: For thowoe the present helpe of God they were gloriously comforted.

Howe when they left of, and were turning agayne with ioye, they vnderstode that Aicanos hym selfe was slayne with the other. Then they gaue a greates shoute and a crye, prayyng the Almyghty Lorde wyth a loude voyce. And Judas (whiche was euer ready to spende hys bodye and lyfe for hys cytyzens) commaunded to smyte of Aicanos head, with his arme and hande, and to be broughte to Jerusalem. When he came there, he called all þe people, and the prestes to the aulter with those that were in the castell, and shewed them Aicanos head, and his wyched hande whiche he had presumptuously holden vp agaynst the temple of God. He caused the tongue also of the vngodly Aicanos to be cut in lytle peces, & to be caste vnto the foules: and the cruell mans hande to be hanged vpon befoze the temple.

So every man gaue thanks vnto the Lorde sayyng: blessed be he, that hath kepte hys place vnderfyll.

As for Aicanos heade, he hanged it vpon the hys castell, for an eydent and plain token of the helpe of God. And so they agreed all together, to kepe that daye holyc, namelike the thyrtyene daye of the moneth Adar whiche in the Assyrians language is called the nexte day befoze Garbochus day. Thus was Aicanos slaine and from that tyme forthe the Jewes had the cytie in possession. And here wyll I now make an ende.

Mat. 2.13-15
 yng: * out of Egypt haue I called my sonne.

Then Herode when he sawe that he was moched of the wyse men, he was exceeding wythe, and sent forth men of warre, and slew all the chyldren that were in Bethleem, and in all the coastes (as many as were two yere olde or vnder) accordyng to the tyme, which he had diligently knowne of the wyse men.

Then was fulfilled that, which was spoken by the prophete Jeremie, where as he sayde: in Rama was there a voyce herde, lamentacion, wepyng and great mournyng. Rachel wepyng for her chyldren, and would not be comforted, because they were not. But when Herode was dead: beholde, an angell of the Lorde appeared in a slepe to Joseph, in Egypt, sayng: arise and take the childe and his mother, and go into the lande of Israel. For they are dead whyche sought the chyldes lyfe. And he arose, and tooke the childe and his mother, and came into the land of Israel. But when he hearde that Archelaus did raygne in Jewry, in the tyme of his father Herode, he was afrayde to go thither. And when standyng, after he was warned of God in a slepe, he turned asyde into the parties of Galile, and wente and dwelte in a cytie whyche is called Nazareth: that it myght be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophetes: he shal be called a Nazarete.

The .iii. Chapter.

The baptyme, and office of Ihon, and howe Christ was baptised of hym in Iordane.

In those dayes came Ihon the baptist, preachyng in the wyldernes of Jewrye, and sayng: Repente of the life that is past, for the kyngdome of heauen is at hande. For thus is he of whome the prophete Esay spake, which sayth: The voyce of a cryer in the wyldernes, prepare the waye of the Lorde, & make his pathes strayght. Thus Ihon had his raimente of Camels heere. And a gyrdell of a skynne aboute his loynes. His meate was locustes and wyld honny. Then went out to hym Jerusalem and all Jewrye, and all the region rounde aboute Iordane, and were baptised of hym in Iordane, confessyng theyr synnes.

But when he sawe many of the Pharisees and Saducees come to his baptyme, he sayd vnto them: O generation of bypers, who hath taught you to lye the vengeance to come? Bryng forth therefore the frutes that belonge to repentance. And be not of such mynde that ye would saye: we haue Abraham to our father. For I saye to you, that God is able to brynge forth of these stones chyl-

shall arise by chylde vnto Abraham. Euen now is he also put vnto the roote of the trees: so that every tree which bringeth forth good frute is hewen downe, and cast into the fyre.

I baptise you in water vnto repentance: but he that shall come after me, is myghtyer then I, whose shoes I am not worthy to beare. He shall baptise you with the holy gooste, and with fyre: whose fanne is in his hande, and he wyll pouрге his floore, and gather his wheat into a barn, but wyll burne the chaffe with vnquenchable fyre.

Then cometh Iesus from Galile to Iordane vnto Ihon, to be baptised of hym. But Ihon forbad hym, sayng: I haue nede to be baptised of the: and comest thou to me? Iesus answered and sayde vnto hym: Let it be so nowe. For thus it becommeth vs to fulfill all righteousnes. Then he suffered hym. And Iesus, when he was baptised, came strayght waye out of the water. And lo, heauen was open vnto hym: & he sawe the spirite of God, descendyng like a dove, and lightyng vpon hym. And lo, there came a voyce from heauē sayng: This is my beloued sonne in whom I am well pleased.

The .iiii. Chapter.

Christ fasteth, and is tempted: the collyer, Berthe, and howe Iohn and Iherusalem hosteth the synners.

Then was Iesus led away of the spirite into wyldernes: to be tempted of the deuell. And when he had fasted fouretye dayes and fouertye nightes, he was at the laste an hongred. And when the tempter came to hym, he sayde: yf thou be the sonne of God, commaunde, & these stones be made bread. But he answered and said: it is written, a man shal not lyue by bread only, but by every worde that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

Then the deuell taketh hym vp into the holy cytie, and setteth hym on a pynacle of the temple, and sayeth vnto hym: yf thou be the sonne of God, cast thy selfe downe headlyng. For it is writte: he shall geue his angels charge ouer the, and with theyr handes they shall holde the vp, leaue at any tyme thou dash the thy foote against a stone. And Iesus saide to hym: it is written agayne: Thou shalt not tempte the Lorde thy God.

Agayne, the deuell taketh hym vp into an exceeding hye mountayne, and sheweth hym all the kynngdomes of the world, and the glorie of them, & sayeth vnto hym: all these wil I geue thee, yf thou wilt fall downe, and worshyp me. The sayeth Iesus vnto hym: Thou shalt worship the Lorde thy God, and hym only shalt thou serue.

Then the deuell leaueth hym, & beholde, the angels came and ministered vnto hym. Then when Iesus had herd that Ihon was taken, he departed into Galile, & left his brethren. & went and dwelt in Capernaum: which is a cite vpon the seacoaste, in the borders of Zabulon & Neftalim, that it myght be fulfilled which was spoken by Esay the prophet sayng: The waye of zabulon & Neftalim, by the waye of the sea rounde Iordane, Galile of the Gentylis.

Sentys: the people whych sat in darknesse and in the shadowe of death, sawe great lycht: and to them whych sat in the region and shadow of death, is the lycht sprung vp.

From that tyme Iesus beganne to preach, and to sape: repente, for the kyngdome of heauen is at hande. ¶ As Iesus walked by the see of Galile, he sawe two brytheren: Symon whych was called Peter, and Andrew hys brother, callinge a nette into the see (for they were fyshers) and he sayeth vnto them: folow me, and I wyll make you ¶ (to become) ¶ fyshers of men. And they kreyghe waye left the nettes, and folowed hym.

¶ And when he was gone forth thence, he sawe other two bryther, James the sonne of zebede, and Iohn hys brother, in the shyppe with zebede theyr father, mendyng theyr nettes, and he called them. And they immediatlye left the shyp and theyr father, and folowed hym. **¶

¶ And Iesus went about al Galile, teachyng in theyr synagoges, and preachyng the Gospell of the kyngdome, & healynge all maner of syches, and all maner of dyscase amonge the people. And hys fame spred abrode throughout al Syria. And they brought vnto hym all syncke people that were taken wth dysuerse dyscaies and grypynge, and them that were possessed wth deuelis: and those whych were lunatyke, and those that had the palsy: and he healed them. ¶ And there folowed hym greute multytudes of people, from Galile, & from the ten cyties and fro Jerusalem, and from Iewrye, and from the regions that lye beyonde Iordane.

¶ In this Chapter and in the two next folowynge is contayned the moche excellent and louynge sermon of Christ in the mounte: whiche sermon is the very hope that openeth the vnderstandynge into the lawe. In this fyfth Chapter, specially he preacheth of the grete beauties of blyssynge: Of man slaughter, wrath and anger, of aduoutrye, of swearing, of sufferynge wrong and of loue, even towarde a mannes enemyes.

¶ When he sawe the people, he went vp into a mountayne, and when he was set, hys dyscyples cam to hym and after that he had opened hys mowthe, he taught them, sayynge:

¶ Blessed are the poore in spirite for they is the kyngdome of heauen. ¶ Blessed are they that mourne: for they shall receaue comferte. ¶ Blessed are the meke: for they shall receaue the inherytance of the earth. ¶ Blessed are they whiche hunger and theyrt after ryghteousnes: for they shall be satysfied. ¶ Blessed are the mercifull: for they shall obteyne mercye. ¶ Blessed are the pure in harte: for they shall se God. ¶ Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the chyldren of God. ¶ Blessed are they whiche suffer persecucion for ryghteousnes sake: for they is the kyngdome of heauen. ¶ Blessed are ye when they mylete y ou, and persecute you, and shall falslye sape all maner of euell sayng agaynst you for my sake. ¶ Reioyse and be glad, for great is your rewarde in heauen. ¶ For so persecuted they the prophetes, whiche were before you.

salt haue lost the saltnes, what shall be seasoned therewith? It is thence forth good for nothyng: but to be cast out, and to be troden downe of men. ¶ Ye are the lycht of the world. ¶ A cytie that is set on an hyll can not be hyd, ¶ neither so men lycht a candell, and put it vnder a busshell, but on a candlestyeche, and it geueth lycht vnto all that are in the house. ¶ Let your lycht so shyne before men, ¶ that they maye see your good workes and glorify your father whych is in heauen. ¶ ¶ Thynke not that I am come to destroye the lawe, or the prophetes: no I am not come to destroye, but ¶ to fulfill. ¶ For trulye I sape vnto you: ¶ tyll heauen and earth passe, one iotte or one tytle of the lawe shall not escape tyll all be fulfilled.

Whosoener therfore breaketh ¶ one of these least commandementes, and teacheth men so, he shall be called the least in the kyngdome of heauen. ¶ But whosoener doth, and teacheth the same shall be called great in the kyngdome of heauen. ¶ ¶ For I sape vnto you: excepte your ryghteousnesse exceede the ryghteousnesse of the Scribes and pharyses, ye can not entre into the kyngdome of heauen.

¶ ¶ Agre wth thyne aduersarye quickly whyles thou arte in the waye wth hym, lest at any tyme the aduersarye deliuer the to the iudge and the iudge deliuer the to the mynyster, and then thou be cast into prison. ¶ Verily, I sape vnto the, thou shalt not come out thence, tyll thou haue payed the vtmoste farthyng.

¶ If thy ryght eye hynder the, plucke hym out and cast hym from the. ¶ For better it is vnto the that one of thy members perishe, then that thy whole body should be caste into hell. ¶ And if thy ryght hande hynder the, cutte hym of, and caste hym from the. ¶ For better it is vnto the, that one of thy members perishe then that all thy bodye should be cast into hell. ¶ ¶ It is sayde whosoener putteth a waye hys wyfe, ¶ let hym geue her a letter of deuocement. ¶ But I sape vnto you: that whosoener doth put away his wyfe (excepte it be for fornicacion) causeth her to breake matrimonye. ¶ And whosoener marryeth her that is deuoced committeth aduoutrye.

The Gospell

I saye, ye haue herde howe it was sayde to them of old tyme: thou shalt not forswere thy life, but shalt perforce sweare vnto the Lord those thynges that thou swearest. * But I saye vnto you: sweare not at all, neither by heauen, * for it is Goddes seate, nor by earth, for it is his foorstoe, neither by Ierusalem, for it is the cite of y greate kynge: neither shalt thou sweare by thy head because thou canst not make one heer white or blacke. But your communicaciō shall be: yea, yea, naye, naye. For whatsoeuer is added moze then these, it cometh of euell.

Ye haue herde that it is sayde: * an eye for an eye, and a toth for a toth. But I saye vnto you, that ye resyste not euell. * But * whosoever geue the a blowe on the ryght cheke, turne to hym the other also. And yf any manne wyl sue the at the lawe, & take awaye thy coate, let hym haue thy cloke also. And whosoever wyl chapele the to go a myle, go wyth hym twayne. Seue to hym that ashereth the, and from hym that woulde bozowe, turne not thou awaye.

Ye haue herde that it is sayde, * thou shalt loue thyne neyghboure, and hate thyne enemye. But I say vnto you: loue your enemyes. Blesse them that curse you. * Do good to them that hate you. Praye for them whiche hurte you and persecute you, * yf ye may be the chyldren of your father whiche is in heauen, for he maketh his sunne to arse on the euell, & on y good, and sendeth rayne on y iust and on the vniuste. For * yf ye loue them whiche loue you: what rewarde haue ye? Do not the publicans also euen plesse? And yf ye make muche of youtre bethzen onely, what syngeure thyng do ye? Do not also y publicans like wise? * ye shal therfore be perfecte eue as your father which is in heauen is perfecte. *

¶ The vi. Chapter. ¶

Of almes, prayer, and fastyng, the sayynges the careful sayyng of wooldy thynges.

I The hede yf ye geue not youre almes in the sight of men, to the intent yf ye would be sene of the. Or els you haue no reward with your father which is in heauen. Therfore when thou givest thyne almes, let not thy right hand knowe what thy left hand doeth, that thyne almes may be in secrete, and thy father which seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly. *

And whē thou prayest * thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are. For they wyl stande praying in the synagoges, and in the corners of the stretes, that they maye be sene of men. Merely, I saye vnto you: they haue thei reward. But when thou prayest * entre into thy chambere, and wyl thou shutt that thy doze praye to thy father which is in secrete, and thy father which seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

But when ye praye * habile not muche, as the heathen do: for they saye: it wyl come to passe that they shal be herd for they much bablynges sake. Be not ye therfore lyke vnto them. * For your father knoweth what thynges ye haue neede of before ye aske of hym, after this maner therfore praye ye.

Our father which art in heauen, halowed be thy name. Let thy kyngdome come. Thy wyl be fulfilled, as well in earth as it is in heauen. Geue vs this daye oure dayly breadyde. And forgyue vs oure dettes as we forgyue oure debtors. And leade vs not into temptacion, but deliuer vs from euell. For thine is the kyngdome and the power, and the glorye for euer. Amen. Therfore * yf ye forgyue other men thei trespasses, your heauenly father shall forgyue you. * But yf ye wyl not forgyue men thei trespasses, no moze shall your father forgyue you your trespasses.

Whosoever when ye fast, be not sad as the hypocrites are. For they disfigure thei faces, * it maye appere vnto men, howe that they fast. Merely, I say vnto you, they haue their reward. But thou when thou fastest, anoynt thyne head and washe thy face that it appere not vnto men that thou fastest: but vnto thy father, which is in secrete, and thy father which seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

Lay not vp for your selues treasure vpon earth where the rust & moth doth corrupt, and where theues bryake through and steale. * But lay vp for you treasures in heauē, wher neither rust nor moth doth corrupt, & wher theues do not bryake thowowe nor steale. For where your treasure is, there wyl your herte be also. *

The lyght of the body is yf ye. Therfore yf thyne eye be syngele, all thy body shal be full of lyght. But yf thyne eye be wycked, all thy body shal be full of darknesse. Therfore, yf y lyght that is in the, be darknesse, howe great is yf darknesse? * A man can serue two masters. For whether he shall hate the one and loue the other, or els leane to the one, & despise the other: ye can not serue God and Mammon. Therfore I saye vnto you: * be not careful for your lyfe, what ye shal eate or drynke, nor yet for your body, what raimet ye shal put on. Is not y lyfe moze worth then meat: and the body moze of value, then raiment? Beholde, the foules of the ayre: for they sowe not, neither do they reape, nor cary into the barnes: and your heauenly father feedeth them. Are ye not muche better then they?

Which of you (by taking careful thought) can adde one cubyte vnto his stature? And why care ye for raiment? Consyder the lilyes of the felde, howe they growe. They labour not, neither do they spinne. And yet I saye vnto you, y euen Salomon in all his royaltie was not arrayed lyke one of these. Therfore, if God so clothe yf grasse of yf felde (which though it stande to daye is to morowe cast into the fornyasse) shall be not much moze do yf same for you, o ye of lytle faith? Therfore take no thought, saying: what shall we eate, or what shall we drynke, or wher with shall we be clothed? After all these thynges doo the gentyles sake. * For your heauenly father knoweth knoweth, that ye haue nede of al these thynges. But rather seke ye first the kyngdome of God and the ryghteousnesse therof, and al these thynges shalbe ministred vnto you.

Care not then for the moioe, for the moioe daye shall care for it selfe: suffycente vnto the daye, is the trauayle therof.

The vii. Chapter.

The forbyddeth foolys and rash iudgement, tey-neth ppyete, exhorteth vnto prayer, warneth to be ware of false prophetes: and wylteth the heaues of his woide to be doers of the same.

Iudge not, that ye be not iudged on (condempne not: ye shall not be condempned.) * For as ye iudge, so shall ye be iudged: And w what measure ye mete, with f same shall other men measure to you. * Why seeest thou a moate in thy brothers eye but cōsydest not the beame f is in thynne owne eye? O howe sayest thou to thy brother: (brother) suffre me, I wyl plucke out a moate out of thynne eye, and beholde, a beame is in thynne owne eye.

Thou ppyete, firste cast out the beame oute of thynne owne eye, & then shalt thou se clearly to plucke out the moate out of thy brothers eye.

Seue not ye that whych is holp vnto dogges nether cast ye your pearles before swyne, leaste they treade them vnder theyr fete, and the other turne agaynst you, and ail to rent you.

Blake and it shalbe geuen you: * Seke and ye shall fynde: knoche, and it shalbe opened vnto you. For whosoever asketh, receaueth, & whoso euer seeketh, fyndeth: and to hym that knocketh, it shalbe opened. Is there any man amonge you whych (yf hys sonne a she bread) wyl offer hym a stone? Or yf he a she syke, wyl he pfofer hym a serpent? Y: ye then (when ye are euell) ca geue poure chyldren good gyftes, howe muche moze shall pour father whych is in heauen, geue good thynges, yf ye aske of hym?

Therefore, * whatsoeuer ye woulde that men should do to you: do ye euen so to them also. For this is the lawe and the prophetes.

* Entre in at the strapte gate: for wyde is f gate, and bzoade is the wape that leadech to de-struccyon: and many there be whych go in ther-at. But strapte is the gate, and narowe is the wape, whych leadech vnto lyfe, and fewe there be that fynde it. * Beware of false prophetes whych come to you in shepes cloynges, but inwardly they are rauynge wolues. Ye shall knowe them by theyr woordes.

* Women gather grapes of thornes: / of fyg-ges of thystles: Eue so euery good tre bynggeth foyth good frutes. But a corrupt tree, bynggeth foyth euell frutes. * A good tree can not bynge foyth bad frute: nether ca a bad tree bynge foyth good frute. * Euery tree f bynggeth not foyth good frute, is hewe donne, and cast into the fyre.

Wherfoze, by theyr frutes ye shall knowe them.
Not euery one f sayth vnto me, * Lozde, Lozde, shall entre into the kyngdome of heauen: but he that doth the wyl of my father, whiche is in heauen. * He shall entre into the kyngd of heauen.)

ny wyl saye to me in f daye: Lozde, Lozde, haue me not ppyetied thozow thy name: * And tho rowe thy name haue caste our deuils: And done many myracles thozow thy name: And then wyl I knowlage vnto them: I neuer knew you: * Departte fro me, ye that woike iniquyte.

For whosoever heareth of me these wordes, & doeth the same, I wyl lphen hym vnto a wyse man, whiche: buylt hys house vpon a roche: & a fower of rayne descended, and f floudes came and the wyndes blew, and bet vpon that house and it fell not, because it was groundd on the roche. And entrep one that heareth of me these wordes: & doeth the not, shalbe lphened vnto a foolyhe mā, whych buylt his house vpon sand and a fower of rayne descended, and f floudes came, & the wyndes blew, and beate vpon that house, and it fell, and great was the fall of it.

And it came to passe, f when Iesus had ended these saynges, f people were astonnyed at hys doctryne. * For he taughte them as one hauyng power, and not as the sctyberg: (of them and the whartyles.)

The viii. Chapter.

Howe Iesus cleynt the leper, and healeth the captaynes seruant, and many other diseases, helpech peter's mother in lawe, syllethe the see, and the wynde, and dyscuth the heuils out of the possed into the wynde.

When he was come doune from the mountayne muche people folowed hym. And beholde, * there came a leper, and worthypped hym say-yng: Wapster, yf thou wylte thou canst make me cleane. And Iesus put forth the hys hande, and touched hym sayyng: I wyl, be thou cleane, and immediatly his leprosy was cleynted.
And Iesus sayeth vnto hym: se thou tel no mā * but go and shew thy selfe to the pceaste, and offre thy gyfte: that Moyses commaunded to be offred for a wytnes vnto them.

* And when Iesus was entred into Caper-naum, there came vnto hym a Centurion, and besought hym, sayyng: Waster my seruaunt lyeth at home syke of the palsy, and is grenously payned. And Iesus sayth, when I come vnto hym, I wyl heale hym. The Centurion answered, and saide: Syr, I am not worthy, that thou shuldest come vnder my rooff: but * speake the worde onely, and my seruaunte shalbe healed. For I also my selfe am a man subiecte to the authorite of another, and haue sondpers vnder me, & I saye vnto this man: go, & he goeth: and to another come, and he cometh, and to my seruaunt do this, and he doeth it. When Jesus herde these wordes, he marueled: and sayde to them that folowed hym: Verely, I saye vnto you: I haue not f. amde so greafe saythe in Israel. I saye vnto you: that many shal come from the East, and West, and shall sit wpyth Abraham and Isahac and Jacob in the kyngdome of heauen: but the chyldren of f kyngdom shalbe cast oute into vetter darknesse: there shal be wepyng and gnashyng of teeth. And Iesus sayde vnto the Centurion: go thy waye, and as thou believest, so be it vnto the. And his seruaunt

And Iesus sayd vnto hym: the foxes haue holes, and the byrdes of the ayre haue nestes: but the sonne of man hath not where to rest hys head. And when he was come to the other syde, into the countrey of the Gergesyes, there mette hym two possessed of deuylles, whiche came out of the graues, and were out of measure fere, so that no man myghte go by that waye. And he sayd vnto them: go poure wayes. Then wente they oute, and departed into the herd of swyne. And beholde, the whole herd of swyne was caried headlong into the see, and perished in the waters. Then they that kept them, fled & wente they wayes into the cytie, and told euery thyng, what had fortauned vnto the possessed of the deuylles. And beholde, the whole cytie came oute to mete Iesus, and when they sawe hym, * they besought hym that he woulde departe out of theyr countrey.

The ix. Chapter. I

He healeth the palsy. calleth matthee from the crosse, and saith to his dyscyples, healeth the woman of the bloody synners. Iesus daughter. geueth two wynde men they fyght, maketh a blunne man to speake and byrnysh out a deuyll.

And entred also into a shyp, & passed ouer, and came into his owne cytie, and beholde, * they brought to him a man syche of the palsy, lying in a bed. And when Iesus sawe the sayth of the, he sayd vnto the synners of the palsy: sonne, be of good cheere, thy synnes be forgiven the. And beholde, certayn of the scribes said within them selues: this man blasphemeth. And when Iesus sawe their thoughtes, he sayd: Whether is easier to saye, thy synnes be forgiven the, or to saye, arise & walke. But that ye maye knowe, that the sonne of man hath power to forgive synnes in earth. Then sayeth he vnto the syche of the palsy: * arise, take vp thy bed, and go vnto thyne house. And he arose, and departed to his house. But the people that sawe it, marueyled, and glorified God, whiche had geuen suche power vnto men. I

And as Iesus passed forthe from thence he sawe a man (named Mattheu) syttinge at the recreate of custome, and he sayth vnto hym, folow me. And he arose and folowed him. And it came to passe as Iesus sat at meat in his house: beholde, many publicans also and synners that cam, sat doune wth Iesus and hys dyscyples.

And when the Pharises sawe it, they sayde vnto his dysciples: why eateth your master wth publicans and synners. But when Iesus heard that, he sayde vnto them: They that be stronge neede not the physicion, but they that are syche. So ye rather and learne what that meaneth. * I wyl haue mercey and not sacrifice. For I am not come to call the ryghteous, but synners to repentance. I Then came the dysciples of Iohn vnto hym, sayng: * why do we and the Pharises fast, for the moste parte: but thy dysciples fast not. And Iesus sayd vnto them: can the bydegrome chylde moune as longe as the bydegrome is wth them. But the dayes wyl come, when the bydegrome shalbe taken from them, and then shall they fast. A man putteth a peece of newe cloth in an olde garment. For then taketh he away the peece from the garment, and the rent is made worse. Neither do men put new wyne into olde bottels: els the bottels breake, & the wyne runneth oute, and the bottels perishe. But they put new wyne into newe bottels, and both are saued together. I

lers house, and sawe the minstreis, and the people making a noise, he said vnto them: get you hence, for the mayde is not dedde * but slepeth. And thei laughed hym to scoone. But when the people wer putte forth, he went in, and toke her by the hande, (and saide vnto her: Arise.) and she dis- sell arose. And this noyle went abrode into all that lande. And when Iesus departed thence twoo blinde menne folowed hym crying and say- yng: O thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy on vs. And whē he was come into the house, the blinde came to hym. And Iesus saith vnto them: We- leue ye, that I am able to dooe this? Thei saied vnto hym: Lorde, wee beleue. Then touched he their eyes, sayng: * Accordyng to your faith bee it vnto you. And their eyes wer opened. And Je- sus charged them sayng: See that no manne knowe of it. But thei, when thei wer departed, spyed a brode his name in all that lande.

As thei went out, beholde, * thei brought to hym a domine manne possessed of a deuell. And when the deuell was cast out the domine spake. And the people merrailed, sayng: it was neuer so sene in Israel. But the phariseis saied: he ca- steth out deuils, through the prince of deuils. And Iesus went aboute all citers and townes teachyng in their synagoges, and preachyng the glad tidynges of the kyngdome, and healynge euery sickenes and every dyscase among the peo- ple. But when he sawe the people: * he was moued with compassion on thei, because thei wer destitute, and scattered abroad, euen as shepe ha- yung no shepheard. Then saith he vnto his di- sciples, the * heruest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are fewe. Praye ye therefore the Lord of the heruest, that he will sende labourers into his barnest.

Chap. x. Chapter.

Chap. x. Chapter. Thei sende out his twelve Apostles to preache in Jewis, geueth them charge, teacheth them, and comforteth them agaynst persecution and trouble.

And when his: twelve disciples wer called vnto hym, he gaue them po- were agaynst vnclane spirites, to cast them out, and to heale all maner of sickenes and all maner of dyscase. The names of the twelve Apostles are these. The first, Simon whiche is called Peter: And drew his brother: James the sonne of zebede, & Iohn his brother: Philip: & Bartholomew: Tho- mas and Mathew, whiche had been a Publick. James the sonne of Alphe, and Lebbaus (whose surname was Taddeus) Sind of Canaan, and Judas Iscariot, whiche also betrayed hym.

* Iesus sente forth these twelve in nombze, whom he commaunded, sayng: Go not into the waye of the Gentiles, and into the citee of the Samaritans entre ye not. But goo rather to the lost shepe of the house of Israel. So and preach sayng: The kyngdome of heauen is at hande. Heale the sicke, cleanse the lepers, raise the dedde, cast out deuils. * Frely ye haue receiued: geue fre- ly. * Possesse not golde nor syluer nor brasse in your purses, nor yet scrippe towarde your iou- ney: neither stoo cotes, neither shoes, nor yet a rod: * For the wooldman is woorthy of his meate

But to whosoever citee or towne ye shall come enquire who is woorthy in it, and there abyde till ye goo thence. * And when ye come into a house salute the same. And if the house bee woorthy, let your peace come vpon it, but if it bee not woorthy let your peace retorne to you again.

And whosoever shall not receiue you, nor wil deare your preachyng: when ye departe out of that house or that citee: shake of the dust of your fete. Clerely I saie vnto you: it shal bee easier for the lande of ioboma and Somora in the daye of iudgement, then for that citee. * Behold I sende you forth, as shepe among wolues. Be ye ther- fore wise as serpentes and innocent as doves. * But beware of menne for thei shall deliuer you vp to the counsailes, & shall scourge you in their synagoges. And ye shal bee brought to the hedde rulers, and kynges, for my sake, in witness to them and to the Gentiles.

But * when thei deliuer you vp, take ye no thought, how or what ye shall speake: * For it shal be geuen you, euen in that same houre what ye shall speake. For it is not ye that speake, but the spireit of your father whiche speaketh in you. * The brother shall deliuer up the brother to death, and the father the sonne. And the chil- dzen shall aryse agaynst their fathers and mo- thers, and shal putte them to death: and ye shal bee hated of al menne for my names sake. * But he that endureth to the ende, shal bee saved.

But * when they persecute you in this citee flye ye into another. For verely I saie vnto you ye shall not goo through all the citers of Israel till the sonne of manne bee come. * The dis- ciple is not above the master: nor the seruante a- bove his Lorde. It is ynough for the dysciple, that he bee as his master is, and that the ser- uante bee as his Lorde is. If thei haue called the Lorde of the house, Welrebus: how muche more shal thei call theim of his householde soe? Feare them not therefore. * For there is no- thyng close that shall not bee opened: and no- thyng hyd, that shall not bee knowne.

What I tell you in darkenes, that speake ye in lighte. And what ye heare in the eare, that preache ye on the house toppes. * And feare ye not them whiche kylle the body but are not able to kylle the soule. But rather feare hym, whiche is able to destroy bothe soule and body into hel. Are not two litle sparowes sold for a farthyng? And one of theim shall not light on the grounde without your father. Yea, euen all the heares of your hedde: are nombzed. Feare ye not therefore: ye are of more value then many sparowes. * E- uery one therefore that shall knoweloge me be- fore menne, hym will I knoweloge also before my father whiche is in heauen. But whosoever shall denye me before menne, hym will I also de- nye before my father, whiche is heauen.

Thynke not that I am come to sende peace into the earthe. I came not to sende peace, but a sworde. For I am come to sette a manne at va- riance: agaynst his father, and the daughter a- gaynst her mother, and the daughter in lawe a- gaynst her mother in lawe. And a mannes foes

As v shal bee

Mat. xiii. 31. Shall bee they that are of his owne household. * he that loveth father, or mother more the me, is not worthy of me. And he that loveth soone or brother more then me, is not worthy of me. And he that taketh not his crosse and followeth me, is not worthy of me. * he that denyeth his life, shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake shall finde it. * he that receiveth you, receiveth me: and he that receiveth me, receiveth hym that sente me. he that receiveth a prophete in the name of a prophete, shall receive a prophetes reward. And he that receiveth a righteous man, in the name of a righteous man, shall receive a righteous mannes reward. * And whosoever shall geve unto one of these litle ones to drinke, a cuppe of colde water onely (in the name of a discipule) verely I saie vnto you he shall not lose his reward.

The xi. Chapter.

When Baptist sendeth his disciples vnto Christ.

3 AND it came to passe, that when Iesus had made an ende of commaundynge his twelue disciples he departed thence, to teache and to preach in their cities. * While Iohn being in prison hearde the woordes of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, & sayed vnto hym. Art thou he that shall come: or dooe wee loke for another? Iesus answered and sayed vnto them: Go, and shewe Iohn againe, what ye haue hearde & sene. * The blinde receiue their sight: the lame walke, the lepers are cleansed: and the deef heare, the dedde are arised vp, and the poore receiue the glad tidynge of the Gospell. And happy is he, that is not offended by me. * And as they departed: Iesus began to saie vnto the people concerning Iohn. What went ye out into the wilderness to see? I rede that is shaken with the wynde? Or what went ye out for to see a man clothed in soft raiment? Beholde: they that weare soft clothyng: are in kinges houses. But what went ye out for to see? A prophete: Verely I saie vnto you: and more then a prophete. For this is he of whom it is wytten: Beholde, I sende my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee. * Verely I saie vnto you: among them that are borne of women, arose not a greater the Iohn the baptist. Notwithstanding he that is lesse in the kyngdome of heauen is greater then he. For the dayes of Iohn baptist vntill this daye, the kyngdome of heauen suffereth violence and the violent plucke it vnto them. * For all the prophetes, and the lawe it self prophesied vnto Iohn. And if ye will receiue it: this is helyas, which was for to come. he that hath eares to heare: let hym heare. * But whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like vnto the chylidren, which sit in market places, and call vnto their feloes, and saye: we haue pypped vnto you: and ye haue not dancid: we haue mourned vnto you and ye haue not sorrowed. For Iohn came neither eatyng nor drynkyng, and they saye, he hath the deuell.

The soone of manne came eatyng and drynkyng and they saye: beholde a glutton, and an vnmeasurable dryncher of wyne: and a frende vnto publicans and synners. And wysedome is layd by of her chylidren. * Then began he to praye & crite which mooste of his myracles were dooen in: because they repented not of their synnes. Wo vnto thee Chozaim: Wo vnto thee Bethsaida: for if the myracles which were shewed in you had been dooen in the cite of Tyre or Sydon they had repented of their synnes long agoe in sackcloth and ashes. Verethelesse I saie vnto you: it shall be easer for Tyre and Sydon at the daye of iudgement, then for you. And thou Capernaum, which art lift vp vnto heauen, shall be brought doune to hell. For if the myracles which haue been dooen in thee, had been shewed in zodome: they had remayned vntill this daye. Verethelesse, I saie vnto you: that it shall be easer for the lande of zodome in the daye of iudgement, then for thee. * At that tyme Iesus answered and said: I thanke thee O father, Lorde of heauen and earth, because thou haste hyd these thynges from the wise and prudent, and haste shewed them vnto babes, verely father, euen so was it thy good pleasure. * All thynges are geuen ouer vnto me of my father. * And no manne knoweth the father, saue the sonne, and he to whom the father will open hym. Come vnto me all ye that laboure and are laden, and I will ease you. * Take my yocke vpon you, and learne of me, for I am meke and lowly in hearte: and ye shall fynde rest vnto your soules. For my yocke is easy, and my burden light. * The xii. Chapter.

The disciples plucke feares of coine. Christ healeth the blind manne, helpe the possessed & was blinde & dourne and sheweth who is his brother, sister and mother.

AT that tyme Iesus went on the Sabbath daies through the corne & his disciples were an hungred and began to plucke feares of coine and to cate. But when the pharisees sawe it, they said vnto hym: beholde, thy disciples dooe & which is not lawfull (for them) to dooe vpon the Sabbath daie. But he said vnto them. Haue ye not read what Dauid did, when he was an hungred, & they that wer with hym: how he entred into the house of God, and did cate the shew breades which wer not lawfull for hym to cate, neither for they which wer with hym, but onely for the prestes? Or haue ye not read in the law, how that (on the Sabbath daies) the prestes of the temple breake the Sabbath & are blamelesse? But I saie vnto you that in this place is one greater then the temple. Wherefore, if ye will what this meaneth: I require mercy and not sacrifice ye would not haue condemned innocentes. For the soone of manne also, is Lorde euen of the Sabbath daies.

And he departed thence & went into their sinagoge: & beholde there was a manne which had his hande dried vp. And they asked hym, sayyng: is it lawfull to heale vpon the Sabbath dayes?

dayes: that thei might accuse hym. And he sayed vnto them: whiche of you will it bee, that shall haue * a speere, and if it fall into a pitte in the laboth daye, will he not take it and lifte it out? how muche more then is a manne better then a speere? Wherefore it is lefull to dooe a good dede on the laboth dayes. Thei saied he to the manne stretch forth thy hande. And he stretched it forth. And it was restored vnto health, like as forther.

A* Then the pharises wente out, and helde a counsaile against hym, how thei might destroy hym. But when Iesus knewe it he departed thence, and muche people folowed hym, and he draled them all, and charged them that thei should not make hym known: that it might bee fulfilled whiche was spoken by Esaye the prophete, whiche saith: * Beholde, my chyldre, whom I haue chosen, my beloued, in whom my soule delighteth. I will putte my spirite vpon hym, and he shall shewe iudgement to the Gentiles. he shall not stryue ner crye, neither shall any manne heare his voice in the stretes, a bryled reede shall he not breake, and smokynge flaxe shall he not quenche, tyll he sende forth the iudgemente vnto victoier, and in his name shall the Gentiles truste.

E Then was brought to hym a blynde & domme mane, that was vered with a deuell, and he healed hym, in so muche, that the blinde and domme bothe spake and sawe. And all the people were amazed, and saied: Is not this the sonne of Dauid? But when the pharises heard it, thei saied this felow dyspuyeth the deuells no other wyse out, but by the helpe of Beelzebub the chief of the deuilles. But when Iesus knewe their thoughtes he saied vnto them: Every kyngdome deuilled against it self, walber brought to noughte. And every cite or house deuilled agaynst it self shall not stande. And if Satan cast out Satan, then is he deuilled agaynst himself. How shall then his kyngdome endure? Also, if I by the help of Beelzebub caste out deuilles, by whose helpe doo your chyldren caste them out? Therefore thei walber your iudges. But if I caste out the deuilles by the spirite of God, then is the kyngdome of God come vnto you.

Orels how * can one entre into a strong mannes house, and spoyle his iewels, excepte he firste bynde the strong manne, and then spoyle his house? * he that is not with me, is agaynst me. And he that gathereth not with me, scattereth abroade. Wherefore, I saie vnto you, all maner of synne and blasphemie shall be forgiven vnto me: but the blasphemie agaynst the spirite, shall not be forgiven vnto menne. * And whosoever speaketh a woorde agaynst the sonne of manne, it shall be forgiven hym. But whosoever speaketh agaynst the holy ghoost, it shall not be forgiven hym, neither in this worlde, neither in woerde to come. * Either make the tree good and his frute good: orels make the tree euill, and his frute euill. * For the tree is known by his frute. O generation of vipers, how can ye speake good thynges, when your selues are euill? * For out of the aboundance of the hearte, the mouth speaketh. A good manne out of the good treasure of hys hearte, byngeth forth good thynges. And an euill manne, out of hys euill treasure byngeth forth euill thynges. But I saie vnto you, of every ybell worde that manne shall haue spoken thei shall geue accomptes in the daye of iudgemente. * For out of thy woordes thou shalt bee iustified: and out of thy woordes thou shalt bee condemned.

Then certain of the scribes and of the pharysees asked hym, sayng: * Master, wee will see a signe of thee. But he answered and saied to them: * The euill & aduenterous generacion: schere a signe: there shall no signe bee geuen to them but the signe of the prophete Jonas. * For as Jonas was thre dayes and thre nightes in the whales belly, so shall the sonne of manne bee thre daies and thre nightes in the hearte of the earth: The sonne of manne shall rise in the iudgemente with this nacion, and condemne it, because * thei amended at the preachynge of Jonas. Beholde here is one greater then Jonas. * The queene of the South shall rise in the iudgemente with this generacion, and shall condemne it: for she came from the vtmost partes of the worlde to heare the wysedome of Salomon. And beholde in this place is one greater then Salomon.

When the vnclane spirite is gone out of a manne, he walketh throughout drye places seeking rest, & findeth none. Then he saith: I will retourne into my house, from whence I came out. And when he is come, he fyndeth it emptye and swepte, and garnished. Then gooth he and taketh vnto hym seuen other spirites worse then himself, and so entreteth he in, and dwelleth there. And the ende of that manne is worse then the begynnynge. Euen so shall it bee also, vnto this froward generacion. While he yet talked to the people: behold, his mother & his brethren stode without desyring to speake with hym. The one saied vnto hym: beholde, * thy mother and thy brethren stande without, desyring to speake with thee. But he answered, and saied vnto hym that had tolde hym: Who is my mother? or who are my brethren? And he stretched forth his hande towards his disciples and saied, * beholde, my mother and my brethren. For whosoever dooth the wyll of my father whiche is in heauen, the same is my brother, sister, and mother. A

The xiii. Chapter.

The parable of the seedes of the sower, of the mustarde seede, of the leaven, of the tares, of the figge tree, of the pomegranate, and of the figge tree.

In the same daye went Iesus out of the house, * & sat by the seaforde, and muche people were gathered together vnto hym, so greatly that he went, and sat in a ship, and all the people stode on the shore. And he spake many thynges to them by similitudes, sayng: Behold, I sowe wit to the sowe. And whyle he sowed, some seedes fell by the way side and fowles came & deuoured them vp. Some fell vpon stony places, where thei had not muche earth, and anon they sprong vp, because they had no depeynt of earth: and when the sunne was

was up they caught the beate, and because they had no cote, they byddered a wape. Again some fell among thornes, and the thornes sprong vp and choaked them. But some fell into good ground, and brought forth frute: some an hundred folde, some sixty folde, some thirty folde. Whosoever hath eares to heare, let hym heare.

B And the disciples came, and said vnto hym: Why speakest thou to them by parables? he answered and sayed vnto them: * it is geuen vnto you to knowe the secretes of the kyngdome of heauen, but vnto them it is not geuen. * For whosoever hath, to hym shall be geuen, and he shall haue aboundance. But whosoever hath not: from hym shall be taken awaye euery thinge that also whiche he hath. Therefore speake I to them by similitudes: for they seyn, see not: & hearyng they heare not: neither doo they vnderstand. And in them is fulfilled the prophesie of Esaias, whiche sayeth: * with the eares ye shall heare, and shall not vnderstand: and seynge ye shall see, and shall not perceiue. For these peoples heartes is waxed grosse, and their eares are dull of hearing, and their eyes haue they closed, lest at any tyme they should see with their eyes, and heare with their eares, & should vnderstand with their heart and bee conuerted, that I also might heale them.

C * But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your eares, for they heare. Clerely I saye vnto you, that many prophetes & righteous menne haue desired to see those thynges, whiche ye see, and haue not sene them: and to heare those thynges whiche ye heare, and haue not heard of them. * Heare ye therefore the similitude of the sower. When one beareth the woorde of the kyngdome and vnderstandeth it not, then cometh the euill manne & taketh awaye that whiche was sowne in his heart: this is he whiche was sowne by the waie syde. But he that receiued the sowe whiche was cast into stony places, the same is he that beareth the woorde, and anon with ioy receiueth it, yet hath he no roote in hymself, but dureth for a season: for when tribulacion or persecution happeneth because of the woorde, by and by he falleth. He also that receiueth sowe into the thornes, is he that beareth the woorde, and the care of this worlde: and the dyspayntynesse of riches choke vp the woorde, and so is he made vnfertile. But he that receiueth sowe into good grounde is he that beareth the woorde, and vnderstandeth it: whiche also beareth frute, and bringeth forth, some an hundred folde, some sixty folde, some thirty folde.

D Another similitude putte he forth vnto them sayng: * The kyngdome of heauen is lykened vnto a manne, whiche sowed good sowe in his felde. But while menne slepe, his enemye came, and sowed tares among the wheate, and went his waye. But when the blade was sprong vp and had brought forth frute, there appeared the tares also. So the seruantes of the householde came, and sayed vnto hym: Sir, dost thou not seyn thou sowed good sowe in thy felde? from whence then hath these tares? he sayed vnto them, the euill manne hath doon this. The seruantes sayed vnto hym: wilt thou then that wee goe, & weede them vnto? But he sayed: naye, lest while ye gather up the tares ye pluche vp also the wheate with them, let both growe together vntill the haruest, and in tyme of haruest, I will saye to the reapers gather ye first the tares, and bynde them together in bokes to bee brynte: but gather the wheate into my barn. * Another parable putte he forth vnto them, sayng: * The kyngdome of heauen is like to a grayne of mustarde sowe, whiche a manne sowe and sowed in his felde, whiche is the lesse of all the sedes. But while it is growen, it is the greatest among herbes, and is a tree so that the byrdes of the ayre come, and make their nestes in the boughes thereof.

Another similitude spake he vnto them: The kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a leuen, whiche a woman taketh and bydeth in three peches of meale, tyll all bee leuened. * All these thynges spake Iesus vnto the people by similitudes, and without a parable spake he nothyng vnto them: that it might bee fulfilled, whiche was spoken by the prophete, that sayeth: * I wyll open my mouth in parables: I will speake forth thynges whiche haue been kepte secrete from the begynnyng of the worlde. * When the people were sente awaye, then came Iesus into the house. * And his disciples came vnto hym, sayng: declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the felde. he answered, and sayed vnto them.

He that soweth the good sowe is the sonne of manne. The felde is the worlde. And the chyliden of the kyngdome they are the good sowe: the tares are the chyliden of the wyched, the enemye that soweth them, is the deuill. The haruest is the ende of the worlde: the reapers bee the angels. Euen as the tares therefore are gathered and brynt in the fyre: so shall it bee in the ende of this worlde. * The sonne of manne shall sende forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kyngdome all thynges that offende, and them whiche doo iniquite: and shall cast them into a furnace of fyre. There shall weepe & gnawynge of teeth. Then shall the righteous shyn as the sunne in the kyngdome of their father. Whosoever hath eares to heare, lette hym heare. *

Again the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a treasure hid in the felde: the whiche a manne hath founde and hyd: and for ioy thereof he hath sold all that he hath, and buyeth the felde. Again the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a net, that was caste into the sea, and gathered of all kynde of fyshes: whiche when it was full, menne drew it to lande, and satte downe and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad awaye. So shall it bee at the ende of the worlde. The angels shall come & shal take out of good, & shall cast them into a furnace of fyre: there shall weepe & gnawynge of teeth. Iesus sayeth vnto the haue ye vnderstand all these thynges? They sayed vnto hym: yea. Lo, then sayed he vnto them. There-

for every scrife whiche is taught vnto the hyng dome of heauen, is like vnto a manne that is an housholder, whiche byngers out of his treasure thynges newe and olde. R

And it came to passe that when Iesus had finished these similitudes, * he departed thence: And when he came into his owne country, he taughte them in their synagoges, in so muche, that they were astounded and saide: whence cometh this wysedome and powers vnto hym? is not this carpenters sonne? Is not his mother called Mary? and his brethren, James and Ioses and Simon and Judas? And are not all his sisters with vs? Whence hath he then all these thynges? And they were offended at hym. Iesus sayed vnto them: * A prophete is not without honoure, saue in his owne country, and in his owne house. And he did not many miracles ther because of their vnbelefe.

The xliiij. Chapter.

¶ When Iesus was taken and beheaded. Christe fedde fower thousande men with fyue loaves and twoo fyshes, and appeared by night vnto his disciples vpon the sea.

At that tyme * Herode the Tetrarche hearde of the fame of Iesu, and saide vnto his seruantes: this is Ihon the baptist. he is risen from the dedde, and therefore are miracles wroughte by hym.

For Herode: had taken Ihon and bounde hym, and putte hym in prison because of Herodias, his brother Philipps wife. For Ihon saide vnto hym: * it is not lawfull for thee to haue her. And when he would haue putte hym to deathe, he feared the people, * because they counted hym as a prophete. But when Herodes: birth day was kepte, the daughter of Herodias daunced before them, and pleased Herode. * Wherefore he promised with an othe, that he would geue her whatsoener she would aske. And she being instructed of her mother before, said: geue me here Ihon baptiste hedde in a platter. And the hyng was sorry. Nevertheless, for the othes sake, and them whiche sat also at the table, he commanded it to be geuen her: and sente to mynt oures, and beheaded Ihon in the prison, and his hedde was broughte in a platter, and geuen to the damosell, and she brought it to her mother. And his disciples came and toke vp his bodye, and buried it: wente, and tolde Iesus.

¶ When Iesus hearde of it, he departed thence in a shippe vnto a deserte place, out of the wate. And when the people had hearde thereof, they folowed hym on fote and left the citres. And Iesus wente forth, and sawe muche people, and was moued with mercie towarde them, and he healed of them those that were sicke. And when the euen was come on, his disciples came to him, saying this is a deserte place, and the houre is now past, lette the people departe, that they maye goo into the townes, and buye them vitayles. But Iesus saide vnto them. They haue no nede to goo awaye. Geue yethem to eate. They saide vnto hym, wee haue here but fyue loaves and twoo fyshes. He saide byng them betwixt to me. And he commanded the people to sit doune on the grasse, and he tooke the fyue loaves and the twoo fyshes and left vp his eyes towarde heauen and blessed. And when he had broken them, he gaue the loaves to his disciples, and his disciples gaue them to the people. And they did all eate, and were satisfied. And they gathered vp (of the fragmentes that remayned) twyne baskettes full. And they that did eate, were aboute fyue thousand menne besyde women and chyliden.

* And straight waie Iesus made his disciples to get vp into a shippe, and to go before hym vnto the other syde while he sent the people a waie. And when the people were sent a waie, he went vp into a mountaigne to praye alone. And when nyght was come, he was there hymself alone. But the ship was now in the middes of the sea, and was tolt with waues, for it was contrary wynde. And in the fourth watche of the nyght, Iesus went vnto them walking on the sea. And when the disciples sawe hym walking on the sea they were troubled, saying: it is some spyrte, and they cried out for fear. But straight waie, Iesus spake vnto them, saying: be of good cheare, it is I: be not afrayed. Peter answered hym, & saide: Lorde, if it bee thou, byd me come vnto thee on the water. And he saide: come. And when Peter was come doune out of the shippe, he walked on the water, to goo to Iesus. But when he sawe a mighty wynde, he was afrayed. And when he began to synke, he cried, saying: Lorde saue me. And immediately Iesus stretched forth his hande and caughte hym, and saide vnto hym. O thou of little faith, wherefore diddest thou doubt? And when they were come into the shippe, the wynde ceased. Then they that were in the shippe came and worshipped hym, saying: or a truthe thou art the sonne of God. And when they were gone ouer, they came into flande of Genesareth. And when the menne of the place had knowlage of hym, they sent out messengers into all the countrye round aboute the coste, & brought vnto hym all that wer sicke, and besoughte hym, that they mighte touche the hemme of his vesture onely. And as many as touched it were made safe.

The xlv. Chapter.

¶ Christe exhorteth his disciples, and rebuketh the scribes and pharises for transgressing Godes commandmentes through their owne traditions. The thyng that goeth into the mouth defileth not the manne: he deliuereth the heede of Canones daughter, healeth the murtherer and heere from loaves and a fyve litle fyshes, fedde fower thousande menne, besyde women and chyliden.

When came to Iesus scribes and pharises (whiche were come from Hierusalem) saying: why dooe thy disciples transgresse the tradition of the elders? For they walke not with their handes when they eate bryd

But he answered & saide vnto them: why dooe ye transgresse the commandementes of God because of your owne tradition? For God commaundeth, saying: * Honour father & mother, and he that curseth father or mother: let hym dye the deathe. But ye saie: euerie one that saie to his father and mother: * what gift soeuer should haue come of me the same is turned vnto thy profite: and so shall he not honoure his father or his mother.

And

The Gospell

And thus haue ye made the commaundement of God of none effecte, because of poure owne traditions. Ppocrites, full well did Esay prophesy of you sayng: This people draweth me vnto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with lippes, holowberit, their heartes are farre from me: but in vain dooe they serue me, teaching the doctrynes and pceptes of manne.

B And he called the people to hym, and saied vnto them, heare and vnderstande. That whiche goeth into the mouth, defileth not manne: but that whiche cometh out of the mouth, defileth the manne. Then came his disciples, & saied vnto him: knowest thou not, that the pharises were offended at this sayng? But he answered and saied: Every plant which my heavenly father hath not planted, shall be plucked vp by the rootes. Let them alone, they bee the blynde leaders of the blynde. If y<sup>e</sup> blynde leade the blynde, bothe shall fall into the ditch. Then answered Peter and saied vnto hym: declare vnto vs this parable. Iesus saied: are ye also yet without vnderstandyng? dooe not ye yet vnderstande, y<sup>e</sup> what soeuer entereth into the mouth, goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught: But those thynges whiche proceed out of the mouth, come forth fro the heart, & they defile the manne. For out of the heart proceed euill thoughtes, murders, breakyng of wedlocke, whozdos, thestes, false witness, blasphemies. These are the thynges whiche defile a manne. But to take meate wth vnwashed handes, defileth not a manne.

C And Iesus went thence, and departed into the costes of Tyre and Sidon, and beholde a woman of Canaan, whiche came out of the same costes, cryed vnto hym sayng: haue mercie on me. O Lord, thou sonne of Dauid: My daughter is piteously vexed with a deuell. But he answered her nothyng at all, and his disciples came & besought hym sayng: sende her away, for she crieth after vs. But he answered, & saied: I am not sente: but vnto the lost shepe of the house of Israel. Then came she, & worshipped hym, sayng: Lord, helpe me. He answered and saied: it is not mete, to take the chylidrens bryde, and to cast it to dogges. She answered & saied: truth Lord for the dogges eate of the crummes, whiche fall from their masters table. The Iesus answered & saied vnto her. O woman, greate is thy faith: be it vnto thee, euil as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole euen at that same tyme.

D And Iesus went a waie from thence, and came into the sea of Galile, and wente vp into a mountaigne, and sette doune there. And muche people came vnto hym, bryngyng wth them those that were lame, blynde, deafe, maymed, & other many: and cast them doune at Iesus fete.

E And he braided them: in so muche, that the people wondered, when they sawe y<sup>e</sup> domine speake the maymed to bee whole, the lame to walke, & the blynde to see. And they glorified the God of Israel. * Then Iesus called his disciples vnto him, and saied: I haue compassion on the people because they continue with me now thre daies, and haue nothing to eate: and I will not let they departe fastyng, lest they miscary by the waie. And his disciples sayed vnto hym: Whence should we gette so muche bryde in the wyldernes as to suffice so greate a multitude? And Iesus sayeth vnto them: how many loaves haue ye? And they saie: seuen, and a litle litle fyshes. And he commaunded the people to sytte doune on the grounde: and toke the seuen loaves, and the fyshes: and after that he had geuen thankes he brake them, and gaue to his disciples, and the disciples gaue them to the people. And they did all eate, and were sufficed. And they toke vp (of the broken meate that was lefte) seuen baskettes full. And yet they that did eate were foure thousande menne, belyde women and chylidren. And he sente a waie the people, and toke wyppes and came into the partes of Magdala.

The xvi. Chapter.

The pharises require a token. Iesus warneth his disciples of the pharises doctrine. The confession of Peter. The keyes of heauen. The saythfull must beate the croce after Christ.

The pharises also wyrd the Saducees, came and tempted hym, and desired hym, that he would shew them a sygne from heaue. He answered and saied vnto them: whi it begynneth to drawe toward euen, ye saie: it will bee saye whether, for the s<sup>h</sup>ye ys read. And in the morning: It will bee soule whether to daye, for the s<sup>h</sup>ye ys gloumyng red. O ye ypocrites, ye can deserue the outward appearance of the s<sup>h</sup>ye: but can ye not deserue the sygnes of the tymes? * The frowarde and aduolterous nacion requyret * a sygne, and there shall no sygne bee genen vnto it, but the sygne of the Prophet Jonas. * And he left them, and departed.

And when his disciples were come to the other syde of the water, they had forgottē to take bryde wth them. Then Iesus sayed vnto them: * Take heed and beware of the leuen of the pharises and of the Saducees. And they thought in them selues, sayng: we haue taken no bryde wth vs. Whiche when Iesus vnderstode he sayed vnto them: O ye of lytle faith, why take ye thoughte wthin your selues, because ye haue brought no bryde? Dooe ye not yet perceyue, neither remember those fyue loaves, when there wer<sup>e</sup> fyue thousande menne, & how many baskettes toke ye vp? * Acether the seuen loaves when there were foure thousande menne, and how many baskettes toke ye vp? how happeneth it that ye dooe not vnderstand, that I speake it not vnto you concerning bryde, that ye shuld beware of the leauen of the pharises, and of the Saducees? Then vnderstode they, how that he had not them beware of the leuen of bryde: but of y<sup>e</sup> doctryne of the pharises, and of the Saducees.

Althen Iesus came into the costes of the cite whiche is called Cesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples sayng: * who dooe menne saye y<sup>e</sup> I the sonne of manne am? They sayed: some saye y<sup>e</sup> thou art Ion the baptist, some helyas, some Jeremias, or one of the nobles of the prophetes. He sayth vnto them: but who saie ye that I am Simon

Simon Peter answered and said: * Thou art Christ the sonne of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him: happy art thou Simon the sonne of Jonas, for flesh and blood hath not opened that unto thee, * but my father which is in heave. And I say unto thee that thou art Peter: and upon this * rocke I will builde my congregacion. And the gates of heave shall not prevail against it. And I will geve unto thee, the keyes of the kyngdome of heave: And * what-soever thou byndest in earth, shall be bounde in heave: and what-soever thou lovest in earth shall be loosed in heave also. ¶

Then charged he his disciples, that they shoulde tell no man, that he was Jesus Christ. * From that tyme forth began Jesus to shewe unto his disciples, how that he must go unto Jerusalem, and suffer many thynges of the elders, and hye preastes, and scribes, and must be kylled and be raysed again the thyrde daye. And when Peter had take hym asyde, he began to rebuke hym saying: master, save thy self, this shall not happen unto thee: but he turned hym about, & said unto Peter: go after me Satan, thou hindrest me: for thou savourest not the thynges that be of God, but those that be of men.

¶ Then said Jesus unto his disciples: If any man will folow me, let hym forsake hym self and take up his crosse, & folow me. * For who so wyl save his life, shall lose it. Againe who so doeth lose his life for my sake, shall fynde it. For what doth it proffyte a man, yf he wyne all the whole worlde, and lose his owne soule? Or what shall a man geve to redeme his soule again wythall? For the sonne of man shall come in the glospe of his father, with his angels: and then shall he rewarde every man accordyng to his dedes. Cleerly I saye unto you, * there be standynge here, whiche shall not tast of death, tyl they se the sonne of man come in his kyngdome.

The transfiguration of Christ. He healeth the lunaticke, and payeth tribute.

¶ After sixe dayes, Jesus taketh Peter, James & Iohn his brother, and byngeth them up into an hye mountayne out of the waye, & was transfigured before them * and his face shyned as the sonne, and his clothes were as whyte as the lyght. And beholde, ther appeared unto them Moyses and Elias talkyng with hym. Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus: Lorde, here is good helyng for vs. If thou wilt, let vs make here thre tabernacles: one for thee, and one for Moyses, & one for Elias. Whyle he yet spake, beholde, a bygge cloude shadowed them. And beholde, there came a voyce out of the cloude which said: this is my beloued sonne in whome I deelyte * heare hym. And when the disciples hearde these thynges, they fell on theyr faces and were sore afrayed. And Jesus came & touched them and said: aryse and be not afrayd. And when they had lyft up their eyes they sawe no man, save Jesus onely.

¶ And when they came doune from the mountaigne, Jesus charged them saying: whete the vison to no manne, untill the sonne of manne be ressen again from the dedde. ¶ And his disciples asked hym, saying: Why saye the scribes, that Elias must firste come? Jesus answered, and said unto them: * Elias truly shall firste come, and restore all thynges. But I saye unto you, that * Elias is come already and they knowe hym not: but have dooen unto hym what soever they lusted. In lyke wise shall also the sonne of manne suffer of them. Then the disciples understode, & he spake unto them of Iohn Baptist. And when they were come to the people there came to hym a certain man knysing doune to hym, and saying: Master haue mercy on my sonne, for he is lunatike and sore vexed, for oft tymes he falleth into the fyre, and oft into the water. * And I broughte hym to thy disciples, and they coulde not heale hym. Jesus answered and said: O faithles and crooked nacion, how long shall I be with you: how long shall I suffer you? Whyng hym hether. And Jesus rebuked the deuell, and he departed out of hym. And the childe was healed even that same tyme. ¶

¶ Then came the disciples to Jesus secretly, and said: why coulde not wee cast hym out? Jesus said unto them: Because of your unbeliefe. For verely I saye unto you: * If ye haue faith as a graine of musterde seede, ye shall saye unto this mountaigne: remove hence to ponde place, and it shall remove: neether shall any thyng be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kinde goeth not out, but by prayer and fastyng. Whyle they were occupied in Galile, Jesus said unto them: it will come to passe that the sonne of manne shall be betrayed into the handes of menne, and they shall kill hym and the thyrde daye shall he rise againe. And they were exceeding sore. ¶ And when they were come to the cite of Capernaum, they that use to receiue tribute money, came to Peter, and said: Dooeth your master paie tribute? he saith: yea. And when he was come in to the house, Jesus prevented hym saying: what thyng is it thou Simon: of whom dooe the kynges of the earth take tribute or tolle, of their chyldren, or of straungers? Peter saith unto hym: of straungers. Jesus saith unto hym: Then are the chyldren free: For weight and yng, least wee should offend them, goo thou to the sea, and cast an angle, and take the fysh that firste cometh up: and when thou hast opened his mouth thou shall fynde a peece of twenty pence: that take and geue it unto them for me and thee. ¶

The teaching his disciples to be humble and mercifull amonge occasions of euill, and one to saye good another offence.

¶ The same tyme came the disciples unto Jesus, saying: * Who is the greatest in the kyngdome of heave? Jesus called a childe unto hym, and set hym in the myddest of them, and said: Cleerly I saye unto you: * except ye turne, & become as chyldren, ye shall not enter into the kyngdome of heave. Whosoever therfore humblyth birth hymself as this chyldre, the same is the great in the kyngdom of heauen. And who so receiveth such a chyldre in my name, receiveth me.

But whose soeuer offendeth one of these litle ones which beleue in me: it were better for hym that a millstone were hanged aboute his necke, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea. Wo vnto the worlde because of offences.

Necessarie it is that offences come. But wo vnto the mane by whom the offence cometh.

Wider soze if thy hande or thy fote bynder thee, cut hym of and cast it fro thee. It is better for thee to enter into life halt or maymed, rather then thou shouldeste (hanging twoo handes or twoo fete) bee cast into euerylastyng fire. And if thine eye offend thee, plucke it out, & cast it from thee. It is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather then (having twoo eyes) to bee cast into hell fire. Take hede that ye despise not one of these litle ones.

For I saie vnto you, that in heauen their angels doe alwaies beholde the face of my father which is in heauen. For soeuer of mane is come to saue that which was lost. How thynke ye? If a manne haue an hundred shepe, and one of them bee gone astraye, dooth he not leaue ninety nine in the mountaignes, and goeth & seeketh it that was gone astraye? And if it happen that he fynde it, verily I saie vnto you, he reioiceth moze of that shepe then of the ninety and nyne which went not astraye. Euen so it is not the will of your father in heauen that one of these litle ones should perishe.

For soeuer if thy brother trespass against thee, go and tell him his faute betwene him and thee alone. If he heare thee, thou hast wonne thy brother. But if he heare thee not, then take yet with thee one or twoo, that in the mouche of twoo or three witnesses, euery matter maye bee established. If he heare not theim, tell it vnto the congregation. If he heare not the congregation, let hym bee vnto thee as an heathen manne, & as a Publican. Verily I saie vnto you: what soeuer ye bynde on earth, shall bee bounde in heauen. And whatsoeuer ye loose on earth, shall bee loosed in heauen. Again I saie vnto you, that if twoo of you agree in earth vpon any maner of thyng, whatsoeuer that desire: thei shall haue it of my father which is in heauen, for where twoo or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the middes of theim.

Then came Peter to hym, and saied: Lorde, how oft shall I forgive my brother, if he synne against me: till seven tymes? Iesus saith vnto hym: I saie not vnto thee vntill seven tymes: but seventy tymes seven tymes.

For the kyngdom of heauen likened vnto a certa ine manne that was a hyng, which would take accomptes of his seruantes. And when he had begonne to reken, one was broughte vnto hym which oughte hym tenne thousande talentes, but for as muche as he was not able to paie, his Lorde commanded hym to bee solde, and his wife and chylde, and all that he had: & payment to bee made. The seruante fell downe, and besoughte hym sayng: For haue patience with me, and I will paye the all. Then had the lord pite on the seruante and loosed hym and forgave hym the debte.

So the same seruante went out, & founde one of his felows which oughte hym an hundred pence, and he layd handes on hym, and toke hym by the throte, sayng: paye that thou oweste. And his feloe fell downe, and besoughte hym, sayng: haue patience with me, and I will paye the all. And he would not, but wente & cast hym into prison, till he should paye his debte. So whē his felows sawe what was done, thei were very sorry and came & told vnto their lord al that had happened. The his Lord called hym and said vnto him: O thou ungracious seruante, I forgave the all that debte, whē thou besydest me: shouldest thou also haue had compassion on thy feloe, euen as I had pite on the? And his Lorde was wroth, and deliuered hym to the saylers, till he should paye all that was due vnto hym. So like wyse shall my heavenly father do also vnto you, if ye from your heartes, forgive not euery one his brother) their trespasses. **¶

The xix. Chapter.

As it came to passe, that whē Iesus had finished the saynges, he gat hym from Galile, and came in to the coastes of Iewrye, beyonde Jordan, and muche people folowed hym, and he healed them there.

The pharises also came vnto hym temptyng hym, and sayng vnto hym: Is it lawful for a man to make a deuorment with his wyfe for any maner of cause? He answered and said vnto them: haue ye not red, howe that he which made man at the begynnyng, made the man and woman, and said: for this cause shall a man leaue father and mother, and shall cleaue vnto his wife and they twayne shall be one flesh, wherfore now they are not twayne but one fleshe. Let no man therefore put asunder, that which God hath coupled together. Thei said vnto him: why did Moses then commaunde to geue a testimonial of deuorment to put her away? he said vnto them: Moses (because of the hardnes of your heartes) suffered you to put away your wyues: But fro the begynnyng it was not so. I saie vnto you: wholoeuer putteth away his wife (except it be for fornicacion) and marryeth another, breacheth weddoche. And whoso marryeth her which is deuorced, doth commit adultery.

His disciples said vnto hym: if the matter bee so betwene man and wyfe, then is it not good to marry. He saide vnto them: all men cannot comprehend this sayng: & saue they to whome it is geue: for there are some chaste which are so begone out of their mothers wombe. And there are some chaste, which be made chaste of men. And there be chaste, which haue made them selues chaste for the kyngdom of heauens sake. He that can comprehend it, let him comprehend it. ¶ Then were there brought vnto hym yonge chylde, that he shoulde

put his handes on them and praye. And the dyscypples rebuked them. But Iesus said vnto the suffre the chyldren and forbyd them not to come vnto me, for of such is the kyngdome of heauen And when he had put his handes on them, he departed thence.

And beholde, one came, and saide vnto hym: * good master, what good thyng shal I do, that I may haue eternal life? he said vnto hym: why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, and that is God. But if thou wilt entre into lyfe, kepe the commaundementes. he sayeth vnto hym: Which? Iesus said: * Thou shalt not commyt manslaughter. Thou shalt not comyt aduouty. Thou shalt not steale: thou shalt not beare false wytnes: honoure father and mother: * and thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy self The pong man sayth vnto hym: All these thynges haue I kept from my yowth vp: what lacke I yet? Iesus sayd vnto hym: if thou wilt be perfyte, * go and sell all that thou hast, and geue to the poore, & thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come and folow me. But when the pong maherde that sayng, he wente awaye sooy. For he had great possessions.

Then Iesus sayd vnto his dyscypples: verely I say vnto you: it shalbe hard for & rch to entre into the kyngdome of heauen. And agayne I say vnto you: it is easer for a camell to go throughe the eye of a needle, then for the rche to entre into the kyngdome of God. When the discypples herd this, they were exceedinglye amased, sayng: who then can be saued? But Iesus beheld them and sayd vnto them: wyth men this is impossyble: but wyth God all thynges are possyble.

Then answered Peter and sayde vnto hym: Beholde, * we haue forsaken all and folowed the, what shal we haue therfore? Iesus sayde vnto them: Verely I say vnto you, & when the sonne of man shal sit in the seat of his maiestye, ye & haue folowed me, in the regeneration * shal lytte also vnto the. xii. seates, and iudge the. xii. trybes of Israel. * And euery one & forsaketh house, or brydzen, or systers, or father or mother, or wife or chyldzen, or landes for my names sake, * shal receaue an hundred folde, and shall inherite euer-lastyng lyfe. I. * but many that are first, shalbe last, and the last shalbe fyrst.

¶ The. xi. Chapter.

¶ Christ teacheth by a similitude that God is better vnto no man. he teacheth his discypples to be lowly, and ge-uerly two bynde men they: fight.

In the kyngdome of heauē is lyke vnto a man that is an houtholder, which went out early in the mornynge to hyre labourers into his vyngard And when the agreement was made with the labourers, for a peny a daye, he sent the into his vyngard. And he went oute aboute the thyrde houre, & sawe other standyng ydell in the market place, & sayd vnto the: go ye also into the vyngarde, and whatsoeuer is ryghte, I wyll geue you. And they wente they waye. Agayne he wente oute aboute the fyfte and nynt houre, and byd lyphewse. And aboute the eleuent houre he went out, and found other standyng ydell, & sayd vnto them: why stande ye here all the daye ydell? They saye vnto hym: because no mā hath hyred vs. he sayeth vnto them: go ye also into the vyngarde, and whatsoeuer is ryghte, I shall ye receaue. So, when euen was come the lord of the vyngard sayd vnto his steward: call the labourers, and geue the thei: hyre, begynnyng at the last vntill the fyfte. And when they byd come that came aboute the eleuent houre they receaued euery man a peny. But when the fyrst came also, they suppoled that they shoulde haue receaued more, and they likewise receaued euery man a peny. And whē they had receaued it, they murmured agaynst the good man of the house, sayng: These last haue wrought but one houre and thou hast made them equal vnto vs which haue borne the burthen and heate of the daye.

But he answered vnto one of them and sayde frende, I do the no wrong: dydest thou not agree wyth me for a peny? Take that thyne is and go thy waye: I wyll geue vnto thes last, eue as vnto the. Is it not lawfull for me to do as my lysteth wyth myne owne goodes? Is thine eye euel because I am good? * So the last shalbe & fyrst and the fyrst shalbe last. For many be called, but fewe be chosen. I.

¶ And Iesus goyng vp to Ierusalem, toke the twelue discypples asyde in the way, and sayd vnto them: * Beholde, we go vp to Ierusalem, and the sonne of man shalbe betrayed vnto the chefe prestes and vnto the scribes, and they shal condempne hym to death, and shal deliuer hym to the Gentils, to be mocked, and to be scourged and to be crucified: and the thyrde daye he shal ryse agayne. * Then came to hym the mother of iehudes chyldzen, with her sonnes, worshyppyng hym & desyring a certayne thyng of hym.
And he sayeth vnto her: what wilt thou? she sayd vnto hym: Graunt, & these my two sonnes may sit, the one on the ryghte hande, & the other on the left, in thy kyngdom. But Iesus answered & sayde: ye wote not what ye aske. Are ye able to drynke of the cup that I shall drynke of, & to be baptysed w the baptisme & I am baptysed with? They saye vnto hym: we are. he sayd vnto the: ye shal drynke in dede of my cup: & be ba-ptysed with the baptisme & I am baptysed with.
But to sit on my ryghte hande, and on my left, is not myne to geue: but it shal chaunce vnto the * that it is prepared for of my father.

¶ And when the ten herd this, they dysdayned at the two brydzen. But Iesus called the vnto hym, and sayd: * ye knowe that the prynces of nations haue dominion ouer the. And they that are great men, exerceyse authoryte vpon them.
It shal not be so amonge you. But whosoever wyl be great amonge you, let hym be your minister, & whoso will be chiefe amonge you, let hym be your seruaunt: euen as & sonne of man came not to be ministered vnto, but to minister, and to geue his life a redemption for many. I.

¶ And as they departed fro Jerico, much people folowed hym. And behold, two bynd men syt-sonne of David haue mercy on vs. And s<sup>r</sup> people rebuked them, because they shoulde holde the<sup>r</sup> peace. But they cryed the more, sayyng: haue mercy on vs. O Lozde, thou sonne of David. And Iesus stode still, and called them, and said: what wyl ye f<sup>r</sup> I shall do vnto you? They saie vnto hym: Lozde, that our eyes maye be opened. So Iesus had compassion on them, and touched the<sup>r</sup> eyes, and immediately the<sup>r</sup> eyes receaued syght. And they folowed hym.

The xxi. Chapter.

They went into Ierusalem, by waye the merchants out of the temple, and sold the fygge tree, & rebuked f<sup>r</sup> pharisees with the simplicitye of the fygge tree, and of the husbandmen, that theye had not bene fructifyed.

And whē they came vnto Ierusalem, and were come to Bethphage, vnto mount Olyuete: then sent Iesus two disciples, sayyng: vnto them: go into the town that lyeth ouer agaynst you, & anone ye shal fynde an asse bounde, & a colte, wth ther: loose them, and brynge the vnto me. And yf any man say ought vnto you, say ye: the Lozde hath neede of them: & straight waye he wyl let the go. At this was done, & it myght be fulfilled, which was spoken by the prophet, sayyng: * Tel ye the daughter of Syon: behold, thy kyng cometh vnto the meke, sytting vpon an asse and a colte, f<sup>r</sup> sole of the asse vied to the pocke. The disciples went and dyd as Iesus commaunded them, and brought the asse & the colte, & put on them the<sup>r</sup> clothes, & let hym thereon. And many of s<sup>r</sup> people spread the<sup>r</sup> garmentes in the way. Other cutte downe brāches from f<sup>r</sup> trees, & strawed them in the way. Wherefore s<sup>r</sup> people that went before, & they that came after, cryed sayyng: Hosanna the sonne of David.

Blessed is he that commeth in the name of the Lozde. Hosanna in the highest. And when he was come to Ierusalem, all the cytie was moued, sayyng: who is this? And the people sayde: this is Iesus, the prophete of Nazareth, a cytie of Galile. And Iesus wente into the temple of God, and caste out all the that solde and bought in the temple, and ouerthrewe the tables of the mony chaungers, and f<sup>r</sup> seates of them that solde dones, and said vnto them: It is wrytten: my house shalbe called the house of prayer. But ye haue made it a den of theues. And the bynd and the balde came to hym in the temple, and he healed them.

When the chiefe p<sup>r</sup>iestes and s<sup>r</sup>cribes sawe the wonders that he dyd, and the chyldre cryyng in the temple, and sayyng: Hosanna to the sonne of David: they dysdayned, and sayd vnto hym: heareth s<sup>r</sup> what these saye: But Iesus sayd vnto the: why not? haue ye neuer reade? Out of the mouth of babes and suckelinges thou haste ordeyned prayse. And he left them, and wente oute of the cytie vnto Bethanay, and had thys abyding there. In the morning as he returned vnto the cytie again, he hungered: and whē he had spred a fygge tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon, but leaues only, and said vnto it: neuer frute growe on f<sup>r</sup> hence forthward. And anone the fygge tree withered away. And when hys disciples sawe it, they marvelled, sayyng: howe soone is the fygge tree withered away? Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Verely I saye vnto you: * Yf ye haue sayth and doubte not, ye shall not onely do thys that is happened vnto the fygge tree: but also yf ye shal saye vnto thys mountayne: remoue, and caste thy selfe into the see, it shalbe done. * And all thynges whatsoeuer ye aske in prayer (yf ye beleue) ye shal receaue them.

And when he was come into the temple the chiefe p<sup>r</sup>iestes and the elders of the people came vnto hym (as he was teachyng) and sayd: * By what auctorite docste thou these thynges? and who gaue the thys power? Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: I also wyl aske of you a certayne thyng, which yf ye tell me, I in lythe wyl tell you by what auctorite I do these thynges. The daytyme of Ihon: whence was it: from heauen or of men? And they thought among the selues, sayyng: Yf we saye from heauen, he wyl saye vnto vs: why dyd ye not then beleue hym? But yf we saye of men, then feare we the people. * For all men holde Ihon as a prophete. And they answered vnto Iesus, and sayde: we cannot tel. And he sayd vnto them: neither tel I you, by what auctorite I do these thynges. What saye ye to thys? A man had two sonnes, and came to the fygge, and sayde: sonne, go and worke to daye in my vyneyard. He answered and sayde: I wyl not, but afterwarde, he repented, and went. Then came he to the secōde, & sayd lyke wyse. And he answered, & sayd: I wyl sy, and wente not. Whether of the twayne dyd the wyl of the father? And they saie vnto hym: the fyrr. Iesus sayeth vnto them: verely I saye vnto you, the publicans and harlottes go into the kyngdō of God before you. For Ihon came vnto you by the waye of ryghteousnes, & ye beleued hym not: but publicans and harlottes beleued hym. And ye (whē ye had seene it) were not moued afterwarde wth repentance, that ye myght haue beleued hym.

Then an other symilitude. * Ther was a certain mā an housholder, which plantēd a vyneyard, & hedged it round about, & made a wynepresse in it, & built a tower, & let it out to husbandmen, & wet into a straunge countre. And when the tyme of frute dyd come nere, he sent hys seruantes to the husbandmen, f<sup>r</sup> they myght receaue the frutes of it. And f<sup>r</sup> husbandmen caught hys seruantes, & beat one, kyllēd another, & stoned another. A gayne he sent other seruantes, mo then f<sup>r</sup> fyrr, and they dyd vnto the likewise. But last of al, he sent vnto the his owne sonne, sayyng: they wyl stand in awe of my sonne. But whē f<sup>r</sup> husbandmen sawe f<sup>r</sup> sonne, they said among the selues: * This is f<sup>r</sup> heyre: come, let vs kyll hym, & let vs enioye his heritage. And they caught him, & thrust hym out of f<sup>r</sup> vyneyard, & stoned hym. When the lozde therfore of f<sup>r</sup> vyneyard cometh, what wyl he do vnto those husbandmen? They sayde vnto hym: For as much as they be euil, he wyl cruelly destroye the, and wyl let out his vyneyard vnto other husbandmen, which shal deliuer hym the frute the sente in due seasons. Iesus sayth vnto them: Why ye neuer read in the scriptures: * The stone which the builders refused, the same is become the head of the corner: this is the Lordes doynge and it is marvelous in oure eyes. Therefore saye I vnto you: the kyngdome of God shalbe taken from you, and geuen to a nacyon whiche shall byrnyng forth the frutes thereof. And whosoever falleth on this stone, shalbe broken in peces: but on whomsoever it falleth it shall all to gynde hym. And when the chiefe priestes and pharysees had herd his parables, they perceyued he spake of them. * And they went about to laye handes on hym: but they feared the people, because they toke hym as a prophet. * And Iesus answered and spake vnto the again by parables and said.

¶ The xxiiij. Chapter.

The marriage of the kynges sonne. Tribute to be geuen to the Emperour. Christ confuteth the opinion of the Saducees, concerning the resurrection, and answereth of the wyde vnto his question.

The kyngdome of heauē is like vnto a ma that was a kyng, which made a maryage for his sonne & sent forth his seruantes, to call the that were bydden to the wedding, & they would not come. Agayne, he sent forth other seruantes, sayng: Tell them whych are bydde: behold, I haue prepared my dynner, myne oren & my satynges are kyled, & all thynges are ready, come vnto my maryage. But they made lyght of it, and went they wayes: one to his ferme place, another for his marchaundise, & the remnaunt toke his seruantes, and intreated them shamefully & slew them. But when the kyng herd therof, he was wroth and sent forth his men of warre and destroyed those murderers and brent vp theyr cite.

Then sayd he to his seruantes: the maryage is dede is prepared. But they whych wer bydde wer not worthy. So ye therfore out into the bye wayes: and as many as ye fynde, byd them to my maryage. And the seruantes went out into the bye wayes, and gathered together all as many as they could fynde, both good and bad, and the wedding was furnished with gyses. Then the kyng came in to see the gyses, and whē he spied there a man, whych had not on a wedding garment, he sayd vnto hym: frend, how camest thou in hyther, not hauyng a wedding garment? And he was euen speechlesse. Then sayd the kyng to his seruantes: take and bynd hym hande and foot, and cast him into vnter darchenesse: there shalbe wepyng and gnashyng of teeth. For many be called, but fewe are chosen. ¶

¶ Then went the pharysees, and toke counsell how they myght tangle hym in his wordes. And they set out vnto hym their disciples wyth Herodes seruantes, sayng: * Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the waye of God truly, neither carest thou for any man, for thou regardest not the outward apperaunce of men. Tell vs therfore: how thinkest thou? Is it lawfull that tribute bee geuen vnto Cesar or not? But Iesus perceauyng theyr wickednes, sayde:

Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites? Shewe me the tribute money. And they toke hym a peny. And he sayd to them: whose is this ymage and super scrifyon? They saye vnto hym: Cesar. Then sayd he vnto them: * Serue therfore vnto Cesar the thynges whiche are Cesar, and vnto God, those thynges that are Goddes. ¶ When they had herd these wordes, they marueyled, and left hym, and wente they waye. * The same daye came to hym the Saducees, whych say that ther is no resurrection, and asked hym, sayng: * Master, Moses sayde: that if a man dye, hauyng no chylde, his brother shuld mary his wyfe, and rayse vp sēde vnto his brother. Ther wer with vs seue brethren, & the fyrst maryed a wife, and decessed wythout chylde, and left his wyfe vnto his brother. Likewise, the second and the thirde, vnto the seuenth. Last of all the woman dyed also. Therfore, in the resurrection, whose wyfe shal she be of the seue? For they al had her. Iesus answered and sayd vnto the: ye do erre, not knowyng the scriptures, nor the power of God. For in the resurrection, they neither mary nor are maryed, but are as the Angels in heauen.

But as touchyng the resurrection of the dead: haue ye not rede that which is spoken vnto you of God, whych sayeth: * I am the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob: God is not a God of dead, but of lyuyng. And when the people herd this they wer astonnyed at his doctrine. ¶ But when the pharysees had herd, that he had put the Saducees to silence they cam together, and one of them (which was a doctoure of lawe) asked hym a question, temptyng hym, and sayng: * Master, whye is the great commaundment in the lawe? Iesus sayd vnto hym: Thou shalt loue the Lord thy God wyth all thy herte, and with al thy soule, and w all thy mynde. & this is the first and great commaundement. And the seconde is lyke vnto it. * Thou shalt loue thyne neighbour as thy self. In these two commaundementes hange all the lawe and prophetes.

Whyle the pharysees wer gathered together Iesus asked them sayng: What thinke ye of Christ: whose sonne is he? They said vnto hym: the sonne of Dauid. He sayd vnto them: * Howe then doth Dauid in spytte call hym Lorde, sayng: The Lorde said vnto my Lorde: * Sit thou on my ryght hande, tyll I make thyne enemyes thy foote stoles. If Dauid then call hym Lorde, howe is he then his sonne? And no man was able to answer hym any thyng, neyther durste any man (from that tyme forth) aske hym any mo questions. ¶ his disciples came vnto hym secretly, sayng: tel vs: when shall these thynges bee: and what shal be the token of thy commyng and of the ende of the world? And Jesus answered, & said vnto them: take hede, that no man deceiue you. For many shal come in my name, sayng: I am Christ

And this Gospel of the kyngdom shalbe preached in all the world, for a wytnes vnto all nations: and then shal the ende come.

When ye therfore shal see the abhominacyon of desolacion (that was spoke of by Daniel the prophet) stand in the holy place, whose reade-th it let hym vnderstand. Then let them whiche be in Jerusaleme, flye into the mountaynes. And let hym whiche is on the house toppe, not come downe to let any thyng oute of his house. Neither let hym whiche is in the feilde, retorne backe to fetch his clothes. For shalbe in those dayes to them y<sup>e</sup> are wyth chylde, & to the that geue sucke. But praye ye that your flyght be not in the wynter, neither on the Saboth daye. For then shalbe great tri-of the worlde to this tyme, nor shalbe. Yet & except those dayes shoulde be shortened, ther shoulde no fleete be saved, but for the chosens sake those dayes shalbe shortened.

Then yf any man saye vnto you: lo, here is Christ, or there: beleue it not. For there shal aryse falsse Christes, & falsse prophetes: and shal they do greates myracles, & wonders. In so muche (that yf it wer possible) the very elect shoulde be deceayd: beholde, I haue told you before. Wher fore, yf they saye vnto you: beholde, he is in the deserte, go not ye forth: beholde, he is in the se-

And then shal appere the token of the sonne of man in heauen. And then shal all the kynredes of the earth mourne, and they shal see the sonne of man comyng in the cloudes of heauen, with power and greates glorie, & he shal send his Angels with the greates voyce of a trompet, and they shal gather together his chosens, from the hyghest partes of heauē, vntyll y<sup>e</sup> endes thereof.

Learn a symilitude of the figge tree: whē his braynches is yet tender, & the leaues spryng ye knowe that sommer is nye. So lyke wyl ye when ye se all these thynges, be ye sure that it is nere, euen at the doores. Merely I saye vnto you: this generacyon shal not passe, tyll all these thynges be fulfilled. Heauen and earth shal passe but my wordes shal not passe. But of y<sup>e</sup> daye and houre knoweth no man, no not the angels of heauen, but my father only.

But as the dayes of Noe were, so shal also the comyng of y<sup>e</sup> sonne of man be. For as in the dayes (that went before the flood) they bydeate and dnyke, marye, & were maryed, eue vntyll the day that Noe entered into the ship, & knewe not tyll the floude came and toke the all awaye. So shal also the comyng of the sonne of man be.
Then shal two be in the feilde, the one receaued & the other refused: two wemen shalbe gryndynge at the myll, the one receaued and the other refused. (Then in a veyn, the sonne Mattheu, and the other verbales) Watche therfore, for ye knowe not what houre your Lorde wyl come. Of this yet be sure that yf the good man of the house knewe what houre the thefe woulde come: he woulde surely watche, and not suffer his house to be broken vp.

Therfore, be ye also ready, for in suche an houre as ye thynke not, wyl the sonne of man come.
Who is a faythfull and wyse seruaunt, whome his Lorde hath made ruler ouer his household, to geue them meat in season. Blessed is that ser-uaunt, whome his Lorde (when he cometh) shal fynde so depnyng: Merely I saye vnto you, that he shal make hym ruler ouer all his goodes.
But and yf that euell seruaunt sape in his herte my Lorde wyl be long a comyng (and so begyne to smyte his felows, &e, and to cate and dnyke wth the dronken) the same seruaunt Lorde shal come in a daye when he lokeeth not for hym, and in an houre that he is not ware of, and shal beme hym in peces, and geue hym his porcion wth hypocrytes: there shalbe wepyng and gnawynge of teth.

The xxv. Chapter.

The ten vrygyns. The talentes deliuered to the seruaunts, and of the generall iudgement.

Then shal the kyngdome of heauen be lyke vnto ten vrygyns, whiche toke their lampes, and went to mete the byrdgrom (and the byrde) But fyue of them were folythe, and fyue were wyse. They that were folythe, tok thei<sup>r</sup> lampes but toke none oyle wth thei<sup>r</sup>. But the wyse toke oyle wth them in thei<sup>r</sup> vessels, wth the lam-pes also. Whyle the byrdgrome tarped, they all slept. And euen at mydnyghte, there was a crye made: beholde, the byrdgrome cometh: go oute to mete hym. Then all those vrygyns arose, and prepared thei<sup>r</sup> lampes. So the folythe sayd vnto the wyse: geue vs of your oyle: for our lampes are gone out. But the wyse answered, sayng: not so lest ther be not ynough for vs and you, but go ye rather to them that sel and buye for your selues. And whyle they went to buye, the byrdgrome came: and they that wer ready, wente in wth hym to the maryage, and the gate was shut vp. Afterward came also the other vrygyns, sayng: Lorde, Lorde, open to vs. But he answered and sayde: verely I saye vnto you: I knowe you not. Watche therfore for ye knowe neither the daye, nor yet the houre wherin the sonne of man shal come.

Lyke wyl as a certayne man readye to take his iorney into a straunge countre, called his seruaunts, and deliuered vnto them his goodes. And vnto one he gaue fyue talentes, to another two, and to another oone: to every mā after his habyltye, and straghte waye departed.
Then he that had receaued the fyue talentes, went, & occupied wth the same, & wanne other fyue talentes. Lyke wyl also he that receaued two, gayned other two. But he that receaued y<sup>e</sup> one, went & bygged in the earth, and byd his lo-des money. After a long season the lord of those seruaunts came, and rekened wth them. And so he that had receaued fyue talentes came and broughe

and brought other fyue talentes, sayng: My lord I have kept thy fyue talentes: behold I haue gained with them fyue talentes mo. His lord sayd vnto hym: wel thou good and faythfull seruaunt. Thou hast bene faythfull ouer fewe thynges. I wyl make the ruler ouer many thynges: entre thou into the ioye of thy lord. He also that had receaued two talentes, came and sayd: My lord I have kept thy two talentes: behold I haue wonnet two other talentes with the: his lord sayd vnto hym: wel good and faythfull seruaunt. Thou hast bene faythfull ouer fewe thynges. I wyl make the ruler ouer many thynges: entre thou into the ioye of thy lord.

C Then he whych had receaued the one talent, came, and sayd: My lord I haue the, that thou arte an harde man, reappng where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou haste not strawed, & therefore was I afrayed, and wyl and byd thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou haste that thyne is. His lord answered and sayd vnto hym: thou euell and slothfull seruaunt, thou knewest, that I reape where I sowed not, & gather where I haue not strawed, thou oughtest therefore to haue deliuered my money to the exchaungers, & then at my comynge shoulde I haue receaued myne o'one with vantage. Take therefore the talent from hym, and geue it vnto hym whych hath ten talentes. * For vnto every one that he shalbe geuen, & he shal haue aboundance: But he that hath not, from hym shalbe taken awaye even that whych he hath. And cast the vnprofitable seruaunt into vnter darkness, & ther shalbe weeping and gnashyng of teth.

The xxvi Chapter.

Mat. xxvi. c.
Luc. xxii. c.
John. xxi. c.

As it came to passe, wher Iesus had fynyshed all these saynges, he sayd vnto bys dyscyples. * Ye knowe that after two dayes shalbe Easter and the sonne of man shalbe deliuered ouer to be crucifyed. * Then assembled together the chiefe priestes and the scribes and the elders of the people, vnto the palace of the hye priest (which was called Caphphas) and held a counsell that they might take Iesus by subtiltie and kill hym. But they sayd: not on the holye daye, least there be an uprore among the people.

When Iesus was in Bethany, in the house of Symeon the leper, ther came vnto hym a woman: * hauninge an alabaster boxe of precyous oynmentes, and poured it on bys head, as he sat at the boorde. But when his dyscyples sawe it, they had indignacion sayng: Whereto serueth this waste? This oynment myght haue bene well solde, and geuen to the poore. When Iesus vnderstode that, he sayde vnto them: why trouble ye the woman? For she hath wrought a good worke vpon me. * For ye haue poore alwayes with you: But me shall ye not haue alwayes. And in that she hath cast this oynment on my body, she dyd it to bury me. Verily, I saye vnto you wherelouere this Gospell shalbe preached in the worlde, there shall also this that she hath done be tolde, for a memo'ryall of her.

* Then one of the twelve, which was called Judas Iscariot, wylt vnto the chiefe priestes, and sayd vnto the: what wyl ye geue me, and I wyl deliuer hym vnto you? And they appoynted vnto him thyrty peces of syluer. And fro that tyme forth he sought oportynyte to betraye hym.

* The first daye of wete bread, the dyscyples came to Iesus, sayng vnto hym, where wylt thou & we prepare for the to eate the pascheouer? And he sayde: go into the cytie, to such a man, & saye vnto hym, the master sayeth: my time is at hande, I wil kepe myne Easter by the, with my dysciples: And the dysciples hyd as Iesus had appoynted them, & they made ready the pascheouer.

When the eue was come, he sat downe with the twelve. And as they dyd eate, he sayde: Verily, I saye vnto you, that one of you shall betraye me. And they were exceedingge sorry, and began every one of them to saye vnto hym: Lord, is it I? he answered and sayde: he that byppeth bys hande with me in the bysche, the same

Came shall betraye me. The sonne of man truly goeth, as it is wyrtten of hym: but wo vnto that man, by whom the sonne of man is betrayed. It had bene good for that man, yf he had not bene bozne. Then Judas whyche betrayed hym answered and sayd: master, is it I? he sayd vnto hym: thou hast sayd. When they were eatinge, Iesus toke bread, and when he had geuen thankes, he brake it, and gaue it to the discyples, and sayd: Take, eat, this is my body. And he toke the cuppe, and thanked, and gaue it them, saying: Drynke ye al of this, for this is my blood (whiche is of the newe testamente) that is shed for many, for the remysse of synnes. But I say vnto you: I wyll not drynke hence forth of this frute of synne tree, vntyll I drinke when I shall drynke it new with you in my fathers kyngdome.

* And when they had sayd grace, they wente out vnto mount Oliuete. Then sayeth Iesus vnto the: all ye shalbe offended because of me this nyght. For it is wyrtten: I wyl synne & weperde, and the shepe of the flocke shalbe scattered abrode. But after I am tpen agayn, I wyl go before you into Galile. Peter answered, & sayde vnto hym: though al men be offended because of the, yet wyl I not be offended. Iesus sayd vnto hym: Clerely, I saye vnto the, I in this same nyght, before the cocke crowe, thou shalte denye me thryse. Peter sayd vnto hym: Yee, though I shoulde dye with the, yet wyl I not denye the: Lyke wyse also sayd all the discyples.

D* Then came Iesus with them vnto a farme place (whiche is called Gethsemane) & sayd vnto the discyples: syt ye here whyle I go & praye ponder. And he toke with hym Peter & the two sonnes of zebede, & began to waile sorrowfull and heuy. Then sayd Iesus vnto the: My soule is heuy, eue vnto the death. Tary ye here & watche with me. And he wente a lytell farther, and fell flat on hys face, & prayed, sayinge: O my father, if it be possyble, let this cuppe passe from me: neuertheless, not as I wyl, but as thou wylte. And he came vnto the discyples and founde the a slepe, and sayeth vnto Peter: What coulde ye not watch with me one houre: Wathe & praye, that ye entre not into temptation. The spyte is wyllyng, but the fleshe is weake.

* He went away once agayn and prayed, saying: O my father, yf this cuppe maye not passe away from me, except I drynke of it, thy wyl be fulfilled. And he came, and founde them a slepe agayn. For they eyes wer heuy. And he left the and wente agayne, and prayed the thyrde tyme, sayinge the same wordes. Then cometh he to the discyples, and sayeth vnto them: Slepe on now and take youre rest. Beholde, the houre is at hande, and the sonne of man is betrayed into the handes of synners. Ryse, let vs be goyng: beholde, he is at hande, that doeth betraye me.

* Whyle he yet spake: lo, Judas one of the nombe of the twelue, came, and with hym a grente myltyrude, with swerdes and stanes, sent from the chiefe prestes and elders of the people. But he that betrayed hym, gaue them a token, saying: Whom soeuer I kysse that same is he, hold hym faste. And forthwith he came to Iesus, and sayd: Hail, Master, and kysed hym. And Iesus sayd vnto hym: frende, wherfore arte thou come? Then came they, and layed handes on Iesus, and toke hym.

And beholde, one of them whyche were with Iesus, stretched out his hand, & dyde his swerde and stroke a seruaunte of the hie prestes, and smote of his eare. Then sayde Iesus vnto hym: put by thy swerde into hys sheath. For all they that take the swerde: shall perishe with the swerde. Thyndest thou that I can not now praye to my father, & he shall geue me (euen now) more then twelue Legions of Angells? But how then shall the scriptures be fulfilled: for thus muste it be. In that same houre sayde Iesus to the myltyrude: Ye be come out as it were vnto a shepe, with swerdes and stanes, for to take me. I sacdapiye with you teaching in the temple, and ye toke me not. But all this is done, that the scriptures of prophetes myght be fulfilled. Then al the discyples forsoke hym, and fled. And they toke Iesus, & led him to Cayphas the hie prestes where the scribes and the elders wer assembled. But Peter folowed hym a farre of vnto the hie prestes palace, and went in, and late with the seruauntes, toke the ende.

* The chiefe prestes and the elders, and all the counsell, sought false wytnes against Iesus: for to put hym to death: but found none: yee, when many false wytnesses came, yet found they none. At the last came two false wytnesses, and they sayde: This feloe sayde: I am able to destroye the temple of God, & to buylde it agayne in thre dayes. And the chiefe preste arose, and sayd vnto hym: Answerest thou nothyng? Why do these beare wytnes agaynst the? But Iesus helde his peace. And the chiefe preste answered and sayde vnto hym: I charge the by the luyng God, that thou tell vs, whether thou be Christe the sonne of God. Iesus sayeth vnto hym: thou hast sayd. Peruerthelesse, I saye vnto you: Here after shall ye se the sonne of man sittynge on the right hande of power, and commynge in the cloudes of the skye.

* Then the hie preste rent his clothes, saying: he hath spoken blasphemy: what nede we of any mo wytnesses? Beholde, now ye haue herd his blasphemy, what thynke ye? They answered, & sayd: he is worthe to dye. Then dyd they sytt in hys face, and bukketed hym with fyfteen. And other smote hym on hys face, with the palme of theyr handes, saying: Tell vs thou Christ, who is he that smote the?

Peter sat without in the palace. And a damsel came to hym, saying: Thou also wast with Iesus of Galile: but he denyed before the al, saying I wote not what thou sayest. While he was gone out into the porche, another wenche sawe hym, and sayd vnto them that were there: This feloe was also with Iesus of Nazareth. And agayne he denied with an othe (saying: I do not knowe the man. And after a while, came vnto him they (that stood by) & sayd vnto Peter: surely thou art euen one of them, for thy speache bewayeth the. Then began he to curse and to sweare, that he knewe not the man. And immediately the cocke crewe. And Peter remembered the word of Iesu, whiche sayde vnto hym, before the cocke crowe, thou shalt deny me thrise: and he wente out, and wept bitterly.

The xxvii Chapter.

¶ Christ is betrayed vnto pylate. Iudas hangeth hym self. Christ is crucified among theues. He dyeth and is buryed. Marye hath the graue.

When the morning was come, al the chiefe prestes and the elders of the people, helde a counsell agaynst Iesu, to put hym to death, & brought hym bounde, and deliuered hym vnto Pontius pylate the debyte.

Then Judas (whiche had betrayed hym) seing that he was condemned, repented hym self and brought agayne the thyrty plates of syluer to the chiefe prestes and elders, sayunge: I haue sinned, betraying the innocent blood. And they sayde: what is that to vs? he thou to that. And he cast doune the syluer plates in the temple, and departed, and went and hanged hym selfe.

And the chiefe prestes toke the syluer plates and sayd: it is not lawfull for to put them into a treasure, because it is the pyece of bloude. And they toke counsell: and bought with them a potters felde, to burye straungers in. Wherfore the felde is called in hebrewe, that is, the felde of blood vntill this daye. Then was fulfilled, & whiche was spoken by Ieremy the prophete, sayunge: and they toke thyrtye syluer plates, the pyece of hym that was valued, whome they bought of the chyldren of Israel, and gaue them for a potters felde, as the Lorde appoynted me.

¶ Iesus stode before the debyte, and the debyte asked hym, sayunge: arte thou the kynge of the Jewes? Iesus sayeth vnto hym: Thou sayeste. And when he was accused of the chiefe prestes & elders, he answered nothyng. Then sayeth pylate vnto hym: hearest thou not, how many witnesses they laye agaynst the? and he answered hym to neuer a word: in so much that the debyte marvelled greatly.

¶ At that feast, the debyte was wont to deliuer vnto the people a prisoner, who they would desyre. he had then a notable prisoner, called Barrabas. Therefore when they were gathered together, pylate sayd: whether wyl ye that I geue loose vnto you? Barrabas, or Iesus, whiche is called Christ? For he knewe that for enyred they had deliuered hym.

¶ When he was set doune to geue iudgemente hym wythe sent vnto hym sayunge: haue thou nothyng to do wyth that iust man. For I haue suffered many thynges this daye in my slepe because of hym. But the chiefe prestes & elders perswaded the people, that they shuld aske Barrabas, and destroye Iesus. The debyte answered, and sayde vnto them: whether of twayne wyl ye, that I let loose vnto you? They sayde:

They all sayd vnto hym: Let hym be crucified. The debyte sayde: What euell hath he done? But they cryed the more, sayunge: Let hym be crucified. ¶ When pylate sawe that he could preuaile nothyng, but y more busynes was made he toke water and washed hymself before the people, sayunge: I am innocent of the bloude of this iust personne, ye shall se. Then answered all the people, and sayde: Hys bloude be on vs and on oure chyldren. ¶ Then let he Barrabas loose vnto them, and scourged Iesus, and deliuered hym to be crucified.

¶ Then the souldiers of the debyte toke Iesus in the common hall, and gathered vnto hym all the compaigne. And they strepyed hym, & put on hym a purple robe, & platted a crowne of thornes, and put vpon his head, & a reede in his ryght hand: & bowed the knee before hym, and mocked hym sayung: hallo kyng of the Jewes. And whē they had spyt vpon hym, they toke the reede, and smote hym on the head.

¶ And after that they had mocked hym, they tooke the robe of hym agayne, and put hym owne sayment on hym, and led hym away to crucifye hym. And as they came out, they found a man of Cyren (named Symon) hym they compelled to beare his crosse. ¶ And they came vnto a place which is called Golgotha (that is to say: a place of dead mens scoules) and gaue hym vynerger to drynke, myngled wyth gall. And whē he had tasted thereof, he would not drynke.

¶ When they had crucified hym, they parted hym garments, and caste lottes: that it myght be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet: ¶ They departed my garments among them, and vpon my vesture byd they caste lottes. And they sat and watched hym there, & set vpon ouer hym head, the cause of hym death wyrtten: This is Iesus the kyng of the Jewes. ¶ Then were there thowthenes crucified wyth hym, one on the right hande and another on the lyfte.

¶ They passed by teupled hym, waggyng thei heades, and sayng: thou that destroyest the temple of God, and dydest buyde it in thre dayes, saue thy selfe. ¶ If thou be the sonne of God, come doune from the crosse. Lyphylle also the hye presters, mockyng hym wyth the scriybes and elders sayde: he saued other, hym selfe can he not saue. If he be the kyng of Israel let hym now come doune from the crosse, and we wyl beleue hym. ¶ He trusted in God, let him deliuer hym now, if he wyl haue hym, for he sayde: I am the sonne of God. The theues also whiche were crucified wyth hym, cast the same in hym teche. ¶ From the syxte houre was there darknesse ouer all the lande vnto the nyynth houre. And aboute the nyynth houre, Iesus cryed wyth a loude voyce, sayunge: Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani. That is to saye: ¶ My God, my God, why hast thou forsake me? Some of them that stode there, when they herde that, sayde: This man calleth for helias. And strepyde wape: one of them ranne, and toke a sponge, and when he had fylled it full of vynerger, he put it on a reede, and gaue hym to drynke. Other sayde: let be, let se whether se whether helias will come and deliuer hym. Jesus, when he had cried again with a loude voice yelded up the ghoſte. And beholde, the * vail of the temple did rent into two partes, from y<sup>e</sup> top to the bottome, and the earth did quake, and the stones rent, and graues did open: and many bodies of ſainctes which ſlept, aroſe, and wente out of the graues, after his reſurreccion, & came into the holy cite, & appeared vnto many. ¶ At the Centurion and they that were with hym watchyng Jeſus, ſawe the earthquake, & thoſe thynges which happened, they feared greatly, ſaying: Truly, this was the ſonne of God.

* And many women were there ( beholdyng hym afare of ) which folowd Jeſus fro Galile, miſteryng vnto hym. Among which was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of Jaſmes and Joles, and the mother of zebedes chyldren. When the euen was come * there came a riche manne of Trimaſchia named Joſeph, whiche alſo was Jeſus diſciple. He wote vnto Pilate and begged the body of Jeſus: Then Pilate comaunded the body to be deliuered. And when Joſeph had taken the body, he wrappd it in a cleane linnen cloth, and laied it in his new tombe which he had hewen out, euen in the roche, and rolled a grente ſtone to the doze of the ſepulchre & departed. And there was * Mary Magdalen & the other Mary, ſittynge ouer againſt the ſepul-chre. The next daie that folowd the daie of prepa-ryng, the hie preeſtes and phariſes came together vnto Pilate, ſaying: Sir wee remembre that this deceituer ſaid while he was yet aliue. After thre dayes I will riſe again. Commaunde therefore that the ſepulchre be made ſure vntill the third daie, leſt his diſciples come, & ſteale hym awaie & ſaie vnto the people: he is riſen from the dedde and the laſt errour ſhal bee wourden the firſt.
Pilate ſaid vnto them: Ye haue the watche, go your waie, make it as ſure as ye can. So they went and made the ſepulchre ſure with watchemen, and ſealed the ſtone. **¶

The xxviii. Chapter.

The reſurreccion of Chriſt. The hie preeſtes gave the ſouldiers money to ſaie that Chriſt was ſollen out of his grame. Chriſt appeared to his diſciples, and ſenteth them forth to preache and to baptiſe.

¶ On an euenyng of the * Sabothes which dawned the firſt daie of y<sup>e</sup> Ma-gothes, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to ſee the ſepulchre.
And beholde, there was a grente earthquake for the angell of the Lorde deſcended from heauen, and came and roulled backe the ſtone from the dooze, and ſatte vpon it. His countenaunce was lyke lychtning, and his raimente white as ſnowe. And for feare of hym the keepers were aſtonnyed, and became as dedde menne.

* The angell answered, and ſaid vnto the women, feare ye not. For I knowe, that ye ſeke Je-ſus which was crucified: he is not here: he is riſen as he ſaid. Come ſee y<sup>e</sup> place where that the Lorde was laied: and goo quickly, tell his diſciples, that he is ryſen again from the dedde. And beholde, he goeth before you into Galile, there ye ſhall ſee hym. Lo I haue tolde you. **¶

* And they departed quickly from the ſepulchre with feare and greate ioye, and did ſtine to byng his diſciples woode. And as they went to tell his diſciples: beholde, Jeſus mette them, ſaying: All hail. And they came and helde hym

then I, cometh after me, whose shoe latcher I am not worthy to touch: but he shall baptise you with the holy ghoste.

And it came to passe in those daies, that Jesus came from Nazareth, of Galile, * and was baptised of Iohn in Iordane. And as soon as he was come up out of the water: * he saw heauen open, and the spirite descending vpon hym like a dove: And there came a voyce from heauen. * Thou art my deare sonne in whom I delite. And immediately * the spirite drewe hym into wyldernesse: and he was there in the wyldernes forty dayes, and was tempted of Satthan, and was with wilde bestes. * And the angels ministered vnto hym. After that Iohn was taken * Jesus came into Galile: * preaching the Gospell, of the kyngdome of God, and saying: the tyme is come, and the kyngdome of God is at hande: repent and beleue the Gospell.

As he walked by the sea of Galile, he sawe Symon and Andrew his brother, casting nettes into the sea, for they were fishers. And Jesus said vnto them: folow me, and I will make you to become fishers of menne. And straight waye they forsooke their nettes and folowed hym. And when he had gone a litle further thence, he sawe James the sonne of zebede, and Iohn his brother, whiche also were in the shippe, mending their nettes. And anon he called them. And they lefte their father zebede in the shippe with the hired seruantes, and folowed hym.

And they came into capernaum: and straight waye on the Saboth dayes, he entered into the synagoge, and taught, and they were astonied at his learning. * For he thought them as one that had auctorite, and not as the scribes. And there was in their synagoge a manne vexed with an vnclane spirite, and he cryed saying: Alas, what haue wee to dooe with thee thou Iesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroye vs? I knowe thee what thou art, euen that holy one of God. And Jesus rebuked hym, saying: holde thy peace, and come oute of the manne. And when the vnclane spirite had torne hym, and cryed with a loude voyce, he came out of hym. And they were all amazed, in so muche that they demanded one of another among them selues saying: What thyng is this? What newe doctryne is this? For with auctorite commaunded he the foule spirites, and they obeyed hym. And immediately his fame spred a brode througout all the region, bordering on Galile.

And forthwith when they were come oute of the synagoge, * they entered into the house of Symon and Andrew, with James and Iohn. But Symons mother in law laye sicke of a feuer. And anon they tell hym of her. And he came, and toke her by the hande: and lift her vp and immediately the feuer forsooke her, and she ministered vnto them. And at euen when the sunne was downe, they brought vnto him all that were diseased, and them that were vexed with deuils. And all the citee was gathered together at the doore, and he healed many that were sicke of diuerse diseases, and cast oute many deuils, and suffered not the deuils to speake, because they knewe hym. And in the morning verie early, Iesus (when he was risen up) departed, and wente out into a solitary place, and there prayed. And Symon and they that were with hym, folowed after hym. And when they had founde hym they said vnto hym: all menne seke for thee. And he said vnto them: lette vs goo into the next townes, that I maye preache there also: for therfore am I come. And he preached in their synagoges, in all Galile, and caste the deuils oute.

And there came a leper to hym, beseeching hym, and knelyng doune, and saying vnto hym if thou wylte, thou canst make me cleane. And Iesus had compassion on hym, & put forth his hande, touched hym, and saith vnto hym: I wil be thou cleane. And as soon as he had spoken, immediately the leprose departed from hym, and he sente hym awaye forthwith, and saith vnto hym: * See thou saye nothing to any manne: but gette thee hence, shewe thy self to the prieste and offer for thy cleansing, those thynges whiche Moses commaunded, for a witnes vnto them. But as soon as he was departed, he began to tel many thynges, and to publishe the saying: in so muche that Iesus coulde nomore openly entre into the citee, but was without in deserte places. And they came to hym from euery quarter.

The ii. Chapter.

The healeth the manne of the palsy, calleth Levi the customer, eateth with open synners, and excuseth his disciples.

After a fewe dayes also, he entered into Capernaum again, and it was noised that he was in the house. And anon many were gathered together, in so muche that now there was no roome to receiue them, no, nor so muche as about the doore, and he preached the word vnto them: * And they came vnto hym, bringing one sicke of the palsy, whiche was borne of foure menne. And when they could not come in vnto hym, for prease, they vncouered the rooffe of the house that he was in. And when they had broken vp the roff, they did (with cordes) let downe the bed wherein the sicke of the palsy laye. When Iesus sawe their faith, he said vnto the sicke of the palsy: * Soonne, thy synnes bee forgiven thee.

But there were certayne of the scribes spytyng there, and thynkyng in their heartes: why dooth he speake these blasphemies? Who can forgive synnes, but God onely? And immediately when Iesus perceived in his spirite that they so thought within them selues, he saith vnto them: why thynke ye such thynges in your heartes? Whether is it easier to saye to the sicke of the palsy, thy synnes bee forgiven thee, or to saye arise, take vp thy bed, and walke? But that ye maye knowe, that the sonne of manne hath power in earth to forgive synnes, he saith vnto the sicke of the palsy: I saie vnto thee: * arise & take vp thy bed and gette thee hce vnto thine owne house. And immediately he arose, took vp the bed, and went forth before them all: in so muche that that thei were all amazed, and glorified God, saying: we neuer sawe it on his fashion.

C And he went again vnto the sea, and all the people resorted vnto hym, and he taught theim. And as Iesus passed by, he sawe Leui & soonne of Alpha, sitting at the recite of custome, and said vnto hym: folow me. And he arose, and folowed hym. And it came to passe that when Iesus satte at meate in his house, many publicans and synners satte also together at meate with Iesus and his disciples. For there were many, that folowed hym. And when the scribes and pharises sawe hymeate with publicans and synners, thei said vnto his disciples: how happeneth it, that he eateth, and drynkerh with publicans and sinners? When Iesus hearde that, he said vnto theim: Thei that bee whole, have no neede of the physician, but thei that are sicke. I came not to call the righteous, but synners to repentance.

And the disciples of Ihon and the pharises did faste, and thei come and saie vnto hym: Why dooe the disciples of Ihon and the pharises faste but thy disciples fast not? And Iesus said vnto theim: can the child of the wedding fast while the bydegrome is with them? As long as they haue the bydegrome with them, they cannot faste. But the dayes will come, when the bydegrome shalbee taken awaye from them, and thei shall thei fast in those dayes.

D A manne also sowerh a pece of newe clothe vnto an olde garmente, els taketh he a waie the newe pece thereof from the olde, and so is the rente woulfe. And no manne powyeth newe wyne into olde bottels, els the new wyne dooth burst the bottels and the wine runneth out, and the bottels are marred. But newe wyne muste bee putte into newe bottels. And it chaunced on the Saboth dayes and his disciples began by the waie to pluche the eares of corne. And the pharises said vnto hym: behold, why dooe thei on the Saboth dayes, that whiche is not lawfull? And he said vnto them: have ye neuer read what David did, when he had neede, and was an hungred, bothe he and thei that were with hym? how he went into the house of God, in the dayes of Abiathar the hie priesste, and did eate the shewbride (whiche is not lawfull to eate, but for the priesstes onely) and gaue also to theim whiche wer with hym? And he said vnto them the Saboth was made for manne, and not man for the Saboth. Therfor is the soonne of man, Lord also of the Saboth.

The helpeh the manne with the dyed bande, choiceth his spoules, & casteth out the vncleane spircs, which the pharises ascribe vnto the deuill. The brother, sister, and mother of Iesus.

And he entred again into the Synagoge, and ther was a manne there whiche had a wythered bande. And thei watched hym, whether he would heale hym on the Saboth daie, that thei might accuse hym. And he said vnto the manne wh-

che had the wythered bande: arise, and stante in the myddes. And he saith vnto theim: whether it is lawfull to dooe good on the Saboth dayes, or to dooe euill, to saue lyfe, or to kille? But thei heide their peace. And when he had looked round aboute on theim, with anger, mernyng on the blyndnes of their heartes, he saith to the manne: stretch forth thyne bande. And he stretched it out. And his bande was restored, euen as whole as the other. And the pharises departed, and straight waie gathered a counsaill, with theim that belanged to herode against hym, that thei mighte destroye hym. But Iesus auoyded with his disciples to the sea. And a greete multitude folowed hym from Galile: and from Ierowsy, and from hierusalem, and from Idumea, and from beyond Iordane. And thei that dwelled about Tyre and Sidon, a greete multitude of mynne: whiche when thei had herde what thynges he did, came vnto hym.

And Iesus commaunded his disciples, that a shippe should waite on hym, because of the people: lest thei should chynge hym. For he had healed many, in so muche that thei pressed vpon hym for to touche hym, as many as had plagues. And when the vncleane spircs sawe hym, thei fell downe before hym, and cried saying: thou art the soonne of God. And he straightly charged theim that thei should not make hym knownen. And he wente vp into a mountaigne, and called vnto hym whom he woulde, and thei came vnto hym. And he ordeined the twelue, that thei should bee with hym, and that he mighte sende them forth to preache: and that thei might haue power to heale likeneses, and to cast out deuils. And he gaue vnto Symon for name Peter. And he called James the soonne of zebede and Ihon James brother, and gaue them to names Synagres, whiche is to saie, the soannes of thunder. And Andrew, and Philippe, and Bartholomewe, and Matthewe, and Thomas, and James the soonne of Alpha, and Thaddeus, and Symeon of Canaan, and Judas Iscariot: whiche also betrayed hym.

And they came into the house, and the people assembled togerther agayne, so that thei had not leysure so muche as to eate byrde. And when they that belenged vnto hym, hearde of it, thei went out to laie handes vpon hym. For thei said, he is madde. And the scribes whiche came doune fro hierusalem, said: he hath Belzebub, and by the chief deuill, casteth he out deuils. And he answered them vnto hym, & said vnto thei in parables.

How can Sathan dryue out Sathan? And if a realme bee deuised against it self, & realme cannot endure: And if a house bee deuised against it self, that house cannot contynue. And if Sathan make insurrection against hym self, and bee deuised, he cannot continue, but hath an ende. A manne can entere into a strong mannes house, and take awaye his goodes, except he first binde the strong manne, and then spoyle his house. Merely I saie vnto you, all synnes shalbee forgiven vnto mennes children, and blasphemies where with soeuer they haue blasphemed. But he that speaketh blasphemy against the holy ghost: hath never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal damnation. For they said he hath an uncleane spirit. There came also his mother and his brethren, & stood without, & sente vnto hym to call hym out. And the people satte about hym and said vnto hym: behold, thy mother and thy brethren seke for thee without. And he answered them, saying: Who is my mother and my brethren? And whoe he had looked round about on his disciples, whiche satte in compasse aboute hym, he sayed: Beholde, my mother and my brethren. For whosoever dooeth the will of God, the same is my brother and my sister and mother.

The .iiii. Chapter.

The parable of the sower. Ch. the .iiii. the temple of the sea, whiche he opened hym.

AND he began again to teache by the sea syde. And there gathered together vnto hym muche people, so greatly that he entered into a shippe, * and satte in the sea, and all the people was by the sea syde on the shoore. And he taughte them many thynges by parables, & said vnto them in his doctrine: hearken to: beholde, there went out a sower to sow. And it fortuned as he sowed, that some fell by the waie syde, and the fowles of the ayre came, and deuoured it vp. Some fell on stony grounde, where it had not muche earthe, and immediately sprang vp, because it had not depth of earthe, but as soon as the sunne was vp, it caught heate: and because it had not rooting, it withered away. And some fell among thornes and the thornes grew vpon, and choked it, and it gaue no fruite. And some fell vpon good grounde and did yelde fruite that sprang vp, and grew and brought forth, some thirty fold, and some sixty fold, and some an hundred fold, and he said vnto them: he that hath eares to heare lette hym heare. I.

AND when he was alone, they that were aboute hym with the twelve, asked hym of the parable. And he said vnto them: To you it is given to knowe the mysterye of the kyngdome of God. But vnto them that are without, all thynges happen by parables: that when they see they maye not see, and not deserne, and when they heare, they maye not vnderstand: least at any tyme they should tourne, and their synnes should be forgiven them: And he said vnto them: knowe ye not this parable? And how then will ye knowe all other parables.

* The sower soweth the woorde. And they whereof some bee reherled to bee by the waie syde are those, where the woorde is sowne: And when they heare, Satan cometh immediately, and taketh awaye the woorde, that was sowne in their heartes. And yf the woode the other that receiveth seede into the stony ground, are they whiche when they heare the woorde, at once receiue it with gladnes, yet haue no rote in their selues, and so endure but a tyme: and anon when trouble and persecution ariseth for the woordes sake, they fall immediately. There bee other that receiue seede into thornes, and those are suche as beare the woorde, and frayes of this woerde, and the deceitfulness of riches, and the lustes of other thynges, enter in and choke the woorde, and it is made vnfertill: and other these bee, that haue receiued seede into a good grounde: they are suche that beare the woerde and receiue it, so that one coine dooth bying forth threty, some fyfty, some an hundred.

And he said vnto them: is the candell lighted, to bee putte vnder a bushell, or vnder the table? Is it not lighted to bee putte on a candlestick? For there is nothinge so pryncypal, that shal not bee opened: neither hath it been so secrete, but that it shal come abroad. If any manne haue eares to heare, lette hym heare. And he sayed vnto them: take hede what ye heare: * with what measure ye mete, with that shal I mete vnto you again. And vnto you that haue, shall more bee geuen. For vnto hym that hath, shall it bee geuen, and from hym that hath not, shall bee taken awaye, even that which he hath. And he said: so is the kyngdome of God, euen as if a manne should sowe seede in the ground, and should sleepe, and ryste vp night and daye: and the seede should spryng and growe vpon while he is not aware. For the earth bynggeth forth fruite of her self: firste the blade, then the eare after that the full coine in the eare. But when the fruite is brought forth, anon he thrusteth in the sphele because the harvest is come.

And he said: where vnto shall wee lyken the kyngdome of God? or with what comparyson shall wee compare it? It is lyke a grapue of mustarde seede: whiche when it is sowne in the earth is lesse then all seedes, that bee in the earth when it is sowne, it groweth vp, and is greater then all herbes: and beareth greete bryanches, so that the fowles of the ayre maye make their nestes vnder the shadowe of it.

* And with many suche parables spake he the woerde vnto them, after as they might heare it. But without parable spake he nothing vnto them. But when they were alone, * he expounded all thynges to his disciples. And the same daye when euen was come, he said vnto them: lette vs passe ouer vnto the other syde. And they lefte the people, and tooke hym, euen as he was in the shippe. And there were also with hym other shippes. * And there arose a greete storme of wynde, and the waues dashed into the shippe, so that it was now full. And he was in sterne a slepe on a pelowe. And they awaked him and said vnto hym: Master careste thou not, we perishe? And he rose vp, and rebuked the wynde and said vnto the sea: peace, bee still. And the wynde ceased, and there folowed a greate calme. And he said vnto them: Why are ye so fearefull? how happeneth it that ye haue no fathes? And they feared exceedingly, and said one to another: Who is this? For bothe wynde and sea obeye hym.

The .v. Chapter.

Christe healeth the possessed from the unclayne spirit: the woman from the bloody issue, and callith the captiues hangry.

And thei came ouer to the other syde of the sea, into the countree of the Gaderenites. And when he was come oute of the shippe ymmedyately there mette hym oute of the graues, a manne possessed of an vnclane spirite, whiche had his abydyng among the graues. And no manne coulde hynde hym no nor wiche cheynes, because that when he was often bounde with fetters and cheynes, he plucked the cheynes asunder, and brake the fetters in peces. Neither coulde any manne tame hym. And alwayes, nyghte and daye he was in the mountaignes and in the graues, criping and beating hymself with stones. But when he had spyed Iesus afarre of, he ranne and worshipped hym and cryed with a loude voyce, and sayed what haue I to dooe with thee? Iesus p̄ soonne of the moste highest God: I requyre thee in the name of God, that thou tourment me not. For he sayed vnto hym: come oute of the manne thou fowle spirite. And he asked hym, what is thyne name? And he answered and sayed vnto hym: my name is Legion, for wee are many. And he prayed hym instantly, that he would not sende them awaye oute of the countree.

But there was there nye vnto the mountaynes a greaete heerde of swyne fedying, and all the deuils besoughte hym sayng: sende vs into the heerde of swyne, that wee maye enter into theim. And anon Iesus gaue theim leaue. And the vnclane spirites went out and entered into the swyne. And the heerde was caryed bedying into the sea. Thei were almoste two thousande and were drowned in the sea. And the swyneher despyed, and tolde it in the cite, and in the feldest. And thei wente oute for to see what had happened: and came to Iesus, and sawe him that was vexed with the fende and had the legion, sit both clothed and in his righte mynde, and they were afrayed. And they that sawe it tolde theim, how it happened to hym that was possessed with the deuill: and also of the swyne. And thei bega to praye hym, that he would departe oute of their countree. For when he was come into the ship he that had the druel prayed hym, that he might see with hym. Howbeit, Iesus would not suffer hym, but sayed vnto hym: goo to thyne owne house and to thy frendes, and shewe them how greaete thynges the Lorde hath dooen for thee, and how he hath had compassion on thee. And he departed, and began to publishe in the tenne cities how greaete thynges Iesus had dooen for hym, and all menne did maruaill.

And when Iesus was come ouer agayne by shippe vnto the other syde, muche people gathered vnto hym, and he was nye vnto the sea. And behold, there came one of the rulers of the Synagoge, whose name was Jairus: and when he sawe him, he fell downe at his fete, and besoughte hym greatly, sayng: my daughter lyeth at poynte of deathe, I praye thee come and laye thy hande on her, that she maye bee safe and liue. And he wente with hym, and muche people followed hym, and thynged hym. And ther was a certain woman, whiche had been diseased of an yssue of bloodde, the lxxij. yeres, and had suffered many thynges of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and felt no admyndement at all, but rather was worse, and worse. When she had harde of Iesus she came in the p̄se alle behynde hym, and touched his garment. For she said: if I maie but touche his clothes, I shal bee whole. And straighte waye the fountayne of her bloodde was dryed vp, and she felte in her body, that she was healed of that plage. And Iesus immediately feeling in hymself that vertue proceeded from hym, turned him about in the p̄se, and said: who touched my clothes? And his disciples said vnto hym: thou seest the people thrust thee, and askest thou who did touche me? And he looked rounde aboute for to see her that had dooen this thyng: But a woman fearng and trembling (knowyng what was dooen within her) came, and fell downe before hym, and tolde hym all the tructh: And he said vnto her: Doughter, thy faith hath saved thee: goo in peace, and bee whole of thy plage.

Whyle he yet spake, there came from the ruler of the synagoges house, certain whiche said the doughter is dedde: why distest thou the matter any further? Allone as Iesus hearde the woorde that was spoken, he said vnto the ruler of the synagoge: bee not afrayed, onely beleue. And he suffered no manne to folow hym, save Peter, and James, and Iohn the brother of James. And he came vnto the house of the ruler of the synagoge, and sawe the wondering, and theim that wepte and wailed greatly, and wente in, and said vnto theim: why make ye this a dooe, and wepe? The damsell is not dedde, but slepeth. And they laughed hym to scorn. But he putte theim all oute, and taketh the father and the mother of the damsell, and theim that were with hym, and entered in where the damsell laye, and taketh the damsell by the hande, and saith vnto her: Tabita, cumy: whiche is (if one dooe interpret it) damsell, I saye vnto the arise. And straighte waye the damsell arose, and walked. For she was of y age of twelue yeres. And thei were astonied out of measure. And he charged them strygdely, that no manne should knowe of it, and commaunded, to geue her meate.

The vi. Chapter.

Christe sendeth his Apostles to heale them that were diseased. Of Iohn and Berode. Of the tye lounes and cures of the. And of the walking on the sea.

And he departed thence, and came into his owne countree, and his disciples folowed hym. And when the Saboth daye was come, he began to teach in the synagoge. And many that hearde hym were astonied, and sayed: from whence hath he these thynges? And what wysedome is this that is geuen vnto hym: and suche vertues that are wrought by his handes? And not this the carpenter? Maries sonne, the brother of James and Ioses and of Iuda and Symon? and are not his sisters here with vs? And they were offended at hym. Iesus said vnto

¶ And hyng herode heard of hym (for his name was spreade abroad) and he saied: Iohn baptist is risen again from the dedde, and therfore miracles are wrought by hym. Other saied: it is helias, some saied: it is a prophete, as one of y prophetes. But when herode hearde of hym he saied: It is Iohn whom I beheaded, he is risen from deathe again. ¶ For herode hymself had sent forth menne of worre, and laied handes vpon Iohn, y bounde hym, and cast hym into pylone, for herodias sake, his brother Philipps wife (because he had married her.) ¶ For Iohn saied vnto herode: It is not lawfull for thee to haue thy brothers wife. Herodias laied wayte for hym, y would haue kyled hym, but she coude not. For herode feared Ioh, knowing that he was a iust manne and an holy: and gaue hym reuerence: and when he hearde hym, he did many thynges, and hearde hym gladly.

Mat. xiii. 2
¶ And when a convenient dale was come, that herode on his birth dawe, made a supper to the Lordes, his capitaines, and chief estates of Galile: and whē the daughter of the same herodias came in, and daunced, and pleased herode y thei that sat at bouerde also: the kyng sayed vnto the damsell: aske of me what thou wilt, and I will geue it thee. * And he shawed vnto her whatsoeuer thou shalt aske of me, I will geue it thee, enē vnto thet one halfe of my kyngdome. And she wēt forth, and saied vnto her mother: what shall I aske. She saied: Iohn Baptistes hedde. And she came in straight waye with that vnto the kyng and asked, sayng: I will, that thou geue me by and by in a charger, the hedde of Iohn Baptist. And y kyng was soye: howbeit for his othes sake, and for their sakes whiche satte at supper also, he would not cast her of. And immediately the kyng sente the hangman and commaunded him to bringe it in. And he wente and beheaded hym in the pylone, and broughte his hedde in a charger, and gaue it to y damsell, and the damsell gaue it to her mother. And when his disciples hearde of it, they came, and toke vp his body, and laied it in a graue. ¶

¶ And when the dawe was now farre spent, y his disciples came vnto him, sayng: this is a deserte place, and now the tyme is farre passed let them departe, that they maie goo into the countre rounde about, and into the townes, and buye them bryde: for they haue nothing to eate. He answered and saied vnto them, geue ye thet to eate. ¶ And they saied vnto hym: Shall we goo and buye two hundred penyworth of bryde, y geue them to eate? he saied vnto them: * how many loues haue ye? Goo and loke. And when they had searched, they saied: five and twoo fishes. And he commaunded them, to make them all litty downe by compaignes vpon the grene grasse. And they lay downe, here a rowe y ther a rowe, by hundreth and by fifties. And when he had taken the fyue loues and the twoo fishes, and looked vp to heauen, he blessed and brake the loues, y gaue them to his disciples, to set before them, and the twoo fishes deuided he among them all. And they all did eat, y wer satisfied. And they toke vp twelue baskettes full thereof, and of the fishes.

¶ And they that byd eate, were aboute fyue thousande menne. * And streyght waye he caused his disciples to goo into the shyppe, and to goo ouer the sea before vnto Bethsaida, whyle he sente awaye the people. * And allone as he had sente them awaye he departed into a mountaigne to praye.

¶ And whē euen was come, the shyppe was in the myddes of the sea, and he alone on y lande and he sawe them troubled in rowyng, for the wynde was contrary vnto them. And aboute the fourth watche of the night, he came vnto them walkyng vpon the sea, and would haue passed by them. But whē they sawe hym walkyng vpon the sea, they suposed it had been a spyrte and cryed out: for they all sawe hym, and were a fraied. And anon he talked with thet, and saied vnto them: bee of good cheare, it is I, bee not a fraied. * And he wente vp vnto them into the shyppe, and the wynde ceased, and they were soze amazed in them selues beyonde measure, y marayled. For they remembered not of the loues, because their hearte was dymde.

And when thei wer ouer the water thei came into the lande of Genesareth and drewe vp into the haueu. And a fione as thei were come oute of the ship, straight waie they knewe hym, & ranne forth throughout all the region rounde aboute, and began to carpe aboute in beddes those that were sicke, when thei hearde that he was there. And whether soeuer he entered, into townes, ciities, or villages, thei laied the sicke folkes in the streetes, and prayed hym that thei mighte touch and be touched but the hemme of his vesture. And as many as touched hym, were safe. mat. 9. 34.

¶ The vii. Chapter.

The disciples cate with vnwaschen handes. The commandmentes of God is transgressed by men and traditions. Of the woman Syropheneia. Of the febrile.

And the pharisees came together vnto hym, and diuers of the sectes whiche came from Iherusalem. And when thei sawe certayne of his disciples cate breade, with vnwaschen handes, thei complayned. For the pharisees and all the Jewes, except thei washe their handes ofte, cate not, observinge the traditions of the elders. And when thei came from the market, excepte thei washe, thei cate not. And many other thynges there be, whiche thei haue taken vpon them to obserue, as the washyng of cuppes and cruces, and bzail vessels, and of tables. mat. 23. 2.

Then asked hym the pharisees and scribes why walke not thy disciples accordyng to the custome, ordeyned by the elders, but cate breade with vnwaschen handes? he answered and saied vnto them: Well propheticall saie of you, pphesies, as it is writen: This people honoureth me with their lippes, but their heart is farre from me: howebeit, in vayne doo thei serue me, teachinge the doctrynes and commandmentes of menne. For ye laye the commandment of God aparte, and obserue the constitucions of menne, as the washyng of cruces, and of cuppes & many other suche like thynges ye doo. And he saied vnto them: Well, ye caste asyde the commandmentes of God, to mayntain your owne constitucions. For Moses saied: honoure thy father & thy mother: and whoso curseth father or mother, let hym die the death. But ye saie: a manne shall saie to father or mother, Coz ba: whiche is, what gyfte soeuer cometh from me, that bee for thy profite. And so ye suffre hym nomore to doo on the for his father or his mother and make the woorde of God of none effecte, through your owne constitucions, whiche ye haue ordeined. And many suche thynges ye doo. mat. 23. 10.

And when he had called all the people vnto hym, he saied vnto them: herken vnto me, euery one of you, and vnderstande: There is not hye without a manne, that can defile hym, when it entereth into hym: but the thynges whiche proceede out of a manne, those are thei that defile a manne. If any manne haue eares to heare, lette hym heare. And when he came into the house, a waye from the people, his disciples asked hym of similitude. And he saied vnto them: are ye also so greatly without vnderstandyng? Woode ye not yet perceiue, that whatsoeuer thyng from without, entereth into a manne, it cannot defile hym, because it entereth not into his hearte, but into the belly: and goeth out into the draughte, pouryng out all meates? And he saied: that whiche cometh out of manne, defileth a manne. For from within euery one of the hearte of manne procede equal thoughtes aduoutyng fornicacion, murder, theft, couetousnes, fraude, deceite, vnicenes, a wicked eye blasphemies, pryde, solistynes: all these shall thynges come from within, and defile a manne.

And from thence he arose, and went into the borders of Tice and Sidon, and entered into an house, & would that no manne should haue knowen. But he could not bee hid. For a certain woman (whose daughter had a foule spirite) as sone as she hearde of hym, came and fell at his fete. The woman was a Syche out of the nation of Syropheneia, & she besought hym, & he would caste out the deuill fro her daughter. But Iesus saied vnto her: let the chyldren first bee fed. For it is not mete, to take the chyldrens breade and to cast it vnto the whelpes. She answered and saied vnto hym: euen so Lord, neuertheles the whelpes also cate vnder the table of the chyldrens crommes. And he saied vnto her: for this sayng goo thy waye, & deuill is gone out of thy daughter. And when she was come home to her house, she found that the deuill was departed, and her daughter liyng on the bedde. mat. 23. 11.

And he departed again from the coastes of Tice and Sidon, and came vnto the sea of Galile through the middes of the coastes of the tenne cities. And thei brought vnto hym one & was deaffe and had an impediment in his speche and thei prayed hym, to put his hande vpon hym. And when he had taken hym asyde from the people, he putte his fyngers into his eares, and did spit, and touched his toungue, and looked vp to heauen and sighed, and saied vnto him: Ephra, that is to saie: bee opened. And straight waie his eares wer opened, and the streyng of his toungue was loused, and he spake plain. And he commaunded them, that thei should tell no manne. But y more he forbad them, so muche the more a great draile thei published, sayng: he hath dooen all thynges well, he hath made bothe the deaffe to heare, and the dumme to speake. mat. 23. 12.

¶ The viii. Chapter.

At those dayes & when there was a verie greate chpaignie, and had nothyng to cate. Iesus called bys disciples to hym, and saied vnto them: I haue compassion on the people, because they haue now been with me thre dayes and haue nothyng to cate: And if I sende them awaye fastyng to their owne houses, they shall faunte by the waye. For dewere of them came from farr. And bys disciples answered hym: where should a manne haue bzede here in y wilderness, to satisfie thes? And he asked them: how many many loaves haue ye? Thei saide: seuen. And he commaunded the people to sytte doune on the grounde. And he toke the seuen loaves, and whē he had geuen thanches, he brake, and gaue it to his disciples, to set before them. And thei did set them before y people. And thei had a fewel small fishes. And when he had blessed, he commaunded them also to bee sette before them. And they byde ate, and were sufficed. And they toke vp of the broken meate, that was left, seuen baskettes full. And they that did eate: were aboue foure thousande. And he sent them awaie.

B And anon he entred into a ship with his disciples, and came into the parties of Dalmanutha. And the pharises came forth, and began to dispute with hym, seking of hym a signe fro heauen temptyng hym. And when he had sighted in his spirit, he saith: why dooth this generation seke a signe? Cleerly I saie vnto you, there shall no signe bee geuen vnto this generaciō. And he left them, and went into the ship again, & departed over the water. And thei had forgotten to take brede with them neither had thei in the ship with them moze then one loofe. And he charged them, sayng: * Take hede, be ware of the leuen of the pharises, and the leuen of herod. And thei reasoned among them selues, sayng: What haue we no brede? And Iesus knew it, and he saide vnto thei: why take ye thought because ye haue no brede? perceiue ye not, yet neither vnderstand haue ye your hearten yet blynded: haue ye eyes and see not? And haue ye eares, and heare not?

Doee ye not also remembze? * When I brake fyue loaves among fyue thousande menur, how many baskettes ful of broken meate toke ye vp? Thei saide vnto hym: twelue. * When I brake seuen among foure thousand, how many baskettes of leauynges of the broken meate toke ye vp? Thei saide, seuen. And he saide vnto them how happe nethie that ye dooe not vnderstande?

C And he came to Bethsaida, and thei brought a blynde manne vnto hym, and desired hym to touche hym. And he caughte the blynde by the hande, and led hym out of the towne: and when he had spytte in his eyes, he putte his handes vpon hym, he asked hym if he sawe ought. And he looked vp, and saide: I see the menne: for I perceiue them walke, as thei were trees. After that he putte his handes agayne vpon his eyes, and made hym see. And he was reioyced, and saue every manne clearly. And he sent hym home to his house sayng: nether god into the towne, nor tell it to any in the towne.

And Iesus went out, and his disciples into the townes that long to the citee called Cesarea Philippi. And by the waie he asked his disciples sayng vnto them: Whom dooe menne saie that I am? And thei answered: some y thou art Iohn baptist, & some saie, Helias. Again, some saie: y art one of y nbyze of y prophetes. And he saide vnto them: but whom saie ye that I am? Peter answered and saith vnto hym: thou art verie Christe. And he charged them, that thei should tell no manne of hym. And he began to teache them, * how that the sonne of manne must suffer many thynges, and bee repproued of y elders, and of the hye priestes, and scribes, and bee killed and after thre daies aryse again. And he saide that sayng openly. And Peter toke hym syde, and began to chide hym. But he turned aboute, and looked on his disciples, and rebuked Peter, sayng: Soo after me Mathan. For thou sauereste not the thynges that bee of God, but the thynges that bee of menne.

* And when he had called y people vnto hym, and his disciples also, he saide vnto thei: Who soeuer will folow me, lette hym forsake hymself and take vp his crosse, and folow me. For whosoever will saue his life, shall lose it. But whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the Gospels, the same shall saue it. For what shall it profite a manne, if he wyne all the worlde, and lose his owne soule? What shall a manne geue to redeme his soule with all again? * Whosoever therefore shall bee ashamed of me and of my wordes, in this adnouterous and synfull generaciō of hym also shall the sonne of manne bee ashamed, when he cometh in the glozy of his father with the holy angels.

The ix. Chapter.

The transfiguration. The lunatique is healed. The disposition wha should bee greater. Offences are forgiven.

And he saide vnto them: Cleerly, I saie vnto you: * There be some among them that stande here, whiche shall not taste of death, til thei haue sene y hyng dom of God come with power.

* And after sixe daies, Iesus taketh Peter and James and Ioh, and leadeth them vp into an hye mountaigne, out of the waye alone: and he was transfigured before them. And his raiment did shyne, and became verie white, even as snowe: so whette as no fuller can make vpon earthe. And there appeared vnto them Helias with Moses. And thei talked with Iesu. And Peter answered and saide to Iesu: Waister here is good beryng for vs: lette vs make also thre tabernacles, one for the, and one for Moses, and one for Helias. For he will not forsaie: for thei were afraied. And there was a cloude that shadowed them. And a voyce came out of the cloude, sayng: * This is my beloued sonne: heare hym. And sodenly when they had looked rounde aboute, they sawe no manne moze then Iesus onely with them.

* And when thei came doune from the hill, he charged them that thei should tell no man those thynges that thei had sene, till the sonne of man were rysen from death agayne. And they kepte that sayng with them, and demaunded one of another, what the rysyng from death agayne shoulde meane? And they asked hym, sayng: why then saie the serybes, that Helias muste fyrste come? he answered and saide vnto them: * Helias verely when he cometh fyrste, resto- teth all thynges. And the sonne of mannes as it is written of hym) shall suffer many thynges & bee let of naughte. But I saie vnto you that he- lyas that he come, and thei haue done vnto him what louer they woulde, as it was written of hym

And when he came to his disciples, he sawe much people about them, and the scribes hy-putting with them. And straggling waye al the people (when thei beheld him) were amazed, and ranne to hym, and saluted hym. And he asked scribes: what dispute ye among them? And one of the company answered, and sayed. Master, I haue brought vnto the my sonne, which hath a deafe speeche. And whensoever he toucheth hym, he heareth hym, and he someth, and gnasheth wyth his teeth, and pyneth a waye. And I spake to thy disciples that they should caste hym oute, and they coulde not.

He answered hym, and sayth: O synners, howe longe shall I be wyth you? howe longe shall I suffer you? Bynge him vnto me.
And they brought hym vnto him. And as sone as the spere sawe hym, he tare hym. And he fel downe on the grounde, walyng and fomyng.
And he asked hym: howe longe it is agoo sens this happened hym? And he said of a childe and ofte tymes it hath cast hym in the fyre, and into the water to destroye hym. But yf thou canst do any thyng, haue mercy on vs, and help vs. Iesus sayed vnto hym: yf thou wilt beleue. And streyght waye the father of the childe cried with teares, sayng: Lorde, I beleue, helpe thou myne vnbeliffe.

When Iesus sawe that the people come run-nyng together vnto hym, he rebuked the foule spere, sayng vnto hym. Thou dome and deaf spere, I charge the come oute of hym, and entre nomoze into hym. And the spere (when he had cried, and rent hym) came oute of hym, and he was as one that had bene deade, in so muche that one saied: he is deade. But Iesus caughte hys hande, and lyfte hym vp, and he rose. And whē he was come into the house, his disciples asked him secretly: why coulde not we cast hym out? And he saied them: this kind can come forth by nothyng, but by prayer and fasting.

And thei departed thence, and toke theyr iourney throughe Galilee, & he woulde not, that any man should knowe it. For he taughte his disciples, and sayed vnto them: the sonne of man shal be deliuered into the handes of men, & they shal kyl hym: and after that he is kylled, he shal arise agayne the thridde daye. But they wyte not what he saied, and were afrayed to aske hym.
And he came to Capernaum. And whē he was come into the house, he asked them: what was it that ye disputed amonge youre selues by the waye? And they held theyr peace: for by f waye they hadde reasoned amonge them selues, who should be the cheefe. And when he was set downe he called the xiiij. to hym and sayed vnto them: yf any man desire to be fyrst, the same shal be last of all, and seruaunte to all. And he tooke a childe, and set him in the myddes of them, and when he had taken hym in hys armes, he sayed vnto them: whosoever receiueth anye succe childe in my name, receyuethe me. And whoso-uer receuethe me, receyuethe not me, but him that sent me.

Thon answered hym, sayng: After we saue one cast oute deuils in thy name, and he to-loeth vs not: and we forbad him, because he to-loeth vs not. But Iesus saied: for byd hym not.
For there is no man whiche (yf he do a myracle in my name) can lyghtly speake euell of me.
For he that is not agaynst vs, is on oure parte.
Whosoever shall in my name geue you a cup of water to drinke, because ye belong to Christ verely, I saie vnto you: he shall not lose hys reward. And whosoever shall offend one of these lytle ones, that beleue in me, it were better for hym, yf a myllstone were handged aboute hys necke, and he wer cast into the sea. Wherfore yf thy hande hinder the, cut it of. It is better for the, to enter into lyfe maimed, then hauing two handes to go into hell, into fyre that neuer shal be quenched, wher they woyme dyeth not, and the fyre goeth not out. And yf thy foot be a hye derauice vnto the, cut it of. It is better for the to go halfe into lyfe, then (hauyng two feet) to becast into hel, into fyre that neuer shal be quenched: wher their woyme dyeth not, and the fyre goeth not out. And yf thyne eye hynder the pluche it out. It is better for the to go into the kingdome of God with one eye, then (hauyng two eyes) to be cast into hell fyre: wher they woyme dyeth not, and the fyre goeth not out.
Euerie man shal be salted wyth fyre. And euerie sacrefyce shal be seasoned wyth salte.
Salte is good. But yf the salte be vnseuerce, what shall ye season therewith? haue salte in poure selues: and haue peace amonge youre sel-ues: one wyth another.

The x. Chapter.

Of the man that was possessed with the foul spirit of the dyabell.

And when he rose from thence, he wente into the coastes of Jewry, tho-rowe the region that is beyonde Jordane: And the people resorted vnto hym a freche, and as he was woutre, he taughte them agayne. And the Pharisees came, and asked hym. Is it lawfull for a man to put awaye his wyfe, to proue hym? And he answered and saied vnto them: What byd Moses byd you do? and they sayd: Moses suffered to wyghte a testymonyall of deuocement, and to put her away. And Iesus answered and saied vnto the For the hardnes of your heart he wrote this precept vnto you. But at the fyrst creation God made them, man and woman. Therfore shall a man leane hys father and mother, and byde by hys wyfe, and they twaine shal be one flesch.
Therfore, what God hath coupled together let not man separate.

And in the house hys disciples asked hym again of the same matter. And he saith vnto the Whosoener putteth awaye his wyfe, and ma-ryeth another, he breaketh wedlocke to her warde.
And yf a woman forsake her husband, and bee married to another. And they brought chyliden to him, that he should touche them. And his disciples rebuked those that brought them. But when Jesus saw it, he was displeased and said unto them: suffer the chyliden to come unto me, for by them not. For of such is the kyngdom of God. Clerly I saye unto you. whosoever dooth not receive the kyngdome of God, as a chylde, he shall not enter therein. And when he had taken them up in his armes, he put his handes upon them, and blessed them.

Mark. xii. 3. Luke. xxi. 4. And when he was gone forth into the way, there came one runnyng and kneeled to hym, and asked hym: good master what shal I do, that I may inheret eternall lyfe? Jesus sayed unto hym: why callest thou me good? Ther is none good but one, wherof is God. Thou knowest of commaundemrtes: breake not Matrymony: kill not: steale not: beare no false wytnesse: defraude no man: honour thy father and mother. he answered and sayed unto hym: Master, all these have I observed from my yowth. Jesus be helde hym, and favoured hym, and sayed unto hym: one thyng thou lackest. So thy waye, sell that thou hast, and geue to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come, folow me. And take up my crosse vpon thy shouldeys. But he was dyscomforted because of that saynge, and went a waye mournynge, for he had greute possessions.

Mark. xii. 3. Luke. xxi. 4. And when Jesus had looked round aboute, he sayed unto his disciples, Howe vneasye shall they that haue mony, enter into the kyngdome of God. And the disciples were astonied at his wordes. But Jesus answered agayne, and sayth vnto them: chyliden, howe hard is it for them that truste in monye, to enter into the kyngdome of God. It is easier for a cammel to go through the eye of an needle, then for the rich to enter into the kyngdome of God. And they were astonied out of measure, sayng betwene them selues: who then can be saued? Jesus looked vpon them, and said: wyth men it is vnpossible, but not wyth God: for wyth God all thynges are possible.

Mark. xii. 3. Luke. xxi. 4. And Peter began to say vnto hym: Loo, we haue forsaken all, and haue folowed the. Jesus answered, & sayed: Clerly I say vnto you, ther is no man that hath forsaken house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wyfe, or chyliden, or landes, for my sake and the Gospelles, but he shall receaue an hundred folde more in this lyfe, houses and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and chyliden, and landes wyth persecutions: and in the world to come, eternall lyfe. But many that are first, shall be last: and the last, first. And they were in the way going up to Ierusalem. And as Jesus went before the, and they were amazed, and folowed, and were afrayed.

Mark. xii. 3. Luke. xxi. 4. And Jesus tooke the twelue agayne, and began to tell them what thynges should happen vnto hym. Behold we go up to Ierusalem, and the sonne of man shall be deliuered vnto the hye priesstes and vnto the scribes: and they shall condempne hym to death, and shal deliuer him to the Gentyles, and they shal moche hym, and scourge hym, spytte vpon hym and kill hym. And the thirde daye he shall rise agayne.

Mark. xii. 3. Luke. xxi. 4. And James and Iohn the sonnes of zebedee came vnto hym, sayng: Master, we wold that thou shouldest do for vs wharsoener we desyre. he sayed vnto them: what would ye? I would do for you. They said vnto hym: graunt vnto vs, that we maye sette one on the ryght hande and the other on the lyfte hande, in thy gloire. But Jesus sayed vnto them: Ye wot not what ye aske: Can ye drynke of the cup that I drynke of: and be baptizyd wyth the baptyme, that I am baptizyd wyth? and they sayed vnto hym: that we can. Jesus sayed vnto them, ye shal in dede drynke of the cup that I drynke of: & with the baptyme, that I am baptizyd wyth, shal ye be baptised in: but to sit on my ryght hande and on my lyfte hand is not myne to geue, but it shal happen vnto the, for whom it is prepared.

Mark. xii. 3. Luke. xxi. 4. And when they heard it, they beganne to disdaine at James and Iohn. But Jesus when he had called them to hym, sayed vnto them: ye knowe that they whiche are sene to beate rule among the people, reygne as Lordes over them. And yet they be great among them, & receyue authority vpon them. But he that will be first among you, must be last, and be seruaunt of all. For the sonne of man also came not to be ministered vnto: but to minister, and to geue his lyfe for the redempcion of many.

Mark. xii. 3. Luke. xxi. 4. And they came to hierico. And as he went out of the cite of hierico wyth his disciples and a greute number of people: blind Bartimeus the sonne of Tymeus, sat by the hie wayes syde beggynge. And when he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he beganne to cry, and say: Jesus thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me. And many rebuked hym, that he should holde his peace. But he cryed the more a great deale: thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy on me. And Jesus stode still, and commaunded hym to be called: And they called the blind, sayng vnto him: Be of good comfort: rise, he calleth the. And he threwe away his cloke, and rose, and came to Jesus. And Jesus answered, and sayed vnto hym: what wylt thou that I do vnto the? The blind sayed vnto hym: Master, that I myght se. Jesus sayed vnto hym go thy way, thy faith hath saued the. And immediatly he receiued his sight, and folowed Jesus in the waye.

Christ cometh to Ierusalem. The hye priesstes and the pharisees cast out of the temple. The pharisees question with Christ.

As when they came nye to Ierusalem vnto Bethphage and Bethanien, besydes mount Olyuete, he sent two of his disciples, and sayeth vnto them: Go yowre waye into the tounne, that is ouer agaynste you

And as soon as ye be entred into it: ye shall fynd a coltre bounde, wheron neuer man sat: loke hym and bypunge hym therbet. And yf anye man saye vnto you why do ye so? Say ye, that the Lord hath made of hymys straight way: he will send hym byther. And they wente they waye, and founde the coltre tyed by the doze wythoute in a place where two wayes mette, and they loosed hym. And dyuers of them that stood ther, saied vnto them: What dooe ye loysunge the coltre? And they saied vnto them: euen as Iesus had commaunded. And they let hym go. And they broughte the coltre to Iesus and cast they garments on hym: and he sat upon hym. And many spide they garments in the waye. Other cut downe bryanches of the trees, and strawed them in the waye. And they that wente before and they that folowed cryed, saynge: Hosanna. Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. Blessed be the kyngdome, that cometh in the name of hym that is Lord of our father Dauid Hosanna in the hyest.

And the Lord entered into Jerusalem and in to the temple. And when he had looked round about vpon all thynges, and now the euentide was come, he wente oute vnto Bethany wyth the twelue. And on the morow when they were come out from Bethany, he hongred. And when he had spied a fygge tree afarre of, haupng leaues, he came to se yf he myghte fynd any thyng thereon. And when he came to it, he founde no thyng but leaues: for the tyme of fygges was not yet. And Iesus answered and saied vnto the fygge tree: neuer man eate frute of the here after while the woilde standeth. And his dysciples heard it.

And they came to Jerusalem. And Iesus went into the temple, and began to caste out them that soule and boughe in the temple, and ouer throwe the tables of the mony changers, and the stoles of them that solde dones: and would not suffer that any man shoulde carpe a vessel throughe the temple. And he taught sayng vnto them: is it not wyrtten: my house shalbe called the house of prayer vnto all nacions: But ye haue made it a denne of theues.

And the Scribes and the hye prestes herde it, and sought howe to destroye hym. For they feared hym, because all the people marueled at his doctryne. And when euen was come, Iesus went out of the cytee. And in the morning as they passed by, they sawe the figge tre dried vpon by the rotes. And Peter remembred, and saied vnto hym: Master, beholde the figge tre which thou cursedst, is withered awaye. And Iesus answered and saied vnto them: haue confidence in God. Merely I saie vnto you, that whoso euer shall saie vnto this mountayne: remoue, and cast thy self into the sea, and shal not doute in his heart, but shal beleue that those thynges whiche he sayth shal come to passe, whatsoeuer he sayeth shal haue. Therefore I saie vnto you: what thynges soeuer ye desyre, when ye praye, beleue that ye receiue them, and ye shall haue them. And when ye stande and praye: for ye haue oughte agaynst any man, that ye put rather also which is in heauen, may forgiue you your trespasses.

And they came agayne to Jerusalem. And as he walked in the temple: there came to hym the hye prestes, and the scribes, and the elders and sayed vnto hym: by what auctorite doest thou these thynges: and who gaue the thes auctorite, to do these thynges? Iesus answered and saied vnto them: I wyl also aske of you a certayne thyng and answere ye me, and I wyl tell you by what auctorite I do these thynges. The baptisme of Iohn, whether was it frome heuen or of men? Answer me. And they thoughte in them selues, sayng: yf we saie from heauen he wyl saie: why then byd ye not beleue hym? but yf they had sayed: of men, they feared the people. For all men counted Iohn, that he was a very prophet. And they answered and sayed vnto Iesu: we cannot tell. And Iesus answered, and sayed vnto them: nether wyl I tell you by what auctorite I do these thynges.

The xii. Chapter.

The synagoge is let out. Genu to Iesu that belongeth to the synagoge, of the synagogs, of the doctes of Iesu, synagogs must be of the synagogs, the offering of the synagogs.

And he beganne to speake vnto the by parabes. I certayne man planterd a vyneyarde, and compassed it aboute with an hedge, and ordeyned a wynepresse, and built a towre and let it out to hye vnto husbandmen, and wente into a strange countree. And when the tyme was come, he sent to the husbandmen a seruaunte, that he myghte receiue of the husbandmen of frut of the vyneyard. And they caught hym and bet hym, and sent hym away agayne emptye. And mozeouer he sente vnto them another seruaunte, and at hym they cast stones, and brake his head, and sente hym away agayne to reupled. And agayne he sent another, and hym they kyllled: and manye other, beatynge some, and kylling some.

And so when he had but one beloued sonne he sente hym also at the last vnto them, sayng: they wyl feare my sonne. But the husbandmen said amongest the selues: this is the heyre: let vs kille hym, and the inheritaunce shal be oure. And they tooke hym and kyllled hym, and cast hym out of the vyneyarde. What shal therfore the Lord of the vyneyard do? he shal come and destroye the husbandmen, and let out the vyneyard vnto other. Haue ye not read this scripture? The stone whych the buylders byd refuse, is become the chiefe stone of the corner, this is the Lordes doinge, and it is meruelous in our eyes. They wente aboute to take hym, and feared the people. For they knewe, that he had spoken the parable agaynst them. And they leste hym and wente they waye.

And they sent vnto hym certain of the pharises and herodes seruantes, to take hym in his trappe. And as soon as they were come, they sayd vnto him: Master, we knowe that thou art true, and carest for no man: for thou confidest not the outward appearance of men, but teacheth the shape of God himselfe: As it is written to pay tribute to Cesar, as not: Ought we to give, as ought we not to give? But he understood they? simulation, and said unto them: Whyp temple ye me? Spring me a penny, that I may see it. And they brought it. And he sayth unto the. Whose is this ymage, and superscription? And they sayd unto him: Cesar. And Jesus answered, and sayd unto them: A Gent to Cesar the thynges I belong to Cesar: as to God the thynges which pertaine to God. And they marvelled at hym.

Then came also unto him the saducys: which saye that there is no resurrection. And they asked hym saying: Master? Moses wrote unto vs, if any mans brother dye, and leue his wife behynde hym, and leue no chyldren: that his brother should take his wyfe, and raise vp lede unto his brother.

There wer seuen brethren, and the first toke a wife, and when he dyed, lefte no seche behynde hym. And the seconde toke her, and died, nethe left he anye seed. And the thyrde lykwysle. And seuf had her, and left no seche behynde them. Last of al the wyfe died also. In the resurrection ther foze when they shall ryle agayne, whose wyfe shall she be of them? For seuen had her to wyfe. And Jesus answered and sayd unto them: Do ye not therfore erre because ye vnderstand not the scriptures, nethe the power of God? For when they shall ryle agayne frome death, they nethe mary, noz are maryed: but are as the angels, whych are in heauen. As touchyng I dead that they ryle agayne: haue ye not reade in the booke of Moses, howe in the bush, God spake unto hym, saying: I am the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob: he is no God of dead, but the God of lyuynge. Ye are therfore greatly descreyued.

And when there came one of the scribes: and had hearde them disputyng together (and perceiued that he had answered them wel) he asked hym: whyche is the fyrst of all the commaundmentes? Jesus answered hym, the fyrst of all the commaundmentes is: Heare O Israel: The Loyde our God is Loyde only: And thou shalt loue the Loyde thy God with al thy heart, and with al thy soule, and with al thy mynde and with al thy strength. This is the fyrst commaundment. And the second is lyke vnto this: Thou shalt loue thy neyghboure as thy selfe. There is none other commaundment greater then these.

And the scribe sayd vnto hym: wel master thou hast sayd the truthe, for there is one God, and there is none but he. And to loue hym with al the heart, and with al the minde, and with al the soule, and with al the strength, and to loue a mans neyghboure as hym selfe, is a greater thyng then all burnt offerynges and sacrifices. And when Jesus sawe that he answered discretely, he sayd vnto hym. Thou arte not farre from the kyngdom of God. And no man after that, durst aske hym anye questyon.

And Jesus answered and sayd, teaching in the temple: howe saye the scribes that Chrys is the sonne of Dauid. For Dauid hym selfe in the sayd with the holy ghoost sayd: The Loyde sayeth to my Loyde, sit on my ryght hande tyll I make thyne enemyes thy foote stole. Dauid hym selfe calleth hym Loyde: and how is he the sonne of Dauid? And much people heard hym gladly.

And he sayd vnto them in his doctryne: be ware of the scribes, whych & loue to go in long clothyng: and loue salutations in the market places, and the chiefe seates in the congregacyon, and the vpermost chymes at feastes, whych deuour widowes houses, and vnder a pretence make longe prayers. These shall receiue greater dampnacyon.

And when Jesus sat ouer against the treasury, he behelde, howe the people put mony in to the treasury. And many that were ryche, cast in much. And there came a certayne pooze widowe, & she thewe in two myces, whych make a farthyng. And he called vnto hym his disciples, and sayth vnto them. Verely I saye vnto you: that this pooze wyddowe hath cast moze in, then all they which haue cast into the treasury. For they all dyd cast in of theyr superfluyte: but she of her pouerte, dyd cast in all that she had, euen all her lyuynge.

¶ The ende of the gospell. The daye and the houre is vnkynowen.

As he went oute of the temple, & one of his disciples sayd vnto hym: Master, se what stones, and what buyldynges are here. And Jesus answered and sayd vnto hym: Drest thou these great buyldynges? Ther shall not be lefte one stone vpon another, that shall not be thowdome downe. And as he latte on mounte Olyuete, ouer agaynst the temple, Peter and James, and Iohn, and Andrew, aske hym secretly: tell vs when shall these thynges be? And what is the sygne when all these thynges shall be fulfilled? And Jesus answered them and began so saye: Take heede, least anye man descreyue you. For many shall come in my name saying: I am Chrys, and shall descreyue many.

When ye shall heare of warres, and ryding of warres, be ye not troubled. For such thynges must nedes be. But the end is not yet. For they shall ryle nacyon agaynst nacyon, and kyngdome agaynst kyngdome. And there shall be earthquakes in all quarters, and famyngment shall rye be, and troubles. These are the begynnyng of sorowes. But take ye heede to pouer felous. For they shall buyng you vnto the colde seas, and into the shmagogen, and ye shall be ten, yee, and shall be brought before rulers and kinges for my sake, for a testimonial vnto the. And the Gospell must fyrst be publyshed amonge all nacions.

 But so; the electes sake, whom he hath chosen he hath shortened those dayes.

* And then, if any man saye to you: loe here is Christ: loe he is there, beleue not. For false Christs and false prophets shall rise, & shall shewe mynacles and wonders, to deceiue, if it were possible, euen the elect. But take ye heed: Beholde I haue shewed you all thyngs before.

* Moreover, in those daies, after that tribulation, the sunne shall waxe darke, and the moone shall not geue her light, and the starres of heauen shall fall: and the powers which are in heauen shall moue: And then shall that be the sonne of man commynge in the cloudes, with greate power and glorie. And then shall he sende his angels, and they shall gather together his elect from the foure wyndes, from the ende of the earth, to the vttermoſt parte of heauen.

As a man which is gone into a straunger countre, and hath left his house and geuen his substance to his seruantes, & to euery man his worke, and commaunded the porter to watche. Watche ye therefore, for ye knowe not when the master of the house will come, euen at mydnyght, whether at the cocke crowing, or in the dawning: leaue ye be come so denly he fynde you sleppng. And that I say vnto you, I saye vnto all, watche.

and bounde Iesus, and led hym away, and deli-uered hym to Pilate. And Pilate asked hym art thou the kyng of the Jewes? And he answered and said vnto him: thou sayest it. And the hye preestes accused hym of many thynges. So Pilate asked hym again sayng: * Answerest thou nothyng? Beholde, howe many thynges they lay vnto thy charge. Iesus yet answered nothyng, so that Pilate maruelled.

At that feast Pilate dyd deliuer vnto them a prisoner: whomsoever they woulde desire. And ther was one þ was named Barrabas, which laye bounde wyth them that made insurrection he had committed in murder. And the people called vnto hym: and began to desyre him, that he woulde be accorde as he had euer done vnto them. Pilate answered them sayng: Wyl ye that I let lose vnto you the kyng of the Jewes?
For he knewe that the hye preestes had deliue-red hym of enuy. But the hye preestes moued þ people, that he shoulde rather deliuer Barabas vnto them.

Pilate answered agayn and said vnto the:
What wyl then that I do vnto hym, whom ye call the kyng of the Jewes? And they cried againe: crucifye hym. Pilate sayed vnto them what euell hath he done? And they cried þ moze feruently: Crucifye hym. And so Pilate willing to contente the people, * let lose Barrabas vnto them, and deliuered vp Iesus (when he had scourged hym) for to be crucified.

And the souldiers led hym away into þ commen hall, and called together the whole multitude, and they clothed hym wyth purple, & they platted a crowne of thornes, and crowned hym withall, & beganne to salute hym: Hail kyng of the Jewes. And they smote hym, on the head with a rebe and dyd spyt vpon hym and bowed their knees, and woꝝhypped hym.

And when they had mocked hym, they toke the purple of hym, and put his owne clothes on hym, and led hym out to crucifye hym. * And they compelled one that passed by, called Symon of Cyrene (the father of Alexander and Rutus) whyche came out of the felde, to beare his crosse. * And they broughte þ to a place named Golgartha (whyche is of a man interprete it: the place of dead mens sculles) and they gaue hym to dryncke, wyne myngled wyth myzze, but he receiued it not.

And when they had crucified hym: they parted his garmentes, castyng lottes vpon them, what eueryma shoulde take. And it was about the thyrth houre, and they crucified hym. And the title of his cause was written: The kyng of the Jewes. * And they crucified with hym two the-ues, the one on the ryght hand, and the other on hys left. And the scripture was fulfilled which sayth: * he was counted among the wycked. * And they that wente by, rayled on hym, wagging their heades, and sayng: A wretch, thou that destroyest the temple, and buyldest it in three dayes: save thy selfe, and come doune from the crosse. Lyke wyse also mocked hym the hye preestes amonge them selues wyth the scriptures and sayed: he saved other men, hym selfe he cannot save. Let Chyfft the kyng of Israel descend nowe from the crosse, that we maye se, and be-lieue. And they that were crucified with hym, checked hym also.

* And when the thyrth houre was come, darke-nesse arose ouer all the earth, vntill the. ix. houre And at þ. ix. houre Iesus cryed with a loud voyce sayng: Eloi, Eloi, lama sabathani: whyche is (of one interprete it) * my God my God, why hast thou forsaken me? And some of the þ stode by, when they heard that sayed: beholde, he calleth for Elias. * And one ranne, & filled a sponge ful of vineger, and put it on a rebe, & gaue hym to dryncke: sayng: let hym alone, let vs se wher ther helias will come and take hym doune.

But Iesus cryed with a louder voyce, & gaue vp the ghost. * And the vayle of the temple dyd rent in two peces, from the toppe to the botome.
* And when the Centurion (which stode befoze hym) sawe that he so cryed, & gaue vp the ghost he said: Truly this ma was the sonne of God.
* There wer also women a good way of, behol-dyng hym: among whom was Mary Magdalene, * and Mary þ mother of James the lytle: and Ioses, and Mary Salome. * (whyche also whyle he was in Galile had folowed hym and my-nistred vnto hym) & many other women, which came by wyth hym vnto Ierusalem.

And now when the euen was come (because it was the day of preparyng, that goeth befoze the sabboth) * Ioseph of the cytre of Aramatia a noble counsellour, whyche also looked for the kyngdome of God, came, and wente in boldly vnto Pilate, and begged of hym the body of Jesu. And Pilate maruelled that he was alre dye dead, and called vnto hym the Centurion, and asked hym, whether he had bene any whyle dead. And when he knewe the truth of the Centurion, he gaue the body to Ioseph. And he bought a linnen clothe, and tooke hym doune, and wra-ped hym in the linnen clothe, and layed hym in a sepulchre that was hewen out of a rocke, and rouled a stone befoze the dooze of the sepulchre.
And Marye Magdalene and Marye Ioses, be-helde wher he was layed. † they sayed amonge them selues: who shall rolle awaye the stone from the doze of the sepulchre?

And when they looked, they sawe howe that the stone was rolled awaye, for it was a verye greate one. And they wente into the sepulchre, and sawe a younge man sittinge on the righte-ascended, ye seeke Iesus of Nazareth, which was crucified. he is risen, he is not here. Behold, the place where they had put him. But go your way and tell his disciples, and Peter, that he goeth before you into Galilee, there shall ye see him as he said unto you. And they went out with fear and trembling, and were amazed. Neither said they any thing to any man, for they were afraid.

Luka. 24.9

¶ When Iesus was risen againe the first day after the sabbath, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils. And he went, and tolde them that were with him, and they mourned and wept. And they would they hadde that he was a spirit, and had appeared unto her beleeved it not. After that appeared he unto two of them, in a strange figure, as they walked and wente into the countree. And they wente and tolde it to the remnant. And they beleeved not these also.

¶ Afterwarde he appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meate: and caste in theyr teeth theyr unbelieve, and hardnesse of heart: because they beleeved not them whiche had sene that he was risen againe from the dead. And he sayed unto them: So ye into all the world & preach the Gospell to all creatures, he that beleeueth and is baptised, shall be saved. But he that beleeueth not, shall be damned. And these tokens shall folow them that beleeve. In my name they shall cast out devils, they shall speake with newe tongues, they shall bypne a waye serpentes. And yf they bypne any deadly thinge, it shall not hurt them. They shall lay theyr handes on the sycke and they shall recover.

The Gospell of Saynte Luke.

As muche as many haue taken in hande to set forth the declaracions of those thinges which are most surely to be beleeued amonge vs, such as they deliuered the vnto vs, whiche from the begynnyng sawe the same selues with theyr eyes, and were mynisters of the thinges that they declared: I determined also, as lone as I had leached out diligently all thinges from the begynnyng, that then I woulde wyte vnto the good Theophilus: that thou mightest knowe the certente of those thinges, wherof thou hast bene informed.

The conceyting and birth of Iesus the Messias, the sonne of David, the sonne of Abraham.

There was in the dayes of Herode the kyng of Jewry, a certayne priest named zacharias, of the course of Abia. And his wyfe was of the daughters of Aaron: and her name was Elizabeth: they were both ryghteous before God, and walked in all the lawes and ordynances of the Lord that nomā coulde fynde faulte with them. And they had no chyld because that Elizabeth was barren, and they bothe were nowe well strychen in age.

And it came to passe, that when zachary executed the priestes offyce, before God, as his course cam (according to the custome of the priestes offyce) his lot fell to burne incense.

And he wente into the temple of the Lord, and the whole multitude of the people were out in prayer, whyle the incense was a burning. And there appeared vnto hym an Angel of the Lord, standyng on the ryghte syde of the altare of incense. And when zachary sawe him he was abashed and feare came on hym.

Luka. 1.10

But the Angel sayed vnto hym: feare not zachary, for thy prayer is heard. And thy wyfe Elizabeth shall bear the a sonne, and thou shalt call his name Ihon, and thou shalt haue ioye and gladnesse, and manye shall reioyse at his birth. For he shall be greute in the syghte of the Lord, and shall nether bypne nor stronge bypne, and he shall be fylled with the holy ghoist even frome his mothers wombe: and manye of the chyldren of Israel shall turne to their Lord God. And he shall go before him in the spirit & power of Elias, to turne the hartes of the fathers to the chyldren, and the unbelievers to the wysdome of the iust men, to make ready a perfect people for the Lord.

Mat. 21.1

And zachary sayd vnto the Angel: by what token shall I knowe this? For I am olde, and my wyfe well strychen in yeares. And the Angel answered and sayed vnto hym: I am Gabriel, that stande in the presence of God, and am sente to speake vnto the: and to the we the these glad thinges. And beholde it shall come to passe that thou shalt be domine, and not be able to speake, vntill the daye that these thinges be perfourmed, because I beleeue not thy wordes, which shall be fulfilled in theyr season.

And the people waited for zachary, & marvelled that he stode in the temple. And when he came out, he coulde not speake vnto them. And they perceaued that he had sene a vision in the temple. And he beckoned vnto them and remained sychelesse.

¶ And it fortuned, that as lone as the dayes of his offyce were out, he departed into his owne house. And after those dayes, his wyfe Elizabeth conceined, and byd her selfe fyue monethes sayng: This wille hath God dealt with me, in the dayes wherein he hath looked on me, so that I shal be called frome from me my rebuke amonge menne.

And in the syete moneth the angell Gabryell was sent from God vnto a cytie of Galile, named Nazareth, to a vyrgyne sponised to a man whose name was Ioseph, of the house of David and the vyrgins name was Mary. And the angell wente in vnto her, and sayde: Hail full of grace, the Lorde is with the: blessed arte thou among women. When she sawe hym, she was a-bashed at hys saynge: and cast in her mynde, what manner of salutation that shulde be. And the angell sayde vnto her, feare not Marye: for thou haste founde grace wth God. Beholde, * thou shalt conceiue in thy wombe, and beare a sonne, and * shalt call his name Iesus. He shal be greate, & shalbe called the sonne of the hyest. And the Lorde God shal geue vnto hym seat of his father David, and * he shall raygne ouer the house of Jacob for euer, and of his kyngdome there shalbe none ende.

Then sayd Mary vnto the angel: how shal this be, seying I knowe not a man? And the angell answered & sayde vnto her. The holy gost shall come vpon the, and the power of the hyest shall ouerthadow the. Therefore also that holy thyng which shalbe bozne, shalbe called & sonne of God. And beholde, thy Cousyn Elizabeth, she hath also conceyued a sone in her age. And this is her septe moneth, which was called barre: for * with God shall nothyng be vnpowrful. And Mary sayd: beholde the handmaiden of & Lorde be it vnto me accordyng to thy woide. ¶ And the angell departed from her.

¶ And Mary arose in those dayes, and went into the mountaynes with hast into the cytie of Jewye, and entred into the house of zachary, & saluted Elizabeth. And it fortuneth, that when Elizabeth herde & salutation of Mary, & shabe sprange in her wombe. And Elizabeth was fylled with the holy gost, and cryed with a loude voyce, and sayde: Blessed arte thou among women, and blessed is & frute of thy wombe. And whence happeneth this to me, that the mother of my Lorde shulde come to me? For lo, as sone as the voyce of thy salutation poundeth in mine eares, the babe sprange in my wombe for ioye. And blessed arte thou & haste beleued: for those thynges shalbe performed, which were tolde & from the Lorde. And Mary sayde:

* My soule magnifyeth the Lorde. And my sperte hath reioysed in God my saviour. ¶ For he hath looked on & lowe degree of his handmaiden: for lo, now from hence forth shall all generacyons call me blessed. Because he that is myghty, hath done to me great thynges, and holy is his name. And his mercy is on them that feare him, from generacion to generaciō. He hath shewed strength with his arme, he hath scattered them & are proude in the ymaginacion of theyr herte. * He hath put downe the myghty from theyr seates, & exalted them of lowe degree. He hath fylled the hungry with good thynges: and sent a waye the rich empty. He hath helped his seruante Israel, in remembraunce of his mercy.

* Euen as he promysed to oure fathers, Aba-ham, and to his sēbe for euer. And Mary abode with her about a thre monethes, and returned agayne to her owne house.

And it fortuneth that in the eyght dayes, they came * to circumcise the chyld: and called hys name zacharias, after the name of his father. And his mother answered and sayd: not so, but he shalbe called Ihon. And they sayde vnto her: There is none in thy kynred, & is named wth this name. And they made sgyres to his father howe he wolde haue hym called: And he asked for wytyng tables, and wrote, saynge: hys name is Ihon. And they marvelled all. And his mouth was opened immediatly, and his tonge also, and he spake, and praysed God. And feare came on all them that dwelt nye vnto the. And all these saynges were noyed abroad throug out all the byll contree of Jewye: and all they & herd them, sayde the vp in theyr hertes, sayng: What manner of chyld shal this bee? And the hande of the Lorde was with hym.

And hys father zacharyas was fylled wth the holy gost, and prophced, sayng: Praise be the Lorde God of Israel, for he hath visyted and redeemed his people: ¶ And hath raised vp * an hoine of salucion vnto vs in the house of his seruaunt David. Euen as he promysed by the mouth of his holy Prophetes, which were sent the woide beganne. That we shulde be saued from our enemies, and from the hande of al that hate vs. That he wolde deale mercifullye with oure fathers, and remembre his holy couenant: * And that he wolde perfome the orde, which he swore to oure fathers Abrahā, for to geue vs. * That we deliuered out of & handes of oure enemies, myght serue him wout feare all the dayes of our lyfe, in such holynes & ryghteousnes as are accept before hym. And thou chyld shalt be called the Prophete of the hyest for thou shalt go before the face of the Lorde, to prepare his wayes: to geue knowlage of salucion vnto his people for & remission of synnes. Throug the tender mercye of our God, whereby the day spring from an hye hath visyted vs.

* To geue lyght to them that sat in darcknesse, and in the yadowe of death, to gyde our fete into the waye of peace. And the chyld grew and waxed strong in sperte, and was in wylder nesse tyll the daye came, when he shoulde thewe hym selfe vnto the Israelites.

¶ The .ii. Chapter.

¶ The byth and circumcison of Christ. When he was receyued into the temple, howe Symeon and Anna prophesye of hym, and howe he was founde in the temple among the doctours.

And it chaunced in those dayes that I then went out a commaundement fro Augustus the Emperour, that all the world shulde be taxed. And this taxyng was the fyrste, and executed whē Syrius was lictenante in Syria.

¶ And

1. 2. 3. 4.

And every man went unto his owne tithie to be taxed. And Joseph also ascribed to Galile, out of a cytie called Nazareth, into Judee, unto the cytie of David, which is called Bethleem because he was of the house and lineage of David to be taxed with Mary his spoused wyfe, which was with chylde. And it fortuned that whyle they wer there, her tyme was come that she shulde be deliuered. And she brought forth the first begotten sonne, and wrapped hym in swadlyng clothes, and laide hym in a maunger because there was no roume for the in the ynn.

And there wer in that same region shepherdes watching and keeping theyr flocks by nyght. And lo, the Angell of the Lorde stode hard by them, & the byrgones of the Lorde shone rounde about them, and they were sore afrayed. And an angel sayd unto them. Be not afrayed. For behold, I bring you tidynge of great ioye, that shall come to all people: for unto you is borne this day in the cytie of David, a saviour, which is Christ the Lorde. And take theys for a sygne ye shall fynde the chylde wrapped in swadlyng clothes, and layed in a maunger. And straight waye there was with the angel a multitude of heauenly soulders praisynge God, and sayng. Glorify to God on hye, and prayse on the earth, & unto men a good wyll.

And it fortuned, as soone as the angels wer gone awaye from them into heauen. The shepherdes sayde one to another: let vs go now euen unto Bethleem, and see this thyng that we heare saye is happened, whiche the Lorde hath shewed unto vs. And they came with hast and founde Mary and Joseph and the babe layde in a maunger. And when they had seene it, they publyshed abroad the sayng: which was tolde them of that chylde. And all they that heard it, wondered at those thynges which were told the of the shepherdes. But Mary kept all those saynges, & pondered them in her heart. And the shepherdes returned, praisynge and laudynge God for all the thynges that they had heard & seene, euen as it was tolde unto them.

And when the eighth daye was come the chylde shulde be circumcysed, & his name was called Jesus which was named of the Angel, before he was conceived in the wombe.

1. 2. 3. 4.

And when the tyme of theyr purificacion (after the lawe of Moyses) was come, they brought hym to Jerusalem, to present hym to the Lorde (as it is wyrtten in the lawe of the Lorde: every man chylde that first openeth the matrix, shalbe called holpe to the Lorde) and to offer (as it is sayde in the lawe of the Lorde) a payre of turtle doves, or two yonge pygeons.

1. 2. 3. 4.

And beholde, there was a man in Jerusalem whose name was Symeon. And he same man was iuste and godly, and looked for the consolacyon of Israel, and the holy goste was in hym. And an aunswere had he receyved of the holy goste, that he shuld not se death, except he first sawe the Lorde Christ. And he came by inspiration in the temple.

And when the father and mother brought in the chylde Jesus: to doo for hym after the custome of the lawe, then toke he hym up in his armes, and sayde: Lorde, now lettest thou thy seruante depart in peace, accordyng to thy promise. For myne eyes haue seene the saluacyon: which thou hast prepared before the face of all people. A lyght to lighten the gentyls, and the glory of thy people Israel.

And his father and mother marvelled at those thynges, which were spoken of hym. And Symeon blessed them, & sayde unto Mary his mother: behold, this chylde is set to be the fall & vppryng agayne of many in Israel, and for a sygne which is spoken agaynst. And more ouer the sword shall pearce thy soule, & the thoughtes of many hartes maye be opened.

And there was a prophete, one Anna, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser: which was of a great age, and had lyued with an husbande. vii. yeres from her vppryng. And she had bene a widowe about. iiii. score & iiii. yere, whiche departed not from the temple, but serued God with fastynge and prayere nyght & daye. And she came forth that same houre, and prayled the Lorde, and spake of hym, to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem.

And when they had performed all thynges accordyng to the lawe of the Lorde, they returned into Galile, to theyr owne cytie Nazareth. And the chylde grew, and waxed stronge in spiryte, and was fylled with wysdome and the grace of God was vpon hym.

And his father and mother went to Jerusalem every yere at the feaste of Easter. And when he was. xii. yere olde, they went vp to Jerusalem after the custome of the feaste daye. And when they had fulfilled the dayes, as they returned home, the chylde Jesus abode still in Jerusalem, and his father and mother knewe not of it: but they supposed hym to haue bene in the company, came a daye or tney and soughte hym among theyr kynnefolke & acquaintance. And whē they found hym not, they went backe agayne to Jerusalem, and soughte hym. And it fortuned that after thre dayes, they founde him in the temple, sittynge in the myddes of the doctours, hearing them, and posynge them. And all that heard hym, were astounded at his vnderstandynge and answeres.

And when they sawe hym, they marvelled. And his mother sayde vnto hym: Sonne, why hast thou thus dole to vs? Beholde, thy father and I haue soughte the sojowynge. And he sayde vnto them: howe is it that ye soughte me? Wist ye not that I must go about my fathers busynesse? And they vnderstode not the sayng whiche he spake vnto them. And he went downe to them and came to Nazareth, and was obedient vnto the. But his mother kept all these saynges together in her heart. And Jesus prospered in wysdom and age, & in fauour, with God & men.

The Chapter.

Of the purificacion of Mary, and of Symeon the iuste, and of Anna the prophete, and of the gyfte of the wyse men.

In the fyfteenth yere of the raygne of Cyberius the Emperoure, Pontius Pilate beyng Lefeternaunte of Ierusalem, and Herode beyng Tetrarch of Galyle, and his brother Phylippe Tetrarch of Iturea: and of the region of the Traconytes and Lysanarth the Tetrarch of Abilene (whiche Anna and Caphas were the hye priestes) the word of the Lorde came vnto John the sonne of zacharias in the wyldernesse. And he came into all the coastes aboute Iordane, preachinge the baptisme of repentance for the remission of synnes, as it is wyrtten in the booke of y<sup>e</sup> wordes of Esaye the prophete, sayng: * The voice of a cryer in y<sup>e</sup> wyldernesse: prepare ye the waye of the Lorde, make his pathes straght. Every valley shalbe fylled, and every mountayne and hylle shalbe brought lowe. And hynges that be crooked shalbe made straght, and the rough wayes shalbe made plain: and all fleshe shall se the saluacyon of God. ¶

Then saide he to the people, that were come forth to be baptysed of hym. * O ye generacyon of vipers, who hath taught you to syle from y<sup>e</sup> wyath to come? Wyngye forth therfore due frutes of repentance, and begyn not to saye with in your selues: we haue Abraham to our father. For I say vnto you: God is able of these stonys to raptle vp chyldren vnto Abraham. Nowe also is the axe layde vnto the roote of the trees, & euery tre therfore which wyngyth not forth good frute is hewen downe, and cast into the fyre.

And the people asked hym, sayng: * what shall we do then? he answered and sayeth vnto them: he that hath two coats, let hym part wryth hym that hath none, & he that hath meate let hym do lyke wyse.

Then came y<sup>e</sup> publicans also to be baptysed and sayd vnto hym: Master, what shall we do? And he sayde vnto them: requyte no more, then that which is appoynted vnto you.

The souldyers lyke wyse demaunded of hym sayng: & what shall we do? And he sayde vnto them, hurte no man: neyther trouble any man wrongfully: and be content with your wages.

As the people were in a doubte, and all men mused in theyr hertes of John, whether he were very Christ: John answered and sayd vnto the all: * I baptise you wryth water, but one stronger the I shal come after me, whose sho latched I am not worthy to vnlose, he shal baptise you with the holy gost, and with fyre: * which hath his fanne in his hande, & wyll pouge his floore and gather the coine into his barn, but y<sup>e</sup> chaffe wil be burne wryth fyre & neuer shalbe quenched. And many other thynges in his exhortacyon preached he vnto the people.

* Then Herode y<sup>e</sup> Tetrarch, when he was rebuked of hym, for Herodias his brother Phylippes wyfe, and for all the euilles whiche he rode dyd, added this a boue all, and layde John in pylone.

And it fortuned that when all the people receyued baptyme (and when Iesus was baptysed and dyd praye) the heuyn was opened, and the holy goste came downe in a bodelye shape lyke a doue vpon hym, and a voyce came from heauen, whiche sayde: * Thou arte my beloued sonne, in the doo I deelyte.

And Iesus hym selfe beganne to be aboute thirty yere of age, so that he was supposed to be the sonne of Ioseph: whiche was the sonne of Hely, whiche was the sonne of Matthat: whiche was the sonne of Leuy, whiche was the sonne of Melchyr: whiche was the sonne of Janna: whiche was the sonne of Ioseph, whiche was the sonne of Matthatias, whiche was the sonne of Amos: whiche was the sonne of Naum, whiche was the sonne of Hely: whiche was the sonne of Ragui, whiche was the sonne of Maath: whiche was y<sup>e</sup> sonne of Matthatias: whiche was the sonne of Semei, whiche was the sonne of Ioseph: whiche was the sonne of Iuda, whiche was the sonne of Ioanna: whiche was the sonne of Rhesa, whiche was the sonne of Zorobabell, whiche was the sonne of Salathiel: whiche was y<sup>e</sup> sonne of Aheri: whiche was the sonne of Melchyr, whiche was the sonne of Abdi, whiche was the sonne of Eosam: whiche was the sonne of Helmadan, whiche was the sonne of Her, whiche was the sonne of Ieso, whiche was the sonne of Heliizer, whiche was the sonne of Iozam: whiche was the sonne of Matthat, whiche was y<sup>e</sup> sonne of Leui: whiche was the sonne of Symeon: whiche was the sonne of Iuda, whiche was the sonne of Ioseph: whiche was the sonne of Ionam: whiche was y<sup>e</sup> sonne of Heliachim: whiche was the sonne of Melchyr: whiche was the sonne of Menan: whiche was the sonne of Matthat: whiche was the sonne of Dauid: whiche was the sonne of Jesse: whiche was the sonne of Obed: whiche was the sonne of Boos: whiche was the sonne of Salmon, whiche was the sonne of Raassan: whiche was y<sup>e</sup> sonne of Aminadab: whiche was the sonne of Iran, whiche was the sonne of Elsom: whiche was the sonne of Phares: whiche was the sonne of Iuda: whiche was the sonne of Jacob: whiche was the sonne of Isahar: whiche was the sonne of Abraham, whiche was the sonne of Tharra: whiche was the sonne of Nachor, whiche was the sonne of Saruch, whiche was the sonne of Ragau: whiche was the sonne of Phalec: whiche was the sonne of Heber, whiche was the sonne of Sala, whiche was the sonne of Canan: whiche was the sonne of Arpharat, whiche was the sonne of Sem: whiche was the sonne of Noe, whiche was the sonne of Lamech, whiche was the sonne of Matrusala: whiche was the sonne of Enoch, whiche was the sonne of Jared, whiche was the sonne of Malalech, whiche was the sonne of Enos, whiche was the sonne of Seth: whiche was the sonne of Adam: whiche was the sonne of God.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Iesus to led into the wyldernesse, and fasteth all the tyme of his temptacyon, he was tempted of the deuyl, and was led into the desert of Ierusalem, and was led into the temple, and was led into the mount of Olives, and was led into the mount of Sion, and was led into the mount of Moriah, and was led into the mount of Calvary, and was led into the mount of Golgotha, and was led into the mount of Sion, and was led into the mount of Moriah, and was led into the mount of Calvary, and was led into the mount of Golgotha.

The Gospell

1. Ma. 3. 34.

And every man went unto his owne cite to be tared. And Joseph also after Galile, out of a ctyte called Nazareth, into Judee, unto the ctyte of David, which is called Bethlem because he was of the house and kynge of Da-uid to be tared with Mary his spoused wyfe, which was with chylde. And it fortuned that while they wer there, her tyme was come that she shulde be deliuered. And she brought forth her fyrste begotten sonne, and wrapped hym in swadylng clothes, and laide hym in a maunger because there was no roume for the in the ynn.

B And there wer in that same region, shepherdes watchyng and keepyng theyr flocks by nyght.
And lo, the Angell of the Lorde stode hard by them, & the bygynnes of the Lorde shone rounde about them, and they were sore afrayed. And an angel sayd vnto them. Be not afrayed. For behold, I bring you tidynges of great ioye, that shall come to all people: for vnto you is borne this day in the ctyte of David, a sauour, which is Christ the Lorde. And take this for a sygne ye shall synde the chylde wrapped in swadylng clothes, and layed in a maunger. And straightwaye there was with the angel a multytud of heauenly sounders praisyng God, and sayyng, Glozy to God on hye, and peace on the earth, & vnto men a good will.

C And it fortuned, as soone as the angels wer gone awaye from thein into heauen. The shepherdes sayde one to another: let vs go now even vnto Bethlem, and see this thyng that we heare saye is happened, whyche the Lorde hath shewed vnto vs. And they came with hast and founde Mary and Joseph and the babe layde in a maunger. And when they had sene it, they publyshed abrode the sayyng: which was tolde them of that chylde. And all they that heard it, wondered at those thynges which were told the of the shepherdes. But Mary kept al those sayynges, & pondered them in her heart. And the shepherdes returned, praisyng and laudyng God for all the thynges that they had heard & sene, euen as it was tolde vnto them.

And when the eighth daye was come the chylde shulde be circumcysed, his name was called Jesus, which was named of the Angel, before he was conceived in the wombe.

D And when the tyme of theyr purificacion (after the lawe of Moyses) was come, they brought hym to Jerusalem, to present hym to the Lorde (as it is wyrtten in the lawe of the Lorde: every man chylde that fyft openeth the matrix, shalbe called holpe to the Lorde) and to offer (as it is sayde in the lawe of the Lorde) a payre of turtle doves, or two yonge pygeons.

And beholde, there was a man in Jerusalem whose name was Symeon. And the same man was iust and godly, and looked for the consol-acyon of Israel, and the holy goste was in hym.
And an aunswere had he receyved of the holy goste, that he shuld not se death, except he first sawe the Lorde Christ. And he came by inspi-racyon in the temple.

E And when the father and mother brought in the chylde Jesus to doo for hym after the custome of the lawe, then toke he hym up in his armes, and sayde: Lorde, nowe lettest thou thy seruaunt depart in peace, accordyng to the wo-mple. For myne eyes haue sene the saluacyon: which thou hast prepared before the face of all people. A lyght to lyghten gentyls, and the glozy of the people Israel.

And his father and mother marvelled at those thynges, which were spoken of hym. And Symeon blessed them, & sayde vnto Mary his mother: behold, this chylde is set to be the sal-uacyon agayne of many in Israel, and for a sygne which is spoken agaynst. And more ouer the sword shall pearce thy soule, & the thoug-tes of many heartes maye be opened.

And there was a prophete, one Anna, the doughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser: which was of a great age, and had lyued with an husbande. vii. yeres from her byrgnyte. And she had bene a widowe about. iiii. scoze &. iiii. yere, whiche departed not from the temple, but serued God with fastynges and prayere nyght & daye.
And she came forth that same houre, and praysed the Lorde, and spake of hym, to al them that loked for redemption in Jerusalem.

And when they had perfourmed all thynges accordyng to the lawe of the Lorde, they returned into Galile, to theyr owne ctyte Nazareth.
And the chylde grew, and waxed stronge in spyrte, and was fylled with wysdome and the grace of God was vpon hym.

And his father and mother went to Jerusalem every yere at the feaste of Easter. And when he was. xii. yere olde, they went vp to Jerusalem after the custome of the feaste daye. And when they had fulfilled the dayes, as they returned home, the chylde Jesus abode still in Jerusalem, and his father and mother knewe not of it: but they supposyng hym to haue bene in the company, came a daye or twayne and sought hym among theyr kynsfolke & acquayntaunce.
And whē they found him not, they went backe agayne to Jerusalem, and sought hym. And it fortuned that after thre dayes, they founde him in the temple, sytting in the myddes of the doc-tours, hearyng them, and polying them. And all that heard hym, were astonyed at his vnderstandyng and answers.

And when they sawe hym, they marvelled.
And his mother sayde vnto hym: Sonne, why hast thou thus delerid vs? Beholde, thy father and I haue sought the sojowynge. And he sayde vnto them: howe is it ye sought me? My fe-ther was not that I must go about my fathers busynesse.
And they vnderstode not his sayyng, whiche he spake vnto them. And he went downe to them and came to Nazareth, and was obedient vnto the. But his mother kept all these sayynges together in her heart. And Jesus prospered in wysdom and age, & in fauour, with God & men.

The Chapter.

Of the prayyngs, sayyngs, and performances of John the baptyst, and a witness of the godes word of the fathers.

In the fyfteenth yere of the raygne of Cyberius the Emperoure, Pontus Pilate beyng Lefetrante of Jewe, and Herode beyng Tetrarch of Galyle, and hys brother Phylippe Tetrarch of Iturea: and of the regyon of the Traconites and Lysanarh the Tetrarch of Abylene (wher Anna and Caphas were the hie prieftes) the word of the Lorde came vnto John the sonne of zacharias in the wyldernesse. And he came into all the coastes aboute Jordan, preachinge the baptisme of repentance for the remission of synnes, as it is wyrtten in the booke of ysaie of Elaye the prophete, sayng: * The voice of a cryer in y wyldernesse: prepare ye the waye of the Lorde, make his pathes straght. Every valley shalbe fylled, and every mountayne and hyl shalbe brought lowe. And theynges that be crooked shalbe made straght, and the rough wayes shalbe made plain: and all fleshe shal se the saluacyon of God. I

Then saide he to the people, that were come forth to be baptysed of hym. * O ye generacyon of vipers, who hath taught you to fye from y wyrtth to come? Byngge forth therfore due frutes of repentance, and begon not to saye with in your selues: we haue Abraham to our father. For I say vnto you: God is able of these stonys to raipe vp chyldren vnto Abraham. Nowe also is the age layde vnto the rote of the trees, & euery tree therfore which bynggeth not forth good frute is hewen downe, and cast into the fyre.

And the people asked hym, sayng: * what shall we do then? he answered and sayeth vnto them: he that hath two coats, let hym part wth hym that hath none, & he that hath meate let hym do lyke wyse.

Then came y publicans also to be baptysed and sayd vnto hym: Master, what shall we do? And he sayde vnto them: requyte no more, then that which is appointed vnto you.

The souldiers lyke wyse demaunded of hym sayng: & what shall we do? And he sayde vnto theim, hurte no man: neyther trouble any man wrongfully: and be content with your wages.

As the people were in a doubte, and all men muled in theyr heres of John, whether he were very Christ: John answered and sayd vnto the all: * I baptise you wth water, but one stronger the I shal come after me, whose sho lathet I am not worthy to vnloose, he shal baptise you with the holy gost, and with fyre: * which hath his fanne in his hande, & wyl pouge his floore and gather the corne into his barn, but y chaffe wyl be burne with fyre & neuer shalbe quenched. And many other thynges in hys exhortacyon preached he vnto the people.

Then Herode y Tetrarch, when he was rebuked of hym, for Herodias hys brother Phylippes wyfe, and for all the cruell whiche Herode dyd, added this aboue all, and layde John in pylone.

And it fortuneth that when all the people receyued baptisme: and when Iesus was baptysed and byd praye: the heauen was opened, and the holy goste came downe in a bodelye thape lyke a doue vpon hym, and a voyce came from heauen, whiche sayde: * Thou arte my beloued sonne, in the doo I delecte.

And Iesus hym selfe beganne to be aboute thirty yere of age, so that he was supposed to be the sonne of Ioseph: which was the sonne of hely, which was the sonne of Matthat: whiche was the sonne of Leuy, which was the sonne of Melch: which was the sonne of Janna: which was the sonne of Ioseph, which was the sonne of Matthatias, which was the sonne of Amos which was the sonne of Raum, which was the sonne of hely: which was the sonne of Ragge, which was the sonne of Maard: whiche was y sonne of Matthatias: whiche was the sonne of Semei, which was the sonne of Ioseph: which was the sonne of Juda, which was the sonne of Joanna: which was the sonne of Rhesa, which was the sonne of zozobabell, whiche was the sonne of Salathiel: which was y sonne of Aeri whiche was the sonne of Melch, whiche was the sonne of Abdi, which was the sonne of Eosam: which was the sonne of helmadan, which was the sonne of her, whiche was the sonne of Ieso, which was the sonne of helizer, whiche was the sonne of Iozam: which was the sonne of Mattha, which was y sonne of Leui: whiche was the sonne of Spimon: which was the sonne of Juda, which was the sonne of Ioseph: which was the sonne of Jonam: whiche was y sonne of heliachim: whiche was the sonne of Melcha whiche was the sonne of Menan: whiche was the sonne of Matthat: whiche was the sonne of Nathan, whiche was the sonne of Dauid: whiche was the sonne of Jesse: whiche was the sonne of Obed: whiche was the sonne of Boos: whiche was the sonne of Salmon, whiche was the sonne of Raassan: whiche was y sonne of Aminadab: whiche was the sonne of Iran, which was the sonne of Esrom: which was the sonne of Phares: which was the sonne of Juda which was the sonne of Jacob: whiche was the sonne of Israhel: which was the sonne of Abraham, whiche was the sonne of Tharra: whiche was the sonne of Nachoz, which was the sonne of Saruch, whiche was the sonne of Ragau: whiche was the sonne of Phalec: which was the sonne of Heber, which was the sonne of Sala, whiche was the sonne of Cainan: whiche was the sonne of Arpharat, which was the sonne of Sem: which was the sonne of Noe, which was the sonne of Lameth, whiche was the sonne of Matrusala: which was the sonne of Enoch, which was the sonne of Jared, which was the sonne of Malaleel, whiche was the sonne of Cainan, which was the sonne of Enos, which was sonne of Seth: whiche was the sonne of Adam: which was the sonne of God.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Iesus is led into the wyldernesse, and fasteth all the tyme of his temptacion, he overcometh the devyll, goeth into Galyle, preache at Capernaum and Capernaum, the Jewes despyse hym, the devyll knoweth hym, he cometh into Jherusa, he teacheth his disciples in lome, and doth great myracles.

Iesus

The Gospell

Iesus being full of the holy ghoſte, returned fro Iordane, and was led by ſpirit into ſ wildeſſe, and was .xl. dayes tempted of the deuell. And in thoſe dayes he eate no thyng. And when they were ended, he afterwarde hongred. And the deuell ſayde vnto hym: If thou beſt the ſonne of God, commaunde thys ſtone that it be breake. And Ieſus answered hym ſaying: It is wyrtten, * man ſhall not lyue by bread only, but by eueri woide of God.

And the deuell toke hym into an hye mountayne, and ſhewed hym all the kyngdomes of ſ worlde, euen in the twinkling of an eye. And the deuell ſayde vnto hym: all this power wyll I geue the eueri wyſe, and the gloie of them: for they are deliuered vnto me, and to whom ſo euer I wyl, I geue it. If thou therfore wyll ſal downe befoze me and worſhypp me, they ſhal be all thyn. Ieſus answered and ſayde vnto him: hence frome me Satthan. For it is wyrtten: * Thou ſhalt worſhypp the Lorde thy God, and hym onely ſhalt thou ſerne.

And he carped hym to Jeruſalem, and ſet hym on a pynacle of the temple, and ſayde vnto him: If thou beſt ſonne of God, caſt thy ſelfe downe from hence. For it is wyrtten: * he ſhal geue his angels charge ouer the, to kepe the, and in their handes they ſhal beare the vp, that thou daſte not thy ſote agaynſt a ſtone. And Ieſus answered, and ſayde vnto hym, it is ſayd: * thou ſhalt not tempte the Lorde thy God. And as ſone as all the teptacyon was ended, the deuell departed from hym, for a ſeaſon.

C And Ieſus returned by the power of the ſpirit, into Galile, & ther went a ſame of hym thowowoute all the regyon. And he taughte in they Synagoges, & was commended of al me.

And he came to Nazareth, where he was noursed and (as his cuſtome was) he went into the Synagoge on the Sabbath day, and ſtoode vp for to reade. And there was deliuered vnto hym the booke of the Prophete Eſaye. * And when he had opened the booke, he found ſ place wherein it was wyrtten: * The ſpirit of y Lord vnd me, becauſe he hath anoynted me: to preach the Goſpell to ſ poore, he hath ſent me: to heale the broken hearted, to preach helyerance to the captiue, and ſyghe to the bynde: to ſet at liberty them that are bynded, and to preach the acceptable yere of the Lord.

And he cloſed the booke, and gaue it agayne to the myniſter, and ſat downe. And the eyes of all them that were in the Synagoge wer taſtened on him. And he beganne to ſaye vnto them: This daye is thys ſcripture fulfilled in your eares. And all bare hym wyrtulle & wondred at the gracious woidez wyche proceded oute of his mouth. I And they ſayde: Is not thys Ieſus ſonne? And he ſayde vnto them: Ye wyll ſceme to ſaye thys prouerbe: Whyspeyon, heale thy ſelfe. * What ſoeuer we haue hearde done in Capernaum, doe ſ ſame here likewyſe in thynne owne countree. And he ſayde: Verely I ſaye vnto you: * No prophete is accepted in hys owne countree.

But I tell you of a truth: * many widowes were in Iſrael, in the tyme of Heſaias, when he ſayde: that they ſeek a ſyre moner, when greates ſampſonment was throughtoute all the lande, and vnto none of them was Heſaias ſente ſaue into Sarepta beſydes Sidon, vnto a woman that was a widow. * And many lepers were in Iſrael in the tyme of Eliſeus the prophete: and none of them was cleuſed, ſaunge Raaman the Syrian.

And all they in the Synagoge (when they herde theſe thynges) were fylled with wrath, & roſe vp, and thruſt hym out of the cytie, and led hym euen vnto the edge of ſ hyll (wher on their cytie was buylt) & they myght caſt hym downe dedlyng. But he departed, and went his waye euen thowowe the myddes of them. I And came downe to Capernaum (a cytie of Galile) & there taughte them on ſ Sabbath dayes. * And they were aſtonnyed at hys doctryne: for hys preaching was wyth power. And in the Synagoge ther was a man, whych had an vnclene ſpyete of a deuill, and cryed wyth a loude voice ſaying: let me alone, what haſt thou to do with vs, thou Ieſus of Nazareth? Arte thou come to deſtroye vs? I knowe the what thou arte, euen the holy of God. And Ieſus rebuked hym ſaying: holde thy peace, and come out of hym. And when the deuell had thowen hym in the myddes, he came oute of hym, and hurted hym not. And feare came on them all, and they ſpake amonge them ſelues, ſaying: what maner of thyng is thys? For wyth aucthoryte and power he commaundet the ſoule ſpyetes, and they come out. And the ſame of hym was ſpied abroade thowowoute euerie place of the countrey rounde aboute. I

I And when he was riſen vp and come out of the Synagoge he entred into Symons houſe. And Symons mother in lawe was taken with a great feuer, & they made interceſſyon to hym for her. And he ſtoode ouer her, and rebuked the feuer, and ſ feuer leſte her. And immediatly ſhe aroſe and myniſtered vnto them.

When the Sunne was downe, all they that had ben ſycke, taken w diuers diſeaſes, brought them vnto hym: and he layd his handes on eueri one of them, and healed them. * And deuells alſo came out of many, crying and ſaying: thou art Chyſte the ſonne of God. And he rebuked them, and ſuffered them not to ſpeake: for they knewe that he was Chyſte.

As ſone as it was daye, he departed, & went into a deſerte place, and the people ſought hym and came to hym, and kepte hym that he ſhulde not departe from them. And he ſayde vnto the I muſt preache the kyngdome of God to other cyties alſo: I for therfore am I ſente. And he preached in the Synagoges of Galyle.

The v Chapter.

I Chyſte preached in the Synagoge. The diſtyles ſay: take all, and followe hym. He cleareth the lawe, he ſheweth the maner of the lawe, he ſheweth the maner of the lawe, he ſheweth the maner of the lawe.

I came to passe that (when the people pleased vpon hym, to heare the word of God) he stode by the lake of Genezareth: & sawe two shyp- pes stande by the lake syde, but the fyshermen were gone out of them, and were was- shing theyr nettes. And he entred into one of the shyp- pes (which pertayned to Symon) & pray- ed hym that he wolde chynge oute a lytell from the lande. And he sat downe and taught the peo- ple oute of the shyppe. When he had leste spea- kyng, he sayd vnto Symon: Lanche out into the depe, and let thyppes pourte nettes to make a draught. And Symon answered and sayde vnto hym: Master, we have laboured all nyght, & haue taken nothing. Neuerthelesse, at thy com- mandemente, I will lase forth the nette. And when they had thus done, they inclosed a greate multitude of fyshes. But theyr nette brake, & they beckened to theyr felowes (whiche were in the other shyppe) that they shulde come, & helpe them. And they came, and fylled both the shyp- pes that they sonke againe.

When Symon Peter sawe this, he fell downe at Iesus knees, sayng: Lorde, go from me, for I am a synfull man. For he was a fonyed, and all that were with hym, at the draughte of fyshes, which they had take: & so was also James and John the sonnes of zebedee, which were par- teners with hym. And Iesus sayd vnto Symon: feare not, from henceforth thou shalt catch men. And they broughte the shyppes to lande, & forsooke all and folowed hym.

C And it so turned that when he was in a cer- tayne cytie: beholde, there was a man full of le- prosye, and when he had spyed Iesus, he fell flat on his face, and besoughte hym, sayng: Lorde if thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane. And he stretched forth his hand, and touched hym, say- yng: I will, be thou cleane. And immediatly he leprosy departed fro hym. And he charged hym that he shulde tell no man: but go, saye to thy- selfe, and offer thy cley- syng accordyng as Moyses commaunded, for a wytnesse vnto them.

But so muche the more went there a fame a- brode of hym, and muche people came together to heare, and to be heale of hym of theyr in- fyrmities. And he kept hym out of the way in the wyldernes, and gaue hym selfe to praye.

A And it happened on a certayne daye: that he taught, and there sat the Pharyses and doc- toures of the lawe, whiche were come out of all the towncs of Galyle and Ieruzye, and Jerusa- lem. And the power of the Lorde was presente, to heale them. And beholde, men brought in a bed, a man which was taken with a palsy, and they soughte meanes to bryng hym in, & to laye hym before him. And when they could not fynd on what syde they might bryng hym in (because of the people) they went vpon the toppe of the house and let hym downe thowte theyng bed and all, euen in the myddes before Iesus.

When he sawe theyr faith, he said vnto hym man thy synnes are forgyuen the. And the scribes and the Pharyses began to thynke, sayng: What fellowe is this, which speaketh blasphemie? who can forgyue synnes but God only?

But when Iesus perceyued theyr thoughtes, he answered, and sayd vnto the: What thynke ye in your hertes? Whether is easier to saye: thy synnes be forgyuen the, or to saye: ryse vp, and walke? But that ye may knowe that the sonne of man hath power to forgyue synnes on earth, he sayde to the synke of the palsy: I saye vnto the: arise, take vp thy bedde, and go vnto thy house. And immediatly he rose vp before them, and toke vp his bedde (whereon he laye) and departed to his owne house, praising God. And they were all amazed, & they gaue the glory vnto God. And were fylled with feare, sayng: We haue seen strange thynges todaye.

And after this, he went forth, and sawe a Publycane named Leui, sittyng at the receite of custome, and he sayde vnto hym: fellowe me. And he leste all, and rose vp, and folowed hym: And Leui made hym a great feast in his owne house. And there was a great company of Pub- lycans and of other that late at meate with the- m. And the scribes and Pharyses murmured a- gainst hym dyscyples, sayng: Why do ye eate and drynke with Publicans and synners? And Iesus answered & sayde vnto them: They that are whole neede not the Physician: but they that are synke. I came not to call the ryghteous, but synners to repentance.

And they sayd vnto hym: Why do the dysci- ples of Ihon fast often, and praye, and the dysci- ples of the Pharyses also, but thynke eat & drynke? he sayde vnto them: Can ye make the childe of the wedding faste, while the bydegrome is with the? The daye wyl come, when the byde- grome also shalbe taken away from them: the- nall they fast in those dayes.

he spake also vnto the a synnyng multitude. No man putteth a peece of a newe garment, into an olde vesture, for yf he do, then breaketh he the newe and the peece that was taken oute of the newe, a greete not with the olde. And no man putteth newe wyne into olde bottels. For yf he do, the newe wyne wyl buyste the bottels, & runne out it selfe, and the bottels shal perishe. But new wyne must be put into newe bottels, and then are preserved. No man also that drynke the olde wyne straight wape can a way with newe: for he sayeth: the olde is better.

The vi. Chapter.

he senteth his dyscyples, that plaue the earre of corne, he had with hym the twelve apostles, choyng his twelve ap- ples, making a fower fower, and teachyng in how good his will.

It happened on an after pryncypall Sabbath, that he went thowte the coigne felde, and his dyscyples pluck- ed the eares of corne, and did eate, and rubbed them in theyr handes. And certayne of the Pharyses sayde vnto the: Why do ye that whiche is not lawfull to do on the Sabbath dayes? And Iesus answered the, and sayde: Have ye not red what Dauid dyd, when he was an hungered, & they which were some standyng here which shall not tast of death till they se the kyngdome of God.

* And it fortuned that aboute an. viii. dayes after these saynges, he toke Peter and Jho and James, and went vpon into a mountayn to praye And as he prayed, the fashion of his countenance was chaunged, and hym garment was whyte, & shone. And beholde, there talked wyth hym two men, whych wer Moyses and helias, & appeared in the maiesty, and spake of hym departyng, whych he should ende at Jerusalem. But Peter and they that were wyth hym, were deuy wyth sleepe. And when they awoke they sawe his ma-iesty, and two men standyng wyth hym.

* And it chaunced as they departed from hym, Peter sayde vnto Jesus: * Waster, it is good beyng here for vs. Let vs make also here tabernacles, one for the, and one for Moyses, and one for helias (and wyll not what he sayd.) While he thus spake, ther came a cloude & overshadowed them, and they feared when they wer come into the cloude. And ther came a voyce out of a cloude sayng: * This is my deare sonne, heare hym.

And as sone as the voyce was passe, Jesus was founde alone. And they kept it close, and told no man in those dayes, any of those thynges which they had sene. * And it chaunced that on the next daye (as they came doune from the hyll) muche people met hym. And beholde, a man of the company cryed out, sayng: * Waster, I beseech the, bea spytter taketh hym, and sodenly he cryeth, and fall. * And he beseecheth me, that he someth a-gayn, and wyth much payne departeth fro hym when he hath rente hym, and * I besought thy discypples to cast hym out, and they coude not.

Jesus answered and sayd: * O saye bleste and cro-ked nacion, howe longe shall I be wyth you, and suffer you? Whyng the sonne byther. As he was yet accompyng, the sende rente hym, and tare hym. And Jesus rebuked the vncleane spytter, and healed the chyld, and deliuered hym to hym father. * And they were al amazed at the mygty power of God.

* But while they monyred euerye one at all thynges whiche he dyd, he sayd vnto hym discyples: Let these saynges synche doune into your eares. For it wyll come to passe: that the sonne of man shall be deliuered into the handes of men.
* But they wyll not what that word ment, and it was hyd from them, that they vnderstode it not. And they feared to aske hym of that sayng.

And there entred a thought among them which of them should be the greatest. When Jesus perceaued the thought of theyr heartes, & he toke a chylde and set hym harde by hym, and sayde vnto them: * Whosoever receaueth this chylde in my name, receaueth me. * And whosoever receaueth me, receaueth hym that sente me. For he that is least among you all, the same shall be great.

And Jhon answered, and sayde: * Waster, we saue one casting out deuils in thy name, and we forbad hym, because he foloweth not wyth vs. And Jesus sayd vnto hym: * Forbyd ye hym not. For he that is not agaynst vs, is wyth vs.

And it fortuned when the tyme was come, & he should be receaued vpon, he set hym face to go to Jerusalem, and sente messengers before hym.
And they went and entred into a cytie of the Sa-maritanes, to make ready for hym. And they would not receaue hym, because his face was as though he would go to Jerusalem. When hym discypples, James and Jhon sawe this, they said: Lorde, wyle thou that we commaunde tye to come doune from heauen and consume them, euil as * helias dyd? Jesus turned about, and rebuked them, sayng: * Ye wote not what maner spyte ye are of. For the sonne of man is not come to destrope mens lyues, but to saue them. And they went to another toun. * And it chaunced that as they were walkyng in the waye, a cer-tayne man sayde vnto hym: * I wyll folow the wherther soeuer thou wyle go. Jesus sayd vnto hym: foxen haue holes, and byrdes of the ayre haue nestes: but the sonne of man hath not wher to laye hym head.

And he sayd vnto another: folow me. And the same sayd: Lorde, suffer me firste to go and burye my father. Jesus said vnto hym: * Let the dead burye the dead: but go thou and preache the kyngdome of God. And another sayd: Lorde * I wyll folow the: but let me first go by my father. Jesus sayd vnto hym: A man that putteth hym handes to the plowe, and loketh backe, is apte to the kyngdome of God.

The .i. Chapter. ✠

¶ The firste of the .xx. before hym to preache, goweth them a charge to be ready to beane them selues, prayng his heauenly father, and wotech the scrype & tempteth hym, & (by the example of the Samaritanes) sheweth who is a mans neyghbour.
¶ Waster receaueth the Lorde into his house, Mary Magdalene is byrgent in bearyng his wounde.

After these thynges, the Lorde appointed other. .xx. (and two) also and set the two & two before hym into euery cytie & place, whether he him self would come. Therfore sayd he vnto the: * The harvest is great, but the labourers are fewe. Praye ye therfore the Lord of the harvest, to send forth labourers into his harvest, go youe wayes. * Behold, I send you forth as labours amyg wolues. Beare no halter, neither scrype, nor shoes, & * Salute no man by the way. * Into wharsoeuer house ye enter firste saye: Peace be to thy house. And yf the sonne sonne of peace be there, your peace shall rest vpon hym: yf not, it shall turne to you agayn. And in the same house earie still, eating and drynkinge such as they geue. For the labourer is worthy of his reward. ¶

B Go not from house to house, and into whatsoeuer cytie ye enter, & they receiue you, cateche the things as are set before you, & heale the synche that are therein, and say vnto them: the kyngdome of God is come npe vpon you. ¶ But into whatsoeuer cytie ye enter, and they receiue you not, go your wayes out into the stretes of the same, and saye: euen the verye duste of your cytie, whiche cleaueth on vs, do we wypp of against you. Not withstanding, be yefure of this, that the kyngdome of God was come npe vpon you. I saye vnto you: that it shalbe easer in that daye for yodome, then for that cytie. ¶

C Also vnto the Chorazin: two vnto the Bethsaida. For yf the myracles had bene done in Tyre and Sidon, which haue ben done in you, they had (a great whyle ago) repented of theyr synnes, sytting in heer cloth and ashen. Neuertheles it shalbe easer for Tyre and Sidon, at the iudgement, then for you. And thou Capernaum (whiche arte exalted to heauen) shalt be thruste doune to hell. ¶ He that heareth you, heareth me, and he that despyseth you, despyseth me: and he that despyseth me, despyseth hym that sente me. ¶

And the lxx. turned agayn with ioye, sayng: Lozde, euen the verye deuils are subdued to vs thow thy name. And he said vnto the: ¶ I saw Satayn (as it had bene lyghtenynge) fallynge doune from heauen: Behold, I geue vnto you power to tread on serpentes and scorpions, and ouer al maner power of the enemy, and nothyng shal hurte you. Neuerthelesse in this reioyce not that yf synners are subdued vnto you: but reioyce, that yf your names are wyrtten in heauen. ¶

That same houre reioysed Iesus in a (the doyr) goost, and sayd: I thanke the O father, & Lozde, of heauen and earth, yf thou hast hyd these thynges from the wyse and prudent, and hast opened them vnto babes. Euen so father, for so pleased it the. ¶ All thynges are geuen me of my father. No man knoweth who the sonne is, but the father: and who the father is, but the sonne, and he to whom the sonne will shewe hym. ¶

And he turned to his disciples, & said secretly: ¶ Happy are the eyes, whiche se the thynges that yse. For I tell you, that many Propheetes and kynge haue desyred to se those thynges, whiche ye se, and haue not sene them, & to heare those thynges whiche ye heare, & haue not heard them. And beholde, a certayne lawyer stode vp and tempted hym, sayng: ¶ Master, what shall I do, to inheret eternall lyfe? he sayd vnto hym: What is wyrtten in the lawe? howe readest thou? And he answered and sayde: ¶ Loue the Lozde thy God, with all thy herte, and with all thy soule, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mynde: and thy neyghboure as thy selfe. And he sayde vnto hym: Thou hast answered ryght. Thys do & thou shalt lyue. But he wyllynge to iustifye hym self, sayd vnto Iesus: And who is my neyghboure?

Iesus answered, and sayde: A certayne man descended from Ierusalem to Ierico, and fell amonge thieues whiche robbed hym of his rayment, and wounded hym, and departed, leuyng hym halfe deade. And it chaunced, that there came doune a certayne preastre that same waye, and when he sawe hym, he passed by. And lyke wyse a Leuyte, when he wente npe to the place, came, and looked on hym, and passed by. But a certayne Samaritane, as he tourneyed, came vnto hym: and when he sawe hym, he had compassion on hym, and went to, and bounde vp his woundes, and posed in oyle and wyne, and set hym on his owne beaste, and brought hym to a comen ynne, and made prouysion for hym. And on the morowe, when he departed, he toke oute two pence, and gaue them to the host, and sayd vnto hym: Take cure of hym: & whatsoeuer thou spendest more, when I come agayn, I wyl recompense the. Whiche nowe of these thre, thynerdest thou, was neyghboure vnto hym that fell amonge the thieues? And he sayde: he that shewed mercy on hym. Then sayd Iesus vnto hym: Go, and do thou lyke wyse. ¶

¶ It fortuned that as they wente, he entred into a certayne toun. And a certayne woman named Martha, receaued hym into her house. And this woman had a syster, called Marpe, whiche also sat at Iesus fete, and hearde his word. But Martha was combyed about much seruyng, and stode and sayde: Lozde doest thou not care, that me syster hath the leste me to serue alone? Byd her therfore, that she helpe me. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto her: Martha, Martha, thou art carefull, and troubled aboute many thynges, verely one is nedefull. Marpe hath chosyn the good parte, whiche shall not be taken awaye from her. ¶

The teacher of the lawe sheweth howe to praye, by prayng oute a heuill, and rebuketh the blasphemous pharisees. They requyre synners and cohenes, he teacheth with the wharfe, and rebuketh the pharisees of the pharisees, pharisees, and pharisees.

As it fortuned as he was prayng in a certayn place: when he ceased, one of his disciples sayd vnto hym: Lozde, teache vs to praye, as thou also taughtest thy disciples. And he said vnto the: When ye praye, saye: ¶ O our father whiche art in heauē, halowed be thy name. Thy kyngdome come. Thy wyll be fulfilled, euen in earth also as it is in heauen. Our daylye bread geue vs thys daye. And forgive vs oure synnes. For euen we forgive euery man that trespasseth vs. And leade vs not into temptation. But deliuer vs from euill.

And he sayd vnto them: ¶ Yf any of you shal haue a frende, and shal go to hym at mynnyght and saye vnto hym: frende, lend me the loanes, for a frende of myne is come out of the waye to me, and I haue nothyng to set before hym, and he wythin and there, and sape: trouble me not, the day is nowe here, and my chylde is with me in the chambze, I can not ryse and geue the. I sape vnto you though he wyll not aryse, and geue hym: yet because of his impossuntye he wyll ryse, and geue hym as many as he nedeth.

Mat. xii. 40 And I say vnto you: * aske, and it shal be geuen you. Seke, and ye shall fynde. Knoch, and it shal be opened vnto you. For euery one that askech, receaueth: and he that sekech, fyndeth: and vnto hym that knocketh, shall it be opened. If the sonne shal aske breade of any of you that is a father, wyll he geue hym a stone? Or if he aske fyre, wyll he geue hym a serpent? Or if he aske an egge, wyll he offer hym a scorpion? If ye then beyng euell, can geue good gyftes vnto your chylde, howe muche moze shall youre father of heauen geue the holy spytte to the that desyre it of hym. **¶

¶ And he was castyng oute a deuell, and the same was domine. And whyle he had cast oute the deuell, the domine spake, and the people wondred. But some of them sayde: * he casteth oute deuells thozowe Belzebub the chefe of the deuells. And other tempted hym and requyred of hym a sygne from heauen. But he knowynge they thought, sayde vnto them: * Euery hyngdome deuyded agaynst it selfe, is desolate: and one house doth fall vpon another. If Satan also be deuyded agaynst hym selfe, howe shall his hyngdome endure? Because ye sape, that I caste out deuells thozowe Belzebub. If I by the helpe of Belzebub cast out deuells, by whose helpe do your chylde cast them out? Therefore shal they be youre iudges. But if I wyth the spyrte of God cast out deuells, no doubt the hyngdome of God is come vpon you.

¶ When a stronge man armed, watcheth his house, the thynges that he possideth are in peace. But when a stronger then he cometh vpon hym and ouercommeth hym, he taketh from hym all his barnes (wherein he trusted) and deuyrth his goodes. He that is not wyth me, is agaynst me. And he that gathereth not wyth me, scattereth abzoade.

¶ When the vnclene spytte is gone oute of a man, he walketh through drye places, sekynge rest. And whyle he fyndeth none, he sayeth: I wyll retorne agayne vnto my house, whence I came out. And when he cometh, he fyndeth it swept and garnished. Then goeth he, & taketh to hym ten or other spyttes worse then hym selfe, & they enter in and dwel there. And the ende of that is worse then the begynnyng.

And it fortuned, that as he spake these thynges, a certayne woman of the compaigne lyft up her voyce, & said vnto hym: Happy is f wombe that bare the, and the pappes whiche gaue the sucke. But he said: yee, happy are they that heare the woide of God, and kepe it. **¶

When the people were gathered thycher together, he beganne to sape: * This is an euell nation, & they seke a sygne, and there shall no sygne be geuen them, but the sygne of Jonas the prophete. For as Jonas was a sygne to the Assyrians, so shall also the sonne of man be to this nation. * The queene of the South shall ryse at the iudgement, wyth the me of this nation, and condemne them: for she came from the vtmost partes of the earth, to heare the wysedome of Salomon. And behold, a greater then Salomon is here. The men of Nine shall ryse at the iudgement wyth this nation, and shall condemne them: for they were brought to repentaunce, by the preaching of Jonas. And beholde a greater then Jonas is here.

And as he spake, a certayn pharyse besought hym to dyne with hym, and Iesus wente in and late doune to meate. When the pharyse sawe it, he maruayled, & he had not firste washed before dyner. And the Lawe said vnto hym: * How do ye pharyses, make cleane the outsyde of the cup and the platter, but your inward parte is ful of rauenynge and wychednes. Pe fooles, byd not he (that made that whiche is wythout) make that whiche is within also? Fener the selfe, * geue almoose of that ye haue, and beholde all thynges are cleane vnto you. * But wo vnto you pharyses, for ye tyth mynte and rewe, and all maner herbes, and passe ouer iudgement and the loue of God. These ought ye to haue done, and yet not to leaue the other vndone.

¶ Wo vnto you pharyses: for ye loue the vpermost seates in the synagoges, and greatynge in the market. Wo vnto you scribys and pharyses: ye pprocytes, for ye are as graues whiche appere not, and the men that walke ouer them, are not ware of them. Then answered one of the lawyers, and sayd vnto hym: * After thus sayng, thou puttest vnto rebuke also. And he sayde: * Wo vnto you also ye lawyers: for ye lade men with burthens, which they be not able to beare, and ye your selues touche not f packes wyth one of youre fyngers. Wo vnto you, * ye buyde the sepulchres of the prophetes, and your fathers hyled the, trulye ye beare wytnes, that ye allowe the dedes of your fathers, for they hyled them, and ye buyde they sepulchres. Therefore sayde the wysedome of God: * I wyll sende them prophetes and Apostles, and some of the they shall slaye and persecute: that the bloude of all prophetes (which is shedd fro the begynnyng of the world) may be requyred of this generation, from the bloude of * Abell, vnto the bloude of zachary, whiche perished betwene the altar and the temple. Verely I sape vnto you: it shal be requyred of this nation.

Wo vnto you lawyers: for ye haue taken a Daye waite for hope of knowledge, ye entered not in your selues, and them that came in, ye forbad. When he thus spake vnto them, the lawyers and the pharisees beganne to make busse aboute hym, and cappe on hym to aske hym many thynges, lay-eng waite for hym, and sekyng to catche some thyng oute of hym mouth, wherby they myght accuse hym.

The xii Chapter.

The lesson of the pharisees, which continually disciples against perfection, warning them to be more of conuersion, by the similitude of a cecropus cyclops man, he will not have the to hang upon each ly thynges, but to marche, and to be ready agaynst the coming.

And there gathered together an innumerable multitude of people (in so much that they trode one another) began vnto saie vnto hym disciples: Affyre of all be ware of the le-uises of the pharisees, whiche is ypocrysy. For there is nothing couered, that shall not bee vncouered: neyther hyd that shall not bee knowen.
For what thynges ye haue spoken in darknes shal be heard in the lychte. And what whiche ye haue spoken into the eare, euen in secreete places shal be preached on the toppes of the houses. I saie vnto you my frendes, be not afrayed of the that kyll the bodye, and after that haue nomore that they can do. But I will wite you, whom ye shall feare: feare hym whiche after he hath kylled, hath power to caste into hell. Yee, I saie vnto you: feare hym. Are not fyue sparowes bought for two farthynges? And not one of the is forgotten of God. Also eue the very beeres of poure head are all nombred. Feare not therfore ye are more of value then many sparowes.

I saie vnto you: euery one: whatsoeuer con-fesseth me before men, hym shall the sonne of ma knowe also before the angels of God. And he that denyeth me before men, shal be denyed before the angels of God. And who soeuer speaketh a worde agaynst the sonne of man it shal be forgiuen hym. But vnto hym that blasphemeth the holie gooste, it shall not bee forgiuen.
When they bying you vnto the synagoges, & vnto rulers, and officers, take ye no thoughte howe, or what thyng ye shall answere, or what ye shall speake. For the holie goost shall teache you in the same houre, what ye ought to saie.

One of the company sayd vnto hym: Waster, speake to my brother, that he denide the enderthyng with me. And he sayd vnto hym: Wh who made me a iudge, or a denyder ouer your And he sayd vnto them take hede and beware of coueteousnes. For no man lyfe standeth in the aboundaunce of thynges whiche he possedeth.
And he put forth a similitude vnto the, sayng: The grounde of a certayne cyclops man broughte forth plentiful frutes, & he thoughte within hym selfe, sayng: what shal I doe because I haue no roune where to bestowe my frutes? And he said Thus will I do. I will bestowe my barnes, and buyde greater, and therein will I gather al my goodes that are growen vnto me, and I wil saie to my soule: Doul! thou hast much goodes laid vp in store for many peeres, take thyne ease, eat, drinke and be merry. But God sayd vnto him: Thou fool, this night wyl they fetche away the soule agayne from the. Ethen whose shall these thynges be, whiche thou hast prouided. So is it with hym that gathereth riches to hym selfe, and is not ready towarde God.

And he spake vnto hym disciples: Therfore I saie vnto you: Take no thoughte for your lyfe, what ye shall eat: neyther for the bodye what ye shall put on. The lyfe is more then meat and the bodye is more then rayment. Consider the rauens, for they neither sowe nor reape, which neyther haue house nor barn, and God feedeth them. I howe muche are ye better then sedered fowles?

Whiche of you (with his taking thought) can adde to his stature one cubyte? Ye then be not able to do that thyng whiche is least: why take ye thought for the remnant? Consider the lylles how they growe. They labour not, they spynne not: and yet I say vnto you, that Salo-mon in all hym royaltie, was not clothed lyke one of these. Ye God so cloth the grasse (whiche is to daye in the felde, and to morowe is cast into the fornaie) howe muche more wyl he clothe you, O ye of lytle fapth. And as he not ye what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drinke, neyther clymme ye vp an hye: for all such thynges dooe the heathen people of the worlde seke for. Your father knoweth, that ye haue neede of such thynges. Wherfore I seke ye after the kyngdome of God, and al these thynges shal be ministered vnto to you. Fear not lytell focke, for it is your fathers pleasure to geue you the kyngdome.

Well that ye haue, and geue almes. And prepare you bagges, whiche were not olde, euen a treasure, that faileth not in heauen, where no these cometh, neyther moth nor corrupteth. For where your treasure is, there wyl your hearte be also. Let you loynes be girded aboute, and your lychtes brennyng on (in your handes,) and ye pour leues lyke vnto men, that waite for the Lord, when he wyl retorne from the weddyng: that when he cometh and knocketh they maye open vnto hym immediatly. Happye are those seruantes, whome the Lord (when he cometh) shall fynde wakynge. Cerelye I saie vnto you, that he shal gyde hym selfe, and make them to lytte doune to meate, and walke by, and mynster vnto them. And yf he come in the seconde watche, yet yf he come in the thyrde watche, and fynde them so, happye are those ser-uantes. This vnderstande, that yf the good ma of the house knewe what houre the thefe would come, he would surely watche, and not suffer hym house to be broken vp. Be ye therfore ready also, for the sonne of man wyl come at an houre when ye thynke not. F

Peter sayd vnto hym: Waster, tellest thou of thy similitude vnto vs, or to all men? And the Lord said: who is a fapthfull and wise steward whome his lord shal make ruler ouer his hous-holde, to geue them theys due of meate in due season? Happye is that seruante, whome his lozde when he cometh, shall synde so voynge. Of a truthe I saye vnto you that he wyl make hym ruler ouer all that be hath. But and yf the seruante saye in his herte: * My lozde wyl de-

mat. xxiii. 35 ferre hys comyng, and shall begyn to synpte the seruantes and maydens, and to eat and drynke and to bee dionken, the lozde of that seruante wyl come in a daye when he thynketh not, and at an houre, when he is not ware, and wyl betwe hym in peces, and geue hym hys rewarde wyth the vnbeleuers.

Luc. xii. 47 * The seruant that knewe his masters wyl and prepared not hym selfe, neyther dyd accor- dyng to hys wyl, shall be beat with many stry- pes. But he that knewe not and dyd committe synnes worthy of stryppes, shall be beaten wyth fewe stryppes. It is vnto whomsoeuer much is ge- uen, of hym shall be much requyred, and to whom men haue committed much, of hym wyl they aske the more. I am come to sende fyre on the earth, and what is my desyre, but that it wer al- ready kindled. Not wythstandyng I muste bee mat. xxiii. 35 baptysed wyth a baptyme: & howe am I pay- ned, tyll it be ended? Suppose ye & I am come to sende peace on the earth? I tell you naye, but rather dryuon. It is from hère forth there shall be fyre in one house dryuved, thre agaynst two and two agaynst thre. The father shall be dryu- ved agaynst the sonne, and the sonne agaynst the father. The mother agaynst the dongher, and the dongher agaynst the mother. The mother in lawe agaynst her dongher in lawe, and the dongher in lawe agaynst her mother in lawe.

mat. xxi. 43 he said also to the people: * when ye se a cloud ryse out of the west, straight way ye saye: there cometh a shower, and so it is. And when ye se the south wynde blowe, ye say: it wyl be hote, & it cometh so passe. Ye hypocrytes, ye ca discerne the outward apperaunce of the shepe and of the carth: but howe happeneth it, that ye can not sayll of this tyme? Yer, and whp iudge ye not of your selues what is ryght?

mat. xxiii. 35 * When thou goest with thyne aduersary to the ruler, as thou art in the waye, geue diligence that thou mayeste be deliuered from hym, leaste he byrnyng the to the iudge, and the iudge deliuer the to the taylor, and the taylor cast the into pry- son. I tell the, thou shalt not departe thence, tyll thou hast made good the vermolte myte.

The xiii. Chapter.

of the Galileans whom pylate slew, and of that that was in pylate. The similitude of the figge tree. Childe beareth the syche woman. The parable of the mustarde seede and leuen. Howe came into the kyngdom Christ openly to herode and iherusalem.

I Here were present at the same season certayne menne that shewed hym of the Galyleans, whose bloude pylate had mygled with theyr owne lacrymat. xxi. 43 fyre. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto the: Suppose ye that these Galileans wer greater synners then al the other Galileans, be- cause they suffered suche punishment? I tell you naye: but except ye repent: ye shall all lyke wyse peryshe. Of those xviii. vpon whych the touer in siloe fel, and slewe them, thynke ye that they wer synners aboue all men that dwelt in Jerumat. xxiii. 35 salem? I tell you naye: But except ye repent ye shall all lyke wyse peryshe.

* He tolde also this symplytude: a certayne man had a figge tree planted in his vyneyard, and he came and sought frute thereon, and found none. The sayde he to the dyeller of hys vyne-mat. xxi. 43 yard: beholde, this thre yere haue I come, and sought frute on this figge tree, and fynde none: cutte it doune, why cometh it the ground, and he answered and sayde vnto hym: Lozde, let it alone this yere also, tyll I drygge rounde aboute it, and donge it, to se whether it wyl beare frute and yf it beare not then, after that shall thou cut it doune. And he taught in one of theyr synagoges on the Sabboth dayes. And beholde, there was a woman which had a spyte of infymat. xxi. 43 mytpe. xviij. yeres, and was bowed together and coulde in no wyse lyfte vp her heade. When Iesus sawe her, he called her to hym, and sayde vnto her: woman, thou art deliuered from thy dyscase. And he layd his handes on her, and im- mediately she was made straight and glorified God. And the ruler of the synagoge answered wyth indignacion (because that Iesus had hea-mat. xxi. 43 led on the Sabboth daye) & sayde vnto the pro- ple: There are syxe dayes, in whiche men ought to worke, in them come that ye maye be healed, and not on the Sabboth daye.

But the Lozde answered hym and said: Thou hypocryte, doest not reche one of you on the Sabmat. xxi. 43 both daye, & loose his oxe or hys asse fro the stall and leade hym to fwater? And ought not this dongher of abraham, whome iacob had bounde (so. xviij. yeres) he loosed fro this bonde on the Sabboth daye? And when he thus sayde, all hys aduersaries were ashamed, and all the people reioysed on all the excellent dedes that wer done by hym. &

Then sayd he: what is the kyngdome of God lyke? or whereto shall I compare it? It is lyke a grainne of mustarde seede whiche a man toke, & sowd in his garden: and it grew and waxed a great tre, and the foules of the ayre made nestes in the braynches of it.

And agayne he sayde, whereunto shall I ly-mat. xxi. 43 ken the kyngdome of God? It is lyke leuen, whych a woman toke, and hyd in thre peckes of meele, tyll all was leuened. And he went thro-
mat. xxi. 43 rowe all ctyes and townes, teachyng and ioy- ntyng towARDS iherusalem. Then sayde one vnto hym: Lozde, are there fewe that bee saued? And he sayde vnto hym: I saye to thee, enter in at the straght gate, for many (I saye vnto you) wyl seke to entre in, and shall not be able. When the good man of the house is rylen vp, and hath shut to the doore, and ye begynne to stande with-
mat. xxi. 43 oute, and to knocke at the doore, sayyng: Lozde, Lozde, open vnto vs, and he shall answer, and saye vnto you: (I knowe you not whence ye are) The shall ye begyn to say, we haue eaten & dion-mat. xxi. 43 ken in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our strytes. And he shall saye: I tell you, I knowe you you not whence ye are: depart fro me all ye that woke iniquite. There shal be weeping & gnashing of teth, when ye shall see Abraham & Isaaac, and Jacob, & all the prophetes in the kyngdom of God, & ye your selues thrust out. * And they shall come from the east and from the west, and from the north and from the south and shal syt doune in the kyngdom of God. And beholde, these are last, whiche shal be first. And they are first, whiche shal be last.

E The same day came there certayn of the phari-ses, & sayd vnto hym: get the out of the way and depart henc: for herode wyl kyl the. And he sayd vnto the: So ye and tel that fore, beholde, I cast out deuils, & heale the people, to day & to morrow and the thrid day I make an ende. Neuertheles I must walke to dape & to morowe, and the day folowynge: for it can not be that a prophet perishe any other where, save at Jerusalem.

O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, whiche killest the prophetes, and stonest them that are sente vnto the: how oft would I haue gathered thy chyldre together, as a byrde doeth gather her yonge vnder her wynges, and ye woulde not. Beholde, your habytacion is lefte vnto you desolate. I tell you, ye shall not se me vntyll the tyme come that ye shal saye: * blessed is he that commeth in the name of the Lorde.

Christus ceteris ueris phariseis, doctores the sapientie super the Sabbath, reuerentem se habuit, relictis of the great supper, and transiit them that wyl folow hym to laye their accomptes before, what is wyl and them, the fair of the earth.

And it chaunced, that he went into the house of one of the chiefe phary-ses to eate bread on the Sabbath daye, and they watched him. And behold, there was a certayn man before hym, whiche had a dympse.

And Iesus answered, and spake vnto the lawyers and pharises, sayynge: * Is it lawfull to heale on the Sabbath day? And they held theyr peace. And he toke hym, and healed hym, and let hym go, and answered them, sayynge: Whiche of you shall haue * an asse or an oxe falle into a pyt and wyl not straghte wape pull him out on the Sabbath daye? And they could not answer him agayn to these thynges.

He put forth also a symple tude to the gesses, when he marked how they pressed to the hyeste roumes, and sayde vnto them: When thou arte bydden of any man to a wedding, syt not doune in the hyest roume, leaste a moze honozable man then thou be bydde of hym, and he (that had hym and the) come, and saye to the: geue this manne roume, and thou then begyn with shame to take the loweste roume. But rather when thou arte bydden, go & syt in the lowest roume: that when he that had the, commeth, he maye say vnto the: * frende syt vppyer. Then shalt thou haue wo-nyng in the presence of them: that syt at meate with the. * For whosoever exaltech hym selfe, shal be brought low. And he that humbleth hym selfe, shal be exalted.

Then sayde he also to hym, that had despyed hym to dyner: * When thou makest a dyner or a supper, call not thy frendes, nor thy byrthen, neither thy kynsmen, nor thy ryche neyghbours leaste they also byd the agayn, and a recompense be made the. But when thou makest a feast, call the poore, the feble, the lame, and the bynd, and thou shalt be happy, for they can not recompense the. But thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the luste men.

When one of them (that sate at meate also) hearde these thynges, he sayd vnto hym: happye is he that eateth bread in the kyngdom of God.

Then sayd he vnto hym: * A certayn ma-ordeyned a great supper, and bad many, & sente his seruauit at supper tyme, to say to them that were bydden, come: for all thynges are now ready. And they all at once began to make excuse.
The first said vnto him: I haue bought a farme and I must nedes go and se it, I praye the haue me excused. And another sayde: I haue bought fyue yokes of oxen, and I go to plowe the, I praye the, haue me excused. And another sayde: I haue maried a wyfe, & therefore I can not come. And the seruauit returned and brought hys mayster worde agayn therof.

Then was the good man of the house dys-pleased, and sayd to his seruauit: Go out quychly into the stretes and quarters of the cite, and brynge in hyther the poore, and the feble, and the bake, and the bynde. And the seruauit sayde: Lorde, it is done, as thou hast commaunded, and yet there is roume. And the Lorde sayde to the seruauit: Go out vnto the hys wapes & hedges and * compel the to come in, that my house may be fylled. For I saye vnto you, none of those men which wer bydde, shal tast of my supper.

Then went a great company with hym, and he returned, and sayd vnto them: * If a man come to me, and hate not his father and mother and wyfe, & chyldren, and byrthen, and synners, ye, and his owne lyfe also, he can not be my disciple. And whosoever dothe not beare his crosse and come after me, can not be my discipyle.

Whiche of you disposed to buyde a toure, syt-teth not doune before, & counteth the cosse, whether he haue sufficient to perfourme it: lest after he hath layde the foundation, and is not able to perfourme it, al that beholde it, begyn to moche hym, sayynge: this man began to buyde, and was not able to make an ende. * What king goynge to make battaile agaynst another kyng, syttech not doune first, and casteth in his mynde, whether he be able wyth ten thousande to mete hym that cometh agaynst hym wyth. xx. thousande?
* Or els wyle the other is yet a great way of, he sendeth ambassadours & despyerth peate. So like wise, whosoever he be of you, & forsaiketh not al that he hath, he can not be my discipyle.

* Salt is good, but yf salt haue loste the salt-nes, what shal be seasoned therewith? It is nysther good for the land, nor yet for the dong hyll but men caste it oute at the doores. He that hath eares to heare, let hym heare.

DD III

Th

The loutyng synner at God is as a synner for he is the people of the Synner, and of the Synner that has lost.

Mat. 18. 12
Luce. 15. 1

He refooted vnto hym * all the publicans and synners, for to hear him. And the Pharisees and scribes murmured, saying: He receaueth synners and eateth with them. But he putte forth this parable vnto them, saying: * What man of you hauing an hundred shepe (yf he lose one of them) doth not leaue nyntie and nyne in the wyldernes, and goeth after that whyche is lost vntyll he fynde it: And when he hath founde it, he layeth it on his shuldres wryth ioye. And as sone as he cometh home, he calleth together his louers and neighbours, saying vnto them: Reioyce wryth me, for I haue found my shepe, which was loste.

I saye vnto you, that lyke wyse ioye shalbe in heauen, ouer one synner that repenteth more then ouer nyntie and nyne iuste persons, which neede no repentance. * Ther what woman hauing ten groates, yf she lose one doth not lyght a candle, and swepe the house and seke diligently tyll she fynde it: And when she hath found it, she calleth her louers & her neighbours together, saying: Reioyce wryth me, for I haue founde the groate which I had lost. Like wyse I saye vnto you, shall there be ioye in the presence of the aungels of God ouer one synner that repenteth.

* And he sayd: A certayn man had two sonnes, and the yonger of them said vnto the father: Father, geue me the porcion of the goodes that to me belongeth. And he deuyned vnto them his substance. And not longe after, when the yonger sonne had gathered al that he had together, he toke hys iorney into a farr countre, & there he wasted hys goodes wryth ryotous lyuynge. And when he had spente all, there arose a greente dearth in all that lande, and he beganne to lacke and went, and came to a cysterne of the same countrey, and he sent him to his swyne, to kepe swyne. And he would sayne haue fylled hys belly wryth the coddies that the swyne dyd eate: and no man gaue it vnto hym.

Mat. 23. 12

Then he came to hym selfe, and sayde: howe many hyrd seruantes, as my fathers haue had ynough, and I perishe with hunger. I wyl arysse and go to my father, and wyl saye vnto hym: father, I haue synned agaynst heauen and before the, & am no more worthy to be called thy sonne make me as one of thy hyrd seruantes. And he arose, and cam to hys father. * But whil he was yet a grente waye of, hys father sawe hym, and had compassion and ranne, and fel on hys necke and kyssed hym. And the sonne sayd vnto hym: father, I haue synned agaynst heauē, and in thy syght, and am no more worthy to be called thy sonne. But the father sayde to hys seruantes: bring forth the best garment, and put it on hym and put a ryng on hys hande, and shoes on hys feet. And bring hys ther that sat cauler, and kyll it, and let vs eat and be mery: for this my sonne was dead, and is alivē agayne, he was lost and is found. And they began to be mery. The elder brother was in the feilde: and when he came and drewe nye to the house, he heard mynstrelsy and dauncyng, and called one of his seruantes, and asked, what those thynges mente. And he sayde vnto him: thy brother is come, & thy father hath kylled the fat calfe, because he hath receaued him safe and sounde. And he was angry and would not go in. Then cam his father out, and entreated hym. He answered and sayd to his father: Lo these many yeaeres haue I done the seruyce, neyther brake at any tyme thy commaundement, and yett gauest thou me neuer a hyd to make merye wryth my frendes: but as sone as this thy sonne was come (whiche hath deuoured thy goodes & haclottes) thou haste for his pleasure kyllid the fat calfe. And he said vnto hym: Sone, thou art euer wryth me, and al that I haue is thine: it was mete that we should make mery and be glad, for this thy brother was dead, and is alivē agayne: and was loste, and is founde.

The xvi. Chapter.

The parable of the tynched marmen. And one tynche of Gods wynde shall perishe. Of the tynche man, and of the poore Lazarus.

And he sayd also vnto his disciples: I

* There was also a certayn tynche mā, which had a steward, and the same was accused vnto hym for he had wasted his goodes. And he called hym, and sayde vnto hym: howe is it, that I heare this of thee? Geue accomptes of thy stewardshippe. For thou mayest be no longer steward. The steward said wrythin hym selfe: what shall I do, for my master taketh a waye from me the stewardshippe. I cannot bygge, & to begge I am ashamed. I wote what to do, for when I am put out of my stewardshippe, they may receaue me in to theyr houses.

So when he had called all hys masters betters together he sayd vnto the first: howe muche owest thou vnto my master? And he sayde: an hundred tonnes of oyle. And he sayd vnto hym: take thy byll, and syt downe quychly, and wryte fyfte. Then sayde he to another: howe muche owest thou? And he sayde: an hundred quarters of wheate. He sayde vnto hym: Take thy byll, & wryte foure scoore. And the Lord commended the vniuersal steward, because he had done wysely. For the chyldren of this world are in the synnyn, wyser then the chyldren of lyght. And I say vnto you: make you frendes of the vnyghteous Mammon, that when ye shall haue neede, they may receaue you into euerylastyng habitacions. * He that is saythfull in that tynche is least, is saythfull also in much. And he that is vnyghteous in the least: is vnyghteous also in much. So then yf ye haue not bene saythfull in the vnyghteous Mammon, who wyl beleue you in that whyche is truer? And yf ye haue not bene saythfull in another mannes busynesse, who shall geue you that whych is your owne? So seruants can serue two masters: for ether he shall hate the one, and loue the other, or elles he shall leane to the one, and despise the other. Ye can not serue God and Mammon.

W. All these thynges hearde the pharyses also, whiche were couetous, and thei mocked hym. And he saide vnto thei: Ye are thei whiche iustifie your selues before menne: but God knoweth your heartes. For that whiche is highly esteemed among menne, is abhominable in the sight of God. R. * The lawe and the prophetes ragened vntill Ihon, and sence that tyme, the kyngdome of God is preached, and euery manne stryuethe to go in. * Easier it is for heauen and earth to perishe then one tittle of lawe to faile. * Who soeuer forsaketh his wife, and marieth another, committeth adoultre. And he whiche marieth her that is deuorced from her husbande, committeth adoultre also.

E. * There was a certain riche manne, whiche was clothed in purple and syne whyte, and laded deliciously euery daye. And there was a certain begger, named Lazarus, whiche laye at his gate full of sores, desiring to be refreshed with the cromes, whiche fell from the riche mannes doore. R. (and no manne gaue vnto hym.) The dogges came also, and licked his sores. And it fortuned, that the begger dyed, and was caried by the angels into Abrahams bosome. The riche manne also dyed, and was buried.

R. And beeyng in hell tormentes, he lifte vp his eyes, and sawe Abraham afarre of, and Lazarus in his bosome, and he cryed and saide: father Abraham, haue mercy on me, and sende Lazarus, that he maye dippe the tippe of his fynger in water, and coule my toungue: for I am tormented in this flame. But Abraham saide, soonne remember that thou in thy lyfe tyme receiuest thy pleasure, and contrarywise, Lazarus receiued payne. But now is he comforted, and thou art punished. Beyonde all this, betwene vs and you there is a great space set, so that thei whiche woulde goo from hence to you, cannot: neither maye come from thence to vs.

E. Then he saide: I praye thee therefore father, sende hym to my fathers house. (For I haue five brethren) for to warne thei, lest thei also come into this place of torment. Abraham saide vnto hym: they haue Moses and the prophetes, lette thei heare thei. And he saide: naie father Abraham, but if one come vnto thei from the dedde thei will repete. He saide vnto hym: If thei heare not Moses and the prophetes, neither will they beleue though on rose from death again. R.

The. xlii. Chapter.

R. Christe teacheth his disciples to auoyde occasions of ciuill, one to forgiue another, and lastly to reuenge in God, and no manne to perforce in his owne wylles. He healeth the tenne lepers, speakech of the latter dayes and of the ende of the worlde.

E. He saide vnto the disciples: it can not bee, but offences will come. Auert thei, * woe vnto hym through whome thei come. It were better for hym, that a millstone were hanged aboute his necke, & he cast into sea, then that he should offende one of these litle ones. Take heede to your selues. * If thy brother trespasse against thee, rebuke hym: and if he repente, forgiue hym. And though he synne agaynst thee seuen tymes in a daye, and seuen tymes in a daye turne again to thee, sayng: it repenteth me, thou shalt forgiue hym.

And the Apostles saide vnto the Lorde: R. increase oure faith. And the Lorde saide: * If ye had faith like a grayne of mustarde seede, and shoulde saye vnto this hyrcampne tree: pluche thy self vp by the rootes: and plante thy self in the sea, it shoulde obeye you. Who is it of you, if he had a seruaunte plowynge or sedynge catell, that will saie vnto hym when he cometh from the filde: Goo quickly, and sitte doune at meate and saiethe not rather vnto hym: Dresse, where-with I maye suppe, and gride vp thy selfe: and serue me, till I haue eaten and dronken: and afterwarde eate thou, and drynke thou? Woorth he thanke that seruaunt, because he did the thynges that were commaunded hym? I trowe not. So lyke wyse ye, when ye haue doorn all those thynges whiche are commaunded you saie: we are vnprouisable seruauntes. Woe haue doorn that whiche was our duty to dooe.

R. And it chanced as he wente to Hierusalem, that he passed through Samaria and Galile. And as he entred into a certain tounne, there mette hym tenne menne that were lepers. Whiche stode a farr off, and putte forth their voices, and saide: Jesu master, haue mercy on vs. Whe he sawe thei, he saide vnto thei: * Goo we your selues vnto the priestes. And it came to pass as thei went, thei were censed. And one of thei, when he sawe that he was censed, turned backe again, and with a loude voyce praised God and fell doune on his face at his fete, and gaue hym thakkes. And the same was a Samaritan. And Jesus answered, and saide, are there not tenne censed? But where are those nyne? There are not founde that returned agayne, to geue God prayse, save onely this straunger. And he sayed vnto hym: aryse, goo thy waye, thy faith hath made thee whole. R.

R. When he was demaunded of the pharyses, when the kyngdome of God should come, he answered thei, and sayed: The kyngdome of God shall not come with waytyng for, neither shall thei saie: Lo here, or lo there. For beholde, the kyngdome of God is within you. And he saide vnto the disciples: the daies will come, when ye shall desire to see one daye of the soonne of mane and ye shall not see it. * And thei shall saie to you: See here, see there. Goo not after thei, nor folow thei: for as the lightenyng that appeareth oute of the one parte that is vnder heauen, and shyneth vnto the other parte whiche is vnder heauen, so shall the soonne of mane bee in his dayes. * But first must he suffer many thynges and bee refused of this nation.

And as it happened in the dayes of Noe: so shall it bee also in the dayes of the soonne of mane. Thei did eate and drynke, they married wyues and were married, euen vnto that same daie that Noe wente into the Arche: and the floude came, and destroyed thei all. Likewise also as it chaunced in the dayes of Lot. They dyd eate, they drynke, they bought, they solde, they planted, thei buylders. But even the same daye that Lot wente oute of iordane, it rained with fire and brimstone from heauen. * And he straped theim all. Euen thus shall it be in the daye, when the sonne of manne shall appeare.

G * At that tyme he that is on the house top, and his stuffe in the house: lette hym not come downe to take it out. And lette not hym that is in the feld turne backe againe to the thynges that he left behynde. * Remember Lottes wife. * Whosoever will goo aboute to save his life, shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose his life, shall save it. I tell you: in that nighte, there shall bee two in one bed, the one shall bee receiued, the other shall bee forsaken. * Twoo shall be agredynge together, the one shall bee receiued, and the other forsaken. * (Thus in the feld, the one shall be receiued, and the other forsaken.) And thei answered, and said to him where Lord: he said vnto theim: wher soeuer the bodye shall be, thether will also the Egles be gathered together.

The xlviii. Chapter.

The teachers in lawe were in prayer continually. Of the pharise and the publicane. The kyngdome of God belongeth vnto chyldren. Chyldre answere the ruler, and promysed toward vnto all suche as wylle be for his sake, and folowe hym. The bynde manne is rebuked to his sighte.

And he putte forth a parable vnto theim signifyingng that menne ought * alwaies to praye, and not bee weyre, sayng: There was in a certain citee a iudge, whiche feared not God neither regarded manne. And there was a certain widowe in the same citee, and she came vnto hym sayng: avenge me of myne aduersary. And he would not for a while. But afterwarde he said withyn hym self: though I feare not God, nor care for manne, yet because this widow is importune vpon me I will avenge her, lest she come at the laste and rayle on me. And the Lord said: heare what the vnrightheous iudge saith. And shall not God avenge his electe, whiche crye daye and night vnto hym? yea, though he be slowe theim I tell you, that he will avenge them and quickly. * I shewethiselle, when the sonne of manne cometh, shall he fynd faith on earth?

And he told this parable vnto certain whiche trusted in theim selues, that thei were perfect and despised other. Twoo menne wente vnto the temple to praye, the one a pharise, and the other a publicane. The pharise stode and prayed thus withyn hymself: God, I thanke thee, that I am not as other menne are, receiueyners, vnjuste aduocaters, or as this publicane. I faste twyse in the weke, * I geue tithes of all that I possesse. And the publicane standyng asafarre of, would not lifte vp his eyes to heauen, but smote vpon his brest, sayng: God be mercifull to me a synner. I tell you, this manne departed home to his house iustified, more the other. * For euery one that exalteth hymself, shall be brought lowe.

And he that humbled hymself, shall be exalted. * Thei broughte vnto hym also young chyldren, that he should touche them. When his disciples sawe it thei rebuked them. But Jesus (when he had called them vnto hym) said: Suffer the chyldren to come vnto me, and forbyd theim not. For of such is the kyngdome of God. Cleerly I saie vnto you: whosoever receiveth not the kyngdome of God: as a chyldre, shall not entre therein. * And a certain ruler asked him, sayng: Good master: what oughte I to dooe, to obtaine eternal life? Jesus saith vnto hym: Why callest thou me good? None is good, save God onely.

Thou knowest the commaundementes: * Thou shalt not committe adoutrye, thou shalt not kill, thou shalt not steale, thou shalt not beare false witness, honoure thy father and thy mother. And he said: all these haue I kepte from my youth up. When Jesus heard that, he said vnto hym: Yet thou lackest one thyng. * Well at that thou hast and distribute vnto the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen and come folowe me. When he heard this, he was soory for he was very riche.

When Jesus sawe that he was soory, he said: * with what difficultie shall thei that haue money, entre into the kyngdome of God? it is easier for a camell to goo through a nedle eye, then for a riche manne to entre into the kyngdome of God. And thei that heard it, said: And who can thei be saved? And he said: * The thynges whiche are impossible with menne, are possible with God. Then Peter said: * Lo, wee haue forsake all and folowed thee. He said vnto theim: Cleerly I saie vnto you: there is no manne that hath forsaken house, ether father or mother, ether brethren, or wyfe or chyldren (for the kyngdome of Goddes sake) whiche shall not receiue muche moze in this world, and in the world to come, life euer lastyng.

Jesus toke vnto him the twelue, and said vnto theim: Beholde wee goo by to Hierusalem and all shall be fulfilled, that are written by the prophetes of the sonne of manne. For he shall be deliuered vnto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked and spitefully entreated, and spitted on: and when thei shall haue scourged hym, thei will put hym to death. * And after three daye he shall arise again. * And thei vnderstode none of these thynges. And this sayng was hid fro theim, so that they perceiued not the thynges whiche were spoken.

And it came to passe, that as he was comyng vnto Hierico, a certain bynde manne satte by the waye syde beggyng. And when he heard the people passe by, he asked what it meante. And thei said vnto hym: that Jesus of Nazareth passed by. And he cryed, sayng: Iesu thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me. And thei whiche wente before, rebuked hym, that he should holde his peace. But he cried so muche the moze: thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy on me. And Jesus stode still, and commaunded hym to be brought vnto hym. And wher he was come nere, he asked hym sayng: what wilt thou that I dooe vnto thee? And he said: Lord, that I maye receiue my sighte. And Jesus saied vnto hym receiue thy sighte: thei said that he had said the. And ymmediatly he receiued his sighte, and folowed hym prayyng God. And all the people, when they sawe it, gaue prayse vnto God. * The

The xix. Chapter.

Cost Zacharias, and the tenn seruantes, in whom the talents were deliuered. Christ cometh to Iherusalem, and weepeth ouer it.

IN he entered in, & went through Iherico. And beholde there was a man named zacharias, whiche was a ruler among the Publicans, and was sicke also. And he sought meanes to see Iesus what he shoulde bee: and coulde not for the piasse because he was litle of stature. And he came before, and climed vp into a wyld figge tree, to see hym for he was to come that waye. And when Iesus was come to the place, he looked vp and sawe hym, and saide vnto hym zacharie, come doune atonce for to daye I must abyde at thy house. And he came doune hastely: and receiued hym ioyfully. And when they saw it, they all grudged, sayng: he is gone in, to fauour with a manne that is a synner. And zacharie stode forthe, and saide vnto the Lorde: beholde Lorde, the halfe of my goodes I geue to synners and if I haue dooen any mane wrong, I restoze hym foure folde. Iesus saide vnto hym: this day is healthe happened vnto this house, because that he also is become the chyld of Abraham.

* For the sonne of manne is come to seke, and to saue that whiche was losse. And as they heard these thynges he added thereto a parable, because he was nie to Iherusalem, and because they thought, that the kyngdome of God shoulde shortly appeare. He saide therfore: * a certain noble manne wente into a farre countree, to receiue hym a kyngdome, and to come again. And he called his tenn seruantes and deliuered them tenn pounde, sayng vnto them: Occupie till I come. But his ciuitiens hated hym and sente a message after hym, sayng: we will not haue this manne to raighe ouer vs.

E And it came to passe, that when he had receiued his kyngdome, he returned and commaunded these seruantes to bee called vnto hym (to whom he had geuen syn money) to wit how muche euery manne had dooen. Then came the first, sayng Lorde, thy pounde hath gayned tenn pounde. And he saide vnto hym: * well thou good seruante: because thou hast bene faithfull in a verpe litle thyng, haue thou auctoritee ouer ten ciities. And another came sayng: Lorde, thy pounde hath made fye pounde. And to the same he saide bee thou also ruler ouer fye ciities.

A And another came sayng: Lorde, beholde here is thy pounde, whiche I haue kepte in a naphyn for I feared thee, because thou arte a straighe manne: thou takeste vp that thou laydest not doune, and reapest that thou diddest not sowe. He saide vnto hym: * Of thyne owne mouthe, wilt I iudge thee, thou euill seruant. knewest thou that I am a straighe manne, takyng vp synne I laid not doune and repyng that I did not sowe. And wherfore gauest not thou my money into the bancke, and at my commaung I might haue required myne owne with dauntage?

And he saide vnto them that stode by: take frs hym that pounde, and geue it hym that hath tenn pounde. And they saide vnto hym: Lorde, he hath tenn pounde. For I saie vnto you, that vnto euery one whiche hath shalbee geuen as he shall haue accompted: and from hym that hath not shalbe taken a waye, euen that whiche he hath. Woe ouer those myne enemies, (whiche would not that I should raighe ouer them) byyng better, and see them before me. * And when he had thus spoken, he proceeded forth, takyng his iourney, to goo vnto Iherusalem.

* And it fortuned when he was come nye to Bethphage and Bethany, besides the mount whiche is called Oliuet, he sente two of his disciples, sayng: goo ye into the towne, whiche is ouer agaynst you into the whiche, a lone as ye are come, ye shall fynde an asses colte tied, wher on yet neuer manne satte. Looke him, and byyng hym better. And if any manne aske you, why booe ye loose hym: thus shall ye saie vnto hym The Lorde hath neded thereof.

They that were sente, wente theire wate and founde euen as he had saide vnto them. And as they were a losyng the colte the owners thereof saide vnto them: why loose ye the colte? And they saide for the Lorde hath neded of hym. And they brought hym to Iesus, and caste their raimente on the colte, and set Iesus thereon. And as he wente, they spredde their clothes in the waye.

And when he was now come nye to the gooyng doune of the mount Oliuet, y whole multitude of the disciples beganne to reioyse, and to prayse God with a loude voyce for all the miraacles that they had sene, sayng: * blessed bee the kyng that cometh in the name of the Lorde: peate in heauen, and glozy in the prest. And some of the pharises of the compaignie saide vnto him: Waster rebuke thy disciples. He saide vnto they: I tell you, that if these holde their peace, * they shall breke stones erpe.

* And when he was come nere, he beheld the citee, and wepte on it sayng: If thou haddest knowne those thynges whiche belong vnto the peate, euen in this thy date, thou wouldest take heed. But now are they hid from thine eyes. For y daies shall come vnto thee, * that thy enemies also shall cast a banke aboute thee, and compass thee rounde, and kepte thee on euery side: & make thee euen with the grounde: & thy chyldren whiche are in thee. And * they shall not leaue in thee one stone vpon another because thou knowdest not the tyme of thy visitacion. * And he wente into the temple, and beganne to caste out them that solde therein, and them that bought, sayng vnto them: It is writte * my house is the house of prayer: but ye haue made it a denne of thieues. And he taughte daily in the temple. * But the hye priestes and the scribes and the chief of the people wente aboute to destroye hym: and coulde not fynd what to dooe. For all the people stakke by hym when they heard him.

The xx. Chapter.

Christe the Christ on question, and he aske the other the parable of synners. Of reburre to synners vnto Iherusalem how Christ taught the synners of synners

IT fortuned in one of those dayes, as he taughte the people in the temple and preached the Gospel, the hye priestes and the the scribes came together with the elders, and saide vnto hym sayng: Tell vs by what au-thorite doest thou these thynges? Whether who is he that geue thet this au thorite? Iesus answered and sayed vnto them, I also will aske you one thyng, and answer me. The baptysme of Iohn: was it from heauen, or of menne. And they thought within them selues, sayng: If we saie from heauen, he will saie: why then beleue ye hym not? But and if we saie of menne, all the people will stone vs. For they bee perswa-ded, that Iohn is a prophete. And they answered that they could not tell whence it was. And Jesus saied vnto them: neither tell I you by what authoritee I dooe these thynges. R

Then beganne he to putte forth to the people this parable. A certain manne planted a vyne-yarde, and lettest forth to housband menne, and wente hym selfe into a straunge countree for a greate season. And when the tyme was come he sent a seruaunte to the housbandemen, that they shoulde geue hym of the frute of the vyneyarde.
And they bette hym, and sente hym awaye emptye. And agayne he sente yet another seruaunte.
And hym they did beate, and entreated hym shamefully, and sent hym awaye emptye. And againe he sente the thirde also, and hym they wounded, and caste hym out. Then saied the Lorde of the vineyarde: what shall I dooe? I will sende my deare sonne peradventure they will stande in awe of hym: when they see hym.

But when the husbandemen sawe hym, they thought within them selues, sayng: this is the deyrt, come lette vs kylle hym, that the inheritaunce maye bee oures. And they caste hym oute of the vyneyarde, and kylled hym. What shall the Lorde of the vyneyarde therefore dooe vnto them? he shall come and destroye these housebandemen, and shall lette out his vyneyarde to other. When they hearde this, they saied: God forbid. And he behelde them, and saied: what is this then that is written: the stone that the buylders refused, the same is become the hedde of the cornre. Whosoever dooeth stonble vpon that stone, shalbe broken: but on whom soner it falleth, it will grynde hym to powder. And the hye prieestes and the scribes the same houre wente a-boute to laye handes on hym. And they feared the people. For they perceiued that he had spokē this similitude against them.

And they watched hym, and sente forth spies whiche shoulde saye theim selues righteous menne, to take hym in his wordes, and to deliver hym vnto the power and authoritee of the deputie. And they asked hym, sayng. Master, we knowe that thou saiest and teachest righte, nether considerest thou the outward appearance of any manne, but teachest the waie of God truly. Is it lawfull for vs to geue tribute vnto Cesar, or no? he perceiued their craftines, and saied vnto them: Why tempte ye me? shewe me a peny, whose ymage and superscription hath it?
They answered and saied: Cesar. And he saied vnto them: geue then vnto Cesar, the thynges whiche bee long vnto Cesar, and to God þe thynges that pertain vnto God. And they could not repyone his sayng before þe people: and they maruailed at his answers, and helde their peace.

Then came to hym certain of the Saducees, * whiche denie that there is any resurrection.
And they asked hym sayng: Master Moses wrote vnto vs, if any mannes brother dye ha-uyng a wife, and he dye without children, that then his brother shoulde take his wife, and raple vnto him his brother. There were therefore seuen brethren, and the firste tooke a wife, and died without children. And the seconde toke her and in like wyse the residue of the seuen, and leste no chyldren behynde them, and died. Last of all the woman died also. Now in the resurrection, whose wife of them shall she bee? For seuen had her to wife. Iesus answered and saied vnto thei The children of this worlde make wyues, and are marryed: but they whiche shal bee counted worthy of that worlde and the resurrection from the dedde, dooe not make wyues, neither are maried, nor yet can die any moze, for they are equall vnto the angels, and are the sonnes of God, in as muche as they are children of the resurrection.
And that the dedde shall rise again: Moses also heweth besides the bush: when he calleth, the Lorde, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob. For he is not a God of dedde, but liuyng. For all liue vnto hym. Then certain of the pharises answered, and saied: Master, thou haste well saied. And after that durste they not aske hym any question at all.

And he saied vnto them: how saie they that Christ is Dauides sonne? And Dauid hymself saied in the booke of the Psalmes. The Lorde saied vnto my Lorde: sette thou on my ryghte hande till I make thyn enemies thy foote stole.
Dauid therefore calleth hym Lorde: and howe is he then his sonne? Then in the audience of all the people, he saied vnto his disciples: beware of the scribes, whiche will goo in long cloythyng: and loue greetynge in the markettes, & the best seates in the synagoges, and the chief roumes at feastes, whiche deuoure widowes houses saynyng long prayes: the same shall receiue greater dampnation.

The xxi. Chapter.

This chapter containeth the poore widowes: relief of the destruction of Hierusalem, of false teachers, of the reborn and reborn: for to come, of the ende of the world, and of his come comyng.

And he behelde, þe sawe the ryche menne, whiche caste in their offerynges into the treasury. he saw also a certain poore widow whiche caste in therder twoo mites.
And he saied, of a trouth I saie vnto you, that this poore widowe hath putte in moze thei all. For they all haue of their superfluite added vnto the offerynges of God: but she of her penury hath cast in all the substance that she had.

And vnto some that spake of the temple how it was garnished with goodly stones and Jewels, he saied: The daies will come in þe which

(of these thynges whiche yee see) there shall not be leste one stone upon another, that shall not be throwen doune. And thei asked hym sayng master, when shall these thynges be, and what sygne shall there be when such thynges shall come to passe? And he saide: take hede, that ye be not deceiued. For manye shall come in my name, and saye that I am Christ: and that time draweth nigh. So loe ye not theim therefore. But when ye here of warres and seditions be not affraied. For these thynges muste firste come to passe, but the ende soloweth not by and by. Then saide he vnto theim: Nacion shall rise against nacion and kingdom against kingdom, & great earthquakes shall be in all places, and hunger, and pestilence and fearful chinges. And greatesyngnes shall there be from heauen.

But before all these, thei shall late handes on you, and persecute you, deliuering you vp to the synagoges & into prison, and shall byng you vnto hynges & rulers for my names sake: And this shall chaunce you for a testimoniall. But at a sure poynte therefore in your heartes, not to abyde before, what ye shall answer: for I will geue you a mouth and wisdom, wher against, all your aduersaries shall not be able to speake nor resist. Mozeouer ye shall be betrayed of your fathers and mothers and brethren, and kynskolke and frendes, and some of you shall thei putte to death. And hated shall ye be of all men for my names sake and there shall not one beare of your heades perishe, possesse your soule by patience.

And when ye see Hierusalem besieged with an hoste, then be sure that the desolacion of the same is nigh. Then lette them whiche are in Jewrye, fle to the mountaignes. And lette them whiche are in the myddest of it, departe out. And lette not theim that are in other countres, entre therein. For these be the dayes of vengeance, that all thynges whiche are written maye be fulfilled. But wo vnto thei that be with child and to theim that geue sucke in those dayes: for there shall be greates trouble in the lande, & warthe ouer all this people. And thei shall fall throughthe edge of the swerde, and shall be led awaye captiue into all nacions. And Hierusalem shall be troden doune for the Gentiles, vntill the tyme of the Gentiles be fulfilled.

And there shall be synnes in the sunne, and in the moone, and in the starres: and in the earth the people shall be at their wittes ende, through dyspayre. The sea and the water shall roare, and mennes heartes shall saye theim for feare, and for lokyng after those thynges which shall come on earth. For the powers of heauen shall moue. And then shall thei see the sonne of manne come in a cloude with power and greates gloze. When these thynges begynne to come to passe: then loke vp, and liue vp your beddes for your redemption draweth nigh.

And he shewed theim a similitude: beholde the figge tree, and all the trees when thei shoute forth their budges ye see and knowe of youre owne selues that sommer is then nye at hande. So likewyse also, when ye see these chinges come to passe, knowe that the kyngdome of God is nigh. Verily I saye vnto you: this generacion shall not passe, till all be fulfilled. Heauen and earth shall passe but my wordes shall not passe.

Take hede to your selues lest at any tyme your heartes be overcome with surfeityng and drunkennes and cares of this life, and so the daye come vpon you vnwares. For as a thare shall it come on all theim that dwell on the face of the whole earth: watche ye therefore continually, and praye, that ye maye escape all these thynges that shall come, and that ye maye stande before the sonne of manne. In the same tyme, he taught in the temple: and at night, he wente out, and abode in the mounte that is called Olivet. And all the people came in the moynyng to hym into the temple, for to heare hym.

The xliiij. Chapter.

Christe is betrayed. Thei cate the Easter lambe. The institution of the Sacramente. Thei shew thei wold be greued, he reproueth theim. He prayeth thei shoulde come vpon the mounte. Thei cate hym and byng hym to the hie pester house. Wher heureth hym thre, and thei byng hym before the countail.

There was a feast of swete breade dyne nye whiche is called Easter, and the hie prestes & scribes sought howe they mighte kyl hym, for thei feared the people. Then entered Sathan into Judas, whose sir name was Iscariot, whiche was of the nombze of the twelue, and he wote his waye, and communed with the hie prestes and officers, how he mighte betraye hym vnto them. And thei were glad, and promysed to geue hym money. And he consented, and sought oportunitie to betraye hym vnto theim: when the people were a waye.

Then came the daye of swete breade, when of necessitee Pascheouer muste be offered. And he sent Peter and Iohn, sayng: go & prepare vs the Pascheouer, that we maye eate. They sayde vnto hym: Wher wylt thou, & we prepare? And he sayde vnto them: Beholde, when ye enter into the cytye, ther shall a man mete you, bearyng a pytcher of water, hym folow into the same house that he entred in, and ye shall saye vnto the good man of the house: The master sayeth vnto the: where is the gresse chamber, wher I shall eate Pascheouer with my disciples? And he shall shewe you a greates parloure paved. There make readye. And they wente and founde as he had sayde vnto them, and they made readye the Pascheouer.

And when the houre was come, he sate doune and the twelue Apostles wyth hym. And he sayde vnto theim: I haue inwardlye desired to eate this Pascheouer wyth you, before that I suffre. For I saye vnto you: henceforth I wyl not eate of it any moze, vntill it be fulfilled in the kyngdome of God. And he toke the cup, and gaue thankes and sayd: Take this, and drayde it amonge you. For I saye vnto you: I wyl not drynke of the frute of the vyne, vntill the kyngdome of God come.

And he toke breade, and when he had gentylenlye thankes, he brake it, and gaue vnto theim, sayng sayng. This is my body, whiche is given for you. And he took the chalice and said. This is the chalice of my blood, whiche is shed for you. And he gave it to them. And they began to sing. And he said. This chalice is the new testament in my blood, whiche is shed for you. And he said. This chalice is the new testament in my blood, whiche is shed for you. And he said. This chalice is the new testament in my blood, whiche is shed for you.

And there was a strife among them, which of them should be the greatest. And he said unto them. The kynges of nations raigne over them: and they that have authoritee upon them are called gracious Lordes. But ye shall not be so. * But he that is greatest among you, shall be as the younger: and he that is chief, shall be as he that dooth minister. For whether is greater, he that sitteth at meate? Or he that serueth? Is not he that sitteth at meate? But I am among you, as he that ministereth. Ye are they whiche have bydden with me in my temptacions. And I appoynt unto you a kyngdome, as my father hath appointed to me: that ye may eate and drynke at my table in my kyngdome, and sitte on seates, iudgyng the twelve trybes of Israel. * And the Lord said. Simon, Simon, beholde: Satan hath desired to lifte you, as it were wheate: but I have prayed for thee that thy faile faile not. And when thou art converted, strengthe thy brethren. And he said unto hym. * Lord, I am ready to goe with thee into prison, and to deathe. And he said. I tell thee Peter, thy cooke shall not croake this daie, till thou hast thrise denyed that thou knowest me.

And he said unto them. * When I sente you without wallet and scrippe and shoes laced ye any thyng? And they said, no. Then he said unto them. But now he that hath a wallet, lette hym take it up, and lyke wyse his scrippe. And he that hath no swerde, lette hym sell his coote, and buye one. For I saie unto you, that yet the same whiche is written, muste bee perfourmed in me: * even among the wicked was he reputed. For those thynges whiche are written of me haue an ende. And they said. Lord, beholde, here are two swerdes. And he said unto thei it is enough. * And he came oute, and wente (as he had wont) to mounte Olivet. And the disciples followed hym. And when he came to the place he said unto them: * praye, leasse ye fall into temptacion. And he gatte hym self from them, about a stones castle, and knelled downe, and prayed sayng. Father, if thou wilt, remove this cuppe from me. Nevertheless, * not my will, but thine bee fulfilled. And there appeared an angel unto hym from heauen, confortyng hym. And he was in agonie, and prayed the longer. And his sweate was like droppe of blood, tricklyng downe to the ground. And when he rose vp from praye and went came to his disciples, he found them sleeping for heuenlye. He said unto them why slepe ye? Behold, and praye, lest ye fall into temptacion.

* While he yet spake: beholde, there came a compaignie, and he that was called Judas one of the twelve, wente before them, and pressed me unto Iesus, to kisse hym. But Iesus saied unto hym: Judas, betrayest thou the sonne of manne with a kisse? When thei whiche were aboute hym sawe what he would do, thei saied unto hym: Lord, shall we smite with swerde? * And one of thei smote a seruante of the hie preeste, and stroke of his righte eare. Iesus answered and saied: suffer ye thus farre to go. And when he touched his eare, he healed hym.

Then Iesus saied unto the hie preestes and rulers of the temple and the elders whiche were come to hym. Ye bee come oute, as unto a theefe to swarthes and stours. When I was daily with you in the temple, ye stretched forth no handes against me. But this is euen your verie houre, and the power of darknesse. Then toke thei hym and led hym, and broughte hym to the hie preestes house. But Peter folowed a farte of. And when thei had kyndled a fyre in the middes of the palace, and were sette downe to gether, * Peter also sat doune among thei. But when one of thei behelde hym, as he satte by the fyre (and looked upon hym) he saied: this same felow was also with hym. * And he denied hym sayng: woman I knowe hym not. And after a litle whyle another sawe hym, and saied: thou art also of them. And Peter saied: manne, I am not.

And aboute the space of an houre after, another affirmed, sayng: verely this felow was with hym also, for he is of Galile. And Peter sayed manne I wote not what thou saiest. And immediately whyle he yet spake, the cocke crewe. And the Lord turned backe, and looked upon Peter. * And Peter remembered the woordes of the Lord how he saied unto hym: before the cocke crewe, thou shalt denie me thrise. And Peter wente oute and wept bitterly.

And the mornynge that toke Iesus mocked hym and smote hym: and when thei had blyndfolded hym, thei stroke hym on the face, and asked hym, sayng: arede, who is it that smote thee. And many other thynges dyspityfully saied thei against hym. And as soon as it was daye, the elders of the people and the hie preestes and the scribes came together, and led hym into their counsaill, sayng: art thou verie Christus tell vs. And he saied unto thei: if I tell you, ye will not beleue. And if I aske you, ye will not answer me, nor lette me goe. * Hereafter shall the sonne of manne sitte on the righte hande of the power of God. Then saied they all: arte thou then the sonne of God? he saied, ye saie that I am. And they sayed: what neede were any further witness? For we our selves haue heard of his owne mouth.

The xxiii. Chapter.

Jesus is brought before pilate and herode. The women make lamentacion for hym. He prayeth for his enemies, forgiveth thei that wronged him, and breatheth on thei, and is buryed.

And the whole multitude of thei arose and led hym unto pylate. And thei beganne to accust hym, sayng: wes founde this feloe peruerting þe people, and forbydding to paye tribute to Cesar: saying that heis Christ a kynge. And Pilate appoyled hym, saying. Hete thou the kynge of the Jewes? he answered hym and said: thou saiest it. Then sayed Pilate to þe chief priests, and to the people: I finde no fault in this manne. And thei were the more scarce saying he moueth the people, teaching througout all Iewry, and began at Galile, euen to this place. When Pilate hadde mencion of Galile he asked whether the manne were of Galile. And asone as he knewe that he belonged vnto * Herodes iurisdiction, he sente hym to herode whiche was also at Iherusalem at that tyme.

And when Herode sawe Iesus, he was excedyng glad. For he was desirous to see hym of a long season, because he had hearde many thynges of hym, and he trusted to haue sene some miracle dooen by hym. Then he questioned woth hym many wordes. But he answered hym nothyng. The chief priests and scribes, stode forth and accused hym straightely. And Herode with his menne of warre, despised him: & when he had mocked hym, he araped hym in white clothynge, and sente hym again to Pilate. * And the same daye Pilate and Herode were made frondes together: For befoze they were at varpaunce.

And Pilate called together þe chief priests and þe people, and said vnto them: ye haue broughte this manne vnto me as one that peruerteth the people. And beholde, I examyn hym befoze you & finde no fault in this manne, of those thynges wherof ye accuse hym: No, nor yet Herode. For I sente you to hym, and lo, nothyng worthy of death is dooen to hym. I will therefore chasene hym, and lette hym loose. * For of necessitie, he must haue lette one loose vnto them at the feast.

And all the people cryed at once saying a waile with him, and deliuer to vs Barabaz: (whiche for a certain insurreccion made in the cite and for murder was caste in prison) Pilate spake again to them willing to lette Iesus loose. But they cryed, saying: Crucifie hym. Crucifie hym. He said vnto them the thirde tyme: what euill hath he dooen? I fynde no cause of death in hym. I will therefore chasene hym, and lette hym goo. And they cryed with loude voyces, requyring that he myghte bee crucified. And the voyces of them and of the chief priests preuailed.

And Pilate gaue sentence, that it should bee as they requyred: and he lette loose vnto them hym that (for insurreccion and murder) was caste into prison, whom thei had desyred and he deliuered vnto them Iesus, to doe with hym what they would. * And as they led hym a waile, they caughte one Symon of Cyren, comyng out of the felde: and on hym layed they the crosse that he myghte beare it after Iesus.

And there folowed hym a greate compaignie of people, and women * whiche were wailed and lamented hym: But Iesus turned backe vnto them, and sayed: Ye daughters of Iherusalem, wepe not for me: but wepe for youre selues, and for your chyldre: For behold, the daies will come in the whiche thei shall say: Happy are the baren and the wombes that neuer bare, and þe paypes whiche neuer gaue sucke: Then shall they begyn to saue to the moste aignes, fall on vs: and to the hylles, couer vs. For if they dooe this in a grene tree, what shall ber doorn in the dyer? And there were two euill dooers led with hym to bee slain. * And after that they were come to the place (whiche is called Caluary) there they crucified hym, and the euill dooers, one on þe righte hande, and the other on the lister. Then said Iesus, father forgeue them for thei wote not what thei dooe. * And they parted his raymente and caste lottes. And the people stode, and behelde.

And the rulers mocked hym with chaum, saying: he saueth other menne lette hym saue hym self, if he be very Christ, the chosen of God. The souldyours also mocked hym, and came and offered hym vineger, and said, if thou bee þe kynge of the Jewes, saue thy self. * And a superscripcion was writen ouer hym, with letters of Greke, & Latin and Hebreu: This is the kynge of the Jewes. And one of þe euill dooers whiche were hanged rayled on hym saying: If thou bee Christe, saue thy self and vs. But the other answered, & rebuked hym saying: Fearest thou not God saying thou art in the same dampnation? wee are righteously punished, for wee receiue accordyng to our dedes. But this manne hath dooen nothyng amysse. And he said vnto Iesus: Lorde remembre me, when thou comest into thy kyngdome. And Iesus said vnto hym: Verely I saie vnto thee to date shalt thou bee with me in paradys. * And it was aboute the first houre. And ther was darkened ouer all the earth, vntill the hynth houre, and the sunne was darkened. And the vaple of the temple did rente, euen throughe the middes. And when Iesus had cryed with a loude voyce, he said. Father into thy handes I commende my spirite. And when he thus had said he gaue vp the ghoste. * When the Centurion sawe what had happened, he glorified God saying: Verely this was a righteous manne. And all the people that came together to that spgge and sawe the thynges which had happened, smote they: brestes and returned. And all hym acquainted: and the women that folowed hym from Galyle, stode asarte of, beholdynge these thynges.

And beholde * there was a manne named Joseph a counsailler, and he was a good manne and a iuste, the same had not consented to the counsaill and dede of theim, whiche was of Arama thia a citee of the Jewes, whiche same also waited for the kyngdome of God: he went vnto Pilate and begged the body of Iesus and tooke it doune and wrapped it in a lincloth, and laied it in a sepulchre that was hewen in stone, where in neuer manne befoze was layed. * And that daye was preparyng of þe Saboth, and the Saboth daye on: The women that folowed after, whiche had come with hym from Galile, beheld the sepulchre, and how his body was laied. And thei returned and prepared swete oboures and omentens: but rested the Saboth daye, accordyng to the commandemente.

The first Chapter.

The women came to the sepulchre early in the morning, and found the stone rolled away, and the body of the Lord Jesus. And it happened as they were amazed there at, behold two men stood by them in shining garments. And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them: Why see ye the living among the dead? He is not here, but he is risen. Remember how he spake unto you, when he was yet in Galilee, saying: that the Son of man must be delivered into the hands of synners, and be crucified, and the third day rise again. And they remembered his words, and returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto those eleven, and to all the remnant.

But upon the first day of the Mornynge, they came unto the sepulchre, & brought the sweete odoures whiche they haue prepared, & other women with them. And they founde the stone rolled away from the sepulchre, and they wente in, but founde not the body of the Lorde Jesu. And it happened as they were amazed there at, Behold two menne stode by them in shynynge garments. And as they were affraid, and bowed downe their faces to the earth, they said vnto them: Why see ye the living among the dedde? he is not here: but he is risen. Remembere how he spake vnto you, when he was yet in Galilee, sayng: that the sonne of manne must bee deliuered into the handes of synners, and be crucified, and the thirde daye rise again. And they remembred his wordes, and returned from the sepulchre, and tolde all these thynges vnto those eleven, and to all the remnant. * It was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary Jacoby, and other that were with them, whiche tolde these thynges vnto the Apostles. And their wordes seemed vnto them sayned thynges, nether beleued they them. The arose Peter and ranne vnto the sepulchre, and looked in and sawe the linen clothes laide by them selues, and departed, wonderynge in hym self as that whiche had happened.

¶ And beholde two of them wente that same daye to a toun (called Emams) whiche was from Hierusalem aboute a sixty foxlonges, and they talked together of all these thynges that had happened. And it chaunced that while they communed together and reasoned, Jesus hymselfe drew neare, and went with them. But their eyes wer holden, that they should not knowe hym: And he said vnto them: what maner of communications are these that ye haue one to another, as ye walke and are sad? And the one of them (whose name was Cleophas) answered, and said vnto hym: Art thou onely a stranger in Hierusalem and hast not knowen the thynges whiche haue chaunced there, in these dayes? he said vnto them: what thynges? And they said vnto hym: of Jesus of Nazareth, whiche was a prophete might in dedde, & woode, before God and all the people: and how the hie priestes, and our rulers deliuered hym to bee condemned to death, and haue crucified hym. But we trusted that it had been he that should haue redeemed Israel. And as touchynge all these thynges, to day is euen the thirde daye, that they were dooen.

¶ Pea, and certain women also of our companye made vs accomnyed, whiche came early vnto the sepulchre, and founde not his body, & came sayng that they had sene a vision of angels, whiche said that he was a liue. And certain of they whiche wer with vs, went to the sepulchre, and founde it euen so as the women had said, but hym they saw not. And he said vnto them: O fooles & slow of heart, to beleue all that the prophetes haue spoken. Dughe not Christ to haue suffered these thynges, and to entre into his glory? And he began at Moses, and all the prophetes, and interpreted vnto them in all scriptures whiche wer written of hym. And they drew neare vnto the toun, whiche they wente vnto. And he made as though he would haue gone further. And they constrained hym, sayng: abyde with vs, for it draweth towarde night, and the daye is farre passed. And he went in, to tary with them. And it came to passe, as he sat at meate with them, he toke byde, and blessed it, and brake, and gaue to them. And their eyes wer opened, and they knew him: and he vanished out of their sight. And they said betwene them selues: did not our heartes burne within vs, while he talked with vs by the waye, and opened vnto vs the scriptures? And they arose by the same houre, and turned againe to Hierusalem and founde the eleven gathered together, and them that with them, sayng: the Lorde is risen in dedde, and hath appeared to Simon. And they tolde what thynges were dooen in the waye, and how they knewe hym in breaking of byrde.

¶ As they thus spake, Jesus hymselfe stode in the myddel of them, & saith vnto the: peace be vnto you. (It is I, feare not). But they were abashed and affraid, and supposed that they had sene a spirete. And he said vnto them: Why are ye troubled, and why dooe thoughtes arise in your heartes? Behold my handes and my fete, that it is euen I my self. Handle me and see: for a spirete hath not flethe and bones as ye see me haue. And whil he thus spake, he shewed them his handes and his fete. And while they yet beleued not for ioye, and wondered, he said vnto them: haue ye here any meate? And they offered hym a pece of a broyled fische and of an hony combe. And he toke it, and did eat before them. And he said vnto them: These are the wordes whiche I spake vnto you, while I was yet with you: that all myddes bee fulfilled whiche were written of me in the lawe of Moses and in the prophetes, & in the Psalmes. The opened he their wittes, that they might vnderstande the scriptures, and said vnto them: Thus is it writen: and thus it behoued Christ to suffer, and to rise againe from death the thirde daye, and that repentance and remission of synnes should bee preached in his name among all nations: And must begyn at Hierusalem. And ye are witnesses of these thynges. ¶ And beholde, I will sende the promise of my father vpon you. But tary ye in the cite of Hierusalem, vntill ye bee endued with power from on hie. And he led them out into Bethany, and lyfted vp his handes, and blessed them. And it came to passe, as he blessed them he departed from them, and was carryed vp into heauen. And they worshipped hym, and returned to Hierusalem with greate ioye, and were continually in the temple praysynge and laudyng God. Amen.

Sapient Iohn.

The fyrste Chapter

The marvellous birth of Christ, and how he became man.
The testimony of Iohn, the collyer of Salomon, &c.

In the begynnyng was the word, & the word was with God: and God was the word.
The same was in the begyn-nyng with God. * All thynges wer made by it: and without it was nothyng, & was made. * In it was lyfe, and lyfe was the lyght of men, and the lyghte shyneth in darkenes: and the darkenes comprehended it not. Ther was sent a man to see God whose name was Iohn. The same came as a witness of the lyghte, that all men through him myghte believe. * He was not that lyghte: but was sente to beare witness of the lyghte. That lyghte was the true lyghte, which lyghteth every man that cometh into the world. He was in the world and the world was made by hym, and & world knewe hym not.

He came among hymys owne, and hymys owne receaued hym not. But as many as receiued him, to the gaue he power to be the sonnes of God, euen them that believed on his name which was bozne, not of bloude, nor of the wyll of the flesch, nor yet of the wyll of man: but of God.

* And the same word became fleshe, and dwelt among vs: and we sawe the gloze of it, as the gloze of the only begotten sonne of the father full of grace and trewe. *

* Iohn beareth wytnesse of hym, and cryeth, sayng: This was he of whome I speake, whiche though he came after me, went before me: for he was before me. * And of hym fulnesse haue all we receiued: euen grace for grace. For the lawe was geuen by Moyses, but grace and trewe came by Iesus Christ: * No man hath seene God at any tyme.

The onely begotten sonne which is in the bosome of the father, he hath declared hym. *

* And this is the recorde of Iohn: when the Jewes sente priests and Leuites from Ierusalem, to aske hym what art thou? And he confessed and denyed not, and sayed playnly: I am not Christ. And they asked hym: what then? art thou helias? And he sayeth I am not. Art thou that prophet? And he answered no. Then sayed they vnto him: What arte thou, that we maye geue an answer vnto them that sent vs? What saiest thou of thy selfe? he sayed: * I am a voyce of a cryer in the wilderness, make straight the way of the Lord, * as sayed the prophet Esayas. And they whiche were sente were of the pharises. And they asked hym, and sayd vnto hym: Why baptisest thou then, if thou bee not Christ, nor helias, neither that prophet? Iohn answered them sayng: * I baptise with water, but there standeth one among you, whiche knowe not, he cometh though he came after me, was before me, whose sho lachet, I am not worthy to vnloose. These thynges wer done in Bethabara beyond Iordane: wher Iohn baptyzeth. *

* The nexte daye, Iohn seeth the Iesus comyng vnto him, and sayeth: * behold the lambe of God, whiche taketh awaye the synne of the world. This is he of whom I sayed: After me cometh a man whiche went before me, for he was before me, and I knewe hym not: but that he shoulde be declared to Israel, therfore am I come baptysing with water.

* And Iohn bare recorde sayng: I sawe the sperte descend from heauen, lyke vnto a doue, & abode vpon hym, and I knewe him not. But he that sent me to baptise in water, the same said vnto me: vpon whom thou shalt se the sperte descende, and tarrye vpon hym, the same is he which baptiseth with the holy ghoist. And I sawe and bare recorde that this is the sonne of God. *

The nexte day after, Iohn stood agayne, and two of hymys disciples, and he behelde Iesus as he walked by, and saith: behold the lambe of God. And the two disciples hearde hym speake and they folowed Iesus. And Iesus turned about and sawe them folow him: & sayth vnto them: What seek ye? They sayed vnto hym: Rabbi (whiche is to saye of one interpreteth it, Master) where dwellest thou? he saith vnto them: come and se. They came and sawe where he dwelt: & abode with hym that day. For it was about the tenth houre.

One of the two which heard Iohn speake, and folowed hym, was Andrew symon Peters brother. The same folowed hym brother Simon frist, and sayth vnto hym: we haue founde Mesias (which is by interpretation, anointed) and brought hym to Iesus. And Iesus beheld hym and sayed: thou arte * Symon the sonne of Ionas, thou shalt be called Cephas: whiche is by interpretation on a stone. The daye folowing, Iesus wolde go into Galile, and founde Philip, and sayth vnto hym: folow me. * Philip was of Bethsaida the cite of Andrew and Peter. Philip founde Nathaniel and sayeth vnto him: we haue founde him, of whom * Moyses in the lawe and the prophetes did writ, Iesus the sonne of Joseph of Nazareth. And Nathaniel said vnto hym: can there any good thyng come out of Nazareth? Philip sayth vnto him come and se.

Iesus sawe Nathanael comyng to him, and sayth of him. Behold a right Israelite, in who is no gyle. Nathaniel sayth vnto hym: whence knowest thou me? Iesus answered and said vnto hym: Before that philippe called the, when thou wast vnder the figge tree, I sawe the. Nathanael answered and sayed vnto him: Rabbi thou arte euen the very sonne of God, thou arte the kynge of Israel. Iesus answered, and sayed vnto hym: Because I sayed vnto the, I sawe the vnder the figge tree, thou belieuest. Thou shalt se greater thynges then these. And he sayeth vnto hym: Clerke, verely, I saye vnto

The II. Chapter.

Christe turneth the water into wyne, and healeth the boyes and blind out of the temple.

In the thirde daye was there a maryage in Cana a citee in Galilee, and the mother of Iesus was there. And Iesus was called (and his disciples) vnto the maryage. And when the wyne lacked the mother of Iesus sayth vnto hym: they haue no wyne. Iesus sayth vnto her: woman: what haue I to doo wth thee, myne houre is not yet come. His mother sayeth vnto the mynstres: whatsoeuer he sayth vnto you do ye. And there were standyng there, in waterpottes of stone after the maner of the purifyinge of the Jewes, contaynyng two or thre fyngers a pece. Iesus sayth vnto them: fyl the waterpottes with water. And they fylled them vnto the brim. And he sayth vnto them: drawe out nowe, and bere vnto the gouernour of the feast. And they bare it. When the ruler of the feast hadde tasted the water that was turned into wyne, and knewe not whence it was (but the mynstres which drew the water knewe,) he calleth the byd-grome, and sayth vnto hym. Every man at the begynning doth set forth good wyne, and when men be dronke, then that which is worse. But thou hast kept the good wyne vntil now. This begynnyng of myracles dyd Iesus in Cana of Galilee, and shewd his glorie, and his disciples beleued on hym.

I* After this he went doune to Capernaum, he and his mother and his brethren, and his disciples, and there continued manye dayes.
I* And the Jewes Easter was euen at hand And Iesus wente vnto Ierusalem, and founde sittinge in the temple, those that sold oxen, and shepe, and doves, and chaungers of mony. And when he had made (as it were) a scourge of smal cordes, he drowne them al out of the temple, with the tresphe and oxen, and powred oute the chaungers mony, and ouerthrewe the tables, and sayed vnto them that sold doves: haue these thynges hence, and make not my fathers house, an house of marchaundise. And his disciples re-membred it, that is written: the ye of thyne house hath euen eaten me.

Math. 21. 12.

Then answered the Jewes, and sayed vnto hym: what token shewest thou vnto vs, sayng that thou doest these thynges? Iesus answered and sayd vnto them: Destroy this temple, and in thre dayes I will reare it vp. Then sayed the Jewes. It is thre yeares was this temple abuy-lde, and wilt thou reare it vp in thre dayes?
But he spake of the temple of his body. A longe therefore as he was rylen frome deathe agayne his disciples remembred that he thus had sayed: And they beleued the scripture, and the wodes which Iesus had sayed.

Iohn. 2. 19.

When he was in Ierusalem at Easter in the faste daye: many beleued on his name, when they saw his myracles which he did. But Iesus dyd not committe hym selfe vnto them, because he knewe a lile men, and needed not, that any man should testifye of hym. * For he knewe what was in man.

The III. Chapter

The commendation of Christe by Nicodemus. The history of his baptism of Iesus, and what signen he beareth of Christe.

Ther was a man of the pharysees named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Je-wes. The same came to Iesus by nyghte, and sayed vnto hym: Rabbi, we knowe that thou art a teacher come frome God: for no man could do such myracles as thou doest, excepte God were wth hym. Iesus answered and sayed vnto hym:

Verely, verely, I saye vnto the, excepte a man be borne from above, he can not se the kyngdome of God. Nicodemus saith vnto him: how can a man be borne when he is olde, can he enter into his mothers wombe and be borne agayne Iesus answered: * Verely, verely, I saye vnto the, excepte a man be borne of water and of the spyete, he cannot enter into the kyngdome of God. * That which is borne of the fleshe, is fleshe, and that which is borne of the spyete, is spyete. Marthayle no tithon that I saye to the ye must be borne from above. The winde bloweth where it lysteth, and thou herest the sounde thereof: but canst not tell whence it cometh and whether it goeth. So is euerye one that is borne of the spyete.

Nicodemus answered and sayed vnto him how can these thynges be? Iesus answered and sayed vnto him: arte thou a master in Isræll, and knowest not these thynges? Verely, verely I saye vnto the, we speake that we do knowe, and testyfy that we haue seene: and ye receyue not oure wytnes. If I haue tolde you earthlye thynges, and ye beleue not: howe shall ye beleue if I tell you of heauenlye thynges?

* And no man ascenderth vnto heauen, but he that came doune from heauen, euen the sonne of man which is in heauen.

* And as Moyses lyfte vp the serpente in the wyldernesse, euen so muste the sonne of man be lyfte vp, that whosoever beleueth in hym: per-pethen not, but haue eternall lyfe.

* For God so loued the worlde, that he gaue his only begotten sonne, that whosoever beleueth in hym, shoulde not perpethen, but haue euertlastyng lyfe. * For God sent not his sonne into the worlde, to condemne the worlde: but that the worlde through hym myght be saued.
He that beleueth on hym is not condemned.
But he that beleueth not is condemned already, because he hath not beleued in the name of the onely begotten sonne of God.

And this is the condemnation: * that lyght is come into the worlde, and men loued darkenesse more then lyght, because they deceyued were euill. For euery one that euill dothe hateth the lyght: neyther cometh to the lyght leaue his dedes should be repproued. But he that doeth truthe, cometh to the lyght, that his dedes maye be knowne, howe that they are

And they came vnto John, and ſaide vnto him: Rabbi, he that was with the brydd Jordan (to whome thou bareſt witneſſe) be holde theſame baptiſme: and all men come to him, John answered, and ſayde: a man can receaue nothing except it be geuen him from heauen. The. iiii. Chapter.

The loueſt communication of Chyſte with the woman of Samaria by the well ſayde. Some ſay he ſaith the rulers ſhould

Aſone as the Lord knew, how the Pharisees had herd & Jesus made & baptised mo diſciples the John (though & Jesus him ſelfe baptised not, but his diſciples) * he left Jewry, and departed againe into Galile. For it was ſo the muſt nedes go thowto Samaria. * Then came he to the cite of Samaria (whiche is called Sychar.) Beyſdes the poſſellus * that Jacob gaue to his ſonne Joſeph. And ther was Jacobs wel Jesus then beyng wepe of his ionenepe, ſate thus on the wel. And it was about & ſyxt houre and there came a woman of Samaria to dya water. Jesus ſayeth vnto her: geue me dypnhe. For his diſciples were gooone a waie vnto the towne to bye meate. Then ſaith the woma of Samaria vnto him: how is it, & thou beyng a Jewe, aſkeſt dypnche of me, which am a Samaritane. * For the Jewes medle not with the Samaritanes. Jesus answered and ſayd vnto her: Pſe thou kno weſt the geſt of God, and who it is that ſaith to the, geue me dypnche, & thou wouldeſt haue aſked of him, and he woulde haue geuen * the water of life. The woman ſaith vnto him: Why ſaiſt thou theſe thynges to me, ſee we both and the well is depe: from wher then haſt thou that water of lyfe? Jesus then grenter ſd. n oure father Jacob whiche gaue vs the well, and he hym ſelfe dranketh therof and his chylidren, and his cattelle.

Jesus answered and ſayd vnto her: whoſoeuer dypneth of this water ſhall thyrſte agayne. But whoſoeuer dypneth of the water that I ſhall geue hym, ſhall neuer be moze a thyrſt: but the water that I ſhall geue hym, ſhalbe in hym a wel of water ſpyngyng vp into euerlaſting lyfe. The woman ſaith vnto hym: Syr, geue me of that water, that I thyrſt not, nether come hyder to dya we. Jesus ſaith vnto her. So, cal thy huſband, & come hyder. The woma answered and ſayd vnto hym: I haue no huſband. Jesus ſaid vnto her: thou haſt well ſayd, I haue no huſband. For thou haſt had fyue huſbandes and he whom thou now haſt is not thy huſbande. In that ſaideſt thou truly. The woman ſayeth vnto hym: * Syr, I perceaue & thou art a prophete. Our fathers worſhipped in thys mountayne, * and ye ſay that in Jeruſale is the place where men oughe to worſhypp. Jesus ſayth vnto her: woman beleue me, the houre cometh, when ye ſhall nether in thys mountayn, nor yet at Jeruſalem worſhypp the father. Ye worſhypp ye wote not what: we knowe what we worſhypp.

* For ſaluacion cometh of the Jewes: But the houre cometh and now is, when the true worſhyppers ſhall worſhypp the father: in ſpyte, and in the truth. For ſuch the father alſo requyrett to worſhypp hym. * God is a ſpyte: and they that worſhypp hym, muſt worſhypp him in ſpyte and in the truth.

The woma ſaith vnto him. I wote that Chyſt ſhall come, whiche is called Chyſte. When he is come, he wil tel vs all thynges. Jesus ſaith vnto her: * I that ſpeach vnto ſ am he. And immediately came his diſciples and maruailed that he talked with ſ woman. Yet no man ſayde what meaſt thou, or why talkeſt thou with her? The woman then left her waterpoſ, and wente her waie into the ctyte, and ſaith to the men: Come, ſe a man which told me all thynges that euer I doyd. Is not he Chyſt? Then they went out of the ctyte and came vnto hym.

In the meane whyle his diſciples prayed him ſaynge: Maſter, eate. He ſayd vnto them I haue meate to eate, that ye know not of. Therfoze ſayd the diſciples among theſelues: hath any man brought him ought to eate? Jesus ſaith vnto them, my meate is, to do the wyl of him that ſent me, & to ſyn. he hys worke. Say not ye, there are yet foure monethes, and then cometh harueſt? Beholde, I ſape vnto you: lyfte vp your eyes, and loke on the regions: for they are whiter alreedy vnto harueſt. * And he ſeeth & perceyeth, receaueh reward, and gathereth frute: vnto lyfe eternal: that both he & the ſower, and he that reapeth, myght reioyce to gether. And herin is the ſaying true, that one ſoweth, and another reapeth. I ſent you to reap that wher on ye beſtowed no labour. Other men labour.

Many of the Samaritans of that cite be-

So when the Samaritans were come unto him they besought hym, that he woulde tarye with sayd unto the woman, Now we beleue, not because of thy sayng, for we haue heard him our selues, and knowe that this is euen Chryst, the Sauour of the worlde. I

After two dayes he departed thence, & went away into Galile. * For Jesus him selfe testified by a prophet hath none honour in his owne counter. Then, as soon as he was come into Ga-lile, the Galileans receiued him: when they had sene all the thinges that he did at Jerusalem at the day of the feast. For they went also unto the feast day. So Jesus came agayn into Cana of Galile, where he turned the water into wyne.
And ther was a certain ruler, whose sonne was sicke at Capernaum. As soon as the same heard that Jesus was come out of Jewry into Galile, he wente unto him, and besought hym that he wold come downe, and heale his sonne. For he was euen at the poynte of death. Then sayd Jesus unto him: excepte ye se signes and wonders, ye will not beleue. The ruler sayth vnto him. Sy, come downe or euer that my sonne dye. Jesus sayth vnto him: So thy wyfe, thy sonne liueth. The man beleued the wyrd that Jesus had spoken vnto him. And he wente his wyfe. And as he was goinge downe, the ser-uautes met hym, and tolde him, sayng. Thy sonne liueth. Then enquired he of the the houre when he began to amende. And they sayd vnto him: Yesterday, at the seventh houre, the ser-uer left him. So the father knewe, that it was the same houre, in the which Jesus sayd vnto him: Thy sonne liueth. * And he beleued and al his householde. I This is agayn the second miracle, that Jesus dyd, when he was come oute of Jewry into Galile.

The v. Chapter.

The healeth the man that was sicke eight and thirtie yere. The Jewes accuse him, he answereth for himselfe and reproveth them.

After this was there a feast daye of the Jewes, and Jesus went vp to Jerusalem. And there is at Jerusalem by slaughter house, a pole (which is called in the hebrew toge, Betsedai) hauing fyue porches, in the which laye a great multitude of sicke folke, of olpnde, halts and withered wayting for the mouing of the water. For an angel went downe at a certain season into the pole, and stered the water. Whosoever then passed (after the steringe of the water) stepped in was made whole of whatsoeuer disease he had. And a certain man was there, which had ben diseased xxviii. yeres. When Jesus sawe him lye, & knewe that he had long time had ben diseased, he sayeth vnto hym: Wilt thou be made whole? The sicke man answered him: Sy, I haue no man when the water is troubled, to put me into the poole: But in the meane tyme, whyle I am aboute to come: another steppeth downe before me.

Jesus sayth vnto hym: * rise, take vp thy bed and walke. And immediately the man was made whole, and toke vp his bed, and walked. And the same day was the Sabbath. The Jewes therfore sayd vnto him that was made whole: It is the Sabbath day, it is not lawfull for the to cary thy bed. He answered them: he that made me whole, sayd vnto me: Take vp thy bed, and walke. Then asked they him: What man is that, which sayde vnto the: take vp thy bedde and walke. And he that was healed, wylde not who it was. For Jesus had gotten himselfe a wyfe, because that there was preale of people in that place.

* Afterwarde, Jesus founde him in the temple and said vnto hi, behold thou art made whole syne no more, lest a worse thyng happen vnto the. The man departed and tolde the Jewes that it was Jesus which had made hym whole. I And therefore the Jewes dyd persecute Jesus, and soughte the meanes to slea hym, because he had donethese thinges on the Sabbath dayes.
And Jesus answered them: * My father worketh hitherto, and I worke. Therefore the Jewes soughte the more to kyll hym, not onely because he had broken the Sabbath: but sayde also that * God was his father, and made him selfe equall with God.

Then answered Jesus and sayd vnto them: Verily verily, I saye vnto you: the sonne can do nothing of him selfe, but that he seeth the father do. For whatsoeuer he doth, that doth the sonne also. For the father loueth the sonne, and bereweth him al thynges that he him selfe dorhe And he wyl shewe hym greater woorkes then these, because ye shulde maruaile. For lyke wise as the father raiseth vp the dead, & quickeneth them, euen so the sonne quickeneth whome he wyl. * Neither iudgeth the father any man: but hath committed all iudgement vnto the sonne, because that al men shoulde honoure the sonne, euen as they honour the father. He that honoreth not the sonne, the same honoureth not the father, which hath sent hym. Verily, verily, I say vnto you: he that heareth my word, and beleueth on him that sent me, hath euerlastyng lyfe, and shall not come into damnacion but is escaped from death vnto lyfe.

Verily, verily, I say vnto you: the houre shall come, and nowe is it, when the dead shall heare the voice of the sonne of God. And they shall liue. * For as the father hath lyfe in himselfe, so lyke wise hath he geuen to the sonne to haue lyfe in hym selfe: and hath geuen hym power also to iudge, because he is the sonne of man. Maruaile not at this: for the houre shall come, in the which al that are in the graues shall heare his voyce, and shall come forth: they that haue doone good, vnto the resurrection of lyfe: and they that haue doone euill, vnto the resurrection of damnacion. I

I can of my owne selfe do nothing. As I heare, I iudge, and my iudgement is iust, because I see not myne owne wyll, but the wyll of the father whiche hath sent me. * If I should beare wytnes of my selfe, my wytnes were not true. There is another that beareth wytnes of me: and I am sure, that he is wytnes whiche he beareth of me is true.

* He sent vnto Iohn, and he bare wytnes vnto the truth. But I receiue not the recozd of man.
Nevertheless, these thinges I say that ye might be safe. He was a burning and shynynge light and ye would for a season haue reioysed in his lyght. * But I haue greater wytnes, then the wytnes of Iohn. * For the workes whiche the father hath geuen me to finyssh, the same wor-kes that I do, beare wytnes of me, that the father hath sent me. And yf father him selfe whiche hath sent me hath borne wytnes of me. Ye haue not hearde his voyce at any tyme, nor sene his shape, his worde haue ye not aduocating in you.
For whom he hath sent him ye beleue not.

Search the scriptures, for in them ye shal ye haue eternall lyfe: and they are they whiche testifye of me. And yet ye wyl not come to me y ye might haue lyfe. I receiue not praise of men.
But I knowe you, that ye haue not the loue of God in you. I am come in my fathers name & ye receiue me not. If another come in his owne name, him wyl ye receiue: how can ye beleue whiche receiue honoure one of another, & seke not the honoure that cometh of God onely? Do not thynke that I wyl accuse you to my father.
There is one that accuseth you: euen Moses in whom ye trust. For had ye beleued Moses, ye would haue beleued me: for he is not of me. But ye be beleue not his wytynges: howe shal ye beleue my wordes. ¶

The vi. Chapter.

¶ Jesus seeth, v. thousand men, departed thence & they should not make him a kynge, and reproued the sicilly beares of his wordes. The carnal are offended at him.

¶ After these thynges * Jesus wote his way ouer the sea of Galyle, whiche is the sea of Tyberias: and a great multitude folowed hym, because they sawe his myracles whiche he dyd on the that were diseased. And Jesus went vnto a mountayn & ther he sat w his disciples.
And Easter, a feast of the Jewes was nye. ¶

* ¶ When Jesus then lyfte vp his eyes, and sawe a great company comyn vnto him, he sayth vnto Phylipp: whence shal we bye bread, that these may eate? Thys he sayd to proue him for he him selfe knewe, what he would do. Phylipp answered him: two hundred penyworth of bread are not sufficient for them: that euery man may take a lytle. One of his disciples: Andrew Symon Peters brother saith vnto him. There is a ladde here, whiche hath v. barley loaves & two fishes: but what are they among so many.
And Jesus sayd: Make the people to lyt downe.
There was muche grasse in that place. So the men sat downe in nombze, about fyue thousand.
And Jesus toke the breade. And when he had geat thanked, he gaue to his disciples, and the disciples to them that were set doune. And the wyll of the fishes as muche as they would.

¶ When they had eaten ynto the full, he sayeth vnto his disciples: gather vp the broken meate whiche remaineth, that nothing be lost. And they gathered it together, and fylled twelue bassinettes wyth the broken meate of the fyue barly loaves, whiche broken meate remained vnto them that had eaten. Then those menne (when they had sene the myracle that Jesus did sayd this is of a truth: the same prophete, that should come into the world. ¶

¶ When Jesus therfore perceyued that they would come and take him vp to make him a kynge, * he departed agayne into a mountayn hym selfe alone. * And when euen was nowe come, his disciples wente doune vnto the sea, and gat vp into a shyppe: and came ouer the sea vnto Capernaum. And it was nowe darke and Jesus was not come to them. And the sea aroose with a great wynd that blew. So when they had rowen about a. xiiij. or. xxiij. forlonges they sawe Jesus walkynge on the sea and drawynge vnto the shyppe, & they were afrayde.
But he sayeth vnto the: It is I, be not afrayd.
Then would they haue receyued hym into the shyppe, and immediatly the shyppe was at the land, whether they went.

¶ The day folowynge, when the people whiche stode on the other side of the sea sawe that there was none other shyppe there, save y one where into his disciples were entred, and that Jesus went not wyth his disciples into the shyppe but that his disciples were gone awaye alone (howbeit, ther came other shippes from Tyberias, nye vnto the place where they dyd cate breade, after that the Lord had geuen shales) when the people therfore sawe that Jesus was not there neither dys disciples, they also toke shippynge, & came to Capernaum, sekyng for Jesus. And when they had founde hym on the other syde of the sea, they sayd vnto him: Rab-by, when comest thou hether? Jesus answered them, and sayd: Verely, verely, I say vnto you ye seke me, not because ye sawe the myracles, but because ye dyd eat of the loaves & were fylled. ¶ Labour not for y meate whiche perissheth but for that whiche endureth vnto euertlastynge lyfe, whiche meate the sonne of man shal geue vnto you. For hym hath God the father sealed.
Then sayd they vnto him: what shall we do y

¶ we myght worke the workes of God? Jesus answered and sayd vnto them: this is y worke of God that ye beleue on him, whom he hath sent. They sayd therfore vnto him: * what shal we do then, that we may se, and beleue the? What doest thou worke? Dure sa-thers dyd cate Hanna in the deserte, as it is wyrtten. He gaue them y breade from heauen to eat. Then Jesus sayd vnto the: verely, verely, I say vnto you: Moses gaue you not that breade from heauen: but my father geneth you the true breade from heauen. For the breade of God is he which cometh downe fro heauen, & gracy

and geneth lyfe vnto the world.

Then sayd they vnto hym: Howe canst thou saye this? For thou sayest vnto them: I am the bread of lyfe. Whiche commeth to me shal not hunger: & he that belongeth to me shal neuer thurst. But I say vnto you: that ye al so haue sent me, and yet ye beleue not. All that the father geneth me shal come to me: and him that commeth to me, I cast not away. For I am come downe from heauen: & not to do that I wyl but that he wyl, whiche hath sent me. And this is the fathers wyl whiche hath sent me, that of all whiche he hath geuen me, I shal lose nothing: but rayse them vp agayne, at the last daye. And this is the wyl of him that sent me that every one whiche seeth the sonne & beleueth on him haue euerylastyng life. And I wil rayse him vp at the last daye. The Jewes then murmured at him, because he sayd I am the breade (sayde) whiche came downe from heauen. And they sayd: Is not this Iesus the sonne of Ioseph, whose father and mother we knowe? Howe is it then that he sayeth, I came downe from heauen? Iesus answered and sayd vnto them: murmure not among your selues.

* No man can come to me, excepte the father whiche hath sent me draw him: And I wil rayse him vp at the last daye. It is written in the Prophetes: * and they shal be al taught of God. Every man therfore that hath heard, and hath learned of the father, commeth vnto me.

* Not that any man hath sene the father save he whiche is of God, the same hath sene the father. Verely, verely I say vnto you: he that putteth his trust in me, hath euerylastyng life. I am that bread of lyfe. Your fathers dyd eat Manna in the wyldernes, and are dead. This is that breade, whiche commeth downe from heauen, that a man may eat thereof, and not dye. I am that living breade, which came downe from heauen. If any man eat of this breade: he shal lyue forever.

* And I breade that I wyl geue is my fleshe whiche I wyl geue for the lyfe of the world.

The Jewes therfore strone among them selues, sayng: Howe can this fellowe geue vs that fleshe of his to eat, Then Iesus sayed vnto them: Verely, verely, I say vnto you: excepte ye eate the fleshe of the sonne of man and drinke his blood: ye haue no life in you. Who so eateth my fleshe and drynketh my bloode, hath eternall life, & I wil raise him vp at the last daye. For my fleshe is meat in dede: & my blood is drynke in dede. He that eateth my fleshe and drynketh my blode dwelleth in me, and I in hym. As the living father hath sent me, and I lyue for the father: Even so he that eateth me shal lyue by the meanes of me. This is the breade whiche came downe from heauen: not as your fathers dyd eate Manna, and are dead. He that eateth of this breade, shal lyue euer.

These thynges sayd he in the Synagoge, as he taught in Capernaum. Many therfore of his disciples when they had heard this, sayed: this is an harde saying: who can abide the hearing of it? Iesus knewe in him selfe, that his disciples murmured at it: and he sayde vnto them: Doth this offende you? What and if ye shall see that sonne of man ascende vp whether whither he was before? It is the spiryte that quickeneth the fleshe profiteth nothing. The wordes the I speke vnto you are spiryte and lyfe. But there are some of you that beleue not. For Iesus knewe from the beginning, whyche they were, that beleued not and who should betray him. And he said, therfore sayd I vnto you that * no man can come vnto me, excepte it were geuen vnto hym of my father. From that tyme many of his disciples went backe, and folowe hym, and walked nomore with him. Then sayed Iesus to the xii. wyl ye also go a way, Then Symon Peter answered hym: Lord to whom shal we goe? Thou hast the wordes of eternall lyfe, & we beleue and are sure that thou arte Christ the sonne of the living God. Iesus answered them: Have not I chosen you twelve, & one of you is a deuyll, he spake of Judas Iscariot the sonne of Simo. For he it was that should betray hym, being one of the twelve.

The vii. Chapter.

Christ cometh to Ierusalem at the feast, teacheth & Iheros reprocheth them. There are dyuers opinions of hym among the people. The Pharisees rebuke & offende, because they haue not brought him, and they with Nicodemus for taking his passe

After these thynges, Iesus went a bout in Galile: for he would not go aboute in Ieruzalem because that the Jewes sought to kyl hym. The Jewes feast of tabernacles was at hande. Hys bretheren therfore sayed vnto hym get the hence, and go into Ieruzalem. that thy disciples also may see thy workes that thou doest. For there is no man that doth any thyng in secret, and he him selfe seeketh to be knowne openly. If thou do suche thynges, shewe thy selfe to the world. For his bretheren beleued not in him.

Then Iesus sayd vnto them: My tyme is not yet come: but your tyme is alwaye readye. The world can not hate you: But me it hateth because I testyfy of it, that the workes there of are euyl: go ye vp vnto this feast, I wyl not goo vp yet vnto this feast, for my tyme is not yet full come. When he had sayde these wordes vnto them, he abode styll in Galile. But as soon as his bretheren were come, then wente he vp al so vnto the feast, not openly, but as it were secretly. Then sought the Jewes hym at the feast and sayed, * where is he? And muche murmuring was there of hym among the people. For some sayed: he is good, other sayde naye, but he deceiveth the people. How be it? no man spake openly of hym, for feare of the Jewes.

Now when halfe of the feast was done Iesus went vp into the temple, and taughte. And the Jewes merueilled sayng: how knoweth he the scriptures, sayng that he neuer learned? Iesus answered them & sayd: My doctrine is not mine: but his father sent me. If any man wil be obedient vnto his wil, he shal knowe of the doctrine whether it be of God, or whether I speke of my my life. he that speaketh of hym selfe, secketh his owne praple. But he that secketh his praple that sent hym, the same is true, and no unright-tousnes is in hym.

* Wdy not Moses geue you a law, and yet none of you heareth the law? Why go ye about to kyl me? The people answered & said: Thou hast the deuyl: who goeth aboute to kyl the Iesus answered, and sayd vnto them: I haue done one worke and ye al maruell. Moses therfore gaue vnto you circumcision not because it is of Moses: but of fathers. And yet ye on sabboth day, circumsise a man. If a man on the sabboth day receyue circumcision, wpythout breaking of the lawe of Moses, why despayn ye at me because I haue made a manne euerpe whyt hole, on the sabboth day? Judge not after the vtyer apereance, but iudge with a righteous iudgement.

Then sayd some of them of Ierusalem: is not this he, whom they go aboute to kyl? But loo, he speaketh boldly, and they sape nothyng to hym. Do the rulers knowe in dede, that this is very Christ? Howbeit we knowe this manne whence he is: but when Christ cometh, no man knoweth whence he is. Then cried Iesus in the temple (as he taught) sayeng ye doth knowe me and whence I am, ye know. I am not come of my self but he that sent me is true, whom ye know not. But I knowe him. (And if I say that I knowe him not, I shal be a lyar vnto you, but I knowe hym.) for I am of hi, and he hath set me. * Then they sought to take hym, but no man layed handes on hym, because his houre was not yet come.

Many of the people beleued on hym, I sayd when Christ cometh, wyl he dooe any mo myracles then these that this man hath done?

The pharyses heard that the people murmured such thynges concernyng hym. * And the pharyses and hyr pyestes sente mynsters to take him. Then sayd Iesus vnto them: Yet am I a lytle whyle with you: and then go I vnto hym that sent me. Ye shall seke me and shal not fynd me: and where I am, thyeher can ye not come. The sayd the Jewes among them selues Whether wyl he goo, that we shall not fynde hym? Wyl he go among the Gentyles (which are scattered abrode) and teache the Gentiles?
What a manner of sayng is this that he said, ye shall seke me, and shall not fynde me: and wher I am thyeher can ye not come.

In the last daye, that great daye of the feast Iesus stode & cryed sayng: if any man thyrst let hym come vnto me, and drynke. He that beleueth on me (as sayth the scripture) out of his bellye shall flowe ryuers of water of life. But this spake he of the spyrte, whiche they that beleue on hym, shoulde receyue. For the holpe ghoste was not yet there, because Iesus was not yet glorified.

* Wanye of the people therfore (when they hearde thys sayng) sayd: of a trauthe this is a prophete: but other sayd: thys is Christ: But some sayd: shall Christ come out of Galyle?
Wdy not the scripture that Christ shal come of the seede of Dauid: and out of the tounne of Bethlerem, wher Dauid was? So was there discrecion amonge the people because of hym.

And some of them would haue taken hym, but no man layed handes on hym. Then came the mynistres to the hygh priestes and Pharises: And they sayd vnto theym: Why haue ye not brought hym? The mynistres answered: neuer man spake as thys man doth. Then answered them the Pharises: are ye also discryued? Doth any of the rulers or of the Pharises beleue on hym? But this common people whiche knowe not the lawe, are a cursed. Nichodemus saythe vnto them: (he that came to Iesus by nyghte, and was one of them) Doth our lawe indige-ny man, befoze it heare hym, and knowe what he hath done? They answered and sayd vnto him: act thou also of Galile: Search and loke.
For out of Galile ariseth no prophet. And eue-ry man wente vnto his owne house.

¶ The vii. Chapter.

A woman is taken in aduouty. Christ belongeth her. The freedom of such as followe Christ, whom they accuse to haue the deuyll within hym, and go about to dooe hym.

Iesus wente vnto mounte Oluet and earlye in the moynyng he came agayne into the Temple, and al the people came vnto hym, and he sape doune and taught them. And the Scribes and Pharises broughte vnto him a woman taken in aduouty, and when they had set her in the myddest, they said vnto him: Master this woman was taken in aduouty, euen as the dede was a doynge. * Moses in the lawe commaunded vs, that such should be stoned. But what sayest thou? This they said to tempt him that they might accuse him. But Iesus stooped downe and with his finger wrote on the grounde. So when they continued askyng him, he lyft hym selfe vp and sayd vnto them: let him that is amonge you withoute synne cast the fyrst stone at her. And againe he stouped doune, and wrote on the grounde. And as sone as they herde thys they went out one by one, beginnyng at the eldest. And Iesus was left alone, and the womā standing in the myddes. When Iesus had lyft vp hym selfe, and saue no man, but the woman he sayde to her: woman where are those thyne accusers? hath no man condemned the? She saide no man, Lorde. And Iesus sayd. Neether do I condemne the, Go and syn no more.

* Then spake Iesus again vnto theym say-eng: I am the lyght of the world. He that folloeth me, doth not walke in darkenes, but shal haue the lyght of lyfe. The pharises therfore said vnto hi: thou bearest record of thy selfe, thy record is not true. Iesus answered & sayd vnto them: though I beare recorde of my selfe, yet my record is true: for I knowe whence I came and whither I go. But ye cannot tel whence I came, and whither I go, ye iudge after the flesh I iudge nomā. And if I iudge, my iudgement is true. For I am not alone: but I and the father that sent me. It is also wrytten in poure lawe, that the testimony of two men is true.

¶ The viii. Chapter.

I am one that beareth witness of my selfe, and the father that sent me, beareth witness of me. Then sayd they vnto him: where is thy father? Jesus answered: ye neither knowe me, nor yet my father. If ye had knowen me, ye should haue knowen my father also. These wordes spake Jesus in the temple, as he taught in the temple, and no man layde handes on him: for his hour was not yet come.

John. 8. 12. and 13. 1.

Then sayd Jesus agayne vnto them, I go my way, and ye shall see me, and shall dye in your synnes. Whether I go, thither can ye not come. Then sayd the Jewes: wylle he kill him selfe, because he sayeth: whether I go, thither can ye not come? And he sayd vnto them: ye are from beneath, I am from above. Ye are of this worlde, I am not of this worlde. I sayd therefore vnto you, that ye shall dye in your synnes. For if ye beleue not that I am he, ye shall dye in your synnes.

Then sayd they vnto him: Who art thou? And Jesus sayd vnto the: euen the very same thyng that I spake vnto you, I haue many thynges to say, & to iudge of you. Yea, & he that sent me is true. And I spake in this worlde those thynges whiche I haue heard of him. Howbeit they vnderstode not that he spake of his father. Then sayd Jesus vnto the, when ye haue lyfte vp an hylde the sonne of man, then shall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of my selfe but as my father hath taught me, euen so I spake these thynges, & he that sent me, is with me. The father hath not left me alone, for I do alwayes those thynges that please him. As he spake these wordes, many beleued on him.

Then sayd Jesus to those Jewes, whiche beleued on him. If ye continue in my word, the are ye my very disciples, and ye shall knowe the truth, and the truth shall make you free. They answered him: We be Abrahams seede, & were neuer bond to any man, howe canest thou then say that we shall be made free?

Jesus answered them: Verely verely, I say vnto you, that whosoever commytteth synne is the seruauant of synne. And the seruauant abydeth not in the house for euer. But the sonne abydeth euer. If the sonne therefore shall make you free, then are ye free in deede. I knowe that ye are Abrahams seede, but ye seke meanes to kill me, because my worde hath no place in you. I spake & whiche I haue sene with my father, and ye do that whiche ye haue sene with your father. They answered & sayd vnto him: Abraham is our father. Jesus sayd vnto them: If ye were Abrahams chylde, ye wold do the dedes of Abraham. But now ye go about to kill me a man that hath told you the truth, whiche I haue heard of God: this do ye not Abraham. Ye do the dedes of your father. Then sayd they to him: he were not borne of fornicacyon. We haue one father euen God. Jesus sayd vnto the: If God were your father, truly ye wold loue me. For I proceeded forth, and came from God: neither came I of my selfe, but he sent me. Why do ye not know my speche? Euen because ye can not abyde the hearing of my worde.

Ye are of your father the deuil, and the lustes of your fathers wylle ye serue. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lyke, he speaketh of his owne: for he is a lyer, & the father of the same thyng. And because I tell you the trouth, therefore ye beleue me not. Whiche of you rebuleth me of synne. If I do say the trouth, why do ye not beleue me? He that is of God, heareth Goddes wordes. Ye therefore heare the not, because ye are not of God. Then answered the Jewes, and sayd vnto him: Say we not wel: that thou art a Samaritan, and hast the deuil? Jesus answered: I haue not the deuil, but I honour my father, and ye haue dishonoured me. I seke not myne owne praple, there is one that sekerh & iudgeth verely verely, I say vnto you, if a man kepe my sayng: he shall neuer see death. Then sayd the Jewes vnto him: How knowe we that thou hast the deuil? Abraham is dead, and the Prophetes, and thou sayest: if a man kepe my sayng, he shall neuer taste of death. Art thou greater then our father Abraham, whiche is dead, and the Prophetes are dead? I do make thee thy selfe: Jesus answered: If I honour my selfe, my honour is nothing. It is my father that honoureth me, whiche ye say, is your God, and yet ye haue not knowen him: but I knowe him. And if I say: I knowe him not, I shall be a lyar lyke vnto you. But I knowe him and kepe his sayng.

Your father Abraham was glad to se my daye: and he sawe it, and reioyced. Then sayd the Jewes vnto him: thou art not yett ystie yeare olde, and hast thou sene Abraham? Jesus sayd vnto them: Verely, verely I say vnto you, your father was borne, & I am. Then toke they vp stones to cast at him: But Jesus byd him selfe, and went out of the temple.

THE II. CHAPTER.

Christ maketh the blind to see that was borne blynde.

AS Jesus passed by, he sawe a man whiche was blynde from his birth. And his disciples asked him sayng: Master who dyd synne, this manne, or his father and mother, that he was borne blynde? Jesus answered: neither hath this manne synned nor yet his father and mother: but that the workes of God should be shewed in him. I must worke the workes of him that sent me, while it is daye. The nyght cometh, when no man can worke. As long as I am in the worlde, I am the lyght of the worlde.

As he thus spoken, he spat on the grounde, and made claye of the spittle, & rubbed the clay on the eyes of the blynde, and sayd vnto him: Go, washe thein the pole of Siloe whiche (by interpretation) is as muche to say, as sent. He went his way therefore, and washed and came againe sayng: Nowe the neighbours & they that had sene him before (how that he was a begger a beggar) sayde: Is not this he that sat a begged? Some sayde: this is he. Agayne, other sayde: no, for he is lyke hym.

¶ He hym selfe sayde: I am euen he. Therfore sayde they vnto hym: Howe are thine eyes opened? he answered and sayde: The man that is called Iesus, made claye, and anointed mine eyes, and sayd vnto me: Go to the poole Siloe and wash. And when I went and washed, I re-ceyued my syghte. Then sayde they vnto him where is he? he sayde I cannot tell.

¶ They brought to pharises, hym that a lyt-tell before was blynde: and it was the * Sab-both daye, when Iesus made claye, and opened his eyes. Then agayne the pharises also asked hym, howe he had receiued his syghte. he sayde vnto them, he put clay vpon myne eyes, and I washed and doo see. Therfore sayde some of the pharises: this man is not of God, because he keepeth not the Sabbath daye. Other sayde, * howe can a man that is a sinner do suche impious? And there was a strife among the. Thei spake vnto the blynde man agayne. What faileth thou of hym, whiche hath opened thine eyes? he sayde: * he is a prophete.

¶ But the Jewes did not beleue of the mā (how that he had ben blynde, and receiued his syghte) vntill they called the father and mother of him that had receyued his syghte. And they asked them sayng: Ps thys youre sonne whom you saye was borne blynde? howe both he nowe se then? his father and mother answered them, and sayde: we knowe that this is our sonne, & that he was borne blynde, but by what meanes he nowe seeth we cannot tell: Of who hath opened his eyes, ca not we tel. he is olde ynough aske hym, let hym answer for him selfe. Suche wordes spake his father & mother, because they feared the Jewes. For the Jewes had conspy-red already that if any man dyd confesse that he was Christ, * he shuld bee communicate out of the Synagoge. Therfore sayde his father and mother he is olde ynough, aske hym.

¶ Then agayne called they the man that was blind, and sayd vnto him: Seue God the praise we knowe that this mā is a synner. he answered therfore, and sayde: Whether he be a synner or no, I can not tell. One thyng I am sure of that where as I was blynde nowe I see. Then sayde they to hym agayne. What dyd he do to the? howe opened he thine eyes? he answered them I tolde you per whyle, ye dyd not heare, wherefore wolde ye heare it agayne? will ye also bee his dysciples? Then rated they him, and sayd, We thou his disciple. We are Moses disciples.
We are sure that God spake vnto Moses. As for this felowe, we knowe not fro whence he is.

¶ The man answered, and sayde vnto them I thys is a maruelous thyng, that ye wot not fro whence he is, and yet he hath opened myne eyes For we be sure, that God heareth not synners.
But if any man be a worshipper of God, and obedient vnto his will, hym heareth he. Hence the worlde began, was it not hearde, that any man opened y eyes of one that was borne blynde

¶ These manne were not of God, he could haue done nothing. They answered, and sayde vnto hym: thou arte all together borne in synne, and dost thou teach vs? And they cast hym out.

¶ Iesus heard that they had excommunicate hym, and when he had found hym, he sayd vnto hym, dost thou beleue on the sone of God? he answered & sayde: who is it Lord that I might beleue on him. And Iesus said vnto him. Thou hast sent hym, * and he it is that talketh wyth the. And he sayde: Lord I beleue, and he worshipped hym. ¶ And Iesus sayde vnto hym: I am come vnto iudgement into this worlde, that they whiche se not, myghte se: and they whiche se, might be made blind. And some of the pharises whiche were with hym, heard these wor-des and sayd vnto him: are we blynde also? Jesus sayd vnto the. * If ye were blynde, ye shuld haue no synne. But nowe ye say, we se: therfore your synne remaineth.

¶ The .x. Chapter. ¶

¶ Christe the true shepheard, & the doer of the shepe, he telleth the truth, and therefore the Jewes take up stones to cast at hym, and call his preaching blasphemy and go aboute to take hym.

¶ Truly verely, I say vnto you he that entreteth not in by the doore into the shepfold, but climeth vp some other way, the same is a thefe and a mur-derer. But he that entreteth in by the doore, is the shepheard of the shepe, to him the porter openeth, and the shepe here his voice, and he callith his own shepe by name, and ledeth them out: And whē he hath sent forth his own shepe, he goth before them and the shepe folow him, for they knowe his voice. A straunger wyl they not folow, but wil fle from him: for they knowe not the voice of strangers. This prouerbe spake Iesus vnto the. But they vnderstode not what thynges they were, whiche he spake vnto them.
¶ Then sayde Iesus vnto them agayne, Truly verely, I say vnto you, * I am the doore of the shepe. ¶ I, euen as many as come before me, are theues and murderers: but the shepe dyd not heare them. I am the doore, by me if any manne enter in, he shal be safe, and shall go in and oute and fynd pasture. ¶ I these cometh not but for to steale, kylle, and to destroye. ¶ I am come that they myght haue lyfe, & that they mighte haue it more abundantly. ¶

¶ I am * the good shepheard. ¶ A good shep-heard graunteth his life for the shepe. ¶ In hyzed seruaunte and he whych is not the shepheard (neyther the shepe are his owne) seeth the wolfe com-yng, and leueth the shepe, and flyeth, and the wolfe catcheth and scattereth the shepe. The bired seruaunte flyeth, because he is an hired seruaunte, and careth not for the shepe. I am the good shepheard, and * knowe my shepe, and am known of myne. * As my father knoweth me, euen so knowe I also my father. And * I geue my lyfe for the shepe: and other shepe I haue whiche are not of this folde. ¶ Them also muste I sayng, and they shall here my voyce, & there shal be one folde and one shepheard. ¶

¶ Therfore doth my father loue me, because ¶ I put

The Gospel.

I put my life from me, that I might take it againe. No man taketh it from me, but I put it away of my selfe. I have power to put it from me, and I have power to take it againe. This commandement haue I receiued of my father. There was a discorde therefore agayne among the Jewes for these saynges, and many of the sayde: * He hath the deuill, & is mad, why heare ye hym? Other sayd, these are not the wordes of hym that hath the deuill. Can the deuill open the eyes of the blynde?

E And it was at Ierusalem the feaste of the dedication, and it was winter, and Iesus walke in the temple, euen in Salomons porch. Then came the Jewes round aboute him, and sayde vnto hym, howe longe dost thou make vs doute? If thou be Christus, tell vs plainly. Iesus answered them, I saide you and you beleue not. The workes that I do in my fathers name, they beare witness of me. But ye beleue not, because ye are not of my shepe. As I sayde vnto you, my shepe heare my voyce. And I know them, and they folow me. I geue vnto them eternal life, and they shal neuer perishe, neither shal any man plucke the out of my hand. My father which geue the me, is greater then all, and no man is able to take them out of my fathers hande. I and my father are one.

* Then the Jewes agayne toke vp stones, to stone hym withal. Iesus answered them, many good workes haue I shewed you from my father, for which of them do you stone me? The Jewes answered hym sayng. For thy good workes sake we stone the not: but for thy blasphemie, and because that thou being a manne, makest thy selfe God. Iesus answered them, Is it not written in your lawe? I sayde, ye are goddes. If he called the goddes, vnto whom the worde of God was spoken (and the scripture can not be broken concernyng him, whome the father hath sanctified, and sente into the worlde) Do ye say that I blaspheme? because I sayde I am the sonne of God? If I doo not the workes of my father, beleue me not. But if I do, and if ye beleue not me, beleue the workes that ye may knowe, and beleue that the father is in me, and I in hym. I * Agayne they went aboute to take him, & he escaped out of their hande, and went away agayne beyonde Iordane into the place where Iohn before had baptised, and there he abode. And many resorted vnto him, and sayd, Thou byd no miracle, but all thynges which Iohn spake of this man were true. And many beleued on him there.

The xi. Chapter.

¶ Child reserued Lazarus from death. The disciples who were gathered about him, he getteth him out of the ma.

Certaine man was syche, named Lazarus of Bethania the town of mari, & her sister Martha. It was that Mary which anointed Iesus with oymment, and wiped his feete with her heare, whose brother Lazarus was syche. Therefore, his sisters sent vnto hym, saying: Lorde, beholde he whome thou louest is syche. When Iesus heard that, he sayd this in symple is not vnto death: but for the ppyse of God, that the son of God might be ppyssed by the reasyn of it. Iesus loued Martha and her sister and Lazarus. When he had heard therefore that he was syche, he abode two dayes still in the same place where he was.

¶ Then after that, said he to his disciples: let vs go into Ieremy agayne. His disciples sayde vnto hym: Master, the Jewes lately sought to stone the, and wilt thou go thither agayne? Iesus answered: are there not xii. houres of the daye? If a man walke in the day he shal not beleeue, because he seeth the lycht of this world. But if a man walke in the night he shal beleeue, because there is no lycht in hym. This sayde he, and after that he sayd vnto them, our frend Lazarus slepeth, but I go to wake him out of slepe. Then sayde his disciples: Lorde, if he slepe, he shall doo well ynough. Howbeit Iesus spake of his death, but they thought he had spoken of the naturall slepe. Then said Iesus vnto them plainly: Lazarus is dead, and I am glad for your sakes, that I was not there, because ye may beleue. Neuerthelesse, let vs go vnto hym. Then sayde Thomas (whiche is called Didimus) vnto the disciples: let vs also go, that we may dye with hym. Then wente Iesus, and found that he had lye in his graue foure dayes already. Bethany was nigh to Ierusalem, about. x. furlonges of, and many of the Jewes came to Martha and mary to comforte them ouer their brother. Martha asone as she harde that Iesus was comyng, wente and met hym, but mary sat styl in the house.

* Then sayde Martha vnto Iesus: Lorde, if thou haddest bene here, my brother had not dyed: neuerthelesse, nowe I knowe that what soeuer thou shalst of God, God wil geue it the. Iesus sayeth vnto her: Thy brother shal rylse agayne. Martha sayeth vnto hym, I knowe that he shal rylse agayne in the resurrection at the last day: Iesus saith vnto her: I am the resurrection and the life: he that beleueth on me, yet though he were dead, yet shal he lyue. And whosoever lyueth and beleueth on me shal neuer dye: beleuest thou this? She sayde vnto hym: yea Lorde, I beleue that thou arte Christus the sonne of God, whiche shouldest come into the worlde. ¶ And asone as she had so sayde, she went her way, & called Mary her sister secretly, sayng: The Master is come, and calleth for the. Asone as she heard that, she arose quickly & came vnto hym. Iesus was not yet come in to the towne, but was in the place where Martha mette hym. The Jewes then whiche were with her in the house and comforted her, (when they sawe Mary that she rose vp hastily, and went out) folowed her sayng, She goeth vnto the graue to wepe ther.

¶ Then when Mary was come where Iesus was, and sawe hym, she commaundeth vnto his feete, and sayeth vnto hym: Lorde, if thou haddest bene here, my brother had not bene dead.

When

When Iesus therfoze sawe her wepe ( and the Iewes also weeping whiche came with her ) he groined in the spirit, and was troubled within hym selfe, and sayde where haue ye layed hym?
Thei sayd vnto him, lord come and se. And Jesus wept. Then said the Iewes: beholde how he loued him. And some of them sayd: could not he whiche opened the eyes of the blynde, haue made also, that this man should not haue dyed?
Iesus therfoze agayne groined in hym selfe, and came to the graue. It was a caue, and a stone layed on it. Iesus saied take ye away the stone.
Martha the sister of hym that was dead, sayd vnto hym, Lord by this time he stinketh. For he hath bene dead. iiii. dayes. Iesus sayd vnto her, sayd I not vnto the, that if thou dydest belene, thou shouldst se the glozy of God? The they toke away the stone from the place where he that had ben dead, was layd. And Iesus lifte vp his eyes, and sayde. Father, I thanke the, that thou hast hearde me. howebeit, I knowe, that thou hearest me alwayes, but because of the people whiche stande by: I said it that they maye belene, that thou hast sent me.

And when he had thus spoken, he cried with a loud voyce: Lazarus come forth. And he that was dead came forth, bounde hande and foote wth graue clothes, and his face was bounde with a naphyn. Iesus said vnto them, loe him and let him go. Then many of the Jewes which came to Mary and had sene the thinges which Iesus dyd, beleued on hym. ¶ But some of the Jewes went their wayes to the wharflies, and tolde them what Iesus had done.

† Then gathered the high priestes and the Pharisees a councell, and sayde: * What do we for this man dothe many myracles. If we let him scape thus, al men wyl beleue on hym, and the Romaynes shal come, and take away both our rourne and the people. And one of them named Caiphas (beinge the hygh priest the same yere) layed vnto them: ye perceyue nothinge at all, nor consyder, that * it is expedient for vs, that one ma dye for the people, and not that all the people perishe. This spake he not of himselfe but beinge hye priest that same yere, he prophesie-ed that Iesus should dye for the people and not for the people only, but that he shuld gather together in one the Chyldren of God, that were scattered abroade. * Then from that daye furth they toke coucel together for to put him to death.

Jesus therefore walked nomoze openlye among the Jewes, but went his way thence vnto a countrey nyghe to a wildernes, into a citie whiche is called Ephraim, and there continued with his disciples: And the Jewes Easter was nyghe at hand and many went out of the countrey vnto Ierusalem before the Easter to purtype them selues. Then sought they for Iesus and spake among them selues as they stood in the temple: What * thynke ye, sayng he cometh not to the fest day: The high prestes and pharises * had geuen a commaundement, that if any man knew where he were, he shuld shew it, that they myght take him. ¶

Then Iesus the daies before Easter) came to Bethany, where Lazarus had ben dead, whom he raised from death. There they made hym a supper, and Martha serued, but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table wth hym. * Then toke Mary a pound of oynment (called Nardus, perfect and precious) and anointed Iesus feete, and wiped hys feete with her heare, and the house was filled wth the odour of the oynment. * Then sayde one of hys disciples (euen Iudas Iscarioth Symons sonne, whiche afterwarde betrayed hym) why was not this oynment solde for thre hundred pence and geuen to the pooze? This he sayd, not that he cared for the pooze, but because he was a theefe and had the bagge, and bare that which was geuen. Then sayd Iesus, let her a lone, a gainst the daie of my burying hath she kepte this. For the pooze alwayes shall ye haue with you, but me haue ye not alwaye.

Each people of the Jewes therefore had knowledg that he was there. And they came not for Jesus sake only, but that they myght se Lazarus also * whome he rayled from deathe. But the hye prestes helde a counsell, that they might put Lazarus to death also, because that for his sake many of the Jewes went away and beleued on Jesus. ¶

* On the next daye muche people that were came to the feaste, when they herde that Iesus should come to Ierusalem, toke bzaunches of palmes trees, and went forth to meet hym, and cryed. Hosanna, & blessed is he that in the name of the Lorde, cometh kyng of Israell. And Jesus got a yong asse, and sat thereon, as it is written, & feare not daughter of Sion, beholde, thy kyng cometh sytting on an asses colt. These thynges vnderstode not hys disciples at the first, but when Iesus was glorified, then remembered they that suche thynges were wyrtten of hym, and that suche thynges they had done vito hym. The people that was with him, when he called Lazarus out of his graue, and rased hym fro death, bare recorde. Therefore met him the people also, because they heard that he had done such a miracle. The pharisees therefore said among them selues: perceiue ye not, how we preuaile nothing? beholde (all the while) would goeth after hym.

* There were certayne Seekers among them that came to worshyppe at the feaste: the same came therefore to Philip (whiche was of Bethsaida a cite of Galyle) and despyed hym sayng Dyz, we wolde sayne thee Iesus. Philip came and tolde Andrew. And agayne Andrew and Philip tolde Iesus. And Iesus answered the sayng * the hour is come, that the sonne of man muste be glorified.

✠ Merely verely, I saye vnto you: excepte the wheat corne fall into the ground and dye, it byrdeth alone. If it dye, it bringeth forth manie fruite

frayte. * he that loueth his lyfe, shall destroye ye: and he that hateth his lyfe, in this worlde, shal kepe it vnto lyfe eternall. If any man mynyster vnto me, let hym folowe me, and * wher I am, there shall also my mynyster bee. If any man mynyster vnto me, hym wyll my father ho-noure. I.

Howe is my folle troubled, and what shall I saye: rather, deliuer me from this howre: but therfore came I into this howre. Rather glozifye thy name. Then came there a voyce from heauen, sayng: I haue both glozified it and wyll glozifye it agayne. The people therfore that stode by and heard it said that it thundered. Ouder sayed, an Angell spake to hym: Jesus answered and sayd, this voyce came not because of me, * but for your sakes.

Howe is the iudgement of this worlde: * nowe shall the prynce of this worlde be caste oute. And I (yf I were lyft vp from the earth) wyll drawe al manne vnto me. Thys he sayed signifyingng what death he shuld dye. The people answered hym: We haue hearde oute of the lawe: that Christ bideth for ever: and how say-est thou the sonne of manne muste be lyfte vp? who is that sonne of man? Then Jesus sayed vnto them: yet a lytle while is the lyght wyl be with you. * Walke while you haue lyght: lest the darknes come on you. he that walketh also in the darke, woteth not whither he goeth. Whilye haue lyght, beleue on the lyght that ye maye be the children of the lyght. I.

These thynges spake Jesus and departed, and byd hym selfe from them. But though he had done so many myracles before them, yet be-leued not they on hym, that the sayng of Esai-as the prophete myght be fulfilled; whiche he spake: * Lorde, who shall beleue oure sayng?
And to whom is the arme of the lorde declared therfore coude they not beleue, because that Esaias sayeth: agayne he hath blinded theyr eyes, & hardened theyr hert: that they shuld not see with theyr eyes, and least they shoulde vnderstande with theyr herte, and shoulde be conuerted, and I shuld heale the. Suche thynges said Esaias, when he sawe his glozy, and spake of him neuerthelesse, among the chyefe rulers also, many beleued on hym. But (because of the pharisees) they woulde not be knowen of it * least they shoulde be excommunicat. * For they loued the prayse of menne more then the prayse of god. Jesus cryed, and sayde: he that beleueth on me, beleueth not on me, but on him that sent me. And he that seeth me, seeth him that sent me.
* I am come a light into the worlde that who soeuer beleueth on me, shuld not hyde in darkenes. And yf any man heare my wordes, and beleue not, I iudge hym not. For I came not to iudge the worlde but to save the worlde. wherrefuseth he, and receaueth not my wordes, hath one that iudgeth hym. The worde that I haue spoken, the same shal iudge him in the last day.
For I haue not spoken of my selfe: but the father which sent me: he gaue me a commaundement what I shoulde saye and what I shoulde speake.

And I knowe that his commaundement is lyfe euerlastyng. Whatsoeuer I speake therfore, euen as the father had me, so I speake. I.

The xiii. Chapter.

Howe washeth the disciples fete: telleth theym of Judas the traitour and commaundeth them earnestly to loue one another.

BEfore the feaste of Easter, when Jesus knewe that his howre was come that he shoulde depart out of this worlde vnto the father. When he loued hym whiche were in the worlde, vnto the ende he lou-ed them. And when supper was ended, after that the dyuell had put in the herte of Judas Icarioth Simons sonne, to betray him Jesus knowing that * the father had geuen al thynges into his handes, and that he was come from God, and wente to God: he rose from supper, & laid aside his vpper garmentes: and when he had taken a towell, he girded him selfe. After that he poured water into a bason, and began to washe the disciples fete, & to wyppen theym with the towell, wherwith he was girded.

Then came he to Simon Peter. And Peter sayed vnto hym: Lorde, dost thou washe my fete? Jesus answered & sayed vnto him. What I do, thou wotest not nowe, but thou shalt knowe hereafter. Peter sayeth vnto him: thou shalt neuer washe my fete, Jesus answered hym. If I washe the not, thou shalt haue no parte with me.
Simon Peter sayeth vnto hym. Lorde, not my fete only but also the handes and the heades. Jesus sayeth to him: he that is washed, needeth not, save to washe his fete but is cleane euery whyle. And ye are cleane, * but not all. For he knewe who it was that shoulde betraye hym.
Therfore sayd he: ye are not al cleane. So after he had washed their fete, and receyued his clothes & was set down he said vnto them agayne: wote ye what I haue doone to you? Ye call me Mastyer and Lorde and ye saye well, for so am I. If then your Lord and Master haue washed your fete, ye also ought to wahe one anothers fete. For I haue geuen you an ensample that ye shoulde do, as I haue done to you. Verely verely, I saye vnto you, the seruante is not greater then his master, neither the messenger greater then he that sent hym.

If ye vnderstande these thynges * happy are ye, yf ye do the. I speake not of you all. I know whom I haue chosen. But that the scripture maye be fulfilled, * he that eateth breade with me hath lyfte vp his hele agaynst me. Nowe tell I you before it come, that when it is come to passe, ye myght beleue that I am he. Verely verely, I saye vnto you, * he that receaueth whom soeuer I sende, receaueth me. And he that receaueth me, receaueth hym that sent me.

When Jesus had thus sayd, he was troubled in spirite, and testified and sayd. Verely verely, I saye vnto you, that * one of you shall betraye me. Then the disciples looked one on another, doubtyng of whom he spake. There was one of Jesus disciples, (whiche leane on him) * euen he whom Jesus loued. To him beckened Simon Peter therfore that he shoulde aske, who it was

was of whd he spake. He then whd he leaned on Iesus brest sayd vnto him. Lord who is he? Jesus answered. He is in to whd I geue a sop. And he wet the bread, and gaue it to Judas Iscarioth Spynous sonne. And after the sop, Satran entered into hym. Then sayd Iesus vnto hym, that thou doest do quychly. That wylt no man at the table, for what intent he spake vnto him Some of them thought because * Judas had bagged that Iesus had said vnto him: bye those thynges that we haue made of agaynst the feast of that he should geue some thyng to the poore A lione then as he hadde receyued the soppe he went immediately out and it was nyght. The fore when he was gone out, Iesus sayd. * Now is the sonne of man glorified. And God is glorified by hym. * If God be glorified by hym God shall also glorifye him by hym selfe: and shall straighthe waye glorifye hym.

E * Lytle chyldren, per a lytle while am I wyth you. * Ye shall see me, and as I sayd vnto the Jewes, whither I go, thither can ye not come. Also to you saye I now. * A newe commandement geue I vnto you, that ye loue to-gerther, as I haue loued you, that eno so ye loue one another. * By this shall al men know that ye are my disciples, if ye haue loue one to another. * John on Peter sayd vnto him. Lord, why-ther goest thou? Iesus answered hym: whither I go thou canst not folowe me now, but thou shalt folowe me after wardes. * Peter sayde vnto him. Lord, why cannot I folowe the now?
 * I wyl leoparde my lyfe for thy sake. Iesus answered hym: wilt thou leoparde thy lyfe for my sake? Cleerly verely I say vnto the: * the rocke shall not croun, tpi thou haue denied me thyspe.

¶ The. xlii. Chapter

The armeth his disciples with consolation agaynst trouble, and promyseth them the holy ghost.

Ad he sayde vnto his disciples, let not your hertes be troubled. Ye be leue in god, beleue also in me. In my fathers house are many mansions.
 If it wer not so I wolde haue told you. I goe to prepare a place for you. And if I goe to prepare a place for you, I wyl come a-gayne, and receyue you, euen vnto my self that wher I am, ther may ye be also. And whither I go, ye knowe and the way ye knowe.

Thomas sayeth vnto hym. Lord, we know not whither thou goest. And how is it possible for vs to knowe the waye? Iesus sayeth vnto hym. I am the way and the truth, and the * lyfe.
 * A man cometh vnto the father but by me.
 If ye had knowen me, ye had knowe my father also. And now ye knowe him & haue sene him Philip sayth vnto him: Lord, shewe vs the father, and it sufficeth vs. Iesus sayth vnto hym. haue I bene so longe tyme wyth you, and yet hast thou not knowen me. Philip, he that hath sene me, hath sene my father. And howe sayst thou, shewe vs the father, Weneest thou not that I am in the father, and the father in me? The wordes that I speake vnto you, I speake not of my selfe, but the father that dwelleth in me.

to be that doth the workes. Shewe me that I am in the father, and the father in me. Of this I am beleue me for the workes sake.

Cleerly verely, I saye vnto you, he that beleueth on me, the workes & I do, the same shall he do also, and greater workes then these shall he do because I go vnto my father. * And what soeuer ye aske in my name, that wyl I do, that the father may be glorified by the sonne. If ye shall aske any thyng in my name, I wyl do it. * * If ye loue me, kepe my commandementes, and I wyl praye the father and he shall geue you another comforter, that he may hyde wyth you for euer, euen the sprypte of truth, whiche the world can not receaue, because the world seeth hym not, neither knoweth him. But ye knowe him. For he dwelleth wyth you, and shall be in you. * I wyl not leaue you comfortles, but wyl come to you.

Per a lytle while and the world seeth me no more, but ye se me. For I live and ye shall lyue. That daye hal ye knowe that I am in my father, and you in me, and I in you.

* He that hath my commandementes, & kepeth the, the same is he that loueth me. And he that loueth me, shall be loued of my father. * I wyl loue him, and wyl shewe mine owne selfe to hym. * Judas sayeth vnto hym, (not Judas Iscariot) Loide, what is done that thou wylt shewe thy self vnto vs, and not vnto the world Iesus answered and sayd vnto them, if a man loue me he wyl kepe my saynges, and my father wyl loue him, and he wyl come vnto him and dwell wyth hym. He that loueth me not, he-peth not my saynges. And the word which ye here, is not myne but the fathers whiche sent me.

These thynges haue I spoken vnto you, beyng ye present wyth you. But the comforter whiche is the holy ghost, * whom my father wyl send in my name, he shall teache you al thynges and byngre al thynges to your remembraunce whatsoeuer I haue sayd vnto you.

Peace I leaue wyth you, my peace I geue vnto you. Not as the world geueth, geue I vnto you. Let not your hertes be greued, neither feare. Ye haue herd howe I sayde vnto you: I go, and come agayne vnto you. If ye loued me ye wold verely reioyce, because I said I go vnto the father, for the father is greater then I.
 * And now haue I shewed you before it com: * when it is come to passe, ye myght beleue.
 Hereafter wyl I not talke many wordes vnto you. For the paynce of this world cometh and hath now be in me. But that the world maye know that I loue the father. And as the father gaue me commandement, eue so do I. * * Kysse let vs go hence.

¶ The. xli. Chapter

The true vine, the husband man and the branches. A d. c. me of lone and a direct comfort agaynst persecution.

I am * the true vyne, and my father is the husbandman. Every branche that beareth the no fruite in me, he wyl take awaye. And every bzaunche that be-rety frute, wyl be pruned, that it may byngre fruite.

for it more fruite. * Now are ye cleane that have the word which I have spoken unto you.
Abide in me, and I in you, and the branch can not beare fruite of it selfe, excepte it abide in the vigne, no more can ye, excepte ye abide in me. I am the vigne, ye are the branches. He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same shall bring forth much fruite. For without me ye can do nothing.
If a man abide not in me he is cast forth as a branch and is withered: and men gather them, and cast them into the fyre, and they burne.
If ye abide in me, and my wordes shall abide in you, what ye will, it shall be done for you. Herein is my father glorified, that ye beare much fruite and become my disciples.

As the father hath loved me, even so have I also loved you. Continue ye in my love. If ye keepe my commandmentes, ye shall abide in my love, even as I have kepte my fathers com-mandmentes, and abide in his love. These thinges have I spoken unto you, that my love might remaine in you, and that your love might be full.

My love is my commandment, that ye love together, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man, then this: that a man bestow his life for his frendes. Ye are my frendes, if ye do whatsoever I commaunde you. Henceforth call I you not servants, for the servant knoweth not what his Lord doth. But you have called frendes: for all thinges that I have heard of my father have I opened to you.

Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordeyned you, to go, and bring forth fruite, and that your fruite should remaine, that whatsoever ye aske of the father in my name, he may give it you.

My commandment I give you, that ye love together. If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you. If ye were of the world, the world would love you, as it loved me.
But because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you. Remember the word that I sayde unto you: My servant is not greater than the Lord.
If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you. If they have kepte my saying: they will keepe your saying also.

But all these thinges will they do unto you for my names sake, because they have not knowne hym that sente me. If I had not come and spoken unto them, they should have had no synne: but now they have synne to clothe themselves withall. He that hateth me, hateth my father also. If I had not done among them such workes, which none other man doth, they should have had no synne. But now have they beene seene, and hated: not only me but also my father. But these happeneth that the saying might be fulfilled that is written in the law: that they hated me without a cause.

But when the comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the father (even the spirit of truth, which proceedeth of the father) he shall testify of me. And ye shall hear witness also, because ye have been with me from the begynnyng.

The xvi. Chapter

Consolation against trouble. Whomsoever he hath chosen to Christ.

These thinges have I sayde unto you, because ye should not be offended.
They shall excommunicate you: yea the tyme shall come that whosoever killeth you, will thinke that he doeth God service. And such thinges will they do unto you, because they have not knowne the father neither yet me. But these thinges have I told you, when the tyme is come, ye may remember that I told you. These thinges said I not unto you at the begynnyng, because I was present with you.

But now I go my way to hym that sente me, and none of you asketh me whither I go.
But because I have sayde such thinges unto you, your hartes are full of sorrow. Nevertheless I tell you the truth, it is expedient for you that I go away. For if I go not away that comforter will not come unto you. But if I departe, I will sende hym unto you. And when he is come, he will rebuke the world of synne, and of righteousnes, and of Judgement. Of synne, because they beleue not on me. Of righteousnes, because I go to my father, and ye shall see me no more. Of judgement because the prince of this world is judged already.

I have yet many thinges to saye unto you, but ye cannot beare them a way now. Howbeit it when he is come (which is the spirit of truth) he will leade you into all truth. He shall not speake of him self: but whatsoever he shall heare that shall he speake, and he will shewe you thinges to come. He shall glorify me, for he shall receave of myne, and shall shewe it unto you. All thinges that the father hath are myne. Therefore sayd I unto you, that he shall take of mine and shewe unto you.

After a while ye shall not see me, and again after a while ye shall see me: for I go to the father. Then said some of his disciples between themselves: what is this that he saith unto us after a while ye shall not see me, and againe, after a while ye shall see me: and that I go to the father? They saide therefore, what is this that he saith: after a while we can not tell what he saith. Jesus perceived that they would aske hym, and sayde unto them. Ye enquire of these betwene you and me, because I sayde after a while ye shall not see me, and againe after a while ye shall see me. Truly verily, I say unto you: ye shall wepe and lament, but contrarywise, the world shall reioyce. Ye shall sorrow, but your sorrow shall be turned to ioye.

A woman when she travaileth, hath sorrow, because her houre is come: but as soon as she is delivered of the childe, she remembereth no more the anguish for ioye that a man is borne into the world. And ye now therefore have sorrow but I will see you againe and your hartes shall reioyce, and your ioye shall no man take from you.

¶ you. ¶ And in that day shal ye aske me no question. ¶ Clearly verely, I say vnto you: what soeuer ye shal aske the father in my name, he wyl geue it you. ¶ For he that haue ye asked not bynge in my name. Aske ye shall receyue: that poure lope maye be full.

¶ These thynges haue I spoken vnto you by p[ro]uerbes. The tyme wyl come, when I shall no more speake vnto you by p[ro]uerbes: but I shall therewe you playnly from my father. At y daye shall ye aske in my name. And I saye not vnto you that I wyl speake vnto my father for you. For y father hym selfe loueth you, because ye haue loued me, and haue beleued that I came out from God. I went out from the father, and came into the world. Again, I leaue the world and go to the father.

¶ Hys dyssyples sayde vnto hym: Lo, nowe talkest thou playnly, and speakest no p[ro]uerbe. Nowe are we sure, that thou knowest all thynges, and needest not that any man shoulde aske y any question. Therfore beleue we, that thou canest t[el]l God. ¶ Jesus answered them: Howe ye do beleue. Beholde the houre d[ra]weth nye and is alre dy come, that ye shal be scattered euery man to hys owne, and shall leaue me alone. And yet am I not alone. For the father is w[ith] me.

¶ These wordes haue I spoken vnto you, that in me ye myght haue peace. For in y world shal ye haue tribulacion: but be of good chere, I haue ouercome the world.

The. xviij. Chapter.

¶ The moste harty and longynge prayer of Christ vnto his father, for all such as receyue the crosse.

¶ These wordes spake Jesus and lyft vp his eyes to heauen, and sayde: father the houre is come: glorifye thy sone that thy sonne also may glorifye the, as thou hast geuen hym power ouer all flethe, y he shoulde geue eternal lyfe to as many as thou hast geuen hym. This is lyfe eternal y they myght knowe the, the only true God and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent.

I haue glorified the on the earth. ¶ I haue synnyshed the worlde, whych thou gauest me to do. And nowe glorifye thou me (o father) w[ith] thyne otone selfe, w[ith] the glorie, whiche I had w[ith] the, per y world was. I haue declared thy name vnto the men, whiche thou gauest me out of the world. Thyne they wer and thou gauest them me, and they haue kepte thy worde. Nowe they haue knowen that all thynges whatsoeuer y hast geuen me, are of the. For I haue geuen vnto them the wordes whiche thou gauest me, and they haue receyued them, and haue knowen surely, that I came out from the: and they haue beleued, that thou dydest sende me.

I pray for them, I pray not for the world but for them y whiche y hast geuen me, for they are thyne. And all myne are thyne, y thyne, are myne, and I am glorified in them. And nowe am I not in the world, and they are in y world and I come to the.

name, the whiche thou hast geuen me, that they also may be one, as we are. Whiche I was w[ith] them in the world. I kepte them in thy name. ¶ Those that thou gauest me, haue I kept, and none of them is lost, but that losse chylde, that the scripture myght be fulfilled.

¶ Nowe come I to y, and these wordes spake I in the world, that they myght haue me lope full in them. I haue geuen them thy worde, and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world. euen as I also am not of the world. I desyre not that thou shouldest take the out of the world: but that thou kepe them fro euill. They are not of the world: as I also am not of the world. Sanctifye them thozowe thy truth. Thy wordes is y truth. As thou dydest sende me into the world, euen so haue I also sente them into the world, and for thy sake sanctifye I my selfe that they also myght be sanctified thozowe the truth.

¶ Neuertheles, I pray not for them alone but for them also whiche shall beleue on me thozow they: preachyng: that they all may be one, as thou father arte in me, and I in y, and that they also may be one in vs: that the world may beleue that y hast sent me. And the glorie whych thou gauest me, I haue geuen them, that they may be one, as we also are one. In them, and thou in me, y they may be made perfecte in one and that the world may know that thou hast sent me y hast loued the as thou hast loued me.

Father, I wyl that they whiche thou hast geuen me be w[ith] me where I am, that they may se my glorie, whiche thou hast giue me. For thou loudest me before the makinge of y world. ¶ O greuous father, the world also hath not knowen the: but I haue knowen the: and these haue knowen: y thou hast sent me. And I haue declared vnto them thy name, and wyl declare it, that the loue wherw[ith] thou hast loued me, may be in them, and I in them.

The. xviij. Chapter.

¶ Christ is betrayed. The wordes of his mouth, fr[om] the of- fy. ces to the groundes. Peter synneth of which was sent. Jesus is brought before Annas, Capphas and Pilate.

¶ When Jesus had spok[e] these wordes I he went forth w[ith] his dyssyples ouer y broke of Ced[ar], wher was a garden, into the whiche he entred y his dyssyples. Judas also whiche betrayed hym, knewe the place: for Jesus ofte tymes resorted thither w[ith] his dyssyples. Judas then after he had receyued a bonde of men: (and mynisters of the hye priestes y pharises) came thither w[ith] lanternes, y fyrerchandys y weapons. And Jesus knowyng all thynges y shoulde come on hym, went forth, and saide vnto them: whom seke ye? They answered hym: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus sayth vnto them: I am he. Judas also whiche betrayed hym, stode w[ith] them. A sone then as he had sayde vnto them I am he, they went backward y fell to y grounde. Then asked he them agayne: Whome seke ye? They sayde: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus answered: I haue tolde you, that I am he. ¶ If ye seke me me therefore let these go they say. That I saying myght be fulfilled whiche he spake: * of the which thou garest me. I have not lost one.

Then Symon Peter hauing a sword, drew it, and smote the hye priestes seruaunt, and cut of hye ryght eare. The seruaunt's name was Malchus. Therefore sayeth Iesus vnto Peter, * But vnto the sword into the sheath, that I not drynke of the cuppe, whiche my father hath geuen me. Then the companye and the captayne, and ministers of the Jewes toke Iesus, & bound hym, and led hym awaie to Anna wyfe for he was father in lawe vnto Capphas, which was the hye priest that same yere. Capphas was he which gaue counsell to the Jewes: that it was expedient, that one man shoulde dye for a people.

And Symon Peter folowed Iesus, & he another disciple that was with Iesus, went vnto the hye priest, and went in with Iesus into the palace of the hye priest. But Peter stode at the doore withoute. Then went oute that other disciple (which was knowne vnto the hye priest) and spake to the damsel that kept the doore, and brought in Peter. The sayde the damsell that kept the doore, vnto Peter. Arte not thou also one of this mans disciples? he sayde. I am not.
The seruaunt & ministers stode there, which had made a fyre of cooles: for it was cold & they warmed them selues. Peter also stode among them, and warmed hym.

* The hye priest then asked Iesus of his disciples & of his doctryne. Iesus answered hym, I spake openly in the synagoge, & I neuer taught in the synagoge, and in the temple whither all the Jewes resorte, and in secrete haue I sayde nothyng. Why askest thou me? Alke them which herd me, what I haue sayde vnto the. Beholde they can tel what I sayd. Whē he had thus spoken, one of the ministers which stode by, smote Iesus on y face, sayng: * and werest thou the hye priest? Iesus answered hym: Yf I haue euil spoken, beare witness of the euil. But yf I haue wel spoken, why smitest thou me? And Annas sent hym bounde vnto Capphas the hye priest.

¶ Symon Peter stode, and warmed him selfe.
Then sayde they vnto hym: arte not thou also one of hye disciples? he denyed it, and sayd: I am not. One of the seruautes of the hye priestes (his cousyn whose care Peter toke of) sayd vnto him byd not I se the in the garden with hym: * Peter therefore denyed agayne: and immediatly he rooke currewe. * Then led they Iesus from Capphas into the hall of Iudgement. It was in the mornyng, and they theim selues went not into the iudgement hall, lest they shoulde be defiled, but that they myghte eate Pasche. Pylate then went oute vnto them & sayde: what accusacy-on bring ye agaynst this man? They answered and sayde vnto hym: Yf he were not an euill doer we wold not haue deliuered hym vnto the.

¶ Then saide Pylate vnto the: take ye hym, & Iudge hym after your owne lawe. The Jewes therefore sayde vnto hym. It is not lawfull for vs to put any man to death. That I wordes of Iesus myght be fulfilled: which he spake, saying, what denste he shoulde dye.

* Then Pylate entred into the iudgement hall agayn, & called Iesus, & sayde vnto him: art thou the kyng of the Jewes? Iesus answered sayst thou that of thyselfe, or byd of other? I sayd of me. Pyllate answered: Am I a Jewe? Thyne owne nacyon and hye priestes haue deliuered the vnto me.
What hast thou done? Iesus answered my kyngdome is not of this world. My kyngdome were of this world: then wold my ministers surely fyghe, that I shoulde not be deliuered to the Je-wes, but I shoulde be deliuered to the Jewes, but my kyngdome is not from here. Pylate therefore sayde vnto hym: Arte thou a kynge? Iesus answered: thou sayest that I am a kynge: for this cause was I doone, and for this cause came I into the world, & I shoulde beare witness vnto the truth. And all that are of the truth heare my voce. Pylate sayde vnto hym: What thyng is truth? And when he had sayde this, he went out agayne vnto the Jewes, and sayde vnto them: * I fynde in hym no cause at all. Ye haue a cus-tome, that I shoulde deliuer you one loofe at Ester, wyl ye that I loofe vnto you the kyng of the Jewes? Then cryed they all agayne, sayng: * Not hym but Barrabas: the same Barrabas was a murderer.

The xix. Chapter.

¶ I Chryst is crucified. He committed his mother vnto John, dying and is buryed.

Then Pylate toke Iesus therefore, & I scourged hym. * And the souldyers wounde a crowne of thornes, and putte it on his heade. And they byd on hym a purple garmente, & they smote hym on the face. Pylate went forth agayn: and sayde vnto them, beholde, I bring hym forth to you, that ye maye knowe, that I fynde no faulte in hym. Then came Iesus forth wearing a crowne of thorne, and a robe of purple. And he sayeth vnto them: beholde the man.
¶ When the hye priestes therefore and ministers saw hym, they cried sayng crucify hym, crucify hym. Pylate saith vnto the. Take ye hym, & crucifye hym, for I fynde no cause in him. The Je-wes answered hym: We haue a lawe & by our lawe he ought to dye, because he made himselfe the sonne of God. When Pylate heard that say-ng, he was the more aspayde, and went againe into the iudgement hall, and sayeth vnto Iesus whence arte thou? But Iesus gaue hym none answer. Then sayde Pylate vnto hym: Spea-kest thou not vnto me? knowest thou not, that I haue power to crucifye the, and haue power to loofe the? Iesus answered: Thou couldest haue no power at all agaynst me, except it wer geuen the fro aboue. Therefore, he that deliuered me vnto the, hath more synne. * And fro thence forth saide Pylate meanes to loofe hym, but the Jewes cryed sayng: Yf thou let hym go, thou art not Cæsars frend. For whosoener maketh hym selfe a kyng, is agaynst Cæsar.

¶ When Pylate heard that sayng, he broughte Iesus forth, and sat downe to geue sentence in the place that is called the pavement, but in the hebreu

byne tounge, Sabbath. It was the preparyng day of the Easter, about the sye honer. And he saith vnto the Jewes: behold your king. They cryed, away with hym, away with hym, crucifie hym. Pilate saith vnto them: Shall I crucifye your kyng? The hye priestes answered: we haue no kyng, but Cesar. * Then deliuered he him vnto them, to be crucified. And they toke Iesus, and led hym away. And he bare his crosse, and went forth into a place, whiche is called the place of deadmens sculles. But in hebreue, Golgatha, where they crucified hym, and two other with hym, on eyther syde one, and Iesus in the myddes. And * Pilate wrot a tytle, and put it on the crosse. The wyrtynge was: Iesus of Nazareth kyng of the Jewes. This tytle redde many of the Jewes. For the place where Iesus was crucified, was nye to the cytie. And it was wyrtten in hebreue, and Greke, and Laten. Then sayde the hye Priestes of the Jewes to Pilate: wyte not kyng of the Jewes, but that he sayde: I am kyng of the Jewes. Pilate answered: what I haue wyrtten, that haue I wyrtten.

Then the souldyers, * when they hadde crucified Iesus, toke his garmentes, and made foure partes, to euery souldyer a part, and also his cote. The cote was without seame, wrought vpon thoro we out. They sayd therfore among them selues: Let vs not deuyde it, but cast lottes for it, who shall haue it. That the scripture might be fulfilled, sayng: * They haue departed my rayment amonge them, and for my cote did they cast lottes. And the souldiers dyd suche thynges in dede.

There stode by the crosse of Iesus his mother and his mothers suster, Mary the wife of Cleophas & Mary Magdalene. When Iesus therfore sawe his mother and the dysciple stadyng * whome he loued he, sayeth vnto his mother: woman beholde thy sonne. Then sayd he to the dysciple: behold thy mother. And fro that houre the dysciple toke her for his owne.

After these thynges, Iesus knowyng that all thynges were now performed, that * the scripture myght be fulfilled, he saith: I thyrste. So there stode a vessel by, full of vynerge. * therfore they fylled a sponge with vynerge & woude it about wyth ylope, and put it to his mouthe. A sone as Iesus then receaued of the vynerge, he sayd: * It is fynished, and bowed his heade, and gaue vp the goost. The Jewes therfore because it was the preparyng of the Sabbath, & the bodyes shulde not remayne vpon the crosse, on the Sabbath daye (for that Sabbath daye was an hye daye) be soughte Pilate, that they legges myght be broken, and that they myght be taken downe. Then came the souldiers, and brake the legges of the fyrst, & of the other which was crucified with him. But when they came to Iesus, and sawe that he was deade already, they brake not his legges: but one of the souldiers with a speare thrust hym into the syde, and forthwith came there out bloude and water.

And he that sawe it bare recorde, and bystecords it true. And he had with that he sayd truth that it might be beleue also. For these saynges were done, that the scripture shuld be fulfilled.

* Pe shall not breake a bone of him. And again another scripture sayth: they shall loke on him whiche they pearled. * After this, Ioseph of Arimathea (which was a discipule of Iesus: but secretly for feare of the Jewes) be soughte Pilate that he might take downe the body of Iesus. And Pilate gaue hym licence, * (he came thither, & toke the body of Iesus) And there came also Nicodemus (which at the begynning came to Iesus by night) and brought of myrrer and aloes myngled together, about an hundred pounce wayght. Then toke they the body of Iesus, and wounde it in linnen clothes with the odoures, as the maner of the Jewes is to burye. And in the place where he was crucified, there was a garden, and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was neuer layed. There laied they Iesus therfore, because of the preparyng of the Sabbath of the Jewes for the sepulchre was nye at hande. ¶ he * fyrste daye of the Sabbathes came Mary Magdalene early (whiche it was yet darke) vnto the sepulchre and sawe the stone taken away fro the graue. The she ranne, and came to Symon Peter, & to the other dysciple * whiche Iesus loued, and sayeth vnto them: They haue taken away the Lord out of the graue, and we can not tell where they haue layed hym. Peter therfore wet forth, and that other dysciple, and came vnto the sepulchre. They ran both together, and the other dysciple did outrunne Peter, and came fyrst to the sepulchre. And whiche he had stouped downe, he sawe the linnen clothes lying yet went he not in. * Then came Symon Peter folowing him, & went into the sepulchre, & sawe the linnen clothes lyng, & the naphyn that was about his head, not lying with the linnen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by it self. The wente in also that other dysciple, whiche came first to the sepulchre, & he sawe, & beleued. For as yet they knew not the * scripture, that he shuld rylse agayne from death. ¶ Then the disciples went away agayne vnto theyr owne home.

* Mary stode without at the sepulchre wepyng. So as she wepte, she bowed her selfe into the sepulchre, & seeth two angels clothed in whyte, syttinge the one at the head, & the other at the fete, where they hadde layde the bodye of Iesus. They sayd vnto her: Woman, why wepest thou? She saith vnto them: for they haue taken away my Lorde, and I wote not where they haue layed hym. When she had thus sayd, she turned her selfe backe, and sawe Iesus standing, and knewe not that it was Iesus. Iesus sayeth vnto her: Woman, why wepest thou? Whiche sheest thou? She supposyng that he had bene a gardener, sayeth vnto him: Sir, if thou haue boyne hym hence, tel me where he hath laied him: and I will see him. Jesus saith vnto her: Mary. She turned her selfe, & sayde vnto hym: Rabbi. which is to say: my master. Jesus sayde vnto her: Touch me not, for I am not yet ascended vnto my father. But go to my brethren, & say vnto them: I ascende vnto my father & your father: & to my God, & your God. ¶ When Magdalen came & tolde the disciples, & she had sent the Lorde, and that he had spoken such thinges vnto her. ¶ The same day at night which was the first day of Sabbathes, when the doores were shut, where the disciples were assembled together for feare of the Jewes, came Jesus, & stode in the middes, and saith vnto them: peace be vnto you. And whē he had so said, he shewed vnto them his handes, & his syde. ¶ Then were the disciples glad when they sawe the Lorde.

¶ Then sayde Jesus to them again: peace be vnto you. As my father & sent me, even so send I you also. And whē he had sayd those wordes, he breethed on them, and sayth vnto them: Receyue ye the holie good. Whosoever synnes ye remit, they are remitted vnto them. And whosoever synnes ye retayne, they are retained. ¶

¶ But Thomas one of the twelue (which is called Didimus) was not with the whē Jesus came. The other disciples therfore sayde vnto him: We haue sene the Lorde. But he said vnto them: Except I see in his handes the print of the nyles, & put my fnger into the print of the nyles, & thrust my hand into his side, I wil not beleue. And after viii. dayes again his disciples were within & Thomas with the. ¶ Then came Jesus whē the doores were shut, & stode in the myddes, & sayde: Peace be vnto you. And after he said he to Thomas: byng thy fnger by ther, & se my handes, and reach hither thy hande, & thrust it into my syde: & be not faithlesse, but beleuing. Thomas answered & said vnto him: my Lord, & my God. Jesus sayth vnto hym: Thomas, because thou hast sene me, & hast beleued, blessed art thou that haue not sene, & yet haue beleued. ¶ And many other signes truly dyd Jesus in the presenc of his disciples, which are not written in this booke. ¶ These are wyrtten that ye myght beleue, & Jesus is Chylyste the son of God, and that (in beleuyng) ye myght haue lyfe thowowe his name.

Afterward he dyd Jesus the we him selfe a gayne, at the see of Tyberias. And on this wise shewed he him selfe, ¶ Ther were together Symon Peter & Thomas (whiche is called Didimus) and Nathanael of Cana in Galyle, and the sonnes of Zebedee, & two other of his disciples. Symon Peter sayth vnto the: I wyl go a fyngge: They say vnto him: we also wyl go with the. They went they; & entered into a shyp immediately, & that nyght caught they nothing. But when the morning was nowe come, Jesus stode on the shore: nevertheless the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. Jesus sayth vnto the: chylde, haue ye any meate? They answered hym, no. And he sayeth vnto the: Cast the net on the right syde of the shyp, and thou shalt fynd. They cast the net, and anon they were not able to drawe it, for the multitude of fshes.

¶ Then sayde the disciple whiche Jesus loved, vnto Peter: It is the Lorde. Whē Symon Peter herd that it was the Lorde, he gird his cote vnto him (for he was naked), & sprang into the se. The other disciples came by shyp, for they were not far fro land, but as it were two hundred cubites, & they dyd we fnet to fshes. ¶ Allone then as they were come to land, they sawe hote coles, & fshes laied thereon, & bread. Jesus saith vnto them: byng of the fshes which ye haue nowe caught. Symon Peter went vp & byewe fnet to the lande full of great fshes, an hundred & liii. And for al there were so many, yet was not the net broken. Jesus sayth vnto the: come, & dine. And none of the disciples durst aske him: what art thou? for they knewe that it was the Lorde. Jesus then came, & toke bread, & gaue them, and fsh as he wyl. ¶ This is nowe the third tyme that Jesus appereth to his disciples, after that he was ryfen agayn from death. ¶ So whā they had dined Jesus saith to Symon Peter. Symon Joanna, louest thou me more then these? he said vnto him: yee Lorde, & I loue the. He sayth vnto him: fede my labes. He sayth to him againe the seconde tyme: Symon Joanna, louest thou me? he sayth vnto hym: Yee Lorde, thou knowest that I loue the. He said vnto hym: fede my shepe. He said vnto him the third tyme: Symon Joanna louest thou me? Peter was sorowful, because he sayd vnto him the thyrde tyme: louest thou me, & he sayd vnto hym: Lorde, thou knowest al thinges, thou knowest that I loue the. Jesus sayth vnto hym: fede my shepe.

¶ Therfore, verely, I saie vnto the: when thou wast yonge, thou gyddest thy selfe, & walkedst whither thou woldest, but when thou art old, & thou shalt stretch forth thy handes, & another shall gyde the, and lead the whither thou woldest not. ¶ That spake he, signifying by what death he should glorify God.

¶ And when he had spoken this, he sayth vnto him: folowe me. Peter turned about, & saw the disciple, whome Jesus loved, folowyng (whiche also leane on his brest at supper, and sayde: Lorde, which is he that betrayeth the?) ¶ When Peter therfore sawe hym, he saith to Jesus: Lorde, what shall he here do? Jesus saith vnto hym: If I wyl haue hym to tarye tyll I come, what is that to the, folowe thou me. ¶ The went this sayng abrode amonge the brethren that that disciple should not die. ¶ Yet Jesus said not to hym, he shall not dye, but if I wyl that he tarye tyll I come, what is that to the? ¶ The same disciple is he, whiche testifyeth of these thinges, & wrote these thinges. And we know that his testimony is true. ¶ There are also many other thinges, which Jesus dyd, & which if they should be wyrtten euery one, I suppose, & woyle he could not contayne the booke, & should be wyrtten.

¶ There endeth the Gospel of Sancte Iohn.

The Actes of the Apostles.

The first Chapter.

The ascension of Christ. Matthias is chosen in steade of Judas.

In the former treatise (beare Theophilus) we haue spokē of al that Iesus began to do and teache, vntill the day in which he was taken vp, after that he shewēd holy goost had geuen commaundemen-tes vnto the apostles, whom he had chosen, to whome also he shewēd hym selfe alwaye after his passion (and that by many tokens) appearing vnto them fourty dayes, and speakinge of the kyngdome of God, and gathered them together, * and commaunded them, that they shuld not departe from Ierusalem: but to waite for the promys of the father, * whereof (sayth he) ye haue hearde of me. For * Iohn truly baptysed wth water, but ye shal be baptysed wth the holye gooste after these few dayes. When they therfore were come together, they asked of hym, sayng: Lorde wylt thou at this tyme, restore againe the kyngdome to Israel? And he sayed vnto theym: * it is not for you to knowe tyme, or seasons, whiche the father hath put in his owne power: but * ye shal receaue power, after that the holy goost is come vpon you. And * ye shal be witnesses vnto me, not onely in Ierusalem, but also in all Jewry and in Samary, & euen vnto the worldes ende.

And when he had spoken these thynges, whyle they behelde, * he was taken vp and a cloud receyued hym vp out of theyr sight.
And whyle they looked stedfastly vp towarde heauen, as he wente, behold, two men stode by them in white apparel, which also sayd: ye men of Galyle, why stande ye gazing vp into heauen? This same Iesus, whiche is taken vp fro you into heauen, * shal so come, euen as ye haue seene hym go into heauen. ¶ Then returned they vnto Ierusalem, from the mounte (that is called Olyuete) whiche is from Ierusalem a Sabboth dayes iourney. And when they were come in, they wente vp into a parlor, where abode both * Peter and James, and Iohn & Andrew, Phylipp and Thomas, Bartholmeue & Mathewe, James the sonne of Alpheus, and Symon zelotes, and Judas the brother of James.
These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication wth the women, and Mary the mother of Iesu, and with his brethren.

¶ And in those dayes Peter stode vp in the myddes of the dysciples, and sayde (the nombre of names that were together, were aboute an hūdyed and twenty.) Ye men and brethren, this scripture must nedes haue bene fulfilled, which the holye gooste shewēd the mouth of Dauid spake befoze of Judas, * whiche was guyde to them that toke Iesus. * For he was nombred wth vs, and had obtayned felowshipp in thys mystryacion. And the same hath nowe possessed a plat of ground wth the rewarde of iniquyte: and when he * was hanged, he burst a sunder in the myddes, and al his bowels gushed out. And it is knowen vnto all the inhabyters of Ierusalem, in so muche that the same felde is called in theyr mother tonge, Acheldama, that is to saye the bloody felde. For it is wrytten in the booke of Psalmes: * hys habytacion be-comyd desolate, and no man dwellynge therein, * and his dyscyples let another take: Wherfore of these men whiche haue companied wth vs (al the tyme that the Lorde Iesus had all his con-uersacion among vs, beginning at the baptyme of Iohn, vnto that same day that he was taken vp from vs) must one be ordeyned, to be a witness wth vs of his resurrection.

And they appointed two, Joseph which is called Barlabas (whose surnyame was Justus) & Matthias. And when they prayed they said thou Lorde whiche * knowest the hartes of al mene we whether of these two thou hast chosen: & he maye take the rowme of this mystryacion and Apostleshippe, from which Judas by tras-gressyon fell, that he myghte go to his owne place. And they gaue forth theyr lottes, and the lot fell on Matthias, and he was counted wth the eleuen Apostles. ¶

The ii. Chapter.

The coming of the holy goost. The sermon of Peter before the congregation at Ierusalem, and the iurys-diction of the church.

When * the fyfty dayes were come to an ende, they were all with one accord together in one place. And so-denly there came a sounde fro heauen, as it had bene the cominge of a myghty wynde, and it fylled all the house where they sate, and there appeared vnto them cloūt tonges, lyke as they had bene of fyre, and it sate vpon eche one of them, * and they wer al fylled wth the holy goost, and began to speake with other tonges, eue as the same spere gaue them vnterstandinge.

There were dwelling at Ierusalem, Jewes deuoute men, out of euery nacyon of them that are vnder heauen. And this was noised about the multitude came together, & were astonnyed because that euery man herd them speake wth his owne language. They wondred al, & maruayled, sayng amonge theym selues: beholde, are not all these whiche speake, of Galyle? And howe here we euery man bys owne tonge wher-in we were borne: Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the inhabyters of Mesopotamia and of Iewrie, and of Capadocia, of Pontus, and Asia, Phrygia, and Pamphylia, of Egypte and of the parties of Lybia, whiche is besyde Syren, and Strangers of Rome, Jewes and * Proselytes, Greeks and Arabians: we haue heard them speake in our owne tonges the great wonder of God. ¶ They were all amazed, and wondred, sayng one to another: what men-neth this? Other mocked, sayng: these men are full of newe wyne.

The Actes

C But Peter stepped forth with the eleven, and spake with his voice, and layd vnto them: Ye men of Iewry, & dwelers that dwel at Ierusalem, be this knowe vnto you, and with your eares heare my wordes. For these are not dromes, as ye suppose, seing it is but the thirde houre of the daye. But this is that whiche was spoken by the Prophet Ieri: and it shall be in the last daies, saith God, of my spirite I wil powre oute vpon al fleshe. And your sonnes and your daughters shall prophesie, & your younge men shall se visions, & your old men shall dreame. And on my seruantes, and on my hande maidens I wil powre out of my spirite in those daies, and they shall prophesie. And I wil shewe wonders in heauen above, and tokens in the earth beneath, blood and fire, and the vapour of smoke. The sonne shall be turned into darke-nes, and the moone into bloude before that great and notable daye of the Lord come. And it shall come to passe, that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord, shall be saved.

D Ye men of Israel, heare these wordes: Iesus of Nazareth a man appoynted of God among you with miracles, wonders and signes, which God did by him in y<sup>e</sup> middes of you (as ye your selues knowe) him haue ye taken by the hands of vnrighteous persons, after he was deliuered by the deternynate counsell and for knowledge of God, and haue crucified & slayne hym: whome God hath rayled vp, and loosed the sorowes of death, because it was vnpossible that he should be holden of it. For dauid speaketh of hym. Afore hand I sawe God alwayes before me, for he is on my ryghte hande, that I should not be moued. Therefore dyd my herte reioyse, & my tonge was glad. Whosoever also my fleshe shall rest in hope, because thou wilt not leue my soule in hel, neyther wilt thou suffer thine holy to se corruption. Thou hast shewed me the wayes of lyfe, thou shalt make me full of ioye with thy countenance.

E Ye men and brethren, let me frely speake vnto you of the patriarche Dauid: For he is both dead and buried, and his sepulchre remaineth vnto this day. Therefore seing he was a prophete, and knewe that God had swoyne with an oth to him, that Christ (as concerninge the fleshe) shoulde come of the fruites of his loynes, and shoulde sytte on his seate, he knowinge this before, spake of the resurrection of Christ: that his soule should not be lefte in hell: neither his fleshe should se corrupted. This Iesus hath God rayled vp, & whereof we all are wytnesses.

Sence nowe that he by the ryghte hande of God is exalted, and hath receaued of the father the promise of the holy goost, he hath shewed forth to you, & to all, whiche ye now see, and heare. For Dauid is not ascended into heauē, but he saith. The Lord sayd to my Lord, syt thou on my ryghte hande, vntyll I make thy foes thy foote stooles. Wherefore, let all the house of Israel knowe for a suretyr, that God hath made that same Iesus (whome ye haue crucified) Lord and Christ.

When they heard these things, they were pricked in their hartes, and sayd vnto Peter, and vnto the other Apostles: Pemen and brethren, what shall we do? Peter sayde vnto them: Repente of your synnes, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Iesus Christ, for the remission of synnes, and ye shall receiue the gyfte of the holy gooste. For the promise was made vnto you and to your children, & to all that are afarre off, euen as many as the Lord our God shall call. And with many other wordes bare he wytnes, and exhorted them, sayng: Save your selues from this vntoward generation. Then they that gladly receaued his preachyng were baptised: and the same day there were added vnto them about thre thousand soules.

And they continued in the Apostles doctrine & fellowship, & in breaking of bread, and in prayers. And feare came ouer every soule. And many wonders and signes were shewed by the Apostles in Ierusalem. And greete leave came vpon al men. And al that beleued, kept them selues together, and hadde all thynges commen, and solded their possessiones and goodes, and parted them to al men, as every man had nede. And they continued daily with one accord in the temple, & brake breade from house to house, and dyd eate theymeate together with gladnes and synglenes of heart, prayng God, & had laude vnto all the people. And the Lord added to the congregation, daily suche as wylde be saved.

The iii. Chappter.

The daye is restored to his fete, Peter preacheth Christ vnto the people.

Peter and Ihon went vntogether into the temple at the nyghte houre of prayer. And a certain man that was halt from his mothers wombe, was broughte, whome they layd daylye at the gate of the temple (whiche is called be-typpull) to aske almes of them that entered into the temple. When he sawe Peter and Ihon that they wolde go into the temple, he desired to receaue an almes. And Peter fastened his eyes on him with Ihon, and sayd: Loke on vs. And he gaue hede vnto them, trustyng to receaue some thyng of them. Then sayd Peter: Sylluer and golde haue I none, suche as I haue, geue I the. In the name of Iesus Christ of Nazareth arise vp, and walke. And he toke hym by the ryghte hande, and lyfte hym vp. And immediately his fete and ancle bones receaued strengthe. And he sprange, stode, and walked, and entred with them into the temple, walkyng, and leappng, and prayng God.

And all the people sawe hym walke, & prayse God. And they knew him, that it was he which sat and begged at the bewtiful gate of the temple. And they wondered, and were sore astonied, at that which had happened vnto him. And as the halt which was healed, helde Peter & Ihon all the people came amased vnto them in the porch that is called Salomons.

When Peter sawe that, he answered vnto the people: Ye men of Israel, why maruaile ye at pe at this, as whp lab... as though be by oure olone power of strengthe we had made thys man go. The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Jacob, the God of our fathers hath glorified his sonne Iesus, whom ye deliuered * and denied in the presence of Plate, when he had iudged hym to be losed. But ye denyed the holpe and iuste, * and despyed a murderer to be geuen you, and kyllid * the Lorde of lyfe whom God hath raysted from death: of the whiche we are wytnesses. And his name thozow the sayth of his name, hath made this man sound, whom ye se, and know. And the faith which is by him hath geuen to hym this health in the presence of you al. And nowe brethren, I wote that thozow ignorauce ye did it, as did also pour rulers.

But God (which befoze had shewed by y mouthe of al his Prophetes, how y Christ shuld suffer hath thus wile fulfilled: Let it * repent you therfoze, & conuert, that your synes maye be done away. * When the tyme of refreshyng cometh which we shal haue of the presence of the Lorde and when God shal sed him, which befoze was preached vnto you, that is to wpt Iesus Christ which must receaue heauen, vntil the tyme that all thynges, whiche God hath spoken by the month of al his holy Prophetes, sice the wo: d began, be restored agayne.

Moses truely sayde vnto the fathers: * a Prophete shall the Lorde poure God rayse vp vnto you, euen of your brethren, lyk vnto me: hym shall ye heare, in all thynges whatsoever he shall saye vnto you. For the tyme wyl come that euery soule which wyl not here that same Prophete, shall be destroyed frome amonge the people. All the Prophetes also from Samuel and thence forth (as many as haue spoken) haue in lyke wyse tolde of these dayes.

Ye are the chyldzen of the prophetes, and of the councill, whiche God made vnto our fathers, sayng to Abraham: * Eu in thy seide shal all the kynredes of y earth be blessed. First whā God had rayfed up hys sonne Iesus vnto you, he sent hym to blesse you, that euery one of you shoulde turne from his wickednesse. ¶

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

¶ The Apostles are taken and brought before the councell. They are forbydden to preache, but they turne them vnto prayer, and are more obedient vnto God then vnto men.

And they spake vnto the people, the prestes and the rulers of the teple, and the Saduces came vnto them taking it greuously that they taught y people, and preached in Iesus the resurrection from death. And they layd handes on them, and put them in holde, vntyll the nexte day, for it was nowe euentide. Howbeit many of them which heard the wordes, beleued, and the nombre of men was about fise thousande.

And it chaunced on the morowe, that they rulers and elders, and Scribes, (and Annas the chiefe Priest and Cayphas, and Ihon, and Alexander, and as many as were of the kynred of the hye Priestes) gathered together at Jerusalem. And when they had set them before them they asked * by what power, or in what name haue ye done this.

* Then Peter full of the holpe ghost, sayd vnto them ye rulers of the people and elders of Israel, yf we this day be examyned of the good dede that we haue done to the sick mā by what meanes he is made whole: be it knowne vnto you al, & to all the people of Israel, that by the name of * Iesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God raysted agayn from dea-the, euen by him doth this man stande here present befoze you whole. * This is the stone whpche was caste asyde of you buylders, whpche is become the cheefe of the corner. Acyther is there saluacion in any oether. * For amonge men vnder heauen ther is geuen none oether name, wher in we must be saued. ¶

When they sawe the boldnesse of Peter and Ihon, and understode that they were vnlearned and laye men, they marueled, and they knewe them, that they had bene with Iesu, and behol-dyng also the man (whiche was healed) stan-dyng with them, they coulde not saye against it, but commanded them to go asyde out of the councell, and counceled amonge them selues, say-ng: * What shall we do to these men? For a manifeste sygne is done by them, and is openly knowne to all them that dwell in Jerusalem, & we can not denye it. But that it be nosed no farther amonge the people, let vs threaten and charge them, that they speake hence forth to no man in thys name.

And they called them, * and commaunded the that in no wyse they shulde speake nor teach in the name of Iesu. But Peter and Ihon answered, and sayd vnto them: whether it be righte in the syght of God, to berken vnto you moze the to God, iudge ye. For we ca not but speke, that whpche we haue seene and hearde. So they threatned they them, and let them go, and found nothing how to punysh them, because of the people. For al me prayed God because of * that which was done for the man was aboue fourtye yere old on who this miracle of healyng was shewed.

Asone as they were let go, they came to theyr fellowes, and shewed all that the hye Priestes and elders had said. And when they herd y, they lyft vp theyr voyces to God with one accord, & sayd: Lorde, thou art God, which hast made heauen and earth, the see, & al that in them is, which (in the holy good) by the mouth of thy seruauit Dauid: * (our father) haste sayde: * Why dyd the heathen rage, & the people ymagyn vaine thin-ges: The kynnges of the earth stode vp, and the rulers came together, agaynst the Lorde and a-gaynst his anoynted.

For of a truthe, agaynst thy holy chylde Jesus (who thou hast anoynted) both Herode and Poncius Pylate, with the Gentiles and y peple of Israel, gathered them selues together, & (in this tyme) for to do whatsoever thy hande, & thy counsell determynd befoze to be done.
And nowe Lorde beholde theyr threateninges and graunt vnto the seruantes, that with al confidence they maye speake thy worde. And shall thou stretch forth thyne hande, that ben- lyng and signes and wonders be done by the name of the holpe chyldre Iesus. And as soon as they had prayed, the place moued, where they were assembled together, and they were all filled with the holpe gooste, and they spake the worde of God boldly.

¶ And

and 13. 2

Act. 4. 5
and 13. 2

Act. 4. 13

And the multitude of them that beleued, were of one hearte, and of one soule: Neither sayde any of them, that ought of the thinges whiche he possessed was his owne: but they had all thynges common. And with greace power gaue the Apostles wytnesse of the resurrection of the Lorde Iesu. And great grace was with them all. Neither was there any among them, that lacked. For as many as were possessers of landes or houses, solde them, and brought the pryce of the thynges that were solde, and laied it downe at the Apostles fete. And distribucyō was made vnto euery man accordyng as he had neede. And Ioseph, whiche was also called of the Apostles, Barnabas (that is to say: the sonne of consolacion) beyng a Leuite, and of the country of Cypris, whan he hadde land solde it, and laied the pryce downe at the Apostles fete.

Chapter.

The dissimulation of Ananias, and Sapphira punished. Miracles are done by the Apostles which are taken, but the Angell of God byngeth the out of parson. They are brought before the counsell. The sentence of Gamaliel. The Apostles are deare they receiue in trouble.

A Certaine man named Ananias, with Sapphira his wyfe, solde a possession, and kepte awaye parte of the pryce (his wyfe also beyng of counsel) and brought a certayne parte, and laied it at the Apostles fete. But Peter said, Ananias, how is it, that Sathan hath fylled thine heart, that thou shouldest lye vnto the holpe goost, and kepe awaye parte of the pryce of the lande? Perdayned it not vnto the onely, and after it was solde, was it not in thynne owne power? Why hast thou conceaued thys thyng in thynne herte? Thou hast not lied vnto men, but vnto God. When Ananias herde these wordes he fell downe, and gaue vp the goost. And grete feare came on al them that herde these thynges. And the yonge men rose vp, and put him apart, and caried hym out and buried hym.

And it fortuned, that as it was about the space of thre houres after his wife came in, ygnorant of that whiche was done. And Peter sayde vnto her: Tell me, solde ye not the lande for so much? And she sayde: ye, for so much. The Peter sayd vnto her: why haue ye agreed together, to tempte the spyte of the Lorde? Behold the fete of them which haue buried thy husband are at the doze, and shall carie the out. Then fell she downe straighthe waye at hys fete, and yel- ded vp the gooste. And the yonge men came in and founde her dead, and caried her out, and buried her by her husband. And greate feare came on all the congregacion, and on as many as heard it.

By the handes of the Apostles were many signes and wonders shewed amonge the people. And they were all together with one accord in Salomons porche. And of other durste no man tope hymselfe to them, neuer thelesse the people magnified them. The number of them that beleued in the Lorde bothe of men and women, grewe more and more: in so muche that they brought the sick into the stretes, and layde them on beddes and couches, that at the least waye the shadowe of Peter, whan he came by, myght haue some of them. And ther came also a multitude out of the cypres round about vnto Ierusalem, bringyng sycke folkes, and the whiche were vexed with vncleane spytes. And they were healed euery one.

Then the cheefe priests rose vp, and all they that were with him (which is the sect of Sadducees) and were full of indignacion, and layed handes on the Apostles, and put them in the comune pylson. But the Angell of the Lorde by nyght opened the pylson dozes, and brought the forth, and saide: go, and stand and speake in the temple to the people, al the wordes of this lyfe. When they herd that, they entred into the temple early in the morning, and taught. But the cheefe priests came and they that were with him, and called a counsell together, and al the elders of the chyldren of Israel, and set men to the pylson, to fet them. When the mynysters came, and founde them not in the pylson, they returned and tolde, sayng: the pylson truly founde we shute wyth all dyligence: and the keepers standyng wythout before the dozes. But when we had opened, we founde no man within. When the cheefe priests and the ruler of the temple, and the hye prestes heard these thynges they doubted of the wher vnto this wolde growe.

Then came one and he wed them: behold, the men that ye put in pylson, stande in the temple, and teache the people. The wente the ruler of the temple, with mynysters and brought the wythout violence. For they feared the people, lest they shoulde haue bene stoned. And when they hadde brought them, they set them before the counsell. And the cheefe priest asked them, sayng: whyd not we straitely commaund you, that ye shuld not teache in thys name? And beholde, ye haue fylled Ierusalem with your doctryne, and intende to bypnyng this mans blood vpon vs.

Peter and the other Apostles answered, and sayd: We ought more to obeye God then men. The God of our fathers rasyed vp Iesus, whome ye slew, and hanged on tre. hym hathe God lyft vp with hys ryghte hande, to bee a ruler and a saupour, for to geue repentance to Israel, and for geuenesse of synns. And we are recorde of these thynges, whiche we saye, and so is also the holpe goost, whome God hath geuen to the that obeye him. When they herde that, they claued a- lunder, and sought meanes to slea them. Then stood there vp one in the counsell, a Pharise, na- med med * Gamalell, a doctor of the lawe (had in reputation among al the people) & commaunded the Apostles to go ashye in the space, and sayd vnto them: Ye men of Iherusalem, take hede to your selues, what ye intend to do, touching these men. For before these dayes toke vp one Eubodas, boasting hym selfe, to whom resorted a nombre of men, aboute a fouer hundred, which was slayne: and they all whiche beleued hym, were scattered abrode, and brought to nought. After this man, was there one Judas of * Galile in the dayes of the tribute, and drew away much people after hym. He also perseyued and al coven (as many as harkened to hym) were scattered abrode. And nowe I saie vnto you: refrain your selues from these men, and let them alone. For if this counsell, or this worke be of men, it wyl come to nought. But and if it be of God, ye can not destroie it, lest happely ye be founde to strepne agaynst God. And so hym agreed the other: and whē they had called the Apostles, they beate them, * and commaunded that they should not speake in the name of Iesu and let them go.

And they departed from the counsell, * repossyng, that they were counted worthy, to suffer rebuke for his name. And daye in the temple & in every house they ceased not, to teach and ppeache Iesus Christ.

¶ The vi. Chapter.

Cornelius (an hebrean) was ordered in the congregation, to be loosed in necessitye of the body, that the Apostles made waite ouer the word of God, & then to be accused.

In those daies, when the nombre of the disciples grew, ther arose a grudge amonge the Seekes agaynst the hebreues, because they: widowers wer despised in the da-ly ministraciō. Then the xii. called the multitude of the disciples together, and sayd: It is not mete, that we shuld leue y word of god & serue tables. Wherfore brethren loke ye out among you, frut men of honest report, and full of the holy ghoſt and wysedome, to whom we maye commytte this busynes. But we wyl geue oure selues continuallye to prayer, and to the mynistracion of the worde. And the sayng pleased the whole multitude. And they chole Steuen a man full of fapth and full of the holy ghoſt, and Philip, and Procorus and Nicanor, and Tymon, and Permenas, and * Nicolas a conuerter of Antioche. These they set before the Apostles: and when they had prayed, they laid theyr handes on them.

And the worde of God encreased, and the nombre of the disciples multiplied in Ierusalem greatly, and a great company of the prestes were obedyent to the saythe.

* And Steuen, full of fapth and power, dyd greaue wonders and myracles among the people. Then there arose certen of the Synagoge, whiche is called the Synagoge of the Libertines, and Syrenites, and of Alexandria, & of Celicia, and of Asia, dysputyng with Steuen, * And they coulde not resist the wysedome and the fozet, * which spake. ¶

Then lent they in men, whiche said: we haue heard hym speake blasphemous wordes agaynst Moyses, & agaynst God. And they moued the people and the elders and the doctores, and came vpon hym and caught him, and brought him to the counsell, and brought forth false witness, whiche sayde: This man ceaseth not to speake blasphemous wordes agaynst this holy place and the lawe: for he herde hym saye: Iesus of Nazareth shal destroye this place, and shall chaunge the ordynances, whiche Moyses gaue vs. And all that sate in the counsell, looked stedfastlye on hym, and sawe hym face as it had ben the face of an Angell.

¶ The vii. Chapter.

Stephen maketh answer to his accusation, rebuketh the hardnedd Jewes, and is shewed to death.

Then sayd the chiefe prest: is it euen so? And he sayd: ye men, brethren, and fathers, hearken. The God of glory appeared vnto our father Abraham whē he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelte in charrā, & said vnto him: * Set the out of thy countrey, and from thy kindred, and come into the land which I shal shewe the. Then came he out of the land of Chalder, & dwelt in Charrā. And fro thence, whē his father was dead, he brought hym into his land in which ye now dwell, and he gaue hym none inheritaunce in it, no not the bredth of a fote: * and promysed that he would geue it to hym to possesse, and to hym sēde after hym, when as yet he had no chylde.

God verely spake on this wyse: * that his sēde shoulde sojourne in a straunge lande, and that they shuld kepe them in bondage, and entreated them euell. iii. C. yeres. And the nayon to whom they shalbe in bondage, wyl I iudge, sayd God. And after that shall they come forth, and serue me in this place. * And he gaue him y couenaunt of circumcision. * And he begat Isaac, and circumcised hym the eyght day, and * Isaac begat Jacob, & Jacob begat y twelue patryarches. * And the patryarches hauyng indignacion, sold Ioseph into Egypte. And God was with hym, and deliuered hym oute of all his aduersities, and gaue him fauour and wysdome in the syght of Pharaoh kyng of Egypte, And he made hym gouernoure ouer Egypte, and ouer al his household.

* But there came a deth ouer al the land of Egypte and Canaan, and great affliction that oure fathers founde no sustenance. But whē Jacob herde that there was corne in Egypt, he sent oure fathers syt. * And at the second tyme Ioseph was knowen of his brethren, & Iosephs kynred was made knowe vnto Pharaoh. Then sent Ioseph a messager, and called his father to be brought, & all hym kinne: lxxv. soules. * And Jacob descended into Egypte, * and died both he and oure fathers, and were carryed ouer into Sichem and layd in the sepulchre, * that Abraham bought for money of the sonnes of Emor, the sonne of Sichem.

¶ Illi. But

The Actes

E But when the tyme of the promise was nyr (which God had sworne to Abraham) the peple grete and multiplied in Egypt till another kinge arose which knewe not of Joseph. The same deit subreily with one hintred, and cruel treated our fathers, and made the cast out of young children that they shuld not remaine a-lyue. The same tyme was Moses bozne, and was acceptable vnto God, and nourished vp in his fathers house thre monethes. When he was cast out, Pharaos daughter toke him vp nourished hym vp for her owne sonne. And Moses was learned in all maner wisdom of Egyptians, & was myghtie in dedes & in wordes.

And when he was full fourtye yere olde, it came in his heart, to visite his brethren & chyldren of Israel. And when he sawe one of them suffre wrong, he defended him, and auenged his quarrel that had the batme done to hym, & smote the Egyptia. For he supposed his brethren wold haue vnderstande howe that God by his hand shuld deliuer them. But they vnderstode not.

D And the nexte daye he shewed hym selfe vnto them as they stroue, and wold haue set them at one agayne, sayng: Sirs, ye are brethren, why hurt ye one another? But he that dyd his neigh-boure wronge, thrust him away, sayng: Who made the a ruler and a iudge ouer vs? wilt thou kill me, as thou dydest the Egyptian yesterdaye? Then fled Moses at that sayng, & was a stranger in the land of Madian, where he begat two sonnes.

E And when fortye yeres were crypted, they appeared to hym in the wyldernes of mounte Sinai an angell of the Lord in a flambe of fyre in a bush. When Moses sawe it, he wondred at the sight. And as he drew neare to behold, the voyce of the Lord came vnto hym. I am the God of thy fathers, The God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Moses trebled, & durst not behold. Then sayde the Lord to hym. Put of thy shoes from thy fete, for the place where thou standest, is holpe ground. I haue perfectly sene the asslycyon of my people which is in Egypt, and I haue heard their gronyng, and am come downe to deliuer the. And nowe come, and I will sende the into Egypte.

E This Moses whome they forsooke (sayng who made the a ruler and a iudge?) the same dyd God sende to be a ruler and a deliuerer by the handes of the angel which appeared to hym in the bush. And the same brought them oute, drewng wonders and signes in Egypt, & in the red see, and in the wyldernes fortye yeres.
This is that Moses, whych sayd vnto chyldren of Israel: A prophete shall the Lord poure God raple vp vnto you of poure brethren, lyke vnto me, hym shall ye heare.

Thys is he that was in the chregaryd in the wyldernes w the angel, whych spake to hym in the mount Sinai, and wth our fathers. Thys man receyued the word of life to gene vnto vs, to whom our fathers wolde not obey, but cast it from them, and in theyr hartes turned backe agayne into Egypte, sayng vnto Aaron *make vs goddes. For as for thys Moses that was he be out of the land of Egypte, we wote not what is become of hym.

And they made a calse in those dayes and offered sacrifice vnto the ymage, and reioysed ouer the workes of their owne handes.

Then god turned hym selfe, and * gaue them vp, that they shoulde worshippe the holte of the lape, as it is writen in the booke of the prophetes. * Oye of the house of Israel, gaue ye to me sacrifices and meate offerings, by the space of fourty yeres in the wyldernes. And ye toke vnto you the tabernacle of Moloch, and the starre of poure God Remphan, figures whych ye made to worshippe them. And I wil translate you beyond Babylon.

Our fathers had the tabernacle of wytnesse in the wyldernes, as he had appoynted them, speaking vnto Moses: that he shuld make it accorpyng to the fashion & he had sene. Whiche tabernacle also oure fathers that came after, * brought in wth Josue into the posselsion of Gentyle, whom God dreue out befoze the face of our fathers, vnto the tyme of Dauid: whych founded fauoure befoze God, & wolde sayn haue found a tabernacle for the God of Jacob. But Salomon built hym an house.

* howbeit he that is best of all, dwelleth not in temples made with handes, as sayth the prophet: Heauen is my seate, and earth is my footestole. What house wyll ye buylde for me saith the Lord? or which is the place of my rest: haue not my hande made al these thynges?

Ye styffnecked and of vncircumcised hertes and eares, ye haue alwayes resistid the holpe ghost: as your fathers dyd, so do ye. Whiche of the prophetes haue not your fathers persecuted And they haue slaine them which shewd befoze of the comynge of that iust, whom ye haue now betrayed, & murthred. And ye also haue recea-ued the lawe * by the mynistacyon of Angels, and haue not kept it.

¶ When they herde these thynges, their ber-tes claued a shinder, & they gnashed on hym wth theyr tethe. But he beyng full of the holy ghost loked vp steadfastly wth his eyes into heauen, and sawe the glozy of God, and Jesus standing on the ryght hande of God, and sayde: Behold: He the heuens open, and the sonne of man stan-dyng on the ryght hande of God. Then they gaue a shout with a loude voyce, and * stopped their eares, and ranne vpon him al at once, and cast hym out of the cite, and * stoned hym. And the witnes laich downe theyr clothes at a yong mans fete, whose name was Scaule. And they stoned Scaulen, calling on, and sayng: Lord Jesus, receaue my sperte. And he knelled down and cryed with a loude voyce: Lord, * laue not thys synne to theyr charge. And when he had declared spoken he fell a slepe. ¶

The viii. Chapter. ✠

¶ Saul persecuteth the children. The Apostles are stablished at Antioch. Priscilla cometh from Rome, & man-nagius is baptised, he dwelleth with the church at Antioch.

Saul

And at that tyme there was a great persecution against the congregacyon which was at Jer: salem and they were all scattered abroad into all parts of Jewry and Samaria &c.
But denout we dyed yet be greafe lamentacyon ouer hym.

Thus Saul he * made haue of the congregacion, and entred into every house, and drave oute both men and women and thrust them into prisoe. Therfore they were scattered abrode went euery where preaching the word of God.

B Then came Phylipp into a cyte of Samaria, and preached Christ vnto them. And the people gaue hede vnto those thynges which Phylipp spake wpych one accord, hearyng and seying the myracles whpych he dyd. For vnclean spyttes cryng wyth loud voyces, came out of many that were possesed of them. And many taken wyth palsyes, and many that halted, were healed. And there was great ioye in y cyte. I

But there was a certayne man, called Symon, whych before tyme in the same cytie vled doctchaſte, and bewtyched the people of Samaria, ſayinge that he was a man that coulde do greate thynges. Whom they regarded, from the leaſt to the greateſt, ſaying: this man is the power of god, whych is called great. And him they ſet much by, becauſe that of longe tyme, he had bewtyched them with ſoceries.

C But as soon as they gave credence to Philippes preaching of the Kingdome of God, and of the name of Iesus Christe they were baptised both men and women. Then Symon hymselfe beleeued also. And when he was baptised, he continued with Philip, wondering, beholding the myracles and signes, whiche were shewed

¶ When the Apostles whiche were at Ierusalem heard say, that Samaria had receaved the worde of God they sente vnto theym Peter and Iohn. Which when they were come home prayed for them, that they myghte receaue the holy ghost: For as yet he was come on none of them but they were baptised onely in the name of Christ Iesu. Then layd they theyr handes on them, & they receaued the holy ghost. ¶

When Symon sawe that thowowe laing on of the Apostles bandes, the holy ghost was geuen, he offered them money, sayng: geue me also this power, that on whomsoer I put the bandes, he may receaue the holy ghoste. But Peter sayde vnto him: thy money perishe with the, because thou hast thoughte * that the gyfte of God maye be obtained wth money. Thou hast neyther parte nor felowshipp in this busines. For thy berthe is not ryght in the syght of God. Repent therefore of this thy wychednes and praye God, that the thought of thine hert may be forgeuen the. For I perceyue that thou art full of better gal. and wrapped in iniquite.

Then answered Simon and sayde: * praye ye to the lord for me that none of these thinges which ye haue spoken, fall on me. And they when they had testified and preached the word of god retained toward Jerusalem, and preached the gospel in many cities of the Samaritans.

¶ The angel of the Lord spake vnto Haggai, saying: Arise and go towards the south vnto the way that goeth downe from Ierusalem vnto the citty of Saza, whych is in the desert. And he arose, and went on. And behold, a man of Ethiopia (a chamberlayne, and of great authority: With Cadace quene of the Ethiopians, and had the rule of al her treasure) came to Ierusalem for to worshyp. And as he returned home agayne sytting in hys charet he ced to saye the Prophete.

Then the spere layde vnto Philip: go nra and toyne thy selfe to ponder charret. And Phi lyp ran to hym, and herd hym rede the prophete Esay, and sayd: Under standest thou what thou readest? And he sayd: how can I, except I had a guyde? And he despyed Philip, that he wolde come vp, and spt with hym. The tenoure of the scripture whiche he red, was this: * He was led as a shepe to be slayn: and like a lambe domme before his shearer, so opened he not hys mouth.
Because of hys humblenes he was not esteemed.
But who shall declare his generacon: for hys lyfe is taken from the earth? The chamberlain answered Philip, and sayd: I praye the of whiche spakest the prophete thys: of hym selfe, or of some other man?

Philip opened hys mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached vnto him Iesus. And as they went on their way, they came vnto a certen water, & the chamberlaine sayd: See, here is water: what doth let me to be baptised? Philip sayde vnto hym: If thou belieue wth all thine heart thou mayest. And he answered & sayde: I beleue that Iesus Christ is the sonne of God. And he commaunded the charret to stand still. And they went downe both into the water, both Philip and also the chamberlayne, and he baptised him. And asone as they wer come out of the water the spete of the Lorde caught a waue Philip and the chamberlayne sawe hym nomore. And he went on his waue reioysynge, but Philip was founde at Azotus. And he walked thowoe out the coūtre, preachinge in all the cities, tyll he came to Cesarea. H is harte for the to hyche agaynst the pyches. And he haue trembleng. and after that sayde. Lozbe. & what wylt thou haue me to do. & the Lozbe sayd vnto hym. arylse and opene the eyes: and it shal be euen as thou sayest. And the men whiche were with him, stode amazed, hearyng a voyce, but seing no man. And Saul arose from the earth, and when he opened hym eyes, he sawe no man. But they led hym by the hande, and broughte hym into Damasco. And he was thre dayes without syght, and neyther dyd eate nor drynke. And there was a certayne discypyle at Damasco, named Ananias, and to hym sayde the Lozbe in a visio: Ananias. And he sayde: Beholde, I am here Lozbe: and the Lozbe sayde vnto hym: Arylse, & go into the street which is called streight, and seke in the house of Iudas after one called Saul of Tharsus. For beholde he prayeth, & hath sene a visyon a man named Ananias comming into hym, and puttynge his handes on him, that he myght receaue his syght.

Then Ananias answered: Lozbe, I haue herde by many, of this man howe muche euell he hath done to thy sayntes at Jerusalem. And here he hath the auctorite of the hys preastes, to bynde all that call on thy name. The Lozbe said vnto hym: go thy waye, for he is a chosen vessel vnto me, to beare my name before the Gentyls, and kynge, and the chylidren of Israel. For I wyl shewe hym howe greate thynges he must suffer for my names sake.

And Ananias went his waye, and entered into the house, and put his handes on hym, and sayde: Brother Saul, the Lozbe that appered vnto the in the waye as thou comest, hath sene me, that thou myghtest receaue thy syght, and be fylled with the holy goost. And immediatly there fel from his eyes as it had ben scales, and he receaued syght: and arose, and was baptised, and receaued meate, and was comforted.

Then was Saul certayn dayes with the discyples whiche were at Damasco. And straghte waye he preached Chryste in the synagoges, how that he was the sonne of God, but all that heard hym, were amazed, & sayed: Is not this he, that spoyled the which called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hyther for that entent, that he myght byng them bound vnto the preistes? But Saul encreased the more in strenght, & confounded the Jewes which dwelt at Damasco, affirmynge that this was very Chryst.

And after a good whyle, the Jewes toke counsell together, to kyl hym. But they lastynge a waye was knowen of Saul. And they watched the gates day and nyght to kyl hym. The discyples toke hym by night & put him thowow a wall, and let hym downe in a basket.

And whil Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assayed to couple hymself to the discyples. but they were all afrayed of him, and beleued not that he was a discypyle. But Barnabas toke him, and broughte him to the apostles, & declared to them, how he had sene the Lozbe in the waye and that he had spoken to him, and howe he had dooen boldely as Damasus in the waye. And he hadde synned against the Lord Iesu. And he stood against the Grekes, but they would not to see hym. Which when the brethren heard, they broughte him to Cesarea, and sent hym forth to Tharsus. Then had the congregacions rest thowow all Jewrye, and Galilee and Samaria, and were edified and walked in the feare of the Lozbe, and multiplied by the comfort of the holy gooste.

And it chaunced as Peter walked thowow foute all quarters: he came also to the sayntes, whiche dwelt at Lydda. And there he founde a certen man named Eneas, whiche had kepte hymselfe eynge yeres, and was sicke of the palsy. And Peter sayde vnto hym: Eneas, the Lozbe Iesu Chryste make the whole, arylse, and make thy bed. And he arose immediatly. And all that dwelt at Lydda and Saron saw him and touned to the Lozbe.

There was at Joppa a certayne woman a discypile named Tabitha (whiche by interpreta- tion is called Dorecas) she was full of good workes and almes dedes, whiche she dyd. And it chaunced in those dayes that she was sycke, & dyed. Whom when they had washed, they layed her in a chamber. But for as muche as Lydda was nye to Joppa, and the discyples had heard that Peter was there, they sent vnto him, desyring him, that he wolde not be greded to come vnto them.

Peter arose, and came with them. And when he was come, they broughte hym into the chamber. And all the wydowes stode rounde aboute hym wepyng, and shewynge the coates and garments whiche Dorecas made, whyle she was wyth them. And Peter put them all forth, and knied downe, and prayed: and turned hym to the bodye, and sayde Tabitha, arylse, and he opened her eyes, & when she sawe Peter, she sat vp. And he gaue her the hande, and lft her vp.

And when he had called the sayntes and wydowes he shewed her alme. And it was knowen thowowout all Joppa, and many beleued in the Lozbe. And it fortuned, that he taried many dayes in Joppa with one Simon a tanner.

The .i. Chapter. The vision that Peter sene. How he was sent to Cornelius. The heathen also receueth the sperte and are baptised.

There was a certayne man in Cesarea called Cornelius, a capytayn of soldiers of Italy, a deuout man & one that feared god wai his houtholde whiche gaue muche almes to the people, & prayed god alway. The same saw by a vision evidently about the .ix. hour of the day an angel of god comynge into him, & sayng vnto him Cornelius, what he loked on, he was afraid & said: what is it lozbe? he said vnto hi: Thy pray- ers & thy almes are come vp into remembraunce before god. And now send me to Joppa, & call for one Simon whose surname is Peter. He lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the seeyde. he shal tel the, what thou oughtest to do.

And when the angel was departed, he called unto his household servants, and a denoute follower of them that waited on him, and tolde them all the matter, and sent them to Joppa.

B On the morrow as they went on their journey, and drew nye unto the cypre, Peter went up upon the toppe of the house to pray, about the syxe houre. And when he was an hongred he wolde haue eaten. But while they made readye he fell into a trance, and sawe heauen opened, and a certayn vessel come down vnto him as it had bene a great sheet layd at the four corners, and was let downe to the earthe, wherein were all manner of fouresoted beastes of the earth and vermes and wormes and foules of the ayre. And ther came a voice to him, sayng rise Peter kill & eate. But Peter sayde: nor so Lord, for I haue neuer eaten any thyng that is common or vncleane. And the voyce spake vnto hym a gayne the seconde tyme: what God hath cleynted that call thou not common. This was done thysle, and the vessel was receyued up agayne into heauen. While Peter also mused in hymselfe what this vision (which he had sene) meane beholde, the men whiche were sent from Cornelius had made inquraunce for Symons house and stood before the doore: and called oute one, and asked whether Simon whiche was surnamed Peter were lodged there. While Peter thought on the vision, the syet sayd vnto him beholde, men seke the: arple therefore, and get the doun, & go with them, and doubt not, for I haue sent them. Peter wente doun to the men whiche were sente vnto him from Cornelius: sayde: Beholde, I am he whome ye seke, what is the cause wherfore ye are come? They sayde Cornelius the capytayne a iust man, and one y feareth God, and of good report among all the people of the Jewes was warned by an holpe angel to send for the into his house, and to here wordes of the. Then called he them in, and lodged them. And on the morrowe, Peter went awaye with them, and certayne brethren from Joppa accompanied hym. And the thyrde day entred they into Cesarea. And Cornelius waited for them, and had called together hys kynsmen and special frendes. And as it chaunced Peter to come in: Cornelius met hym, & fel doune at hys fyete, and worshipped hym. But Peter toke hym vp, sayng: stande vp, I my selfe also am a man. And as he talked with hym, he came in, and founde many that were come together. And he sayde vnto them: Ye knowe howe that it is an unlawfull thyng for a man that is a Jewe, to company or come vnto an alienre. But God hath thewed me, that I shuld not call any man common or vncleane: therfore came I vnto you withoute delaye, assone as I was let for. I aske therefore, for what intent haue ye let for me? And Cornelius sayde: Thys daye nowe

C four dayes aboute thys houre, I satte fastyng and at the nygthe houre I prayed in my house, and beholde, a man stood before me in bryghte clothynge, and sayde: Cornelius, thy prayer is heard, & thyne almes dedes are had in remembrance in the syghte of God. Send men therefore to go to Joppa, and call for Simon whose surname is Peter. He is lodged in the house of one Symon a tanner by the see syde whiche as sone as he is come, shall speake vnto the. Then sent I for the immediatly, and thou haste well done, that thou arte come. Nowe therefore are we all here present before God, to heare al thynges that are commaunded vnto the of God.

Then Peter opened his mouth, and sayde Of a truth I perceyue that there is no respect of persones with God: but in all people, he that feareth him, and worke the righte wysenesse, is accepted with hym.

Ye knowe the preachynge that God sente vnto the chyldren of Israel: preachynge peace by Iesu Christ, whiche is Lord ouer al thynges. Whiche preachynge was published thorow all Jewrye (and began in Galile, after the baptyse which Iohn preached) howe God anointed Iesus of Nazareth with the holy goost and with power. Whych Iesus went about doynge good, and healing al that were oppressed of the deuill, for God was with him. And we are witneses of al thynges which he dyd in the land of the Jewes and at Jerusalem: whom they slew and hanged on tree. Him God rayled vp the thyrde daye, and thewed hym openly not to al the people, but vnto vs wytnesses (chose before of God for that same intent) whych dyd eate & drynke with hym, after he arose from deathe. And he commaunded vs to preach vnto y people & to testifye y it is he, whych was ordeyned of God to be y iudge of quyetie and dead & to hym geue all the prophetes wytnes, that thorow his name whosoever beleueth in hym shall receiue remission of synnes.

While Peter yet spake the wordes, the holy goost fel on al them whych heard the preachynge. And they of the circumcysion which beleued, were astonnyed, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentyles also was shed out the gyfte of the holpe ghost. For they heard them speake wyth tonges, and magnify God. Then answered Peter: & any man for whiche water that these shoulde not be baptyzed, whiche haue receyued the holy goost as wel as we? And he commaunded them to be baptyzed in the name of the Lord. Then praised they him to tary a fewe dayes.

The xi Chapter.

Peter sheweth the cause wherfore he wrote to the heathen Barnabas & pauls preachers vnto the heathen. A gadus propheseth deeth to come.

As the Apostles & brethren that were in Jewrye, herd that the heathen had also receyued the worde of God. And while Peter was come vp to Jerusalem they that were of the circumcysion contended against hym sayng: Thou wentest into men vncircumcised, and dyddest eate with them.

But Peter rebered the matter from the beginning, & expounded it by ordre vnto the sayng: I was in the cypre of Joppa, prayng and in a trance, I sawe a vylpon a certayne vessel descende descende as it had bene a greete spete, let bovyne from heauen by the four corners and yet came to me. Into y<sup>e</sup> which when I had fastened mine eyes, I consyded and sawe fourefoote beastes of the earth and vermen of wormes, and foules of the ayer. And I herd a voyce sayng vnto me arylse Peter, slape, and eate. But I sayd, not so Lord, for nothyng comen of vnciene hathe at any time entred into my mouth. But y<sup>e</sup> voyce answered me againe from heauē: coast not thou those thynges comen whyche God hath cleyf. And this was done thre tymes. And al were taken vp agayne into heauen.

And beholde, immediatlye there were three men already come vnto the hous where I was, sent fro Celarea vnto me. And the spiete sayde vnto me, that I shoulde go with them without doubtyng. Moreover, these spye brethren accompanied me, and we entred into the mans house. And he shewed vs, howe he had sene an angell in his house, which stode and sayde to him: send men to Joppa and call for Symon, whose surname is Peter: he shall tell the wordes, whereby both thou and all thyne house shalbe saued.

And as I began to preache, the holy gooste fell on them, as he dyd on vs at the begynnyng. Then came it to my remembrance, howe that the Lord sayde: Iohn baptised wth water, but ye shalbe baptised wth holy goost. Forasmuch then as God gaue them lyke gyftes as he dyd vnto vs, when we belueued on the Lord Iesus Christ: what was I that I should haue with stande God? When they hearde this, they held thep<sup>r</sup> peace, and glorified God sayng: then had God also to the Gentyls graunted repentance vnto lyfe.

They also whyche were scattered abroad thorow the assyrtion that arose aboute Stryuen, walked thorow vnto Phenices, Cyprus, and Antioche, preachyng the word to no man but vnto the Jewes only. Some of them were men of Cyprus and Syrien, whiche when they were come to Antioche, spake vnto y<sup>e</sup> Grekes, and preached y<sup>e</sup> Lord Iesus. And the bande of the Lord was with them, and a great nombre belueued and turned vnto the Lord.

Epbynges of these thynges came vnto the eares of y<sup>e</sup> congregaciō, which was in Jerusalem. And they sent forth Barnabas, that he shuld go vnto Antioche. Whyche when he came, and had sene the grace of God, was glad, and exhorted them all, that with purpose of hert they hold continually cleaue vnto the Lord. For he was a good man, and ful of the holy goost and of faith: & much peple was added vnto y<sup>e</sup> Lord. Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus, for to seke Saul. And when he hadde founde hym he brought hym vnto Antioche.

And it chaunced that a whole yere they had thep<sup>r</sup> conuersacion wth the congregacion there, and taughte muche peple, in so muche, that the disciples of Antioche were the fyrste that were called Chyssen.

In those dayes came prophetes from the ctyte of Jerusalem vnto Antioche: And there stode vp one of them named Iagab, and synsped by the spye. And there shoulde be great death thorow out all the world which came to passe in the Emperours Claudius dayes. Then the disciples euen with accordyng to hym abyllie, purposed to sende socoure vnto the chyrche whiche dwelt in Ierusalem. Whiche thyng they also did, and set it to the elders by the handes of Barnabas and Saul.

The .xii. Chapter.

Herode persecuteth the Chyssen. Syllich James, and purteth Peter in prison, whome the Lord deliuereth by an Angell. The same tyme Herode the

the same tyme Herode the kynge stretched forth his handes to vete ceeten of the congregacion. And he kylled James the brother of Iohn wth the swerde. And because he sawe that it pleased the Jewes he proceeded further, and toke Peter also. Then were the dayes of swete bryade. And when he had caught hym, he put him in prison also, & deliuered hym to four quaternions of souldiers to be kept, entendyng after Easter to bryng him forth to the people. And Peter was kepte in prison: but prayer was made without ceasing of the congregaciō vnto God for hym. And when Herode would haue brought hym out vnto the people, y<sup>e</sup> same nyght slept Peter betwene two souldiers, bound wth two chaynes, & the keepers before the doore kepte the prison. And beholde, the Angell of the Lord was there present, & a lyght shyned in the habitacion. And he smote Peter on the syde, & stirred hym vp, sayng: arylse vp quickly. And his chaynes fell of from hym handes. And y<sup>e</sup> angell said vnto hym: gedy thy selfe, and bynde on thy sandales. And so he dyd. And he sayeth vnto hym: caste thy garment aboute the, and folowe me. And he came out and folowed hym, & wist not that it was truth why: he was done by the angell, but thought he hadde sene a vision. When they were past y<sup>e</sup> fyrste and the seconde watch, they came vnto y<sup>e</sup> yron gate, that leadech vnto the ctyte, & whiche opened to them by the owne accorde. And they went out, and passed thorow one strete, and forth wyth, the angell departed from hym.

And when Peter was come to hym selfe, he sayd: now I knowe of a surtepe, that the Lord hath sent his angell, & hath deliuered me out of the hand of Herode, & from all the waypnyng for, of the people of the Jewes. And as he consyded the thyng, he came to the house of Marye the mother of one Iohn, whose surname was Marke, where manye were gathered together in prayer. As Peter knocked at the entyre doore, a damsell came fourth to hearken, named Rhoda. And when she knewe Peters voyce she opened not the entyre for gladnes, but ran in, and told how Peter stode before the entyre. And they sayd vnto her: thou arte madde. But she affirmed y<sup>e</sup> it was euen so. Then sayd they it is his Angell. But Peter continued knockyng: and when they had opened the doore, and and sawe him, they were astounded. And when he had beckened vnto them with the hand, that they might holde the peace, he tolde them by what means the Lord had brought them oute of the payson. And he sayde: go ye these thynges vnto James and to the brethren. And he departed, and went into another place.

¶ And as it was day, there was no lpttel a do amonge the souldyers, what was become of Peter. When Herode had soughte for hym, and founde hym not, he examyned the keepers and commaunded them to be caried away. And he descended from Jewry to Cesaria, and there abode. Herode was displeased wth them of Tyre and Sidon, But they came al with one accord to hym, and made intercession vnto Blastus the kynge chamberlayn, and desired peace, because they countre was noysed up the kyngeys prouision. And vpon a daye appointed, Herode araped hym in royal apparel, and set him in his seate & made an oracion vnto the. And the people gaue a howte, sayng: it is the voyce of a God, and not of a mā. And immediately an angel of the Lord smote hym because he gaue not god the honour, & he was eaten of wormes & gaue by the goost. And the worde of God grewe & multiplied. And Barnabas and Paul returned to Jerusalem, when they hadde fulfilled theyr offyce, & toke with them. ¶ Ihon whose surname was Marke.

The xlii Chapter.

¶ Paul and Barnabas are called to preache among the heathen. Of Sergius Paulus and Elimas the sovereyn paule preachers at Antioche.

¶ Here wer in the congregation that is at Antioche, certayne prophetes, and teachers: as Barnabas and Symon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manahen. Herode the Tetrarches noysfellow, and Saul. As they ministered to the Lord and fasted, the holy goost sayde: separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the worke wher vnto I haue called the. And when they had fasted and prayed, and layd their hands, on the they let them go. And they after they were sent forth of the holy goost, departed vnto Seleucia, and fro thence they sayled to Cyprius. And when they were at Salamis, they serued the word of God in the Synagoges of the Jewes. And they had Ihon to thei minister.

¶ When they had gone thowoe the yle vnto Paphos, they founde a certayn sozerer, (a fals prophete, a Jewe) whose name was Bariesu, whyche was wth the ruler of the country one Sergius Paulus a prudente man: The same ruler called vnto hym Barnabas and Saul and desired to heare the worde of God, But Elimas the sozerer (for so is his name by interpretation) withstode them, and soughte to turne the ruler away fro the faith. Then Saul whyche (also is called Paul) beyng full of the holy goost, set his eyes on hym, and sayde: O full of all subtiltie and disceitfulness, thou child of the deuill, thou enemy of all righteousnesse: wylte thou not cease to peruerter the straight wayes of the Lord.

And now beholde, the hande of the Lord is vpon the and thou shalt be blinde, and not se the sunne for a season. And immediately, there fell on hym a myste and a darcknes, and he wente aboute, sekyng them that should lead hym by the hande. Then the ruler when he sawe what had happened beleued, and wondred at the doctrine of the Lord.

¶ When Paul departed from Paphos, they that were wth hym, came to Perga in Pamphilia: and Ihon departed from them, and returned to Jerusalem. But they wandred thowoe the countreys, and came from Perga to Antioche in Pisidia, and went into the synagoge on the Sabbath daye, and sate downe. And after the lecture of the lawe and the prophetes the rulers of the synagoge sente vnto them, sayng: ye men and brethren, if ye haue any sermo to exhorte the people, say on.

¶ Then Paule stood vp, and beckened with the hand for silence, and sayde: Men of Israel and ye that feere God, geue audience. The God of thys people chose oure fathers, and exalted the people, when they dwelt as straungers in the lande of Egypte, and wth an hye arme broughte he them out of it, and aboute the tyme of forty yeres, suffered he their maners in the wyldernes. And he destroyed seynacyons in the lande of Canaan, & deuoyded theyr land to them by lot. And afterwarde, he gaue vnto the iudges aboute the space of foure hundred and fyttye yeres, vnto the tyme of Samuell the prophete. And afterwarde, they desired a king and God gaue vnto them. Saul the sonne of Cis, a man of the trybe of Ben Iamyn by the space of forty yeres, And when he was put downe, he set vp Dauid to be theyr kynge, of whom he reported sayng: I haue founde Dauid the sonne of Iesse, a man after myne owne hert, whych shall fulfill al my wyl.

¶ Of thys mannes seede hath the God accordynge as he had promised brought forth to Israel a saviour: one Iesus, when Ihon had fyrst preached before hym commynge the baptisme of repentance to Israel. And when Ihon had fulfilled his course, he sayd: whom ye thynke that I am, the same am I not. But behold, ther cometh one after me, whose shooes of his fete I am not worthy to loofe.

¶ Ye men and brethren, chyldren of the generacyon of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is thys worde of saluacion sente. For the inhabitants of Jerusalem and theyr rulers, because they knewe him not, nor yet the voyces of the prophetes whych are redde euery Sabbath daye, they haue fulfilled them in condemnynge hym: And when they found no cause of death in him, yet desired they Platte to kyl hym. And when they had fulfilled all that were wyrtten of him, they toke him downe fro the tree, and put hym in a sepulchre. But god rayled him againe from death, whiche came vp wth hym from Galile to Jerusalem: whiche are hym wytnesses vnto the people.

The Actes

And we declare vnto you, how that the promise which was made vnto the fathers, God hath fulfilled vnto they: chylidren. In vnto vs in that he aseyled vp Iesus agayn. As it is written in the seconde psalme. * Thou art my sonne this day haue I begotten the. As concerning that he aseyled him vp from deth, nowe nomore to retorne to corrupcion he said on this wyse: * The holy promyses made to Dauid, wyl I geue faithfully to you. Wherefore be sayeth also in another place. * Thou shalt not suffer thine holy to be corrupcion. For Dauid (after he had in this tyme fulfilled the wil of God) fell on slepe, and was layed vnto his fathers, and sawe corrupcion. But he whome God rayseth agayne sawe no corrupcion.

Be it knowen vnto you therfore (ye men and brethren) that whosoever this man is preached vnto you for geuene of synnes, & that by him all that beleue, are iustified from all thynges from whiche you coulde not be iustified by the lawe of Moyses. Beware therfore, lest that fall on you, which is spoken of in y prophetes: * Be holde, ye despyces, & wonder, perishe ye: for I do a worke in your dayes, whiche ye shal not beleue, though a man declare it you.

When the Jewes were gone oute of the congregacion, the Gentiles besought that they wold preache the worde the next Saboth. When the congregacion was broken vp, manye of the Jewes and vertuous proselites folowed Paul and Barnabas, whiche spake to them: & exhorted them to continue in the grace of God.

And y next Saboth daye came almost the whole cite together, to here the worde of God. But whē the Jewes sawe the people, they were full of indignacion and spake agaynst those thynges, whiche were spoken of Paul, spekyng agaynst it, and raylynge on it: Then Paul and Barnabas were bold and sayd: it was mete that the worde of God shulde by this haue bene preached to you, But seing ye put it from you, and thynke your selues vntoworthye of euersynge lyfe: lo, we turne to the Gentyls: for so hath the Lorde commaunded vs. * I haue made the a lyght of the Gentyls, that thou be the saluacyon vnto the end of the worlde.

When the Gentyls herde this, they were glad and glorified the worde of the Lorde, and belened, as many as were ordeyned vnto eternall lyfe. And the worde of the Lorde was published thowre oute all the region. But the Jewes moued the deuoute and honest women, and the chiefe men of the cite: and raised persecucion agaynst Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them out of the coastes: * But they booke of the duste of theyr fete agaynst them, and cam vnto Iconium. And the disciples were fylled with ioye and with the holy goost. ¶

The xiiii. Chapter.

Paul and Barnabas preache at Iconium, some beleue, some fene up seccion, At Lystra they wold be sacrifice to Barnabas and Paul, whiche refuse it and exhort the people to worshippe the true God. Paul is stoned: after that cometh he to Derba, & Mes, Iconium, and to Antioche.

¶ There was in Iconiū that thei wel harden her into synagoge of the Jewes, and so spake, that a Jewe and also of the Grekes beleued. But the vnbelening Jewes, stered vp, and vanquyted the myndes of the Gentils against the brethren: Long tyme abode they there, and quyt them selues boldly with the helpe of the Lorde, whiche gaue testimonye vnto the word of his grace, and graunted sygnes and wonders to be done by theyr handes. But the multitude of the cite was denyed: and parte held to the Jewes, and part with the apostles.

¶ When there was an assaunte made bothe of the gentyls & also of the Jewes with theyr rulers to do them violence, and to stone them they were ware of it, and fled vnto Lистра and Derba, cyties of Lycaonia, and vnto the regyon y lyeth rounde about, and there preached the gospel. ¶ And all the multitude was moued at theyr doctrine, but Paul & Barnabas carryed syl at Lистра. ¶ And there sat a certen man at Listra weake in his fete beyng a crepel from his mothers wombe, and neuer had walked. The same hearde Paul preache, whiche beholding hym, and perceyvinge that he hadde sayd to be whole, sayth with a loude voyce stand vpryght on thy fete: And he vert vp and walked. And whē the people saw what Paul had done, they lyft vp theyr voyces, sayng in the speache of Lycaonia: * Goddes are come downe to vs in the lykenes of men. And they called Barnabas Jupiter: and Paul Mercurius because he was the preacher. Then Jupiters priest, y dwelt befoze theyr cite, brought oren and garlandes vnto the pozebe, and wold haue done sacrifice with the people.

¶ Whiche when the Apostles, Barnabas and Paul herde of, they rente theyr clothes, and ra in amonge the people, cryng and sayng, syz why do ye this: * We are mortal men lyke vnto you, and preache vnto you, that ye shal turne from these vanities vnto the luyng God, which made heauen and earth and the ser and all thynges that are therein: the which in tymes past suffered all nacions to walke in theyr owne wayes. * Heere helesse, he leste not him selfe woute wytnesse, in that he shewed his benefytes from heauen, in geuyng vs rayne and fructifull seasons fylling oure heartes with foode and gladnes. And with these saynges, scarce refrained they the people, that they had not done sacrifice vnto them.

myng that we muste shewe muche tribulacion entre into the kyngdome of God. And whan they had ordeyned them elders by electiō in euery congregacion, and had prayed and fasted, they commended them to the Lord on whō they beleued. And whan they hadde gone thowre out of Asia, they came to Pamphilia, & whan they hadde preached the worde in Perga they descended into the cite Attalia, and thence departed by shipp to Antioche from whence they were committed vnto the Grace of God to the worke whiche they fulfilled. When they were come, and had gathered the congregacion together, they rehersed all that God had done by them and howe he hadde opened the doore of faith vnto the Gentiles. And there they abode long tyme with the disciples.

¶ The xv. Chapter.

And certayn men whiche came downe from Iewrye, taughte the brethren excepte ye be circumcysed after the maner of Moyses, ye can not be saved. So when there was ryfen dyscencion and dysputyng not a lyttell vnto Paule and Barnabas agaynst them, they determined that Paul and Barnabas, and certayne other of them should go vnto Jerusalem vnto the Apostles and elders about this question. And after they were brought on theyr way by the congregacion, they passed ouer Phenycy and Samaria, declaring the conuersion of the Gentyles, and they brought greate ioye vnto al the brethren. And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were receaued of the congregacion and of the Apostles & elders. And they declared all thynges that God had done by them. Then rose vp certayne of the secte of the Pharisees, whiche byd beleue, sayng: that it was nedefull to circumcise them and to commaunde them to kepe the lawe of Moyses. And the Apostles and elders came together, to reason of this matter.

And when there was muche dysputyng, Peter rose vp, and sayde vnto them: Ye men and brethren, Ye knowe howe that a good whyle ago, God byd chose among vs, the Gentyles by my mouth he should heare the worde of the Gospel, and beleue. And God which knoweth the hartes, bare them wytnesse, and gaue vnto them the holy goost, euen as he byd vnto vs, and put no difference betwene vs and them seying that we shuld saye: be purified theyr hartes. Howe therfore, why tempt ye God, to put on the disciples neckes the yoke whiche neyther our father nor we were able to beare? But we beleue that thow the grace of the Lord Iesu Christ we shall be saved, as they do. Then al the multitude was peased and gaue audience to Barnabas and Paul, which tolde what signes and wonders God had shewed among the Gentyles by them.

And when they helde theyr peace, James answered, sayng: Men and brethren, hearken vnto me. Simeon tolde, howe God at the beginning byd byp the gentyles, to receiue of the people in his name. And to this agree the wordes of prophetes, as it is wyrtten: After this I will returne, and will bypde agayne the tabernacle of Dauid, whiche is fallen downe and that whiche is fallen in decaye of it, will I bypde agayne, and I will set it vp, that the residue of men myght see after the Lord and also the Gentyles vnto whom my name is named, sayth the Lord, which doth al these thynges: knowel vnto God all his wordes from the begynnyng of the worlde. Wherefore my sentence is that we trouble not them: whiche from among the Gentyles, are turned to God: but that we wyte vnto them, that they abstayne them selues from synnes of ymages, and from fornicacyon, and from straungled, and fro bloude. For Moyses of olde tyme hath in euery cite the that preache hym, in the sinagoges, when he is red euery Sabboth daye.

Then pleased it the apostles and elders with the whole congregacion, to send chosen men of theyr owne compaigne to Antioche with Paul and Barnabas. They sent Judas whose name was Barsabas, and Syllas, which were these men among the brethren, and gaue them letters in their handes after this maner.

The apostles, and elders and brethren sende gretynges vnto the brethren whiche are of the Gentyles in Antioche, Siria and Cilicia. For as much as we haue herd, that certayne whiche departed from vs, haue troubled you with wordes, and combyed your myndes, sayng: Ye must be circumcised, and kepe the lawe, to whom we gaue no suche commaundement: It seemed therfore to vs a good thyng, when we were come to gether with one accord, to sende chosen men vnto you, with oure beloued Barnabas and Paule, men that haue reuerenced their lines for the name of our Lord Iesu Christ. We haue sent therfore Judas and Syllas, which shall also tell you the same thynges by mouth. For it seemed good to the holy goost & to vs, to charge you with no more, then these necessarye thynges that is to saye, that ye abstayne from thynges offered to ymages, and from bloude, and frome straungled, & fro fornicaciō. Fro which yf ye kepe your selues, ye shall do well. So fare ye wel.

When they therfore were departed, they came to Antioche and gathered the multitude together, and deliuered the epistle. Which whē they had red, they reioyced of the consolacion. And Judas and Syllas beyng Prophetes, exhorted the brethren with much preaching, and stregthened them. And after they had taried there a space, they were let go in peace of the brethren vnto the Apostles. Notwithstandyng it pleased Syllas to abide there still. (But Judas departed alonge to Jerusalem.) Paul and Barnabas continued in Antioche, teaching and preaching the worde of the Lord with other man.

But after a certayne space, Paule sayd vnto Barnabas: let vs go agayne, and visite our brethren in euery cite where we haue shewed the worde of the Lord, and let howe they do.

The Actes

And Barnabas went counsaile to take vnto them Iohn, whose name was Marke. And Paul would not take hym vnto theyr companye: wherby he departed from them in Antiochia, and went not with them to Cyprus. And the contention was so sharpe betwene them, that they departed a sunder one from the other: and so Barnabas toke Marke, & sayled vnto Cyprus. And Paul thole Silas, and departed beyng comitted of the brethren vnto the grace of God. And he went thorow Siria and Cilicia stablyshing the congregacions: (cominauynge to kepe the principles of the Apostles and elders)

The xviij Chapter.

Timothee is circumcised. Paul preacheth at Throlyppos, and there is he put in prison.

Then came he to Verba and to Listra. And beholde, a certayn discipyle was there named Timotheus a womans sonne which was a Jewesse and beleued: but his father was a Greke. Of whome reported well the brethren that were at Lystra and Iconium. Hym would Paul that he shulde go forth with hym, and toke and circumcised hym, because of the Jewes which were in those quarters: for they knewe all, that his father was a Greke. As they went thorow the cities they deliuered them ffrom decrees for to kepe, that were ordeyned of the Apostles and elders, which were at Jerusalem: And so were the congregacions stablyshed in the faith, and encreased in nombre daily.

When they had gone thorow out Phrygia, and the region of Salatia, and were forbydden of the holpe Good to preache the word in Asia, they came to Mysia, and soughte to go into Bithinia. But the spyte suffered them not: but when they had gone thorow Mysia, they came downe to Troada. And a vision appeared to Paul in the nyght. There stode a man of Macedonia and prayed hym, saynge: come into Macedonia, and helpe vs. After he hadsene the vision, immediately he prepared to go into Macedonia, beyng certified that the Lord hadde called vs, for to preache the Gospel vnto them.

When we leauesd furthe from Troada, we came with a strait course to Samothracia, & the next day to Neapoli, and from thence to Philippios whiche is a chiefe cytie in the partes of Macedonia, and a free cytie. We were in that cite abyding certayne dayes. And on the Saboth dayes we went out of the cytie besydes a ryuer, where men were wonte to pray. And we satte downe, and spake vnto the women which resorted thither. And a certayn woma (named Lydia) a seller of purple, of the ctyte of Thiatira, which worshipped God, gaue vs audience. Whose herte the Lord opened, that she attended vnto the thynges, whiche Paul spake. When she was baptised, & her household, she besought vs, sayng: Pse thyneke that I beleue on the Lord come into my house, and abyde there. And she constrained vs. And it fortuned as we went to praye, a certayne damsell possessed with a spyte that prophesped, met vs, whiche broughte her master, & mistres muche damage with prophesying. She folowed Paul and vs, and cryed, sayng: these men are the seruantes of the most hye God, which wende vnto vs the waye of saluacion. And this vnto the many dayes. But Paul not content, turned aboute, and sayd to the spyte. I comaunde the in yname of Iesu Christ, that thou come out of her. And he came out the same houre.

And when her Maister and Mistres sawe that y hope of theyr gaires was gone, they caughte Paul and Silas, and drewe the into the market place vnto the rulers and broughte them to the officers sayng. These menne trouble oure cytie seing they are Jewes and preache ordinarie, whiche are not lawfull for vs to receaue, neyther to obserue, seynge we are Romaynes. And the people ranne agaynst them and the officers rente their clothes, & comaunded them to be beaten with roddes. And when they had beaten them sore, they cast the into prison comaundyng the iayler of the prison to kepe the diligently: whiche when he had receyued suche comaundement, thrust them into the inner prison, and made their feete fast in the stocks.

At mydnyght Paul and Silas prayed, and lauded God. And the prisoners hearded theyn. And sodenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundacion of the prison was shaken, & immediatly all the dores opened & every mans bandes were loosed. When the keeper of the prison waked out of his slepe and sawe the prison dores open, he drewe out his sword & wold haue kyllid him selfe supposyng that the prisoners had ben fled. But Paul cried with a loud voice sayng: do thy selfe no harme, for we are al here. Then he called for a lyght, & sprang in, & came tremblyng vnto Paul, & fel downe at the feete of Paul, and Silas, & brought the out, & sayde Syrs, what muste I do to be saued? And they sayd: beleue on the Lord Iesus and thou shalt be saued & thy household. And they preached vnto him the word of the Lord, & to all that were in his house. And he toke them the same houre of the nyght, and washed theyr woundes, and was baptised and al they of his household straggled wape. And when he had broughte the into his house, he set meate before them, and toped that he wryth all his household, beleued on God.

And when it was day, the officers sent the ministers, sayng: let those men go. The keeper of the prison tolde this sayng to Paul, the officers haue sente word to lose you. Nowe therfore, get you hence and go in peace. Then sayd Paul vnto them: they haue beaten vs openly vncoude, for all that we are Romaynes, and haue cast vs into prison: and now wolde they sende vs away priuily: Rape verely, but let them come them selues, & set vs oute. When the ministers tolde these wordes vnto the officers, they feared when they herde, that they were Romaynes: thei came and besought them: and broughte them oute, and despyed the to departe out of the ctyte.

And they went out of the prison, and entered in-

¶ The. xviii. chap.

¶ Paul cometh to Thessalonica, where the people let the spirit on a voice. Paul cleareth a church in Athens where he preached the true and unknown God.

And they made their journey thow Amphipolis and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a Synagoge of the Jewes. And Paul (as bys manner was) wente in vnto them, and the Sabbath dayes declared out of the scripture vnto them, opening and al-legynge, that * Christ must nedes haue suffered and ryle agayne from death, & that this Iesus was Christ, whome (sayd he) I preached to you.
And some of them beleued, and came and companyed with Paul and Silas, & of the deuout Greekes a great multitude, and of the these we-men not a fewe.

¶ But the Jewes whych beleued not, had in-dygnacyon and toke vnto the euell men, which were vagabondes, and gathered a company, and set all the cytie on a roare, & made assault vnto house of Jason, & sought to bring them out to the people. And when they founde the not, they broke Jason, & certaine brethren vnto the deares of the cytie, saying: these that trouble the worlde are come hither also, whom Jason hath receaued pruely. * And these al do contrary to the decrees of Cesar, affirmynge another kyng one Iesus. And they troubled the people, & the officers of the cytie, whē they heard these thynges.
And whē they were sufficiently answered of Jason, and of the other, they let them go.

¶ And the hierarch immediately sent awaye Paul & Silas by nyght vnto Berrea. Which when they were come thither, they entred into the Synagoge of the Jewes. These wer the noblest of birth among the of Thessalonica, which receaued the word with al dyligence of mynd, and searched the scriptures dayly, whether those thynges were enen so. And many of the beleued also of worshippful women which were Greekes, and of men not a fewe. Whē the Jewes of Thessalonica had knowledge of the word of God was preched of Paul at Berrea, they came & moued the people there. And then immediately the hye-arch sent away Paul to go as it were to the see but * Silas and Tymotheus abode there still.

¶ And they by guide Paul brought hym vnto Athens & receiued a commaundement vnto Silas and Tymotheus, for to come to hym with speed & came they way. While Paul waited for the at Athens, his spere was moued in hym, whē he sawe the cite geul to worshipping of ymages.
Then disputed he in the synagoge with the Je-wes, and with the deuout persones: and in the market daylye with them that came vnto him by chaunce: Certayn Philosophers of the Epicures & of the Stoiches, disputed with hym.
And some ther were which said: what wil this babler saye? Other sayde: he seemeth to be a tydynges bringer of newe deuils, because he pre-chet vnto the Iesus and resurrection. And they toke him, & brought him into Querce street sayng: maye we not knowe what this newe doctryne wherof thou speakest, is? For & byngest strange thynges to our eares. We wold knowe therfore, what these thynges meane. For all the Athenians and strangeres whiche were there, gaue the felues to nosyng els, but ether to tell, or to heare some newe thyng.

¶ Paul stode in the myddes of Querce street, & sayde: ye men of Athens, I perceaue that in al thynges ye are superstitious. For as I passed by, and behelde the manner howe ye worshyppe youre goddes, I founde an altar wherin was wyrtten: vnto the vnkowen God. Whom ye then ignorantly worshyp, bym therē I vnto you: * God that made the world and al that are in it (sayng that he is Lord of heauen & earth), dwelleth not in temples made with handes, nether is worshipped with mennes handes, as though he nedes of any thyng, seing he himself * geueth lyfe and byethe to al men euery where and hath made of one bloude al nations of men for to dwell on al the face of the earth, and hath alligned before, howe longe tyme, and also the endes of theyr inhabytacyon, that they shoulde seke God, yf they myghte fele and fynd hym, though he be not farre from euery one of vs.
For in hym we liue, moue, and haue our being, as certayne of pouce o w le Portes sayde: For we are also hys generation. For as muche as as we are the generation of God, we ought not to thynke that the Godhead is lyke vnto gold, syluer or ston, grauen by craft and ymaginacyon of man.

* And the tyme of this ignorance God regarded not. * But now we byddeth all men euery where repent because he hath appoynted a day in the whiche he wyl iudge the worlde with righteousnesse, by that man by whome he hath appoynted, and hath offered sayde to all men, after that he had rayled hym from death.

¶ When they heard of the resurrection from death, some mocked, & other sayd: we wil heare the agayne of this matter. So Paul departed from among them. Howbeit certayn men claue vnto hym and beleued: amonge the which was Dionysius a senatour, and a woman named Damaris, and other with them.

¶ The. xviii. Chapter

¶ Paul precher at Corinthum continuing there a yeare and a halfe, gaue a gynn into Syria, cometh to Ephesus, & into Antioche. Of Apollos Aquila and Priscilla.

After this, Paul departed fro Athens and came to Corinthe, & founde a cer-tayne Jewe named Aquila, bozne in Syria, lately come fro Italy, with his wyfe Priscilla (because that the Emperour Claudius had commaunded all Jewes to depart from Rome) and he dwelt vnto them, because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, and wroughte: they craft was to make tress.

¶ And

The Actes

And he preached in the synagoge every Sabbath

Act. 13. 5

And exhorted the Jewes and the gentils. When Apollos and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paule was constrained by spirit, to testify to the Jewes that Jesus was very Christ. And when they layde contrary and blasphemed, he shook his raiment and said vnto them: your bloude be vpon your owne heades from hence forth. I go blamelesse vnto the gentils. And he departed thence, and entered into a certayne mannes house, named Justus, a worshipper of God, whose house ioyned eard to the synagoge. Howbeit, one Crispus, the ruler of the synagoge, beleued on the Lord with all his household, and manye of the Cozynthians whiche they gaue audience beleued, and were baptised.

1 Cor. 16. 9

Act. 18. 1

Then spake the Lord to Paul in the nyght by a vision: be not afrayed, but speake, and holde not thy peace: for I am with the, and no man shall inuade the: that shall hurte the. For I haue muche people in this cite. And he continued there a yere and syre monethes, and taught the the worde of God.

When Gallio was ruler of the countrey of Achaia, the Jewes made insurrection wyth one accorde agaynst Paul, and brought him to the iudgement seate, sayyng: this fellowe counsellith men to we thynp God contrary to the law. And when Paule notre was about to open his mouth, Gallio sayd vnto the Jewes, if it were a matter of wrange, or an euill dede: O ye Jewes, reason wold that I should heare you, but if it be a questyon of wordes or of names, or of your lawe, loke ye to it your selues. For I wyl be no iudge of such matters, and he draue them from the seate. Then at the Cyrenes toke Sosthenes the chiefe ruler of the synagoge, & smote hym before the iudges seate. And Gallio cared for none of these thynges.

Act. 18. 12

Paule after this, tarped there yet a good whyle, and then toke his leaue of the brethren & sayled thence into Cyria, Dyrsipila and Aquila accompanying hym. And he wore his head in Cenchrea, for he had a vowe. And he came to Ephesus and left them there, but he him self entered into the synagoge, and reasoned with the Jewes. When they desired hym to tary longer tyme with them, he consented not, but bad them fare well, sayyng: I must needs (at this fraste) that cometh bein Jerusalem: but I wyl retorne agayn vnto you, yf God wil. And he departed from Ephesus: and when he was come vnto Cesarea, and ascended vnto Antioche: and when he had taried there a while, he departed: & went ouer all the countrey of Galacia & Phrygia by order, strengthnyng all the dysciples.

Act. 18. 19

And a certayne Jewe named Apollos, bozne at Alexandria, came to Ephesus, an eloquent man, and myghty in the scriptures. The same was enformed in the waie of the Lord, & spake feruently in the synagoge, and taught diligently the thynges of the Lord and knewe but the baptisme of Iohn. And the same began to speake boldly in the synagoge. When Dyrsipila and Aquila hadde hearde, they toke hym vnto them, and expounded vnto hym the way of God more perfectly. And when he was dysposed to go into Achaia, the brethren wrote, exhortyng & dysciples to receaue hym. Whiche when he was come helped them muche whiche had beleued thow grace. For he overcame the Jewes myghtely, and that openly. The wyng by the scriptures, that Jesus was Christ.

The xix. Chapter.

Of the twelue men that were baptised at Ephesus and what miracles were done by Paule. Demetrius moueth sedition in the cite.

Fortuned that when Apollo was at Cozynthu, Paule passed thow the upper costes and came to Ephesus, and founde certayne dysciples, and sayd vnto them: haue ye receaued the holpe ghost, sence ye beleued? And they sayd vnto hym: no, we haue not heard whether there be any holpe ghost or no. And he sayd vnto them, wherewith were ye then baptised? And they sayde, wyth Iohns baptisme. Then sayde Paule: I don verely baptise wyth the baptisme of repentance, sayyng vnto the people, they should beleue on hym, whiche should come after hym: that is on Christ Jesus. When they herde this, they were baptised in the name of the Lord Iesu. And when Paule layed his handes vpon them, the holpe ghost came on them and they spake with tonges, and prophesied, and all the men were about twelue.

And he wente into the synagoge, and behaued hym selfe boldly for the space of thre monethes, dysputyng and geuyng thein exhortacyons of the kyngdome of God. When dyuers wexed hearted and beleued not, but spake euell of the waie of the Lord (and that before the multitude) he departed from them, and separated the dysciples. And he dyscuted daplye in the scole of one called Tyrannus. And this continued by the space of two yeaues: so that all they whiche dwelte in Asia, heard the worde of the Lord Iesu, both Jewes and Grekes. And God wrought speciall miracles by the handes of Paule: so that fro hym bodye were brought vnto the speche, nappyns and paretettes, and the dyspleases departed from them, and the euell synetes went out of them.

Then certayne of the vagabounde Jewes erozephtes, toke vpon them to call ouer thein (whiche hadde euell synetes) the name of the Lord Iesu, sayyng: We aduourse you by Iesu whome Paule preacheth. And there were seuen formes of one Sceua a Jewe, and chiefe of the preastes which dyd so. And the euell synete answered and sayde: Iesus I knowe, and Paule I knowe: But who are ye? And the man in whome the euell synete was, ranne on them, on them and outcast them, and persecuted against them, so that they fled out of that house nailed and wounded. And this was known to al f Jewes and Gentiles also which dwelt at Ephesus and feare came on them all, & the name of the Loz of Iesus was magnified.

And many that beleued, came, and confessed and shewed their workes. Many of them whiche used curious craftes, brought their bokes, and burned them before all men, and they counted the pryce of them, and founde it fiftie thousande sylvesterlinges. So myghtelpe grew the worde of God and prevailed. After these thinges were ended, Paul purposed in hys pryce (wha he had passed ouer Macedonia & Achaia) to go to Jerusalem, sayng: after I haue bene ether I must also se Rome. So sent he into Macedonia two of them that mynistrd vnto hym even Timotheus and Erastus: but he him self remained in Asia for a season.

The same tyme there arose no lytel ado about that way. For a certayn man named Demetrius, a syluer smyth (whiche made syluer shynes, for Diana was not a lytel benefical vnto the craftes mē. Whom he called together with the workemen of like occupacō, and sayd So as ye know that by this craft we haue aduantage. Wherefore ye see and heare not alone at Ephesus, but almoste thorow oute al Asia, this Paule hath perswaded and turned away much people, sayng: that they be not goddes whiche are made with handes. So that not one ly this our craft cometh into perrell to be set at nought: but also that the temple of the greete goddesse Diana shuld be despyled, and her magnyfyence shoulde be destroyed, whom al Asia and the world worshipeth.

When they heard these saynges they were full of wrath, and cryed out sayng: Great is Diana of the Ephelians: And all the cite was on a roze, and they rushed into the comen hall wth one assent, and caught Gaius & Aristarcus men of Macedonia, Pauls companions.
When Paul wold haue entered in vnto the people, the disciples suffred him not. But certayne of the chiefe of Asia (which were his frendes) set vnto hym, desyringe hym, that he wolde not please into the comen hall. Some therfore cryed one thing and some another, and the congrega-cion was all out of quyet, and the more parte hne we not wherfore they were come together.

Some of the company due for the Alexander, the Jewes thrustynge hym forwarde, Alexander bekened wth the hande, and wolde haue geuen the people an answer. When they knew that he was a Jewe, there arose a shoute almoste for the space of two houres, of al men, cryng: great is Diana of the Ephelians.

When the towne clark had ceased the people, he sayde: ye men of Ephesus, what man is it that knoweth not that the cite of the Ephesians is a worshipper of the grete goddesse Diana, of the pimage whiche came from heauen.
Seyng then that no man saith here against, ye oughte to be content, and to do nothing rashly for ye haue broughte hyther these men whiche are neither robbers of churches nor yet dispisers of your goddesse. Wherefore, if Demetrius and the crafter men whiche are wth hym, haue a matter agaynst any man, the same is open, and there are iudges, lette them accuse one another.

But yf ye go aboute any other thyng, it shalbe determined in a lawfull congregacion. For we are in jeopardy to be accused of thys dayes v-route, for as much as there is no cause, wherby we maye geue a rechenyng of thys contencie of people. And when he hadde thus spoken, he let the congregacion depart.

¶ The xx. Chapter.

¶ Paul goeth into Macedonia & into Greece. At Troas he is tarried by a head wynde. At Mideus he calleth together the congregacion together, chastysheth the wrong of wroth fleshe vnto them, instructeth them of false teachers, in whiche he prayeth wth them, and departed to Syppre.

After that f rage was ceased, Paul called the disciples vnto hym, and toke his leue of them, and departed for to go into Macedonia. And whē he hadde gone ouer those partys, and hadde geuen them a longe exhortacyon, he came into Greece and there abode. iii. monethes.
And when the Jewes layd wait for hym as he was about to sayle into Syria, he purposed to returne thorow Macedonia. Ther accompanied him into Asia, Sopater of Berea, & of Thessalonia, Aristarcus and Secundus and Gaius of Derba, and Timotheus & out of Asia Tychcus and Trophimus. These goynge before ta-ryed wth at Troas. And we sayled away from Philippus after the dayes of swete breade, and came vnto them to Troas in foure dayes, where we abode seuen dayes.

And vpon one of the Saboth dayes, when the disciples came together for to bryake bread Paul preached vnto them (ready to departe on the morowe) and contynued the preaching vnto midnyght. And there were many lyghtes in the chāber, where we were gathered together, and there sat in a wyndowe a certayne younge man (named Euticus) beyng fallen into a depe sleepe. And as Paul was preaching he was for moze ouercome wth sleepe and fell downe from the thyrde loft, and was taken vp deade. But when Paule wente downe, he fel on hym & and embzased hym and sayde: make nothyng ado, for hys lyfe is in hym. So whē he was come vp again, and had broken the bread and eaten, and talked a longe whyle (euen tyll the moynynge) at the laste he departed. And they broughte the ponge mā alyue and were not a lytel comforted.

And we wente afoze to Syppre, and loled vnto Asson there to receaue Paule. For so had he appointed, & wold hym selfe go afoze. When we were come together to Asson we toke hym in, and came to Mitlenes, and we sayled thence, & came the nexte day, ouer against Chios. And the nexte day we arrived at Samos, & tarped at Trogylo. The nexte daye we came to Miletū: for Paul had determined to sayl ouer by Ephesus, because he wolde not spend tyme in Asia.

The Apostles

For he had said (ye shall see him again) to hope at Jerusalem the day of Pentecost. And first Quirion he sent messengers to Ephesus, & called the elders of the congregation. Whiche when they were come to him, he sayd vnto the.
 Ye knowe from the first day that I came into Asia: after what manner I haue bene wryth you at all seasons, stryving & lorde with al humblenes of mynde, & with many teares and temptacions whiche happeneth vnto me by the lapinges about of the Jewes, because I wold kepe backe nothinge that was profitable vnto you: but to shew you and teache you openly, & shewe out every house: to openeinge both to the Je-wes, and also to the Grekes, the repentance, that is towarde God; and the fayth whiche is towarde oure Lorde Iesus. And now beholde I go bounde in the spere vnto Jerusalem, not knowynge the thynges that shall come on me there, but that the holy ghoost witnesseth in euerye cytie, sayinge, that bandes and trouble abyde me. But none of these thynges moue me neither is my lyfe deare vnto my selfe, that I myghte fulfill my course with ioye, and the mi-nistratione (of the worde) which I haue receaued of the Lorde Iesu to testifie the Gospell of the grace of God. And now beholde, I am sure, that henceforth ye al, thowme whome I haue gone preachynge the kyngdome of God, shall se my face no more. Wherefore, I take you to recorde this daye that I am pure from the bloude of all men. For I haue spared no labour, but haue shewed you all the counsell of God. Take heede therefore vnto your selues and to all the flocke amonge whom the holy ghoost hath made you ouersheers, to rule the congregacyon of God which he hath purchased with hys bloude.

* For I am sure of this, that after my departyng shall greuous wolues entre in amonge you, not sparing the flocke. Moreover, of your owne selues shall men arise, speaking peruerse thynges to drawe discyples after them. Therefore awake, and remember, that by the space of iii. yerres, I ceased not to warne euery one of you myght and daye with teares.

And now brethren, I commend you to God and to the worde of his grace, whiche is able to bulde farther, and to geue you an inheritance amonge al the whiche are sanctified. I haue desired no mans spuer, golde, or vesture. Yee, ye your selues knowe, & these bandes haue mynistered vnto my necessities, & to the I were wryth me. I haue shewed you all thynges, howe that so labourynge ye oughte to receaue the weake, and to remember the wordes of the Lorde Iesu howe that he sayd, it is moze blessed to geue then to receaue.

And when he had thus spoken, he kneeled downe, and prayed with them all. And they al wepte sore and fell on Pauls necke, and kysed hym, sorrowynge moste of all for the wordes whiche he spake, that they shoulde se his face no more. And they conuayed hym vnto the shyppe Pauls journey by Myra, Cenchrea, the emperor, and Quirion the highpriest, which was to send him to go to Jerusalem. The waye was by the sea, and he is in the temple.

And when it thadred that we had launched forth, and were departed from them, we came wryth a straight course vnto Cenchrea and the daie following vnto the Rod-der, and from thence vnto Pata-ra. And when we had gotten a shyppe, I wolde sayle vnto Phenices, we wente aborde into it, and set forth. But when Cy-prius began to appeare vnto vs, we leste it one the lyfte hande, & sayled vnto Sylla, and came vnto Cyze. For there the shyppe unladed the burden. And when we had founde brethren, we tarped there, vii. dayes. And they tolde Paul thowme the spere that he shuld not go vp to Jerusalem. And when the dayes were ended we departed & wente oure way, & they all brought vs on oure waye, with wpyes and chyliden tyll we were come oute of the cytie. And we kneeled downe on the shoze, & prayed. And when we had take our leaue one of another: we toke shyp and they returned home agayne.

When we had full ended the course frome Cyze, we went downe to Ptolomaida, and saluted the brethren, & abode with them one daye.
 The next daye, we that were of Pauls company departed, and came vnto Cesarea. And we entered into the house of a Philip the euangelist which was one of the seut, and abode with him.
 The same man had foure daughters virgyns, whiche did prophete. And as we tarped there a good many of dayes, ther came a certayne prophet fro Jewrie, named Agabus. Whiche he was come vnto vs, he toke Pauls girdell, & bounde hys fete and handes, and sayde: Thus saith the holy gost, so shall the Jewes at Jerusalem bynde the man that oweth this girdell, and shal deli-uer hym into the handes of the Gentyles.

When we heard this, bothe we and other whiche were of the same place besoughte hym that he wolde not go vp to Jerusalem. Then Paul answered, and sayd: what do ye wepyng and weyringe myne herte, I am redye, not to be bounde onely, but also to dye at Jerusalem for the name of the lorde Iesu. When we could not turne his mynd, we ceased, sayng: The wyl of the Lorde be fulfilled. After those dayes we toke vp oure burthens, and wente vp to Jerusalem. There went wryth vs also certayne of the discyples of Cesarea, and broughte with them one Mnason of Cyprus an olde discyppe, wryth whome we shoulde lodge. And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren receaued vs gladly. And on the morowe Paul went in with vs vnto James.

And all the elders came together. And when he had saluted them, he tolde by order all thynges that God had wroughte amonge the Gentyles by his ministration. And when they hearde it, they glorified the Lorde, and sayde vnto hym, thou krest brother, howe many thousande Jewes

Jehow there are whiche beleue, and they are all earnest folowers vnder the lawe. And they are informed of the, that thou teachest all the Jewes which are amonge the gentyles, to forsake wofers, and sayest, that they ought not to circuncise theys children, neither to lyue after the customes whiche is in the foze. The multitude must needs come together. For they shall heare & thou arte come. Wherefore this, that we saye to the. We haue. iiii. men, which haue a vowe on the. Them take & purif. e they seife with them, & do rest on e them, that they may haue theys heades, and al shall know, that those thinges which they haue heard concerninge the, are nothyng, but that thou thy seife also waitest and kepest the lawe. But as touchyng the getyls whiche beleue, we haue written & concluded, that they obserue no suche thinges, save onely & they kepe them selues from thinges offered to ydoles, and fro bloude and from strangled, & from fornicacion. Then & next daye Paule take the men, & purifyed him selfe with them & entred into the temple, declaringe that he obserued the daye of the purificacion, vntyll & an offeringe shulde be offered for e-uery one of the. And when the fewe dayes were nowe almost ended, the Jewes which were of Asia (whiche they sawe him in the temple) moued all the people, & layde handes on hym crying: me of Israel, helpe. This is the man, & teacheth al men euery where a gapyn & people & the law and this place. He hath also brought Grekes into the temple, and hath polluted this holy place. For they had sene w hym one in the cytie. Trophimus an Ephesian, whome they supposed & Paule had brought into the temple. And all the cytie was moued, and the people swarmed together. And they toke Paul and drewe him out of the temple, and forth with the doores were shut. As they went about to kyl hym, ridings came vnto the hye captayne of the souldyers, that all Jerusalem was moued. Which immediatly toke souldyers and vndercaptaynes, & ranne downe to them. Whiche they sawe the vpper captayne & the souldyers, they left syntrynge of Paul. The captayne came nere and toke hym, and commaunded hym to be bounde with two chaynes, and demaunded what he was, and what he had done. And some cryed one thinge, some another amonge & people. And when he coulde not knowe the certayntie for the rage, he commaunded hym to be caried into the castell. And when he came vnto a stappe, it fortuned that he was bozne of the souldyers for the vyolence of the people. For the multitude of the people folowed after, crying, a waye with hym.

And when Paul began to be caried into the castell, he sayde vnto the hye Capiteine mape I speake vnto the, Whiche he sayd Cast thou speake Greke, Art not thou that Egyptian, which befoze those dayes madest an vpyoure: and leddest out in to the wyldernes. iiii. thousand men that were murderers, But Paul sayd: I am a man which am a Jewe of. Charlus a cytie in Cicill a cytyll of no vyle cytie. I beseeche the suffre me so speake vnto the people. And when he had geuen hym licence, Paul stode, on the stappes, & am-bekened vnto the hande wrothe people, & wher there was made agitate spience, he spake vnto them in the hebrewe tonge, sayenge.

The xxiij. Chapter.

Pauls instructeth the Jewes, howe they shoulde and sayde in prison agayne.

MEn, brethren and fathers, heare ye myne answer wherch I make nowe vnto you.
 Whiche they heard, that he spake in the he-brewe tonge to them, they kept the more spience.
 And he sayeth: I am verelye a man whiche am a Jewe bozne in. Charlus a cytie in Cicill neuer theles, yet brought vp in this cytie, at & sette of. Samael, & informed diligently in & law of the fathers, & was scrupul impled to Godward as ye al are this same daye. & I persecuted this way vnto & death, binding & deliuerynge into prison both men & women, as & these yest doth beare me wytnes, & al the estate of the elders of whos also I receaued letters vnto the brethren & went to Damasco to bring them, (which were there bounde) vnto Jerusalem for to be punished.

And it fortuned, & as I made my tourney and was come nye vnto Damasco about noone, so denly ther shone fro heauen a grate lyght rounde aboute me, And I fel vnto the earth, and heard a voyce sayeng vnto me: Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me. And I answered: what art thou Loyde. And he sayde vnto me, I am Iesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest. And they that were with me, sawe verelye a lyght, & were afrayed, but they herde not the voyce of hym & spake wyth me. And I sayde: what shall I do Loyde, And the Loyde sayd vnto me, Arise, and go into Damasco, and there it shalbe told the of all thinges wherch are appointed for the to do.
 And when I sawe nothyng for the byrgthenes of that lyght, I was leade by the hande of them that were with me, and came into Damasco.

* And one Ananias a perfect man, and as pertainynge to the lawe, hauyng a good report of al the Jewes wherch there dwelt, came vnto me and stode, and sayd vnto me. Brother Saul, receaueth thy sight. And the same houre I receaued my sight, and sawe hym. And he sayd: the God of oure fathers hath ordeyned the befoze, that thou shouldest knowe hys wyll, and se & thing that is righte, and shouldest heare the voice of hys mouth: for thou shalt be his wytnes vnto al men of those thinges, which thou hast sene and hearde. And nowe, why tarpest thou, Arise, & be baptised and waiche away thy sinnes in cal-lyng on the name of the Lord, And it fortuned that when I was come agayne to Jerusalem, and prayed in the temple, I was in a trance & sawe hym, sayeng vnto me: Make hast and get the quickly out of Jerusalem, for they wyl not receaueth thy wytnes, that thou bearest of me.

And I sayd, Loyde, they knowe & I prisoned and bet in euery Synagoge the & beliened on & * And when the bloud of thy wytnesse Stephen was shed, I also stode by, and consented vnto his death, and kept the rayment of them that slewe hym. And he sayd vnto me departe, for. I wyl go. I sende

Lette the farrer hence unto the Centurion.

They gaue hym a whorde and a wote, and then lyste up to hym and sayd a wote with such a felow from the east he for it is no reason that he shoulde lye. And as they cryed, a cast of their clothes, and thine dust into the ayre the capayne commaunded hym to be brought in to the castell, & bad that he shoulde be scourged, & to be crampned, that he myght know, wherfore they cryed so on hym. And when they bound him with chonges, Paul sayd vnto the Centurion that stode by him. Is it lawfull for you to scourge a man that is a Romayne & vndercondempned. When the Centurion heard that, he wente and tolde the vpper capayne, sayng. What intendest thou to do, for this man is a (citizen) of Rome.

Then the vpper capitaine came, and sayd vnto hym, tell me, arte thou a Romayne, he saide yee. And the capitaine answered, with a greace summe obtayned I thys freldome. And Paul sayde, I was free borne. Then straght way he parted fro hym, they which shoulde haue crampned hym. And thys capitaine also was afrayd after he knew that he was a Romayne, and because he had bounde hym.

On y moztowe because he wolde haue knowe the certayntie, wherfore he was accused of the Jewes, he losed hym fro hys bades & commaunded the hye prestes & al f counsel to come together & brought Paul forth and set him before them.

The .xxiii. Chapter.

Paul cometh afore the counsell debate anyfeth amonge the people, the capayne depyareth hym, God comforteth hym.

Paul behelde the counsell, & sayde: me and dyeth: I haue liued in al good conscience before God vntill thys date. And the hye preste Ananias commaunded th: that stode by, to symple hym on the mouth.

Then sayd Paul vnto hym, God shall smite the thou paynted wall & sprete sthou and indigest me after the lawe, and commaundest me to be sympten contrary to the lawe. And they that stode by, sayd & reuilest thou Goddes hye preast. Then sayd Paul: I wyl not byethen that he was f hye prest. For it is wyrtten & thou shalt not curse the ruler of thy people. When Paul perceaned that the one parte were Saduces, and f other Pharyses, he cryed out in the counsell, Hye and byethen, & I am a Pharysei, the sonne of a Pharysei: Of the hope and resurrection from death, I am iudged.

And whil he had so sayd, ther arose a debayte betwene the Saduces and the Saduces and the muleptade was deuyded. For the Saduces saye that there is no resurrection, nerther angel nor spete: But the Pharyses graunt both.

And there a cople a greace crye, and whan f wherbyes whiche were of the Pharyses parte arose, they stroue sayenge, we fynde none euell in thys man. Though a spete oz angell harbe aperctd to hym, let vs not strepe agaynst God.

And when there arose a greace debate, the capayne (scarynge, lest Paul shoulde haue ben plucked a sondye of them) commaunded the soudiers to go doftone, and f the hym from among the and to bypunge hym to the castell.

The nyght folowynge, God stode by hym and sayde, he of good cheate Paul, for as thou haste testyfyed of me in Ierusalem: so must thou beate witness also at Rome. And whil it was daye, certayne of the Jewes gathered them selues together, and made a vowe, sayenge, f thei wolde nether eate nor drynke, tyll they had kylled Paul, they were mo then fourty me, which had made thys conspyracion. And they came to the chefe prestes and elders, and sayde, we haue bound our selues with a vowe, that we wyl eat nothyng, vntill we haue slayne Paul.

Howe therfore geue ye knowledg to the vpper captain and to the counsell, that he bynge hym forth vnto vs to moztowe, as though he wold knowe somethynge moze perfectly of him. But we (oz euer he come neer) are ready to kill hym. When Pauls systers sonne heard of the: layenge a wayte, he wente, and entred into the castell, and tolde Paul. And Paul called one of the vnder captaynes vnto him and sayd byng thys younge man vnto the hye captaine, for he hath a certayne thyng to shewe hym. And he toke hym, and brought him to the hye captaine and sayde. Paul the prisoner called me vnto hym, and prayed me to bynge thys yong man vnto the, wherhe hath a certayne matter to shewe the.

The hye captaine toke hym by the hande and wente wyth hym oute of the wape, and asked hym, what is it that thou haste to tell me? And he sayd, The Jewes are detremyned to despyse the, that thou woldest bynge forth Paul to moztow into the counsell, as though they wold enqurye som what of hym moze perfectly. But folowe not thou the: myndes, for there lye in wayte for hym of them, mo then fourty men which haue bound them selues wyth a vowe, f they wyl nether eate nor drynke, tyll they haue kylled hym. And nowe are they ready, and loke that thou shouldest promys.

The vpper captaine then let the younge man departe, and charged him, sayenge, se thou tel it out to no ma, that thou hast shewed the: thynges to me. And he called vnto him two vnder captaynes, sayenge, make readye two hundred soudyers to go to Cesarea, and horsemen the scoze and ten, and speare men two hundred at the thy: be house of the nyghte. And delpue them beastes, that they maye sette Paul on, & bynge him safe vnto Felix the hye debyte. For he dya feare least bypety the Jewes shoulde take him away and kyll hym, and he him selfe shoulde be afterwarde blamed, as though he wolde take money, and he wrote a letter after this maner.

Claudius Lysias vnto the mozte myghtye ruler Felix, sendeth greetynge. Thys man was taken of the Jewes, and shoulde haue bene kylled of them. Then came I to soudyers, and reskued hym, and perceaned that he was a Romayne. And when I wolde haue knowen the cause, wherfore they accused hym, I brought hym fast into the: counsell, There perceaned I that

I that he was accused of questions of their lawe but was not guilty of any thing worthy of death or of bondes. And when it was shewed me how that the Jewes layd many wayes for hym I sent hym straightway to the kinge. And gave commaundement to his accusers that the thinges whych they haue agaynst hym. they should tel before the face well. Then the iudges (as it was commaunded them) toke Paul. and brought hym by nyght to Antipatras. On the morowe they lette the boylmen to go with him. and returned vnto the castell. Whiche when they came to Cesarea. (and deliuered the epistle to the debtye) presented Paul also before hym. Whē the debtye had red the letter he asked of what counter he was. And whē he understode that he was of Celicia. I wyl heare the (said he) whē thine accusers are come also: and he commaunded hym to be kepte in herodes iudgement hall.

¶ The xxxiii. Chapter.

¶ Paul is accused before Felix. he answereth for hym selfe.

After foure dayes Ananias the hye priest descended with the elders. & with a certayne oratoure. named Carcullus. which enforced the debtye agaynst Paul. And whē Paul was called forth. Carcullus beganne to accuse hym saying: Sepng that we lyue in greate quietnes by the meanes of the. and that manye good thinges are done vnto this nacyon tho-rowe thy prouidence. that alowe we euer and in all places moost noble Felix with all thanks.
Not withstanding. that I be not tedious vnto the. I praye the. that thou woldest heare vs of thy curtesy a fewe wordes.

For we haue founde this man a pestilente felowe. and a mouer of debate vnto al the Je-wes in the whole world. & a mainceprner. (of the secte of the Nazaries. which hath also enforced to pollute the temple. Whom we toke. and wolde haue iudged accordyng to our lawe: but the hye capitayne Lysias came vpon vs. and with greate violence toke hym a waye out of our handes. commaundyng his accusers to come vnto the. Of whome thou mayest (if thou wylt enquire) knowe the certainte of all these thinges. where of we accuse hym. The Je-wes like wise aspymed: saying. that these thin-ges were euen so.

¶ Then Paule (after that the debtye hym selfe had becheued vnto hym that he shoulde speake) answered: With a moze quiete mynde do I an-swere for my self. for as much as I vnderstand that thou halte ben of many yeres a iudge vnto this people. because that thou maigest knowe that there are yet but twelue daies sence I wēt vnto Jerusalem for to worshyp. and they neither founde me in the temple dysputyng with any man. ether raisyng vnto the people. neither in the Synagoges. nor in the cytie. Neither can they proue the thinges where of they accuse me.

But thys I confesse vnto the. that after the waye (whiche they call heresie) so to worshippe the God of my fathers: beleuyng all thinges whiche are written in the lawe. and the prophetes. & haue hope towardes God. that the same resurrection of the dead (whiche they them selves loke for also) shal be bothe of iuste and vniuste.

And therfore I studie I to haue alwaye a cleare conscience toward God. and toward men. But after many peres. I came. and brought almes to my people and offeringes. (and vnto) in the whiche they founde me purgfyed in the temple. neither with multitude nor yet with unquie-nes. (and they toke me. and cryed. saying: awaye with this cruell:) howbeit there were certain Jewes out of Asia. which oughte to be here present before I and accuse me. if they had oughte agaynst me: or els let these same here saye. if they haue founde any euell doyng in me. while I stande here in counsell: excepte it be for this one voyce that I cryed standyng amonge them. of the resurrection from death am I iudged of you this daye.

¶ When Felix heard these thinges. he deferred them. for he knewe very wel of that waye. and said: when Lysias the captayne is come downe.
I wyl knowe the uttermost of youre matter.
And he commaunded an vnder captaine to kepe Paul. and to let hi haue rest: and that he shoulde forbid none of his acquaintaunce to mynister vnto hym. or to come to hym.

¶ And after a certayne dayes. when Felix came with his wife Drusilla (which was a Jewesse) he called for the Paule. and heard him of faith whiche is toward Christ. And as he preached of ryghteousnes. temperaunce. and iudgement to come. Felix trembled and answered: So the daye for this tyme: when I haue a conueniente season. I wyl sende for the. he hoped also. that money shuld haue ben giuen hym of Paul. that he myght loose hym: wherefore he called him the offener and comened with him. But after two yeres. Festus Doctus came into Felix rowm.
And Felix. willing to shewe the Jewes a ple-

¶ The xxxv. Chapter.

¶ The Jewes accuse Paule before Festus. he appeareth vnto the Emperoure. and is sent vnto Rome.

When Festus had receaued the offyce. after this daies. he ascended from Cesarea vnto Jerusalem. The enforced hym the hye priestes. & the chel of the Jewes. of Paul. And thei besought him. and desired fa-uour agaynst him. & he wold sende for hym to Jerusalem: & they layd a waye for hym in the way. to kill hym. Festus answered that Paule shoulde be kepte at Cesarea. but that he hym selfe wolde shortly depart thither.
Let them therfore (sayd he) whych among you are able. come downe with vs. and accuse hym if there be any fault in the man.

¶ When he hadde taried there amonge thym moze then ten dayes. he wente downe vnto Cesarea & the next daye sat downe in the iudgement Sg. iiii. State

Lette, as I am surrounded with to be broughte. Whiche when he was come, the Jewes which were come from Jerusalem, rode about him, & layde many and greuous complaints against Paul, whiche they coulde not proue, as long as he answered for hym selfe, that he had nether agaynst the lawe of the Jewes, nether agaynst the temple, nor yet against Cesar offended any thyng at all.

Act. xxiii. 1

Act. xxiii. 2. Festus: willing to do the Jewes a pleasure answered Paul, and sayde: Wilt thou go vnto Jerusalem, and there be iudged of these thinges before me? Then sayde Paul: I stande at Cæsars iudgement seat, where I ought to be iudged. To the Jewes haue I no harme done, as thou very well knowest: For I haue hurt them, or commytted any thyng worthy of deathe, I refuse not to dye. If none of these thynges are, wherof they accuse me, no man may deliuer me to them. I appeal vnto Cesar. Then spake Festus with deliberacion, and answered: Thou hast appealed vnto Cesar: vnto Cesar wylte thou go.

Act. xxiii. 3

Act. xxiii. 4

And after a certayne dayes kynge Agrippa & Bernice came vnto Cæsarea to salute Festus. And when they hadde ben there a good ceason, Festus rehearsed Pauls cause vnto the kynge sayng: There is a certen man sette in prison. Felix, about whom thou I came to Jerusalem, & the hye Priestes and elders of the Jewes enfourmed me, and desyred to haue iudgement agaynst him. To whom I answered: it is not the maner of the Romaines, for sauoure to deliuer any man, that he shoulde perishe, before that he which is accused, haue the accusers before him, and haue licence to answer for hym selfe, concerninge the crime layed agaynst hym. Therefore when they were come hither without anye delaye, on the morowe I sat to geue iudgement.

Act. xxiii. 5

And commanded the man to be brought forth. Agaynst whom, when the accusers rode vp & they brought none accusers of such thynges as I supposed: but had certayn questyons agaynst hym of their owne supersticion, and of one Jesus which was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be aliue. And because I doubted of such manner of questyons, I asked him, whether he wold go to Jerusalem & there be iudged of these matters. But when Paul had appealed to be kept vnto the knowledg of Cesar, I commanded hym to be kept, tyll I myght sende him to Cesar. Agrippa sayde vnto Festus: I wolde also heare the man my selfe. To morowe, (sayd he) thou shalt heare him: And on the morowe when Agrippa was come and Bernice, with great pompe, and were entred into the counsell house, with the capitaines and chiefe men of the city, at Festus commaundement was Paul broughte forth. And Festus sayde: kynge Agrippa, and all ye men which are here present with vs, ye see this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jewes haue entreated me, both at Jerusalem and also here, cryng that he ought not to lye any lenger. Yet found I nothing worthy of death, that he had commytted. Nevertheless, I ying that he hath appealed to Cesar, I haue determined to sende him. Of whom I haue no certayn thyng to say vnto my Lord. Wherefore, I haue sent hym vnto you, and speecially vnto thee, Agrippa: that after examination thou shouldest haue somwhat to write for me: whiche is vnreasonable, for to send a prisoner, and not to shewe the causes which are layed agaynst hym.

The xxiii. Chapter

Thyng Agrippa heareth Paul, whiche telleth his calling from the beginning.

Agrippa sayd vnto Paul: thou art permitted to speke for thy selfe. The Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for hym selfe: I thinke my selfe happy kynge Agrippa, because I shal answer this daye before thee, of all the thynges wherof I am accused of the Jewes: namely because thou arte expert in all customes and questyons which are amonge the Jewes. Wherefore I beseeche thee, to heare me patiently.

Whylowynge that I haue lead of a chyldre (which was at the fyrst among mine owne nation at Jerusalem) knowe al the Jewes which knewe me from the beginning, yf they wolde testifie. For after the most straiteste secte of our religyon, I lyued a Pharisee. And now I stande and am iudged for the hope of the promes made of God vnto our fathers: vnto whiche promes our xii. trybes (instantly scrupynge God day and nyght) hope to come. For whiche hopes sake, kynge Agrippa, I am accused of the Jewes. Whylowynge I thought a thyng incredible vnto you, that God shuld rayse agayn the dead: I also verely thought in my selfe that I ought to do many contrarye thynges, cleane against the name of Jesus of Nazareth: which thyng I also did in Jerusalem. And many of the sayntes did I shut vp in prison, and had receaued auctoritie of the hye priestes. And wher they were put to death, I gaue the sentence. And I punished them oft in euery synagoge, and compelled the to blasfeme, and was yet more mad vpon them, and persecuted them, euen vnto strange cyties. About whiche thynges as I went to Damascus, with auctoritie and lyce of the hye priestes: euen at mydday, I sawe in the waye a lyght from heauen about the brightnes of the sunne shynynge round about me, and them which iourneied with me. When wee were all fallen to the earth, I hearde a voyce speakynge vnto me, and sayng in the hebrew tongue: Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? It is harde for the to heare agaynst the pyches. And I sayd: Who art thou Lord. And he sayde: I am Jesus whom thou persecutest, but rise and stande vpon thy fete. For I haue appeared vnto the for this purpose to make the a mynister and a wytnes bothe of these those things which you have seen, and of those things in the which I will appear unto the Gentiles, unto whom I have been sent, that they may be saved from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of sinnes, and inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith in Jesus Christ.

Wherefore, O King Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision: but shewed first unto them of Jerusalem, and at Jerusalem, and thence forth unto the Gentiles, that they should repent and turne to God, and do such works as become them that repent. For this cause the Jews caught me in the temple, and wanted to kill me. Saying therefore that I have obtained help of God: I continue unto this day, witnessing both to small and to great, saying none other things, than those which the prophets and Moses said should come: that Christ should suffer, and that he should be the first that should rise from death, and should shew light unto the people, and to the Gentiles.

As he thus spake for him selfe. Festus said with a loude voyce: Proude, thou art beside thy selfe, much learning doth make thee mad. And Paul sayde: I am not mad, most deare Festus, but speake to thee the wordes of truth and sobernes. For the King knoweth of these things, before whom also I speake freely: neither thinke I any of these things are hid from him: For this thing was not done in a corner. King Agrippa beleuest thou the Prophets? I wote wel I thou beleuest. Agrippa sayde vnto Paul: Some what thou sayngest me in minde for to become Christian. And Paule sayde: I wolde to God I not onely thou: but also all that heare me to day wey, nor somwhat onely but all together, such as I am, excepte these bondes. And when he hadde thus spoken, the King rose vp and the debire, and Bernice, and they that sat with them. And when they were gone aparte, they talked betwene them selues, saying. This man doeth nothing worthe of death, or of benches. Then sayde Agrippa vnto Festus: This man myghte haue bene let loose, yf he hadde not appealed vnto Cesar.

The xxvii. Chapter.

Paul sayeth to word home. Julius the captaine instructed him continually, and as he said they sailed for paphos.

When it was concluded, that we should saile into Italye, they deliuered both Paul, and certayne other prisoners, vnto one named Julius, an vnder captaine of Cæsars household. And we entered into a ship of Adramitum, and looked from lande, appointed to saile by the coastes of Asia, one Aristarcus oute of Macedonia of the countre of Thessalonica carryinge with vs. And the next day we came to Sidon.

And Julius commended vs vnto Paul and gaue him libertye, with his friends, and to refresh him selfe. And when we had launched from thence, we sailed hard by Cyprus because the wyndes were contrarye. And when we had sailed ouer the see of Cilicia and Pamphilia, we came to Myra which is in Lycia.

And there the vnder captaine founde a ship of Alexandria ready, that sailed into Italye, & he put vs therein. And whil we had sailed now many daies, & scarce were come ouer against Sidon (because the wynde withstode vs) we sailed hard by the coast of Candy, ouer against Salmo, and with muche worke sailed beyond it, and came vnto a place which is called Fair hauens. Ape wher vnto was the cyrie of Lasea. When much time was spent, and when sailing was now inopardus, because also I they hadde ouerlong fasted, Paul put them in remembrance & sayde vnto them: My friends I perceaue that this voyage wyl be with hurt and damage, not of I lading and ship onely, but also of your liues. Neuertheles the vnder captaine beleued the gouerner and the mayster of the shippe more then those things which wer spoken of Paul. And because I heauen was not commodious to winter in, many toke counsell to depart thence, if by any meanes they myghte attayne to Phenice and there to winter, which is an haue of Candy, and lyeth toward the south west and north west wind. When the south wind blew, they supposyng to obtayne their purpose, loosed vnto Tasson, and sailed past al Candy.

But not longe after, there arose agaynst their purpose a flawe of wynd out of the north east. And when the ship was caught and could not resist the wynde, we let her go, and draue wyth the wether. But we were carped into an yle which is named Claudia, & had muche work to come by a boote, which they toke vp and vsed helpe, and made faste I ship, fearinge, lest they should fall into I Syrtes. And so they let downe a vessel, and were carped. The next daye (whil we were toiled w an exceeding tempest) they lyghtened the shippe, and the thyrde daye we cast out wyth our owne handes the taklyng of the shippe. When at the last, neither the Sunne nor starres in many daies appeared & no small tempest lay vpon vs, all hope that we should escape, was then taken away. But after long abstinence, Paule stode forth in the myddes of them and sayde: My friends, ye should haue drekened to me, & not to haue looked from Candy, neither to haue broughte vnto vs this harme and losse. And nowe I exhort you to be of good chere.

For there shalbe no losse of any mans lyfe among you, saue of the ship onely. For ther stode by me this nyght I angel of God, whose I am and whome I serue, sayng: feare not Paule: for thou must be broughte before Cesar. And loo God hath geuen the al them that saile wyth I. Wherefore My friends be of good chere: for I beleue God, for he shal be euen as it was told me. Howbeit we must be cast into a certayn yland.

But when the fourteenth nyght was come

The Actes

(as was there sayd) in the night they were cast into the sea. And when they had gone a litle further, they leaped againe, and founde xv. faddoms. Then fearing lest they should have fallen on some rocke, they cast foure anchors out of the sterne, and wyspered for the daye. As the shipmen were about to fle out of the ship (when they had let downe the boate into the see, vnder a colour, as though they wolde haue cast anchors out of the forshyppe) Paul said vnto the vnder capitayn & to the souldiers: excepte these abyde in the shippe cannot be safe. Then souldiers cut of the rope of the boate, & let it fall away.

And when the daye began to appere, Paul besought them all to take meate, sayng that this is the fourteenth daye, that ye haue taried, and continued fastynge, receauynge nothing at all. Wherefore I praye you to take meate: for this no doute is for your health: for there shall not an hear fall fro the head of any of you. And when he had thus spoken, he toke bread & gaue thanks to God in presence of them all, and when he had broken it, he began to eate. Then were they all of good cheare, and they also toke meate. They were altogether in the shippe, two hundred thre score and syxtene soules. And when they hadde eaten ynough, the lychtyned the shippe, and caste out the wheate into the see.

When it was day, they knewe not the lande, but they spied a certayne hauen with a banke, into the which they were minded (if it were possible) to thrust in the shippe. And when they had taken vnder the anchors, they committed them selues vnto the see, and loosed the rudder bondes, and hoysed vp the mayne sayle to the wynde, & drew to lande. And when they chanced on a place, whiche hadde the sea on both sydes, they thrust in the shippe. And the fore parte stucke fast and moored not, but the hinder parte brake with the violence of the waues.

The souldiers counsell was to kyll the prisoners, lest any of them, whiche had wome out their runne awaye. But the vnder capitayne, willinge to saue Paule, kepte them fro this purpose, and commaunded that they whiche coulde swimme, shoulde caste them selues first into the see, and scape to land. And the other he commaunded to go, some on boards, and some on broken pieces of the shippe. And so it came to passe, that they escaped all safe to land.

The xxviii. Chapter.

The wynde bloweth not in thise dayes, he beareth Paule to the see, and pasceth by the lande.

And when they were escaped, then they knewe, that the yle was called Malte. And the strangers betwen vs no litle kindnes: for they kyndled a fyre, & receaued vs euery one, because of the colde. And when Paule hadde gathered a bondell of stiches, and layed them on the fyre, there came a wynde out of the heat, and caught hym by the hand. When the stranger sawe this, he cast hym on the hard they sayd, that he was a Iewe. In selues no doute they man is a Iewe. Whome (though he be daue escaped) they had receaued suffeeth not to lyue. And they of the wynde into the fire, & when they sawe that he was dead, they were wroth. But after he had loked a greates wynde, and sawe no harme come to him, they charged they myndes, and sayde: that he was a God.

In the same quarters were landes of sheche, and of the yle (whose name was Publius) whiche receaued vs, and lodged vs thre dayes curteously. And it fortuned that the father of Publius, laye speche of a feuer, and of a bloudy flie. To whom Paule entred in and prayed, & layed his handes on hym & healed him. So when this was done, other also whiche had diseases in the yle, came and were healed: whiche also did vs great honoure. And when we departed the lande, we wyth such things as were necessary.

After this moneth we departed in a shippe of Alexandria, whiche had wyntered in the yle, whose badg was Castor & Pollux. And when we came to Syracusa, we taried thre dayes. And from thence we set a compasse, & came to Regium. And after one day the south wynde blew, and we came the next daye to Putiolum: where we founde brethren, and were despyed to tary with them seven dayes, and so came we to Rome. And fro thence, when the brethren herd of vs, they came to meete vs at Apphozium, and at the thre tavernes. When Paule sawe them he thanked God, and was bolde. And when we came to Rome, the vnder capitayne deliuered the prisoners to the chefe capitayne of the host: but Paule was sufferd to dwelle by hym selfe with a souldier that kept hym.

And after thre dayes, Paule called the chefe of the Iewes together. And when they were come he sayd vnto them: Men and brethren though I haue committed nothing against the people or lawes of the elders, yet was I deliuered prisoner from Jerusalem into the handes of the Romaynes. Whiche when they had examined me, wolde haue let me go, because there was no cause of death in me. But when the Iewes spake contrary I was constrained to appeale vnto Cesar: not that I had ought to accuse my people of. For this cause then haue I called for you, euen to se you, and to speake with you: because that for the hope of Israel I am bound with this chayne.

And they sayd vnto hym: we neither receaued letters out of Jewry pertaining vnto the, neither anpe of the brethren that came thewed on spake any harme of the. But we wyl beare of what thou sayest. For as concerning this sect we knowe thee euery where it is spoken against. And when they hadde appoynted hym a daye, ther came many to hym into his lodgyng. To whom he expounded and testified the kingdom of God and preached vnto them of Iesus: both out of the lawe of Moyses and out of the prophetes, euen from moynynge to night. And some beleued belueu the thynges whiche wer spoken, and some beleued not. And when they agreed not amonge them selues, they departed, after that Paule had spoken one woide: wel spake the holy gooste by Elise the prophete vnto oure fathers, sayenge: * So vnto this people, and saye wyth poure eares shall ye heare, and shall not vnderstande, and wyth poure eyes shall ye se, & not perceaue. For the heart of this people is waxed grosse and wyth theyr eares haue they had not lust to heare: and their eyes haue they closed lest they shoulde se wyth theyr eyes, and heare wyth theyr eares, and vnderstande wyth theyr hertes, and shoulde be converted, & I shuld heale the. Be it knowen therfore vnto you that this saluacion of God is sente to the Gentyles, and they shall heare it. And when he had saide these wordes, the Jewes departed from him and had great despycion amonge them selues.

And Paule dwelt two yeres full in his lodginge, and receaued all that came in vnto him, preachinge the kyngdome of God, & teachinge those thynges which concerne the Lorde Jesus with all confydence, no man forbyddynge him.

There endeth the Actes of the Apostles.

The Epystle of the Apostle saynte Paule to the Romanes.

The fyrst Chapter. I

Paule declareth his loue towarde the Romanes, sheweth what the Gospel is, wryteth the cause thereof & rebueth the heauynesse of the Iewes.

PAule the seruaunte of Jesus Christe, called to the office of an Apostle, * put a parte for þe Gospel of God, whiche he had promysed a fore by his prophetes in the holie scriptures of his sonne, which was bozne of the seide of Dauid after the fleshe, and hath bene declared to be the sonne of God wyth power after the spete that sanctifieth. Since þe time that Jesus Christ our Lorde rose agayne fro death, by whom we haue receaued grace and Apostleshipp, that obedyence myghte be geuen vnto the sayde in his name amonge all heathen, of whose noblye you be, the electe of Iesu Christ. I

To all you that be at Rome, beloued of God and sayntes by election. * Grace be with you & peace from God oure father, and from the Lorde Jesus Christe. First verely I thanke my God thowowe Jesus Christe for you all: that poure sayntes spoken of in all the world. For God is my wytnes (whom I serue with my harte in the Gospel of his sonne) that without ceasinge I make mencyon of you: prayinge at wayes & in my prayers: that by some meane at þe laste (one tyme or other) a prosperous iourney (by þe will of God) myghte be sent me, to come vnto you. For I long to se you, that I maye be lestowe amonge you some tyme. I wylle, to strengthe you with all, that is, that I myghte haue consolacion together wyth you, through the common sayntes, whiche both ye and I haue.

I wolde that ye shuld knowe (brethren) howe that I haue oft tymes purposed to come vnto you: but haue bene lette hether to, to haue some leute also amonge you, as amonge other of the Gentyles, I am better both to the Grekes and to the vngrekes, to the learned and to the vnlarned. So that, (as much as in me is) I am redye to preache the Gospel to you that are at Rome also. * For I am not ashamed of þe Gospel of Christ, because it is þe power of God vnto saluacion to euery one that beleueth, to the Jewe fyrst, and also to the Gentyl.

For by it is the ryghteousnesse of God opened from saynt to saynt. As it is wrytten * the iuste shall lyue by fayth.

For the wrath of God appeareth from heauen against all vngodlynes and vnyghteousnes of men, whiche wythholde the truthe in vnyghteousnes, saynge: that it whiche maye be knowen of God, is manifest amonge them, because God hath shewed it vnto them. * For his inuysible thynges (that is to saye his eternall power & godhed) are seene, for as muche as they are vnderstande by the workes, from the creation of the worlde: So that they are withoute excuse, because that wher they knewe God, they glorified hym not as God, nether were thankeful, but waxed full of vanyties in their ymaginacion. * And their folyshe hert was blynded. When they counted them selues wysse, they became foolis. * and turned the gloppe of the immortal God, vnto an ymage, made not onely after the similitude of a mortall man, but also of byrdes, and four footed beastes, and of cerra pyng beastes. Wherefore, God gaue them vp to vncleynesse, thowowe the lustes of their owne hertes to despyle theyr owne bodies amonge them selues, whiche chaunged his truthe for a lye, & worshipped and serued thynges that be made more then him that made them, whiche is to be prayesed for ever. Amen. Wherefore, God gaue them vp vnto shameful lustes: * For eue theyr women bydchaunge the naturall vse into that which is agaynst nature, and lyke wyse also þe men, leste the naturall vse of the woman, and brynte in ther lustes one wyth a nother, * men wyth men broughte fylchynes, and receaued to them selues the rewarde of theyr error, as it was acordynge.

And as they regarded not to knowe God * euen so God deliucted them vp into a lewde mynde, that they shuld do those thynges which were not comely, beyng full of all vnyghteousnesse, fornicacion: wickednes: couetousnes, malycyousnes, full of enuye, murder, drayre disceyte, euil cōditioned, wysperers, backbiters, haters of God, disdainfull: proud boasters: byngres vp of euil thynges: disobedient to father and mother: wythout vnderstandynge: conuincing unmercifull & hypocrites, though they knewe the ryghteousnes of God, how they which commit such thinges, are worthy of death not only: but also they have pleasure in them & doo the.

The ii. Chapter.

The rebuketh the Jewes, which as touchinge lyne are lyke the heathen.

Therefore art thou incircumcised, O man whosoever thou be that judgest. Keep in that same where in thou judgest another, & thou condemnest thy selfe. For thou that judgest dost condemn & same selfe thinges. But we are sure, that the iudgement of God, is according to & truth agaynst them which committe suche thynges. Thou man that judgest them which do such thinges, and dost even the very same thy selfe, that thou shalt escape & iudgement of God: Eytther despyest thou the reproches of his goodnes, and patience and long sufferance, not knowynge, that the kindness of God leadeth the to repentance.

But thou after thy stubbenes, and heart that can not repent, beapest vnto thy selfe with agaynst the daye of vengeance, whiche shall opene the ryghteous iudgement of God: whiche wyllewarde euery man accordynge to his deeds: that is to saye, prayse, honour and immortalitye, to them which continue in good doynge and seke immortalitye. But vnto them that are rebellous, and that do not obeye the truth, but followe vnyghteousnes, shall come indignacion and wrath, tribulacion and angurhe: vpon the soule of euery man that dothe euill: of the Jewe fyrst: and also of the Gentyle. To deere many doth good: shall come prayse, and honour: and peace to the Jewe fyrst: and also to the Gentyle. For, there is no respecte of persons wth God. For whosoever hath synned withoute lawe, shall also perishe withoute lawe. And as many as haue synned in the lawe: shall be iudged by the lawe. For in the synne of God they are not ryghteous which beare the lawe, but the doers of the lawe shall be iustified. For when the Gentyles which haue not the lawe, do of nature the thinges cōteyned in the lawe: then they hauing not the lawe, are a lawe vnto the lawes which we the doers of the lawe wyrtten in theyr heartes, while theyr conscience beareth wytnes vnto them: & also their thoughtes, accusinge one another: or excusinge, at the daye. When the Lord shall iudge the secretes of men: by Iesus Christ: accordynge to my Gospell.

Scholdes, thou arte called a Jewe: and trustest in the lawe, and makest thy boast of God: thou knowest bys wyl and allowest the thynges that be excellent: and art informed by the law, and belieuest that thou thy selfe arte a guyde of the vynde: alight of them which are in darknes, an instructor of them which lacke dyscrecyon: a teacher of the vnlearned, which hast & ensample of knowldege: of the truth by the law. Thou therefore wyrtte teachest another, teachest not thy selfe. Thou predest a man shoulde not keale, yet thou kealest. Thou that sayest: a man shoulde not committe adultery, & breakest wedlocke, Thou abhorrest ymages, and yet robbest God of his honour. Thou makest thy boast of the lawe, thou dost breakeynge the lawe by dishonouring God. For the name of God is euell spoken of amonge the Gentyles, thow we you, as it is witten. For circumcysion verely auayleth, yf thou kepe the lawe. But if thou be a breake of the lawe, thy circumcysion is turned to vncircumcysion: Therefore, yf the vncircumcysed kepe the ryght thinges cōteyned in the lawe, shall not bys vncircumcysion be counted for circumcysion. And shall not vncircumcysion which by nature (if it kepe the lawe) iudge & which beynge vnder & letter and cyrcumcysion, doest transgresse the lawe he is not a Jewe, whiche is a Jewe outwarde. Neither is it circumcysion which is outward in the fleshe. But he is a Jewe which is hyd with in, and the cyrcumcysion of the heart is the true cyrcumcysion, whiche consisteth in the sperte and not in the letter, whose praisse is not of men but of God.

The iii. Chapter.

The sheweth what preferment the Jewes haue, and that both the Jewes and Gentyles are vnder synne, & are iustified onely by the grace of God in Christ.

What preferment then hath & Jewes or what aduantagegeth cyrcumcysion, surelye very muche. For, & because that vnto them were committed the wordes of God. What then though some of them dyd not beleue, & shall their vndelete make & promes of God without effect, God forbid. Let God be true, and, euery man a liar, as it is wyrtten: that thou myghtest be iustified in thy sayenges, and ouercome when thou art iudged.

But yf oure vnyghteousnes make the ryghteousnes of God moze excellent: what shall we saye, Is God vnyghteous, which taketh vengeance (I speake after the maner of men) God forbid. For how then shall God iudge & woulde he not the truth of God appere moze excellent thow we mylpe, vnto bys prayse, why am I hence forth iudged as a synner, and not rather (as men speake euil of vs, and as some asseyme that we saye) lette vs do euill, that good maye come thereof. Whose damnacion is iust.

What then, Are we better then they, No, in no wyse. For we haue alreadye proued, howe both Jewes and Gentyles are all vnder synne, as it is wyrtten. There is none ryghteous, no not one, there is none that vnderstandeth, there is none that seeketh after God: they are all gone out of the waye, they are all vnyprofitable, there is none & both good, no not one. Theyr throte is an open sepulchre, with theyr edges they haue defouled the porcyon of almes is vnder theyr lippes. Wholemouthe is full of cursyng and bytternes. Their feete are swyfte to shed blood. Destruction and wretchednes are in theyr wayes, & the waye of peace haue they not knowen. There is no feare of God before theyr eyes.

We knowe for what cause thynge the lawe sayth, it sayth in them which are vnder the lawe. That all mouthes maye be stopped, & that all the world maye be subdued to God, because that by the dedes of the lawe ther shal no fleshe be iustified in hys syght. For by the lawe cometh the knowledge of synne.

But nowe is the ryghteousnes of God declared without the lawe, for as much as it is allowed by the testimonye of the lawe and of the Prophetes. The ryghteousnes of God, cometh by the fayth of Iesus Christ. vnto all and vpon all them that beleue. (on hym.)

There is no difference, for all haue sinned, & are destitute of the glorie of God, but are iustified freely by hys grace, through the redemption in Iesus Christ, whome God hath sette forth to be a obtainer of mercy thowowe faith by the meanes of hys blod, to declare his ryghteousnes in that he forgiueth synnes that are passed, whiche God dyd suffer, to shewe at this tyme hys ryghteousnes, that he myght be comforted iust, and the iustifier of him which beleueth on Iesus. For where is then thy excusynge? It is excluded. By what lawe, of workes, flayer but by the lawe of fayth.

Therefore we holde: that a man is iustified by fayth without the dedes of the lawe. Is he the God of the Jewes onely, Is he not also the God of the Gentyles? Yes eue of the Gentyles also: For it is God onely whiche iustifyeth the circumcysion that is of fayth, and vncircumcysed thowowe fayth. Do we then destroye the lawe thowowe fayth. God sayth: But we rather mayntayne the lawe.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The declareth by the example of Abrah, that fayth iustifyeth, and not the lawe, nor the workes thereof.

What shal we saye the, & Abrah our father (as pertainge to fleshe) dyd syn, & Abrah were iustified by dedes, the hath he wherel to reioyse but not to God. For what sayth the scripture, Abrah beleued God, & it was counted vnto hym for ryghteousnes. To hym & worketh, is the reward not rehened of fauoure, but of duety. To him & worketh not, but beleueth on hym that iustifyeth the vngodly, is hys fayth counted for ryghteousnes (accordynge to the purpose of the grace of God) Euen as Dauid describeth the blessednes of that man vnto whome God imputeth righteousness without dedes. Blessed are they, whose vnrightheousnes are forgiuen, and whose synnes are covered. Blessed is that man, to whome the Lord wyll not impute synne. Came this blessednes then vpon the vncircumcysion, or vpon the circumcysion, also, for we saye, that fayth was rehened to Abrah for ryghteousnes. Howe was it then rehened, when he was in the circumcysion, or when he was in the vncircumcysion? Not in the tyme of circumcysion, but whē he was yet vncircumcysed. And he receaued the signe of circumcysion, as a seale of the ryghteousnes of fayth, wherby he had yet been circumcysed, that he shoulde be the father of all them that beleue, though they be not circumcysed, that ryghteousnes might be imputed to the also, and that he myght be father of circumcysion, not vnto them onely whiche came of the circumcysed, but vnto them also that walke in the steppes of the fayth that was in our father Abrah, before the tyme of circumcysion.

For the promes (that he shoulde be the fether of the world) happened not to Abrah on to his seed thowowe the lawe: but thowowe the ryghteousnes of fayth. For yf they whiche are of the lawe, be heires, then is fayth but vayne and the promes of none effecte. Because the lawe causeth wrath. For where no lawe is, there is no transgression. Therefore by fayth is the endurancie geuen, that it myghte come of fauoure: & the promes might be sure to all the seed. Not to them onely whiche are of the lawe: but to them also whiche are of the fayth of Abrah: whiche is father of vs al (As it is sayd: I haue made the a father of many nations) euen before God, whō he beleued, whiche restoreth the dead vnto lyfe: & calleth those thynges which be not as though they were.

Which Abrah, contrarie to hope beleued in hope, that he shoulde be the father of manye nations, accordynge to that which was spokē: euen so shal thy seed be, (as the starres of heauen, and the sand of the see.) And he fainted not in fayth nor yet considered his owne bodye whiche was nowe dead, eue when he was almost an hundred yere old, neither yet & Sara was past chyldebearing. He stablished not at the promes of God thowowe vnbefle, but became stronger in fayth and gaue God the praise, beyng full certified that he which had promysed the same was able also to make it good. And therefore was it rehened to hym for ryghteousnes.

Reuerbele it is not wyrtren for hym onely, that it was rehened to hym: for ryghteousnes, but also for vs, to whome it shal be counted for ryghteousnes, so that we beleue on hym that rayled vpon Iesus our Lord from the dead which was deliuered for our synnes, and was raised agayne for our iustification.

The. v. Chapter.

The poynt of fayth, hope and loue, and howe death rayned from Adam vnto Christ, by whome onely we haue forgiveness of synne.

Because therefore that we are iustified by fayth, we are at peace with God, thowowe our Lord Iesus Christ: by whome all oie chaunced vnto vs to be brought in thowowe fayth, vnto thy grace, wherin we stande, and reioice in hope of the glorie: as the chrym of God. Not that onely, but also we reioice in tribulacions, knowinge that tribulacion byngeth patience, patience byngeth experience, experience byngeth hope. And hope maketh not ashamed, because the loue of God is shed abroad in our hartes, by the holy goost whiche is geuen vnto vs.

For when we were yet withoute, according to the synne, Christ dyed for us which were ungodly. Yet scarce was any man dyed for a righteous man. But a good man durst he a man die. But God senteth out his loue to warde vs, luyng that whyle we were yet synners, Christ dyed for vs. Much more then now, we are iustified by his bloude, shalbe saved from wrath thow hym. For yf when we were enemies, we were reconcyled to God, by the death of his sonne: much more luyng we are reconcyled, we shalbe preserved by his life. Not onely this, but we also luyne in God by f meanes of our Lord Iesus Christ by whiche we haue nowe obtained the redemption. Wherefore, as by one man, synne entered into the worlde, and death by the meanes of synne. But so death also went ouer all me, in so much as all we haue synned. For euen vnto the lawe was synne in the worlde: but synne is not imputed, when there is no law: neuertheless death rayned from Adam to Moyses, euen ouer them also that had not synned with lyke transgression as dyd Adam: which beareth the similitude of hym that was to come. But the gyfte is not lyke as the synne. For yf thow we the synne of one, many be dead: much more plenteous vpon many was the grace of God, and gyfte by grace: whiche was of one man Iesus Christ. And the gyfte is not ouer one synne: as death camethow one synne of one that synned. For dampnacion came of one synne vnto condemnation: but the gyfte came to iustifye from many synnes. For if by the synne of one, death rayned by the meanes of one: much more they (whiche receiue aboundance of grace and of the gyfte of ryghteousnes) shal rayne in lyfe by f meanes of one (that is to saye) Iesus Christ. Like wyse then as by the synne of one there sprange by euil on all men to condemnation: euen so by the ryghteousnesse of one (spryngeth good vpon all men to the ryghteousnesse of lyfe. For as by one mannes dyso obedience, many became sinners: so by the obedience of one that many be made ryghteous. But the lawe in the meane tyme entered in, that synne shuld encrease. Whereafter where aboundance of synne was there was more plenteousnesse of grace. That as synne had rayned vnto death, euen so myghte grace rayne thow we ryghteousnesse, vnto eternal lyfe, by the helpe of Iesu Christ.

The. vi. Chapter

For so much as we be deliuered thow we Christ from synne, we must fashion our selues to liue as the seruauntes of God, and not after our owne lustes. For our selues are made of ryghteousnesse and lyfe.

What shal we say then? Shal we chynne in synne, that there maye be aboundance of grace? God forbid howe shal we that are dead as touchyng synne, liue any longer therein? I knowe ye not that al we which are baptised into Iesu Christe are baptised to dye to hym? We are buried then with hym by baptisme for to dye: that likewyse as Christ was raised vp from death by the glory of the father, euen so we also shuld walke in new lyfe. For if we be grafte in death by hym, euen so shal we be partakers of the resurrection: knowinge this, that our olde man was crucified with hym also, that the bodye of synne myghte vterlye be destroyed, that henceforth we should not be seruauntes vnto synne. For he that is dead, is stypped from synne. Wherefore yf we be dead with Christ, we beleeue, that we shal also liue with hym: knowinge, that Christ beinge rayned from death, dyeth no more. Death hath no more power ouer hym. For as touchyng that he dyed, he dyed concerning synne once. And as touchyng that he lyueth, he lyueth vnto God. Lyke wyse consider ye also, that ye are dead as touchyng synne, but are alpye vnto God thow Iesus Christ our Lorde. Let not sinne raygne therfore in youre mortall bodye, that ye shulde thereunto obey by the lustes of it. Neither geue ye youre members as instruments of vnyghteousnesse vnto synne: but geue ouer your selues vnto God as they that of dead, are alpye. And geue ouer your members as instruments of ryghteousnesse vnto God. For synne shal not haue power ouer you. Because ye are not vnder the lawe, but vnder grace.

What then? Shal we synne, because we are not vnder lawe: but vnder grace? God forbid. I knowe ye not, howe that to whomsoever ye comytt your selues as seruauntes to obeye his seruantes ye are to whiche ye obey: whether it be of synne vnto death, or of obedience vnto righteounesse? God be thanked, that though ye were the seruantes of sinne, ye haue yet obeyed with hert vnto the rule of the doctryne, that ye be broughte vnto. Ye are then made free from sinne, and are become the seruantes of righteounesse. I speake grossly, because of the infirmite of your fleshe. As ye haue geuen youre members seruantes to vncleannes and to iniquyte, (from one iniquyte to another) euen so nowe geue ouer your members seruantes vnto ryghteousnesse, that ye may be sanctified. For when ye were the seruantes of synne, ye were vnder the rule of righteounesse. What frute had ye then in those thinges, wherof ye are nowe ashamed? For fende of those thinges is death. But nowe are ye deliuered from synne, and made the seruantes of God, and haue your frute to be sanctified, & the end euerclastyng lyfe. For f reward of synne is death, but eternal lyfe is the gyfte of God, thow we Iesus Christ our Lorde.

The. vii. Chapter

Christ hath deliuered us from the lawe and death, that we mighte walke in the flesch and outward manne is and callith it the lawe of the members.

Howe ye not brethren (I speke to them that knowe the lawe) howe the lawe hath power ouer a man as longe as it endureth? For the wo-man which is in subiection to a man is bounde by the lawe to the man, as longe as he lyueth. But yf the man be dead: he is loosed fro the lawe of the man. So then yf whyle the man lyueth the couple her selfe with another man she shalbe counted a wedlocke breaker. But yf the man be deare. ¶ He from the lawe of the husbande, so that he maye wedlocke breake, though the couple be faste with another man. ¶ Euen so ye also (my brethren) are dead concerning the lawe, by the body of Christ: ye should be coupled to another (I meane to him y<sup>e</sup> is risen agayne fro death) ye should bying forth frute vnto God. For whā we were in the fleshe the lustes of synne which were stered by the lawe, rayned in our members, to bying forth frute vnto deathe. But now we are we deliuered from the lawe, and dead vnto it, wherunto we were in bondage, that we should serue in a newe conuersation of the sperte, and not in the olde conuersation of the letter.

What shall we saye then / is the lawe synner? God forbyd, neuertheless. I knewe not synne, but by the lawe. For I had not knowe what lust had meante, excepte the lawe hadde sayd: thou shalt not lust. But synne toke an occasyon by the meanes of the commaundement and wrought in me all maner of concupiscence. For verely wthout the lawe, synne was deade. I once liued wthout lawe: but when the commaundement came, synne reuiued, and I was deade. And the verye same commaundement, whych was ordeyned vnto lyfe, was found to be vnto me an occasyon of deathe. For synne toke occasyon by the meanes of the commaundement, & so disceaued me, & by the same slewe me. ¶ Wherefore the lawe is holy, and the commaundement holy and iust & good. Was that the which was good made deathe vnto me? God forbyd. Naye it was synne: that synne myghte appeare (by it which was good) to worke deathe in me: synne by the commaundement mighte be oute of me: siner synful. For we knowe that the lawe is spiritual: but I am carnal: I olde vnder synne, because I knowe not that which I do. For what I wolde, that do I not: but what I hate, that do I. ¶ If I do nowe that which I wolde not, I consente vnto the lawe that it is good. So then now, it is not I that do it, but synne: & dwelleth in me, for I knowe, that in me (that is to saye: in my fleshe) dwelleth no good thing. For to wyl is present wth me: but I fynd no meane to performe that which is good. For the good that I wolde, do I not: but the euil which I wolde not that do I. ¶ If I do that I wolde not, then is it not I that do it, but synne that dwelleth in me. I fynd then by the lawe, that when I wolde do good, euil is present wth me. For I delyte in the lawe of God, after the inward man: but I see another lawe in my members, rebelling against the lawe of my mynde, and subduyng me vnto the lawe of synne, whych is in my members. O wretched man that I am: who shall deliuer me from this bodye subdued vnto deathe? I thanke God thowowe Iesus Christ our Lord. So then wth the mynde I serue the lawe of God, but wth the fleshe the lawe of synne.

¶ The lawe of the sperte geueth lyfe. The sperte of God maketh vs Gods children: whiche with Christ. The abonne haunte loue of God, can not be separated.

¶ Here is then no damnacion to them whiche are in Christ Iesu, whiche shall not after the fleshe, but after the sperte. For the lawe of the sperte, of lyfe thowowe Iesus Christ, hath made me free from the lawe of synne, and deathe. For what the lawe coulde not do (in as muche as it was weake because of the fleshe) that performed god and sent his sonne in the symilitude of syn: all fleshe, and by synne damned synne in the fleshe, that the ryghteousnes of the lawe, mighte be fulfilled in vs, whych walke not after the fleshe, but after the sperte.

For they that are carnal, are carnally mynded. But they that are spiritual, are ghostly mynded. To be carnally mynded, is deathe. But to be spiritually mynded, is lyfe and peace.

Because that the fleschly mynde is enemye agaynst God, for it is not obedient to the lawe of God, nether can be. So then they that are in the fleshe, can not please God.

But ye are not in the fleshe, but in the sperte: so be that the sperte of God dwell in you. If any man haue not the sperte of Christ, & same is none of his. If Christ be in you, the bodye is dead because of synne, but the sperte is lyfe for ryghteousnes sake. ¶ Wherefore, if the sperte of hym that rayled vp Iesus from deathe, dwell in you: euen he that rayled vp Christ from deathe shall quicken your mortall bodyes, because of his sperte that dwelleth in you.

Therefore brethren, we are debtors, not to the fleshe, to liue after the fleshe. For if we liue after the fleshe, ye shall dye: But if ye thowowe the sperte) do mortifye the dedes of the bodye, ye shall lyue: For as many as are led by the sperte of God, they are the sonnes of God. For ye haue not receaued the sperte of bondage to feare any more, but ye haue receaued the sperte of adopction, wherby we crye: Abba father. ¶ The same sperte certifieth our sperte that we are the sonnes of God. If we be sonnes, then are we also heires: I meane of God, & heires annexed with Christ. If so be that we suffer with hi, that we maye be also glorified together wth hym.

For I suppose that the afflictions of this lyfe, are not worthy of the gloire, whiche shall be the word vpon vs. ¶ For the scruffe desyre of the creature abydeeth loyng when the sonnes of God shall appere, because the creature is subdued to vanyte, agaynst the wyl therof, but for his wyl which hath subdued the same in hope. For the same creature shall be deliuered from the bondage of corrupcion into the gloryous libertie of the sonnes of God. For we knowe that euerye creature groweth wth vs also, and trauaileth in payne euen vnto this tyme.

Not onely it, but we also whiche haue the frute of the sperte, moine in our selues also, and wayte for the adopcion (of the children of God.) Euen the deliuerance of our bodye.

For we are saued by hope. But hope that is sene, is no hope, for how can a man hope for that whiche he seeth? But and if we hope for that we see not, then do we wth patience abide for it.

The Epistle

Exhorter. the spirit also helpeth our infirmities. So; we know not what to desire as the Spirit; but the spirit mooueth intercedeth for vs with groanings which can not be expressed. And he that searcheth the heartes: knoweth what is the meaninge of the spirit, for he himselfe intercedeth for the sayntes, according to the pleasure of God. ¶

We knowe that all thynges work for the best vnto them that loue God, which also are called of purpose. For those which he knew before, he also ordeined before, that they shuld be like fashioned vnto the shape of his sonne, that he myghte be the synne begotten sonne among many brethren. Whereouer, whom he appointed before, them also he called. And whom he hath called, them also he iustified: and whom he iustified, them he also glorified.

What shall we then saye to these thynges? If God be on our syde, who can be agaynst vs which spared not his owne sonne, but gaue hym for vs all: howe can it be that with him he shoulde not geue vs all thynges also? Who shall laye any thyng to the charge of Gods chosen? it is God that iustified: who is he that can condemne? it is Christ which dyed: yet rather which is risen agayne, which is also on the ryght hande of God, and maketh intercession for vs.

Who shall separate vs from the loue of God? Shall tribulation, or anguysh, or persecucion, or hunger, or cold, or nakednes, or nakednes, or nakednes, or nakednes? As it is wyrtten: for thy sake are we kylled al daye longe, and are counted as shepe appointed to be slayne. Neuertheles, in all these thynges we ouercome thow we him that loued vs. For I am sure, that neyther death, neyther lyfe, neyther angells, nor rule, neyther power, neyther thynges present, neyther thynges to come, neyther heyghe, neyther lowthe, neyther any other creature shalbe able to depart vs from the loue of God, which is in Christ Jesu our Loyde. ¶

Chap. ix. Chapter.

¶ I haue complained vpon the hardnes of the Jewes, that woulde not receaue Christe, and howe the deathen are chosen in their heade.

I haue thetrote in Christe, and Ipe not, my conscience also bearyng me witness by the holy ghost: I haue greate heavynes, and continual sorrowe in my herte. For I haue wylled my selfe to be cursed for Christ. for my brethren (my kynsmen as pertainyng to flesh) which are the Israelites. To who pertaineth the adopcion, and the glory, and the conuincion: and the lawe that was geuen, and the seruice of God, and the promyses: whose also are the fathers, and they of whom (as concernyng the flesh) Christ came, which is God in all thynges to be praised for ever. Amen.

I speake not these thynges, as though I wold des of God hadde taken none effect. For they are not all Israelites, which are of Israel: neyther are they all chylidren of Abraham, that are the seede of Abraham. But in Isaac shall thy seede be called: for it is sayd, they which are the chylidren of the flesh: of the chylidren of God. But they which are chylidren of promysse, about the time that I came, and Sara shall haue a sonne. Not only this, but also Rebecca was wyth childe by one, even by oure father Isaac. For yet the childe was borne, while they had neither done good, neither bad: (that the purpose of God by electid, might stand) it was sayd vnto her, not by the reason of workes, but by the caller. The elder shal serue the yonger, as it is wyrt. Jacob haue I loued, but Esau haue I hated. What shal we saye then? is there any vngateousnesse with God? God forbid. For he sayeth to Moses: I wil shewe mercy to whom I shewe mercy: I wil haue compassion on whom I haue compassion. So sayeth it not then in a mans wyl, or rumpage, but in the mercy of God. For the scripture sayeth vnto Pharaoh: I shewe my power on thee, that my name myghte be declared thow out al the world: So hath he mercy on whom he wyl, and whom he wyl he maketh heareth.

Thou wilt saye then vnto me: why the blame thy he vs yet? For who hath be able to resist his wyl? But O man, what art thou which disputest with God? Shall the wrath be sayd to the workeman: why hast thou made me on this fashion? hath not y potter power ouer y clay, euen of the same lombe to make one vessel vnto honoure, and another vnto dishonoure? Euen so, God willing to shewe his wrath, and to make his power knowne: suffred with long patience the vessels of wrath, ordeined to damnacion, and to declare the ryches of his glory on the vessels of mercy which he had prepared vnto glory: whom also he called, not of the Jewes onely, but also of the Gentyles. As he sayeth also to Osee: I will call them my people which were not my people: and her beloued which was not beloued (and her to haue obtained mercy, that had not obtained mercy.) And it shall come to passe, y in the place wher it was sayd vnto them: ye are not my people, there shall they be called y chylidren of the luyng God.

But I saye cryeth concerning Israel, although the nombre of the childe of Israel be as y sand of the see, yet the remnant shalbe saved. For he synneth the word verily, and maketh hit short in ryng, heinousnes. For a worse worde wyl God make on earth. And as I sayd before: Except the Lord of Sabboth had lefte vs seide, we had bene made as Sodoma, and had bene likened to Gomorra. What shal we saye then? We saye, that the Gentiles which folowed not righteousness haue ouertaken righteousness: euen the righteousness which cometh of sayth, contrary wyse, Israel which folowed the lawe of righteousness, could not attayne to the lawe of righteousness. Wherefore: euen because they sought it not by sayth: but as it were by the workes of y lawe. For they haue stumbled at the stonyng stone. As it is wyrtten. Beholde, I put in Israel a stumbling stone, and a roche that men shal be offended

offended at. And shall not be confounded.

The .i. Chapter.

The unbelief of the Jewes. The unbelief of the Gentiles.

Blessed be they that believe in the Lord Jesus Christ. For they have a fervent mynd to Godward, but not according to knowledge. For they being ignorant of Gods righteousness, and going about to establish their own righteousness, have not been obedient unto the righteousness of God. For Christ is the full filling of the law, to satisfy all that believe.

For Moses wrote of the righteousness which cometh of the law, howe that the man which doth it bringeth of it lawe, shall live thereby. But the righteousness which cometh of faith, speaketh on this wise: Wapenot thou in thine heart, who shall ascende into heave (that is euen to seeke Christ downe from above.) Yetther who shall descende into the deepe (that is euen to seeke up Christ againe from death.) But what sayeth he? The worde is nye the, euen in thy mouth and in thine heart.

This same is the worde of faith whiche we preach. For yf thou knowlage with thy mouth that Jesus is the Lord, and beleue in thine heart that God raised hym up from death, thou shalt be safe. For to beleue with the heart is sufficient: and knowlage with the mouth maketh a man safe. For the scripture saith: whosoever beleueth on hym, shall not be confounded.

There is no difference betwene the Jewe and the gentyl. For one is Lord of al, which is riche vnto al y call vpon hym. For whosoever doth call on the name of the Lord, shall be safe. How then shall they call on him, on whom they haue not beleued? howe shall they beleue on hym of whom they haue not heard? howe shall they heare without a preacher? And how shall they preach except they be sent? As it is written: howe beautiful are the fete of them whiche bring tynges of peace, and bring tynges of good tynges. But they haue not al obeyed to the Gospel.

For Esay sayth: Lord, who hath beleued our saynges? So then sayeth cometh by hearinge and hearing cometh by the worde of God. But I aske: have they not heared? No doute they sound wente out into al landes, and they wordes into the endes of the worlde.

But I demaund, whet her Israel dyd knowe or not. For the Holy Spirit saith: I wyll prouoke you to enuy, by them that are no people: by a folyshe nation I wyll anger you: Esay after that is holde and sayeth: I am founde of them, that sought me not: I am manifeste vnto them, that asked not after me. But agaynst Israel he sayeth: all daye longe haue I stretched forth my handes vnto a people that beleueth not but speake agaynst me.

The .ii. Chapter.

All the Jewes are not callid awaye, therefore shall I warnyng the gentyl y callid, not to be enuyed agaynst the Jewes, for the iudgements of God archepe a fennel.

For then hath God callid awaye his people. God for hyd. For euen I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the trybe of Ben Jamin, God hath not callid awaye his people, whiche he knowe before. Wote ye not, what the scripture sayth of Ihesus, howe he maketh intercession to God agaynst Israel, sayeng

Lord, they haue kylled thy prophetes, and dogged downe thine altars: and I am left a lone, and they seke my lyfe. But what saith I answer of God vnto him? I haue reserved vnto my selfe seven thousande men, whiche haue not bowed the knee to the ymage of Baal. Euen so also at this tyme is there a remnant left according to the election of grace. Yf it be of grace, then is it not nowe of woorkes. For then grace is nomore grace. But yf it be of woorkes, then is it nowe no grace.

For then were deservynge nomore grace. For then were deservynge nomore grace. For then were deservynge nomore grace.

What the, Israel hath not obtained that whiche he seeketh: but the election hath obtained it. The remnant are blynded, according as it is written: God hath geuen them a spirit of unquietnes: eyes that they should not se, and eares that they should not heare, euen vnto this daye.

And David sayeth: Let theyr table be made a snare to take them with al, and an occasion to fall, and a rewarde vnto them. Let theyr eyes be blynded that they se not, and bowe thou downe theyr backe alwaye.

I saye then, haue they therefore stumbled, that they should vterly fall away together, God for hyd, but so that we theyr fall, is saluation happened vnto the Gentiles for to prouoke the wrath all. Wherefore yf the fall of the be the ryche of the worlde, and the mynyshynge of the riches of the Gentyles: howe muche more theyr perfectnesse, I speake to you Gentyles, in as muche as

I am the Apostle of the Gentiles, I wyll magnifye myne office, yf by any meane I maye prouoke them whiche are my fleshe, and mynght saue some of them. For yf the calling awaye of them be for reconciling of the worlde, what shall the receayving of them be, but lyfe agayne from death? For yf one peece be holye, the whole heape is holie. And yf the roote be holye, the bryanches shall be holie also.

Though some of the bryanches be broken of and thou be puge a wyldc olyuete, wast grafte in amonge them, and made partaker of the roote and fatnes of the olyuete tree, boast not thy selfe agaynst the bryanches.

For yf thou boasts thy selfe, thou bearest not the roote, but the roote the. Thou wilt saye then, the bryanches are broken of, that I mynght be grafte in. Thou sayest well: because of unbelieve they were broken of, and thou standest stedfaste in saythe. Be not hye mynded: but feare: for sayng that God spareth not the naturall bryanches, take hede: lest it come to passe that he spare not the also.

Beholde therefore the kyndnes and rigour of God, on them whiche fell, rigourousnes but towards the kyndnes: yf thou continue in his kyndnes: Or els thou shalt be broken of and they agayne yf they byde not styll in unbelieve

For the Jewes are not callid awaye, therefore shall I warnyng the gentyl y callid, not to be enuyed agaynst the Jewes, for the iudgements of God archepe a fennel.

For Esay sayth: Lord, who hath beleued our saynges? So then sayeth cometh by hearinge and hearing cometh by the worde of God. But I aske: have they not heared? No doute they sound wente out into al landes, and they wordes into the endes of the worlde.

The Epistle

shalbe graffed in agayne. For God is of power to graffe the in agayne. For if thou wast cut out of a naturall wythe olive tree, and was graffed contrary to nature in a true olive tree, how much more shal the naturall boughes be graffed in theys owne olive tree agayne.

I wolde not that this secrete shoulde be hyd from you my brethren lest ye shoulde be wyle of your owne conceites that partelye blindnes is happened in Israel, vntyll the fulnes of the gentyles be come in: and so all Israel shalbe saued. As it is written: * There shal come out of Syon be that both deliuer, and shal turne a waye vnto godlines from Jacob. And this is my couenaunt vnto them, when I shal take awaye theys synnes. As concerning the Gospel they are enemyes for your sakes: but as touching the electyd, they are loued for theys fathers sakes.

For verely, the gyftes and calling of God are such, that it can not repent hym of them, for loke, as ye in tyme pasted haue not beleued God yet haue now obtayned mercye thowgh they vnbeleue: euen so nowe haue they not beleued, & mercye whiche is happened vnto you: that they also maye obteyne mercye. For God had wraiped all nacions in vnbeleue, that he myght haue mercye on all.

O the depenes of the riches both of the wysedom and knowlage of God: how vnsearchable are thes iudgements, and thes wayes paste synnyng out, for who hath knowen the mynde of the Lord, or who hath bene his counseller, or ether who hath geue vnto hym list, and he shalbe recompensed again, for of him, and thowgh hym and for hym are all thynges. To hym be glozys for euer. Amen.

The xlii Chapter.

The xlii Chapter. sheweth howe we are to be ruled by the lawe of Christ.

Beholde you therfore brethren, by the mercifulnes of God, that ye make your bodies a quicke sacrifice holy and acceptable vnto God: whiche is your reasonable seruyng of God: & fasten on not your selues lyke vnto thes world but be ye chaiged in your waye by the renewing of your mynde, that ye maye proue what thing that good, and acceptable, and perfecte wyl of God is. For I say (thowgh the grace of vnto me geue is) to every man among you, that * no man stande hye in his owne conceite more then it be cometh hym to esteeme hym selfe: but to iudge of hym selfe, that he bee gentle and sober, accompyng as God hath dealt to every man the measure of fayth.

For as we are many members in one bodye, and all members haue not one offyce, so we beynge many are one bodye in Christ, and every man amonge our selues, on anothers members.

* * * * * Soryng tyme haue dyuers gyftes accordyng to the grace that is geuen vnto vs, if any man haue the gyfte of prophete, let hym haue it, that it be agreeyng vnto the scriptur. Let hym that haue an offyce wryte on hym offyce. Let hym that teacheth, ake heed to his doctryne. Let hym that exorteth, geue attendaunce to his exhortacion. If any man geue, let hym do it woth synglenes. Let hym that ruleth, do it woth dyligence. If any man shewe mercye, let hym do it woth cheyrfulnes. Let loue be wthout dissimulation. Hate y which is euell, & cleaue vnto that whiche is good. Be hynde one to another wth brotherly loue. * In geuyng honoure, go one before another. * Be not slothfull in the busynesse whiche ye haue in hand. Be seruent in the lorde. Apply your selues to the tyme. Reioyse in hope. Be pacient in tribulaciō. Continue in prayer. Bestow vnto the necessitee of the sayntes: * be ready to herbour. * Blesse the which persecute you: blesse (I say) and curse not: Be merce wth them that are mer. Wepe also wth them that wepe. Be of lyke affectyon one towardes another. Be not hye mynde, but make your selues equalle to them of the lower sorte. * I * Be not wyle in your owne opinions. Recōpence to no man euell for euell. Be youde asofozad thynges honest: not onely before God, but also, in the sight of all men. If it bee possible, (as muche as is in you) lyue peaceably wth all men. Dearly beloved, auenge not your selues, but rather geue place vnto wrath. For it is wyfthen vengeaunce is myne, I will rewarde, sayeth the Lord.

Therfore if thynne enemye hunger, fede hym, if he thyrste, geue hym drynke. For in so doing thou shalt heape coles of fyre on his head. Be not overcome of euell, but overcome euell wth goodnes. I

The xliii Chapter.

The obediēce of men vnto thes rulers. How fulfilleth the lawe. It is nowise no tyme to folowe the woordes of barbares.

Et every soule submyt hym self vnto the authorite of the hyer power. For there is no power but of God. The powers that be, are ordeined of God. Whosover therfore resisteth power, resisteth the ordynance of God. But they that resist shal receaue to them selfe damnaciō: for rulers are not feareful to them that do good, but to them that do euell. Wilt thou be wthoute feare of the power, do well then and so shalt thou bee prayled of the same. For he is the mynyster of God, for thy welth. But and if thou do that which is euell, then feare: for he beareth not the sword for nought: for he is the mynyster of God, to take vengeaunce on hym that doth euell. Therfore, ye must nedes obeie, not onely for feare of vengeaunce: but also because of conscience. And euen for thes cause paye ye tribute. For they are Goddes mynysters, seruyng for the same purpose. I

Due to every man therfore his dutie: & tribute to wth tribute belongeth: custōe, to wth custome is due: feare to whom feare belongeth: honoure, to wth honoure pertayneth. * We needyng to any manne, but thes, that you loue one another. For he that loueth another hath fulfilled the lawe. For thes commandmentes: * Thou shalt not committe adoultury, thou shalt not kyll: thou shalt not steale: thou shalt not haue false wytnesse: thou shalt not lust, & so for he (if there be any other commandment) it is al comprehended in this sayng. namely. Love thy neyghbour as thy selfe. Love hurteth not his neyghbour. Therefore I have the fulfilling of the lawe. R

¶ This also we knowe the reason howe it is tyme, that we should now awake out of slepe. For nowe is our saluacion nether the when we beleue. The neyghbour is passed, the daye is come nye. Let vs therefore cast a way of dedes of darkness, & let vs put out the aymour of lpyght. Let vs walke honestly, as it were in the day light: not in eatyng and drynkyng, neyther in charytyng and wantonnes, neyther in slepe and enuyng: but put ye on the Lorde Jesus Chyft. ¶ And make not proupyson for the fleshe to fulfyll the lustes of it.

The xliii Chapter.

The weak ought not to be despised. No man should offend another's conscience: agayne for ourwarde thynges should no man condemn another.

H ¶ That is weake in the saythe, receaue: not in disputyng & troubyng his conscience. One belueth that he may eate all thyng: Another whiche is weake eateth herbes. Let not hym that eateth, despyse hym that eateth not. And let not hym which eateth not, iudge him that eateth. For God hath receued hym. ¶ What art thou that iudgeth another mans seruait whether he stande or fall, that pertayneth vnto his owne master: yet he shalbe holden vp, & he may stande. For God is able to make hym stande.

This man putteth difference betwene daye and daye. Another man counteth al daies alike. Let every mannes mynde saye hym selfe. He that obserueth the daye, doth it vnto the Lord. And he that doeth not obserue the daye, doth it for the Lord also. He that eateth, doth it to please the Lord, for he geneth God thanks. And he that eateth not, eateth not to please the Lord: yet he al, and geneth God thanks. For none of vs liueth for hym selfe, and no man dieth for himselfe. For if we lyue, we lyue vnto the Lord. And if we dye, we dye vnto the Lord. Whether we liue therefore, or dye, we are the Lordes. For Chyft therfore dyed, and rose again, and reuiued, that he myght be Lord of dead and quyeke.

¶ But why dost thou then iudge thy brother? Eytther, why dost thou despise thy brother? We shalbe al brought before the iudge: none seat of Chyft. For it is writen as truly as I liue, sayeth the Lorde: all knees shall bowe to me, & al tonges shall geue prayse to God. So shal every one of vs geue accomptes of hym selfe to God. Let vs not therefore iudge on another any more.

¶ But iudge this rather. that no mā put a stumbling blocke, or an occasion to fall in his brother's way. For I knowe, and am full certeyned by the Lorde Jesus, that there is no thyng comune of it selfe: but vnto hym that iudgeth it to be comune: to hym is it comune. ¶ If thy brother be greued with thy meate, nowe walkeste thou not charitably. Destroy not hym with thy meate, for whom Chyft dyed. Cause not your treasure to be euell spokē of. For the kyngdom of God is not meat and drynke: but ryghteousnes, and peace, and ioye in the holy gost. For he that in these thynges serueth Chyft, pleasech God and is commended of men.

¶ Let vs therefore follow those thynges whiche make for peace, & thynges wherewith one may edify another. Destroye not the worke of God for a lytell meates sake. ¶ These thynges are pure but it is euell for that man, whiche eateth with hurt of conscience. It is good nether to eat flesch neyther to drynke wyne, neyther anye thyng, wherby thy brother stobler, eyther falleth, or is made weake. Hasten thou saythe haue it with thy selfe before God. happye is he, that condemneth not hym selfe, in thyng whiche he alloweth. For he that maketh conscience is damned if he eat: because he eateth not of fapth. For whatsoeuer is not of fapth, the same is synne. R

The xlv Chapter.

The infirmite & frailties of the weak ought to be borne with all loue and kyndnes, after the ensample of Chyft

Whyche are stronge & oughte to beare the frailties of them whiche are weake, and not to stand in our owne conceytes. Let every manne please his neyghbour vnto his wealte and edifyng. For Chyft pleased not hym selfe: but as it is writen: He rebuketh of them whiche rebuked the, fell on me.

The God of pacience and consolaciōs, graunt you, to be lyke minded one to wardes another, after the ensample of Chyft Jesu: that ye al agreeing together may with one mouth prayse God, the father of our Lorde Jesus Chyft. Wherfore receaue ye one another, as Chyft receaued vs, to the prayse of God. And this I say that Jesus Chyft was a mynistre of the circumcision for the tyme of God to confirme the promys made vnto the father: that the gentyles myght prayse God for his mercye, as it is writen. ¶ For this cause I wyl prayse the amonge the gentyles, and spage vnto thy name. And agayne he sayth: Reioyce ye gentyles with his people. And agayne: praise the Lorde all ye gentyles, and laud hym all ye nations together. And agayne Esay sayeth: there shalbe the rote of Jesse, and he that shal raigne ouer the gentyles: in him shall the gentyles truste. The God of hope fyl you with all ioye, and peace in beleuyng: that ye may be reche in hope, thow the power of the holy gost. R

I my selfe am full certeyned of you (my brethren) that ye also are full of goodnesse, and filled with all knowlage, wyllyng to exhort one another: neuertheles (yet) I haue somewhat moze boldly wyrtten vnto you, partly to put you in remembraunce, thow the grace is geuen me of God, that I should be ymnister of Jesu Chyft among the Gentyles, and shuld mynistre the Gospell of God, & the offering of the gentyles may be acceptable & lanchred by y<sup>e</sup> help of godde. I haue therefore wherof I may reioyce thoze whiche I haue in both thynges whiche pertaine to god. For I dare not speake of any of those thynges, which Christ hath not wrought by me, to make the Gentyles obedient, with worde and dede, in myghty signes & wonders, by the power of the spiryte of god: so that from Iherusalem and the coastes rounde aboute vnto Illyric, I haue fylled al countreys with the Gospell of Christ.

So haue I entored my selfe to preach y<sup>e</sup> Gospell, not wher Christ was named, lest I should haue built on another mans foundation: but as it is wyrten: * To whiche was not spoken of, they shall see: and they that herd not, shall understand. For this cause I haue be oft let: (as am let as yet) that I coulde not come vnto you: but now, seying I haue nomore to do in these countreys, & also haue ben desyous many yeres to come vnto you, whensoever I take my iourneye into Spayne, I will come to you. For I trust to se you in my iourney, & to be brought on my way therward by you, after y<sup>e</sup> I haue somewhat enioyed your acquaintance.

Nowe go I vnto Iherusalem, and mynister vnto the sayntes, for it hath pleased the of Macedonia & Achaia to make a certayn bystrybus: vpon the poore sayntes, which are at Iherusalem. It hath pleased them verely, & they deters are they. For y<sup>e</sup> the Gentyles be made partakers of theyr spiritual thynges, they outpe is to mynister vnto the I hadely thynges. Altho I haue performed this, & haue brought the this frute sealed, I will come backe agayne by you into Spayne. I am sure that whē I come vnto you, I shall come wth a bundaunce of the blessing of the Gospell of Christ. I beseech you brethren for oure Lorde Iesu Christes sake, & for the loue of the spiryte, that ye helpe me in my busyness with your prayers to god for me, that I may bee deliuered from them whiche beleue not in Jewry: & that this my seruice, whiche I haue to do at Iherusalem, may be accepted of the sayntes. I may come vnto you wth tope, by the wyl of god and may with you be refreshed. The god of peace be wth you all. Amen.

The xvi. Chapter.

Chapter of salutations. He thanketh them to be aware of menes doctrine, and commendeth vnto them certayn good men, that were iowes and iherosolymites.

I commend vnto you vberbe our sister (which is a mynister of the congregacion of Cenchrea) y<sup>e</sup> we receiue herein Christ, as becommeth sayntes, and y<sup>e</sup> she assist here I whatsoeuer busyness she nedeth of your ayde. For she hath suckered many, and myne owne selfe also. Greete Priscilla and Aquilla my helppers in Christ Iesu which haue for my lye layd downe theyr own neckes. Vnto who not I only geue thanks, but also al the congregacions of the Gentyles. Likewise greet the congregacion y<sup>e</sup> is in theyr house. Salute my welbeloued Epheutes, which is y<sup>e</sup> spike frute of Iherusalem. Greete Marye whiche bestowed muche laboure on vs. Salute Andronicus and Junia my colens, & pyloners wth me also, whiche are well taken amonge the Apostles, and were in Christ before me. Greete Amplias my beloued in the Lorde. Salute Urban oure helper in Christ, and Stachis my beloued. Salute Appelles approued in Christ: Salute them, which are of Aristobolus household. Salute Herodion my kynsmā. Greete them that be of the household of Narcissus, whiche are in the Lorde. Salute Triphena & Triphosa, whiche laboure in the Lorde. Salute the beloued Persys, whiche laboured muche in the Lorde. Salute Rufus chosen in the Lorde, and his mother and myne. Greete Asyncritus, Philegon, Herman, Patrobas, Mercurius, & the brethren whiche are wth them. Salute Philologus and Julia, Arcens and his syster, and Olympa, and all the sayntes whiche are wth them. Salute one another wth an holy kysse. The congregacions of Christ salute you.

I beseech you brethren, marke them whiche cause deuyson and geue occasiō of euell, contrarie to the doctrine whiche ye haue learned: and auoyde the. For they that are such serue not the Lorde Iesu Christ, but they owe bellies, and wth swete and flattering wordes, deceaue the heartes of the innocentes. For your obediēce is gone a broade vnto all men. I am glad therfore no doute, of you. But yet I woulde haue you wth vnto that whiche is good, and to be innocent as concernyng euell. The god of peace shall treade Satthan vnder your fete shortly. The grace of oure Lorde Iesu Christ be wth you.

Timotheus my worke felow, and Lucius and Iason, and Socypater my kynsmen salute you, whiche wth thys Epistle in the Lorde. Sayus my host and the hoste of all the congregacion saluteth you. Erastus the treasurer of the citty, saluteth you. And Quartus a brother saluteth you. The grace of oure Lorde Iesu Christ be wth you all. Amen.

To hym that is of power to stablyshe you accordyng to my Gospell, and preaching of Iesu Christ in vitering of the mystry, whiche was kepte secrete sence the world beganne, but now is opened by the scriptures of the prophetes at the commaundement of the eternall synge god to steepe by obedience to the sayth, published amonge all nacions: To the same god, which alone is wth be (omnes) prayse thow. rowe Iesu Christ for euer. Amen.

Thys Epistle was sente to the Romaynes from Corinthus by vberbe, whiche that was the mynister vnto the congregacion at Cenchrea.

The first Epistle

of sainte Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians

The first Chapter

The commendeth the Corinthians, & comforteth them in her of one minde, and rebuketh the division that was among them Wofully wylcomen in faith before God: yet, there is no wylcomen but in the gospell of God.

Paul called an Apostle of Jesus Christ, sheweth the wil of God and brother softenes.

Unto the congregacion of God whych is at Corinthum.
To the that are sanctified by Christ Jesu called sayntes with al that call on the name of our Lorde Jesus Christ in every place, ether of theys or of oures.

Grace be vnto you, and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

I thanke my God alwaies on your behalf, for the grace of God whych is geuen you by Jesus Christ, in al thynges ye are made riche by hym, in al veteraunce and in al knowlage by whych thynges the testimony of Jesus Christ was confirmed in you, so that ye are behynd in no gift, waiting for the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ, whych shal also strength you vnto the ende, that ye may be blamelesse in the day of the commynge of our Lorde Jesus Christ.

God is sayntfull, by whos ye are called vnto fellowshipp of his so Jesus Christ our Lord. I be-seche you brethren by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye al speke one thyng, and that there be no disencion among you: but ye may be a whole body: of one mynde & of one meaning For it is shewed vnto me (my brethren) of you by the which are of the house of Elor, that there is strep amonge you. I speake of the same that euery one of you sayeth: I hold of Paul: I hold of Apollo: I hold of Cephas: I hold of Christ.
Is Christ deuyded? Was Paul crucified for you: ether were ye baptised in the name of Paul I thanke God, that I oapryled none of you, but Crispus & Gayus. lest any shuld say, that I had baptised in mine owne name. I baptised also house of Stephana. Furthermoze knowe I not whether I baptised any man: of 7000 or no.

For Christ sente me not to baptise, but to preach the gospell, not with wysedome of wodes, lest the crosse of Christ shuld haue be made of none effecte. For the preaching of the crosse, is to them that percythe, folyshnes: but vnto vs whych are saued: it is the power of God. For it is wrytten: I wyl destroye the wysedome of wyle, and wyl cast a waye the vnderstandynge of the prudente. Where is the wyle? Where is the scripber? Where is the disputer of this world: hath not God made the wisdom of this world folyshnes?

For after that the world thowwe wysdome knewe not God, in the wisdom of God it pleased God thowwe folyshnes of preaching, to saue they in this wise. For the Jewes requyre a signe, & the Grekes seeke after wysedome. But we preach Christ crucified, vnto the Jewes on occasion of fallynge, and vnto the Grekes to folyshnes: but vnto them which are called both of the Jewes and Grekes, we preach Christ the power of God and the wysedome of god. For the folyshnes of God, is wylse then men, and the weaknes of God is stronger then men. We shal pe se your callinge, howe that not many wise men after the fleshe, not many myghtie, not many of hye degree, are called: But God hath chosen the folysh thynges of the world, to confound the wyle. And God hath chosen the weake thin-ges of the world, to confound the thynges whiche are mightie. And vyle thynges of the world and thynges whych are despyled, hath God chosen, per, and thynges of no reputacion, for to brynge to nought thynges of reputacion, that no flesch shoulde reioyce in his presence. And of hym are we, in Christ Jesu, whych of god is made vnto vs wisdom, and ryghteousnes, and sanctifying, and redemption. That accordyng as it is wrytten: he whiche reioyleth, shoulde reioyce in the Lorde.

The ii. Chapter.

It is not eloquence and glorious papured wordes of worldly wisdom, that can edifie and conuert soules vnto Christ but the playne wordes of the scripture for they make men-cion of hym and his crosse.

And I brethren (wher I came to you) came not in gloryousnes of wordes or of wysdome, shewing vnto you the testimony of God. Neither spewed I my selfe that I knewe anye thyng among you, saue Jesus Christ, and the same that was crucified. And I was amonge you in weaknes, and in fear, and in much trembling. And my wordes and my preaching was not with entyng wordes of mans wysdome: but in shewing of the spyte and of power, that your faith shoulde not stande in the wysedome of men, but in the power of God.

We speake of wysedome amonge them that are perfect: not the wisdom of this world, neither of the rulers of this world (whych go to nought) but we speake of the wysdome of God whych is in secret and lysterd hyd, whych God ordeined before the world vnto our glory, whych wisdom: none of rulers of this world knewe For had they had knowlage, they woulde not haue crucified the Lorde of glorye. But (as it is wrytten: ) The eye hath not seene, and the eare hath not harde, neither haue entred into the herte of man, the thynges whych God hath prepared for them that loue hym.

But God hath opened them vnto vs by his spyte. For the spyte seetheth all thynges, yea the botome of Soddes secretes. For what man knoweth the thynges of a man: saue the spyte of man whych is within him? Euf so the thynges of God knoweth no man, but the spyte of God. And we haue not receiued the spyte of the world: but the spyte whych commeth of God, for to knowe the thynges that are geuen to vs by. iii. of God of god: which thinges also we speake not with wordes that mannes wylde hart teacheth, but with wordes which the holy ghost hath teacht.

Makinge spiritual comparison of spiritual thinges. The naturall man perceaueth not the thinges that belong to the spirite of God. For they are but folysomes vnto him. Neether can he perceiue the, because they are spiritually examined. But he that is spiritual, discusseth al thinges: yet he him selfe is iudged of no manne * For who hath knowen the minde of the Lord epher who shal informe hym? But we vnderstande the mynde of Christ.

The iii. Chapter.

Chauce rebueth the seeres & authours thereof. Christe is the foundation of the church. No man ought to reioyce in men, but in God.

And I coulde not speake vnto you by thynges as vnto spiritual: but as vnto carnal, euen as vnto babes in Christ.

* I gaue you milke to drinke, and not meate. For ye then were not strong, neither are ye as yet. For ye are yet carnal. As longe verily as there is among you enuyng and streffe, & sectes: as ye not carnal, and walke after the maner of menner. For whyle one sayeth: I holde of Paul, and another I am of Apollos, are ye not carnal. What is Paul? What thyng is Apollos? only ministers are they by whom ye beleue euen as the Lord gaue euery man grace. I haue planted, Apollos watered: but God gaue the en-crease. So then, neither is he that planteth any thyng, neether he that watereth, but God that greweth & encreaseth: he that planteth and he that watereth are one. Euery man yet shal receaue his rewarde, accordyng to his labour. For we are Goddes labourers, ye are Goddes husband-rye: & ye are Goddes buyldyng: accordyng to grace of god geuen vnto me, as a wyse buylder haue I layd the foundation. And another build thereon. But let euery man take hede, howe he buildeth vpon. For another foundation can no man laye, then that is layde: which is Iesus Christ. If any man buyld on this foundation, golde, syluer, preeious stones, tymbre, haye or stoble: euery mannes worke shal appere. For the daye shall declare, whyche shal be shewed in fyre. And the fyre shal trye euery mans worke, what it is. If any mannes worke that he hath buylded vpon, byde, he shall receaue a rewarde.
If any mannes worke burne, he shal suffer losse: but he shalbe safe hym selfe: neuertheles, yet as it were thowow fyre.

* Knowe ye not that ye are the temple of God, & howe that the spirite of god dwelleth in you? If any man defile the temple of God, hym shall God destrope. For the temple of God, is holy which temple ye are. Let no man deceaue hym selfe. If any man seme wyse to hym self among you, let hym become a foole in this world, that he may be wyse. For the wysdom of this world is folysomes wyth God: For it is wyrtten: * he compasseth the wyse in theyr craftines. And again * God knoweth the thoughtes of the wise that they be vaine. Therefore, let no man reioyce in men. For all thinges are poures whether it be Paul, ether Apollos, ether Cephas: whether it be the world ether the, ether deeth whether they present thinges, or thinges to come: all are yours: and ye are of Christes, and Christe is God with vs.

The iiii. Chapter.

The preachers of the gospell. Judgemente belongeth only to God.

Euen as the ministers of Christ, and the wardens of the secretes of God.

Furthermoze it is requyred of fidewardes, that a man be found faythful. With me it is but a very smal thyng that I shuld be iudged of you, ether of mans iudgement.
No, I iudge not myne owne selfe. For I know nought by my selfe: yet am I not there by iustify-fyed. It is the Lord that iudgeth me. Therefore iudge nothyng before the tyme vntill the Lord come, which wyl lpghten thynges that are hyd in darkenes, and open the counceils of the heartes.
And then shal euery man haue praisse of God.

These thynges (brethren) I haue for an example describde in myne owne person, and in Apollos, for your sakes, that ye myght learne by vs, that no man count of himselfe be good: that whyche is aboue wyrtten: that one shal not a-gaynst another for any mans cause. For who preferreth the? What hast thou, that thou hast not re-ceaued? If thou haue receaued it, why reioycest thou, as though thou haddest not receued it? Now ye are ful, now ye are made ryche: ye raygne as kynges wythout vs, & I would to God ye dyd raygne that we myght raygne wyth you.

For me thynketh, that god hath let forth vs (whyche are the last Apolles) * as it were men apoynted to death. For we are a gasping stocke vnto the world, and to the Angells, and to men.
We are foles for Christes sake, but ye are wyse thowow Christ. We are weake, but ye are strong.
Ye are honorabile, but we are despyed. Euen vnto this tyme we hunger and thyrst, and are naked, and are buffeted wyth fytes, and haue no certayn dwelling place, and labour & toyl wyth oure owne handes. We are reuyled and yet we blesse. We are persecuted, and suffer it.
We are euill spoken of, and we praye. We are made as it were the fylthynes of the world, the of shouryng of al thynges, euen vnto this daye.

I wyte not these thynges, to shame you: but as my beloued sonnes I warne you. For though ye haue ten thousand instructours in Christ: yet haue ye not many fathers. In Christ Iesu I haue begotten you thowow the Gospel.
Wherefore, I desyre you to folowe me. (as I follow Christ) For this cause haue I sente vnto you Tymotheus, whyche is my deare sonne, & faythful, in the Lord which shal put you in remembrance of my wayes, that I haue in Christ, euen as I teacheuery where in al congregacions. Some swell, as though I wold come no more at you.
But I wyl come to you shortly, * yf God wyl: and wyl knowe, not the wordes of them wyche swell, but the power: for the kyngdom of of God is not in words but in power. What implies? Shall I come vnto you which have of els in loue and in the lye. Iostm.

The V. Chapter.

After wherewither shall I come vnto you that haue committed fornication with mother in lawe.

Here goeth a comment saying that there is fornication among you, a suche fornication, as is not named among the gentiles: for one should haue his fathers wyfe. And ye swel and haue not rather sorowed, for he which hath done this dede, myght bee put from among you. For I verelye, as absente in bodye, but presente in spytte, haue determyned alreadye (as though I were presente) concerning hym that hath done this dede, in the name of our Lorde Iesu Christ when ye are gathered together, and my spytte with you, with the power of the Lorde Iesus Christ, to deliuer hym vnto Satan, for the destruction of the fleshe, that the spytte maye be saued in the daye of the Lorde Iesus.

Your reioysing is not good: knowe ye not, that a litle leuen soweth the whole lome of dowe? Pourge therfore the old leuen that ye maye be newe dowe, as ye are swete bread. For Christ oure passouer is offered vnto vs. Therfore, let vs kepe holy daye, not with olde leuen, neither with the leuen of malyciousnesse and wickednesse, but with the swete bread of pure-nes and truthe. I wrote vnto you in a pistle that ye should not company with fornicatours.
And I meant not at all of the fornicatours of this world, eyther of the concetous, or of the conuers, eyther the idolaters: for then must ye ne-des haue gone out of the world. But nowe I wrote vnto you, that ye company not together, wth any that is called a brother, be a for-nicatour or concetous, or a worshippinge of ymages, eyther a rapier, eyther a drunkard or an excessiue: with him that is such, se that ye eate not. For what haue I to do, to iudge them that are without? Doye not iudge the that are within? The that are without, God iudgeth. Put awaye the euill from among you.

The vi. Chapter.

He rebuketh them for going to lawe together before the heathen, and reprooueth theyr vnclemenes.

Are one of you hauyng busynesse with another, go to lawe vnder the wycked, and not rather vnder the saintes? Doye not knowe, that the saintes shall iudge the world? If the world shall be iudged by you: are ye not good enough to iudge smal thynges? knowe ye not how that we shall iudge the aungels? Howe muche more, maye we iudge thynges that pertaine to the lyfe? If ye haue iudgements of worldelye matters, take them whiche are despyed in the congregation, and make the iudges. This I say to your shame. Is there verelye not one wyse mā among you? What not one at all, that can iudge betwene brother and brother, but one brother goeth to lawe with another: and that vnder the vnbelleuers

God therfore, ther is verelye a saint among you, he can ye go to lawe one with another. Why rather suffer ye not wrong? why rather suffer ye not your selues to haue harme? maye ye your sel-ues wronge, and robbe God that the brethren.
Doye not knowe, howe fast the vncyrcumcised shall not endure the hygh name of God? He not deceaued. For: neyther fornicatours, neyther worshippinges of ymaiges, neyther adulterers, neither wechlinges, neyther a buler of the sel-ues with manynade, neyther theues, neyther conetous, neyther drunkardes, neyther curled speakers, neyther pylles, shall inherite the kyngdome of God. And such were some of you, but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified: but ye are iustified by the name of the Lorde Iesus, and by the spytte of our God.

I maye do al thynges, but: al thynges are not profytable. I maye do al thynges: but I wyl be brought vnder no mans power. Meates are ordained for the bellye, and the bellye for meates: but God shall destroye bothe it and the. Let not the bodye be applyed vnto fornication, but vnto the Lorde, and the Lorde vnto the bodye, God hath rayled vnto the Lorde, and shall rayle vs vnto by his power. I: ether knowe ye not that your bodies are the members of Christ? That I now take the members of Christ, and make the the members of an harlot? God forbid. Doye not knowe, that he whiche coupleth hym self with an harlot, is become one bodye? For two, sayth he, shall be one flesh. But he that is ioyned vnto the Lorde is one spyte.

The fornication. Every synne that a mā doth is without the bodye. But he that is a fornicator, synneth agaynst his owne bodye. Et her knowe ye not, howe that your bodies are the temple of the holy goste, which dwelleth in you whom ye haue of God, and howe that ye are not your owne? For ye are dearly bought. Therfore glorifye God in your bodies, and in your spuetes, whiche are Goddes. I

The vii. Chapter.

Of marriage, virginitye, and wyrdowbrade.

I concerning the thynges wher-of ye wrote to me: It is good for a man, not to touche a woman. He uerthelesse, to auoyde whooredome, let euerye man haue his wyfe: and let euerye woman haue her husbende. Let the husband geue vnto the wyfe as he deuoluene. Lyke wise also the wyfe vnto the husband. The wyfe hath not power of her owne bodye: but the husband. And lyke wise the husband hath not power of his owne bodye: but the wyfe. My drawe not your selues one from another, except it bee with consent for a tyme, for to geue your selues to fastyng and prayer. And afterwarde come together agayne, lest Satan tempte you for your continence. I

This I say of fauoure, and not of comandement. For I woulde that al me were as I myself am: but euery man hath his proper gyfte of God, one after this maner, another after that I say vnto them that be unmarried, and wyrdowes

The First Epistle

12. I do. But what if I should not abide, let the marry. I will be the same Mary then to burne.

Into the married continuance, not 7. but the Lord: & let not the wife be separated from the husband. If she separate herself, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled unto her husband again. And let not the husband put away his wife from him.

C To the remnant shall I, not the Lord. If any brother haue a wife that beleuech not, if he be contente to dwell wpyth hym, let hym not put her away. And the woman whych hath to her husband an infydele, & consente to dwelle wpyth her, let her not put hym away. For the vndeleuyng husband is sanctified by the wyfe, and so vndeleuyng wyfe is sanctified by the husband Whyls were your chyldeyn vncleane: but now are they holpe. But and yf the vndeleuyng departe, let hym departe: A brother or a syster is not in subiection to suche. But God hath called vs in peace. For how knowest thou (o womā) whether thou shalt saue thy husband or not: Ep-ther how knowest thou (o man) whether thou shalt saue thy wyfe or not: but eue as God hath distributed to every man.

Exe. lxx. a. * In the Lord hath called every mā, so let hym walke: & so ordeyne I in all congregacions. ¶ If any man bee called beinge cirkuncised, let hym not adde vncircuncysed. ¶ If any man be cāled vncircuncised, let hym not be cirkuncised. Circuncysed is nothyng, and vncircuncysed is nothyng: but the keepyng of the commandementes of God.

D ¶ Let euery man a hyde in the same calling 1. Tim. vi. a wherein he was called. * Art thou called a seruant? care not for it. neuertheless yf thou ma-test bee free, vse it rather. For he that is called in the Lorde, beynge a seruant, is the Lordes fre-man. Lpke wylse he that is called beynge free, is Christes seruant. Ye are dearly boughte, be not yet the seruantes of menne. Diethen, let euery manne wherein he is called, therein abide wth God. ¶ Is concernynge bygyngs, I haue no coas one that hath optayned mercye of the Lord, to be faithfull. I suppose therfore that it is good for the present necessitie. For it is good for a ma-so to be. Art thou bounde vnto a wyfe, seke not to be loosed. Art thou loosed from a wyfe, seke not a wyfe. But and yf thou marry a wyfe, thou hast not sinned. Lpke wylse, yf a bygygn marry, she hath not sinned. neuertheless such thal haue

This I say brethren * the tyme is short. It remaineth that they which haue wyues, be as though they had none, & they that wepe, be as though they wept not, and they that reioyce, be as though they reioyced not, and they that buye be as though they possessed not, & they that bie thys worlde be as though they used it not. For * the fashion of thys worlde groweth a waie. * I would haue you without care. he that is vnnuried careth for the thynges which belong to the Lorde, howe he maye please the Lorde. the scale of mine Apostleship are in the Lorde Gyne and were to them that aske me, is the haue we not power to cate & to dyne: haue we not power to lead aboute a woman a sister as well as other Apostles, and as the brethren of the Lorde, and Cephas: Either onely I and Barnabas haue not power this to doo: Who goeth a warfare any tyme at his owne cosse: who planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruite thereof: Who leadeth a flocke and eateth not of the milke of the flocke:

Saye I these thynges after the maner of menne: Sayeth not the lawe the same also: For it is written in the lawe of Moyses: Thou shalt not moue the mouth of the ore that treadeth out the corne. Dooth God take thought for ore Sayeth he it not altogether for our sakes: For our sakes no doubt this is wyttel: that he whi che eateth should eate in hope, and that he whi che tresheth in hope, shoulde be partaker of his hope. * If we sowe vnto you spirituall thynges is it a greate thyng if we reape your bodely vnto you, wherfore are not we rather:

Reuerendelike: we haue not used this power wo is it vnto me, if I preache not the Gospell. If I do it with a good will, I haue a reward. But if I do it agaynst my wil, an office is commit ted vnto me. What is my reward then: Verely that when I preache the Gospell, I make the Gospell of Christe free, that I misule not myne authoritie in the Gospell.

For though I be free from all menne, yet I haue I made my selfe seruante vnto all men, that I might winne the mo. * Vnto the Jewes I became as a Jewe, to wyne the Jewes. To them that were vnder the lawe, was I made as though I had bene vnder the lawe: (when I was not vnder the lawe) to wyne them that were vnder the lawe. To them that were without lawe became I as though I had bene without lawe when I was not without lawe as perceiving in God, but vnder the lawe of Christe: to winne them that were without lawe. For as we have become I as the Jewe, to winne the Jewe, in al thynges: * I became as the Jewe to all men, to saue at the leaste some. And thus I doe for the Gospelles sake, that I myghte haue my night, in the which he was betrayed, toke bread:

¶ and he had geuen thankes, he brake it & sayed ¶ Take ye, and eat, this is my body, which is broken for you. ¶ This do ye in remembraunce of me. ¶ After the same maner also toke he the cup wherof supper was done, sayng. This cupp is the newe testament in my blood: ¶ This doo as ofte as ye drinke it, in remembraunce of me. ¶ For as often as ye shall eat: this bread and drinke this cup: ¶ ye shall shewe the Lord's death ¶ till he come. ¶ Wherefore, whosoever shall eat of this bread, or drinke of the cup of the Lord unworthyly, shalbe guilty of the body and blood of the Lord. ¶ But let a man examine hymself, & so let him eat of the bread and drinke of the cup for he that eateth or drinketh unworthyly, ea-teth and drinketh his owne damnacion, because he maketh no difference of the Lord's body. ¶ For this cause many are weak and sicke among you and many slepe. ¶ For if we had judged our selues we should not haue bene judged. ¶ But when we are judged of the Lord, we are chastened, that wee shoulde not be damned with the world. ¶ Wherefore my brethren when ye come together to eat, eate one for another. ¶ If any manne hon-ger, let him eat at home, that ye come not together unto condemnacion. ¶ I desire things will I see in order when I come.

The .xii. Chapter.

The apostle sheweth of the gifts of the holy ghost geuen to the church and exhorting of one another, as the members of a manne's body serve one another.

¶ Corrupting spiritual things (brethren) I woulde not haue you ignorante. ¶ Ye know that ye were seltiles, and wente pauerly vnder to domine ymages, euen as ye were led

led. Wherefore I declare unto you that no man speaking by the spirit of god, desireth his own. For no man can say that he loveth the Lord but by the holy ghost. There are diversities of gifts, yet but one spirit. And there are differences of administrations, and yet but one Lord. And there are diverse manners of operations, and yet but one God, which worketh all in all. The gifts of the spirit is given to every man, to edifie withal. For to one is given through the spirit the utterance of wisdom. To another is given the utterance of knowledge by the same spirit. To another is given faith by the same spirit. To another the gifts of healing, by the same spirit. To another power to doo miracles. To another to prophesy. To another judgement to discern spirits. To another powers of tongues. To another interpretation of tongues. But these all worketh even the selfe same spirit, beuoyng to every man a severall gift, even as he will. For as the body is one, and hath many members, and all members of one body though they be many, yet are but one body, and so is the church. For by one spirit are we all baptized to make one body, whether we be Jewes or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free, and have all the drinke of one spirit. For the body is not one member, but many. If the foot say, I am not the hand. I am not of the body: is he therfore not of the body? And if the eare say, I am not the eye. I am not of the body: is he therfore not of the body? If all the body were an eye, where were then the eare? If all were hearing: where were then the smelling? But now hath God set the members every one severally in the body as it hath pleased hym. If they were all one member where were the body? Now are there many members, yet but one body. And the eye cannot say unto the hand, I have no need of thee. And againe, the head can not say to the feet, I have no need of you. Yea, rather a great deale those members of the body which seeme to be more feeble, are necessary. And upon those members of the body which we bynke least honestly, put we more honestly on. And our ungodly partes have more beauty on. For our honeste members neede it not. But God hath so disposed the body, and hath given the more honour to that parte which lacked, lest there should be any strep in the body: but the members should indifferently care one for another. And if one member suffer, all suffer with hym. If one member be had in honour, all members be glad also. Ye are the body of Christ, & members one of another. And God hath also ordered in the congregation, first Apostles, secondarily Prophets, thirdly teachers, then them that do miracles: after that, the gifts of healing, helpers, governors, diversitie of tongues. Are all Apostles? Are all Prophets? Are all teachers? Are all doers of miracles? Have all the gifts of healing? Do all speake with tongues? Doe all interpret? conent after the best gifts? And yet shew I unto you a more excellent way.

The nature and conditions of love.

though I speak with the tongue of menne, or of angels, and have no love, I am even as sounding brass, or as a tinkling cymball. And though I could prophesy, and understand all secrets, & all knowledge: yet if I have not faith, so that I could move mountayns out of their places, and yet have no love, I am nothing. And though I bestowe all my goodes to feede the poore, and though I geve my bodye that I burned, and yet have no love, it profiteth me nothing. Love suffereth long, and is courteous. Love envieth not, love doth not forwardly, swelleth not, dealeth not dishonestly. seeth not her own, is not provoked to anger, thyngeth no evil, reioyseth not in iniquity but reioyseth in truth, suffereth all things, beareth all things, hopeth al things, endureth al things. Though that prophesying fail, either tongues cease, or knowledge vanish away, yet love falleth never away, for our knowledge is imperfecte, and our prophesying is imperfect. But when that which is perfect, is come, then that which is imperfect, shall be dooen away. When I was a chylde, I spake as a chylde, I understood as a chylde, I imagined as a chylde. But as soon as I was a man, I put away chyldehoodes. Now we see in a glasse, even in a darke speaking: but then shall we see face to face. Now I know imperfectly: but then shall I knowe even as I am knownen. Nowe abyderth faith, hope, and love, even these three: but the chief of these is love.

The xiii. Chapter.

Paul sheweth that the gifts of prophesye, interpretation of preaching, excellen the gifts of tongues, and howe they both ought to be used.

About for love, & cover thy thynges: al gifts: but moste chiefly that ye make prophesye. For he that speaketh with the tongue, speaketh not unto menne, but unto God. For no man heareth hym. How bee it in the spirit he speaketh the mysteries. But he that prophesieth, speaketh unto men for their edifying, for their exhortacion and for their comfort. He that speaketh with the tongue profiteth himselfe: he that prophesieth, edifieth the congregation. I would that ye all spake with tongues: but rather ye prophesied. For greater is he that prophesieth, then he that speaketh with tongues except he expound it: for the congregation may have edifying. Now brethren, if I come unto you speaking with tongues: what shall I profit you, except I speake to you either by revelation, or by knowledge, or by prophesying, or by doctrine? Wherever, when thynges without life geve sounde: whether it be a psalme or an harpe) excepte they make a distinction in the soundes, how shall it be knownen what is piped or harped? For if the tromp geve an uncertaine voice, who shall prepare himselfe to the warre? Even so lyke wyse when ye speake with tongues, except ye speake wordes that have signification, howe shall it be understood what is spoken? For ye shall but speake in the air.

Many

The seconde tuffe

¶ Many sundrie of wayes are in the temple, and many of them are but but of significance. I Thinke not what the best manner. I shalbe tutor hym that speaketh in a strange tongue; and he that speaketh shalbe an alien unto me. Euen so ye (forasmuch as ye count for ytuall giftes) seke, that ye may excell, unto the edifying of the congregation. Wherefore, lette hym that speaketh with tongue, praise, that he may interpret also.
For if I pray with tongue, my spirit praiseth, but my vnderstandyng doeth no good.

What is it then? I wyl pe ay with the spirit, & wyl say wth vnderstandyng. I wyl syng to the spirit, & wyl syng with the vnderstanding. For els, wyl thou blest with the spirit, how shall be that occupeth the tounge of the vnder- stande: Amen, as the group of thanks, seeyng be vnderstandeth not what I saiest? Thou verely guesst thankes wel, but the other is not edified. I thanke my God that I speake with tounge more then pe al: Yet had I leue in the congregacion to speake the fine woordes with my vnderstanding to y<sup>e</sup> informacio of order, rather then .x. thousand woordes with the tounge.

Birchzen, be not ye chyldren in wytte. Howbeit, as concernyng malicyousnes, be chyldren but in wytte be perfect. In the lawe it is wytenes with sondre toungues, and with sondre lippes wyl I speake vnto this people, & yet for all that, wyl they not heare me, saith the Lord.
Wherefore toungues are for a signe, not to the that beleue: but to them that beleue not. Contrary wyse, prophesying seereth not for theym that beleue not: but for them whiche beleue. If therefore, when at the congregacion is come together, and all speake with toungues, ther come in thep that are vnlearned, oz they which beleue not: wil not they say, that ye are out of your wit-tes: But and yf al prophetic, and there come in one yf beleueth not, oz one vnlearned, he is rebuked of al menne and is iudged of euery manne, and so are the secretes of his hearte opened, and so falleth he doune on his face, & wo3shyppeth God, and sayeth that God is in yon of a truth.
How is it then birchze: As oft as ye come together euery one of you hat basog, hath a doctrine hath a reuelacion, hath an interpretacion.

Let all thynges be doen vnto edifyinge. If any manne speake with tounge, lette it be by two or at the moste by thye, and that by course and lette another interprete it. But yf there be no interpreter, lette him keepe silence in the congregation, and let hym speake to hym selfe and to God. Let the prophetes speake two, or three and let the other iudge. If any reuelacion bee made to other that spitteth by, let the first hold his peace. for ye may all prophesye one by one, that all may learne, and that al may haue comfort. And the spyttes of the prophetes are in the power of the prophetes. For God is not cause of strife: but of peace, as (1 Cor. 14) in all congregacions of the saintes. Let your women keepe silence in the congregacions. For it is not permitted vnto them to speake: but to bee vnder obedience, as saith the lord. If they wyl lerne any thing. I see them as they do: husbands at home. For I would have those women to speak in congregations: so that the word of God be not reproved: but as cometh of you. If any man thinke himself to be a prophet, or spiritual: let him know, what things I write unto you. For these are the commandmentes of the Lord. But and if any man be ignorant, let him be ignorant. Therefore brethren, count to prophesie, forbid not to speake with courage: Let all things be done honestly and in order. (among you.)

CCDe. xv. Chapter. ✠

• The resurrection of the dead.

Brethren, as pertainyng to the gospel which I preached vnto you, whiche ye haue also accepted, and in the which ye continue, by the which also ye are saved: I doe you to wote, after what maner I preached vnto you, yf ye hepe it, excepte ye haue beleued in vayne. For first of al I deliuered vnto you, that wherby I receaued: how that Christ dyed for our synnes agreeing to the scriptures. And that he was buryed, and that he arose again the thirde day according to the scriptures: and that he was seene of Cephas, then of the twelue. After that was he seene of mo the fower hundred brethren at once: of whiche manye remaine vnto this daye, and many are fallen a slepe. After that appeared he to James, then to all the Apostles.

And laste of all he was seene of me, as of one that was bozne out of due tyme. For I am the leaste of the Apostles, which am not worthy to be called an Apostle, because * I persecuted the congregation of God: But by the grace of god I am that I am. And his grace which is in me, was not in vain: ¶ But I labored more abudauntely then they all, yet not I, but the grace of God which is with me, therefore whether it were I, or they so we preache, and so haue ye be-lieued. ¶ If Chryste be preached how that he aroose from the dead: how say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead?

If there be no rising agayne of the deade then is Chryste not risen agayn. If Chryste be not risen agayne then is our preaching in vaine and your faith is also in vaine. Yea and we are founde false witnesses of God. For we haue testified of God, how that he rayled vp Chryst: whom he rayled not vp, if it be so that the deade rise not agayn. For if the deade rise not again then is Chryst not risen agayn. If it be so that Chryste rose not agayne, then is your faith in vaine, and ye are yet in your sinnes. Therefore they whiche are fallen a slepe in Chryst, are perished. If in this life onely we beleue on Chryste, then are we of all menne moste impletable. But now is Chryst risen from the deade, and become the firste frutes of them that sleepe. For by a manne came death, and by a manne came the resurrection of the deade. For as by Adam all dye: euen so by Chryst, shall all be made a lyue, but euerie man in his owne order. I.

The fyfte is Chyrtle, then they that are Chyrtled at his commyng. Then cometh the ende

ende, when he hath delivered up the kyngdome to God the father, when he hath putte down al rule and authoritie and power. For he must raigne, tyl he have putte all his enemies under his fete. The last enemy that shalbe destroyed is death. For he hath putte all thynges under his fete. But when he saith al thynges are put under hym, it is manifeste that he is accepted, whiche dyd put all thynges under hym. When al thynges are subdewed unto hym, the shal the sonne also hymselfe bee subiecte unto hym, that putte all thynges under hym, that God maie be all in all. Els what do they, whiche are baptysed ouer the deade, yf the deade ryse not alle? Why are they then baptysed ouer theym? Pea, and why stande we alwaye then in leoparde? By our exhortyng which I haue in Christ Jesu oure Lord, I dre dayly.

¶ That I haue fought with beasts at Ephesus after the maner of menne, what auanta- geth it me, if the deade ryse not agayn: * Let vs eate and dryncke, for to morowe we shall dye. Bee not ye deceaued: euell wordes corrupte good maners. I wake truly ouer of sleape, and spynn not. For some haue not the knowlage of God: I speake thus to your shame. But some manne will saie: how arse the ded, wyth what bodie shall they come? Thou soeist, that which thou sowest, is not quickened, except it dy. And what sowest thou? Thou sowest not that body that shall be: but beare coine as of wheate, or of some other. God geueth it a body at his pleasure, to every sede his owne body.

¶ All fleshe is not one maner of fleshe: but there is one maner of fleshe of menne, another maner of fleshe of beasts, another of fyshes, & another of byrdes. There are also celestiall bodies, and there are bodies terrestrial. But the glory of the celestiall is one, and the glory of the terrestrial is another. Ther is one maner glory of the sunne, and another glory of the mone, and another glory of the starres. For one starre differeth from another in glory. So is the resurrection of the dead. It is so wen in corrupcion, it ryleth agayn in corrupcion. It is so wen in dishonoure, it ryleth agayn in honoure. It is so wen in weakenes, it ryleth agayn in power. It is so wen a naturall body, it ryleth agayn a spiritual body. There is a naturall body, and ther is a spiritual body: as it is also wyrtten: the fyrst man Adam was made a luyng soule, and the last Adam was made a quychenyng spyrte. Howbeit, that is not fyfthe whiche is spyrtyuall, but that whiche is naturall, and the that whiche is spyrtyuall. ¶ The fyrste man is of the earth, earthy: the second manne is the Lord from heauen. (heament) As the earthye, suche are they that are earthy. And as is the heauenly, suche are they that are heauenlye. And as we haue bozn the ymage of the earthy, so shall we beare the ymage of the heauenly.

¶ This I saye brethren that fleshe and blood cannot inheryte the kyngdome of God. Neither both corrupcion inherite vncorruption. Behold I shewe you a mystery. * we shall not slepe: but we shall all bee changed, and that in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye by the last trompe. For the trompe shall blowe, and we shall alle incorruptible, and we shall be chaunged. For this corruptible must putte on incorruption and this mortal must put on immortalitye. When this corruptible hath put on incorruption, and this mortall hath put on immortalitye: then shall be brought to passe the sayng that is wyrtten. * Deathe is swallowed up in victorie. * Deathe where is thy sting? hel wher is thy victory? The sting of deeth is synne: and the strength of synne is the lawe. But thankes be vnto God whiche hath geuen vs by cryste, throughte oure Lorde Jesus Christ. Therefore my deare brethren, be ye steadfast and vnmouable, alwayes tryche in the word of the Lord, for as much as ye knowe, howe that your labour is not in vayne in the Lord.

The xvi. Chapter.

The puttyng them in remembrance of the gathering for the poore children at Ierusalem and concluding his epistle wyth the salutation of certayn louyng brethren.

Concernyng the gathering for the saines, as I haue ordeyned in the congregacions of Galacia euen so doe ye. Upon some Sabbath day let every one of you put aside at home and laie by what soener is mete, & there be no gatherynges wher I come. Wher I am come, whosoeuer ye shal allow by your letters, them wil I send, to bypnyng your lyberalite vnto Ierusalem. And yf it be mete & I go also, they shal go with me. I wyl come vnto you when I go ouer to Macedonia. For I wyl go throughtout Macedonia with you per aduerture I wyl abide a while: or els taryal witer that ye may bypnyng me on the waye, whet her soeuer I goe I wyl not see you now in my passage: but I trust to abyde a while wyth you, yf God shal suffice me. I wyl tary at Ephesus, vntyl the fyfth day. For a great doze and a fewteful is opened vnto me: and ther are many aduersaryes. If Tymotheus come, see that he be wythout feare wyth you. For he worketh the worke of the Lorde, as I doe: let no man therefore dyspyle hi: but couergh hym forth in peace yf he may come vnto me. For I loke for hym w the brethren. To speake of brother Apollo: (a ecclesie pou that) I greatly despyed hym, to come vnto you w the brethren, but his mynd was not at al to come at thys tyme. Howbeit he wil come wher he shal haue conuenient tyme. Watche ye, stand fast in the sayth, quyte you lyke men, be strong. Let al your busynes be done wyth loue.

¶ Brethren, ye knowe the house of Stephana, Fortunatus and Achaus howe they are the fyrste frutes of Achaia, & that they haue appointed the selues to minystrer vnto saines: I beseeche you that ye be obedyent vnto suche and to all that helpe and laboure. I am glade of the comynge of Stephana and Fortunatus and Achaus: for that whiche was lackynge vnto me on your parte they haue supplied: for they haue comforted my spyrte & poures. Loke therfore that ye knowe them that are suche.

* And in this confidence was I mynded spall to haue come vnto you, that I myght haue had one pleasure moze with you, and to pas by you into Macedonia, and to haue come agayn out of Macedonia vnto you, and to be led forth of you towards Ieruzalem. Althow I thus wyse was mynded: did I vse lightnes? O bynke I earnally those thynges whiche I thinke: that with me should bee yea, yea, and naye, naye. God is faithfull: For oure preaching to you, was not yea and naye. For Goddes sonne Iesus Christ whiche was preached among you by vs (eue by me and Siluanus & Timotheus) was not yea and naye: but by him it was yea: For al þe promises of God, by hym ar yea: as see in hym. Amen. vnto þe laude of god through vs. For it is God whiche stablisheth vs with you in Christ and

As thoughtes are not unknowne unto vs. ¶ When I was come to Corinto for Christes Gospelles sake (and whose was opened unto me of the Lord) I founde no rest in the spirite, because I founde not Titus my brother, but for he my traitor of them, and wente away into Macedonia. Therefore I wrote unto you, which alwayes groweth in the vantage in Christ and do openeth the fane of his knowlege by vs in euery place. For we are vnto God the sweete sauour of Christ among them that are sau'd, among them which perishe. ¶ To the one parte we are the sauour of deathe vnto deathe. And vnto the other parte we are the sauour of life vnto life. And who is meete vnto these thynges, who we are not as the moste parte are, which change and change with the woord of God but euen oute of purtelle, and by the power of God, in the sight of God, to speake we in Christe. **¶

The iiij. Chapter.

The playn the preachinge of the Gospel sheweth the preachinge of the lawe.

We begyn to prayse our selues againe. Rede we as some other of Epistles, of recommendaciō vnto you or letters of recommendaciō from you, yee are oure Epistle written in oure heartes, which is vnderstande and rede of al menne, for as muche as ye declare that ye are the Epistle of Christ, ministered by vs written, not with ynke, but with spirit of the liuing God, not in tables of stone, but in fleshy tables of the hearte.

¶ Suche truste haue we through Christe to Godwarde, not that we are sufficiente of oure selues to thinke any thyng, as of oure selues but of we be able vnto any thyng, the same cometh of God, which hath made vs able to minister the newe testament, not of letter, but of spirit, for the newe testament, not of letter, but of spirit geueth lyfe.

¶ We pray then that we haue suche truste, we vse great boldenes and dare not as Moyses which put a vail ouer his face, that the children of Israel shoulde not se for what purpose that serued which is putte awaye. ¶ But thei myndes were blynded. For vntill this daye remaineth the same conuerpyng vntake away in the lecture of the olde testament, which vail shalbe putte awaye in Christ. But euen vnto this daye when Moyses is rede the vail hangeth before their heartes. Nevertheless when they turne to the Lord, the vail shall bee taken awaye. ¶ The Lord no doubte is a spirit. And where the spirit of the Lord is, there is libertie. But we al behold in a mirror the gloire of the Lord with his face open and as chaunged vnto the same spilitude, from gloire to gloire, euen as of the spirit of the Lord.

The iiii. Chapter.

It is more precious to be ignorant, than to be wise, for the knowledge of God, but lieth the honour of Christe, yet though it be with the perill of his life.

Iheresore, seeing that we haue such an office, euen as God hath had mercy on vs, we go not out of kinde, but haue caste from vs the clothes of vnhonesty, & walk not in craftines, neither habie we the woord of God discretely but open the trueth and reposit our selues to euery mannes conscience in the sight of God.

¶ If oure Gospel bee yet hid, it is hid among them that are losse, in whom the God of this world hath blynded the myndes of them which beleue not, lest the light of the Gospel of the gloire of Christe (which is the ymage of God) shoulde shyne vnto them.

¶ For we preach not our selues, but Christe Iesus to bee the Lord, and oure selues your seruantes, for Iesus sake. For it is God, that commaundeth the light to shyne out of darthelnes, which hath shyned in our heartes, for to geue the light of the knowlege of the gloire of God, in the face of Iesus Christe.

¶ But we haue this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellencie of the power myght be of Gods and not oures. We are troubled on euery syde, yet are we not without hope. We are in pouertie, but not utterly without somewhat. We suffre persecucion, but are not forsaken therein. We are cast downe, neuer thelesse we perishe not. We alwayes beare aboute in the bodye, the dying of the Lord Iesus that the lyfe of Iesus myght also appeare in our bodye.

¶ For we which liue, are alwayes deliuered vnto deathe for Iesus sake, that the life also of Iesu might appeare in oure mortalitie. So then deathe woorketh in vs, but lyfe in you.

¶ But seeing that we haue the same spirite of faith (accordyng as it is written: I beleued & therfore haue I spoken.) We also beleue, and therfore speake. For we knowe, that he which arested vp the Lord Iesus, shal raise vp vs also by the meanes of Iesus, and shal sette vs with you. For all thynges dooe I for your sakes, & the plenteous grace by thanksgyving of many many reboude to the prayse of God.

¶ Iheresore, we are not weryed. But though our outwarde manne perishe, yet the inward man is renewed daye by daye. For our tribulaciō which is momentany & lyght, prepareth an excedding and an eternal brighte of gloire vnto vs, while we loke not on the thynges which are sene, but on the thynges which are not sene. For the thynges which are sene, are temporal, but the thynges which are not sene, are eternal. **¶

The seconde Epistle

The vii. Chapter.

Concerning the resurrection of the dead.

righteousnesse, which be the God is a lord.

The vii. Chapter.

An exhortation to be holy in the resurrection of the dead, and to be holy in the resurrection of the dead, and to be holy in the resurrection of the dead.

IF we knowe that if our earthly mansion of this dwelling were destroyed, we have a buydyng of God, an habytacion not made with handes, but eternall in heauen: For it reioyce sythe wee desiring to bee clothed with our mansion which is from heauen, so yet, yf we be found clothed, and not naked. For we that are in this tabernacle, sythe and are grieved because we would not bee vnclotted, but would bee clothed vpon, that mortalite might bee swallowed vp of life. We that haue ordeyned vs for this thyng, is God, which verie same hath geuen vnto vs the earnest of the spirite.

Therefore, we are alwaye of good cheare: I knowe, that as long as we are at home, in the body, we are absent from God. For we walke in fapthe not after ourwarde appareance, leuerdele we are of good conforde, and had leue to bee absent from the body and to bee present with God. Therefore, whether wee be at home or from home, we endeouore our selues to please hym. For we muste all appeare before the iudgement seate of Christ, that euery manne maie receiue the woode of his body accordyng to that he hath donne, whether it bee good or bad. Deeping then that we knowe, howe the Lorde is to be feared, wee fawe sapie with menne. For we are known well (nough) vnto God. I truste also that we are knowe in your consciences. For wee praise not our selues againe vnto you but geue you an occasioun to reioyce of vs, that ye maie haue some what agast them which reioyce in the face, a not in f heart.

For yf we bee to feruente to God are we to feruente. Or if we hepe measure, for your cause hepe we measure. For the loue of Christ constrained vs, because we thus iudge that if one dyed for all, then were all dead, and he died for all, that they which beline should not hence forth liue vnto them selues, but vnto hym whiche dyed for them, and rose againe. Therefore henceforth knowe wee no manne after the fleshe. In so muche though wee haue knowne Christ after the fleshe, now yet hence forth knowe wee hym so no moze. Therefore if any manne be in Christ, he is a newe creature, Olde thynges are passed awaye, beholde all thynges are become newe. Nevertheless, all thynges are of God, which hath reconciled vs vnto himselfe by Jesus Christ, and hath geuen to vs the office to preach of attonement. For God was in Christ and made agremente between the worlde and himselfe, and imputed not their synnes vnto them, and hath committed to vs the preaching of the attonement. Now then are wee messengers in the temple of Christ, euen as though God did be seide you through vs. So prate we you Christes seide, that ye bee reconciled vnto God: for he made hym to bee synne for vs, which knowe no synne, that we by his meanes should be that

WE also as before rehozte you that ye receiue not the grace of God in vain. For he saith: I haue heard thee in a tyme accepted: and in the base of saluacion haue I suckered thee. Beholde now is the accepted time: behold now is the date of saluacion. Let vs geue no occasioun of euill, yf in oure office be founde no fault: but in all thynges lette vs behaue oure selues as the ministers of God:

In muche pacience, in afflictions, in necessities in angusties, in stripes, in prisonmentes in strifes, in labours, in watchynges, in fastynges, in purenes, in knowlage, in log sufferyng, in kinde, in the holy ghozte, in lone vnfayned in woode of truth, in the power of God, by the aboundance of righteousnes of the righte hande and on the life by honoure and dishonoure, by euil repute and good repute, as disciuelers, and yet true, and vknownen yet knowne: as dying and beholde, wee lue, as chastened, and not killed, as sorrowing, and yet alwaye mercy: as poore and yet make many riche, as hauping nothing, and yet possessyng all thynges.

Oye Corinthyans, our mouth is open vnto you. Our herte is made large: ye are in no strait in vs, but are in a strait in your owne boweles. I promise vnto you like rewarde, as vnto chylde. Set your selues at large: and beare not ye the yoke with the vnbelievers. For what fellowship hath righteousnes with vnrightheousnes? Or what compaignie hath light with darkenes? Or what concord hath Christ with Beliall? Either what part hath he that beleueh with an infidell? Or how a greeth temple of God with ymages, for ye are the temple of the liuyng God (as saide God): I wil dwell among them, and make emonge them and will bee their God, and they shall bee my people. Therefore come oute from among them, and separate yourselues fro them: (saide the Lorde) touch none vncleane thyng, so will I receaue you, and welbe a father vnto you, and ye shall bee my sonnes and daughters, sayeth the Lorde almyghty.

The vii. Chapter.

Be exhorted them to receive the promise of God throughly. The Corinthyans are commended for their obedience and love towards Paul.

Saying that wee haue such promises (dearly beloued) let vs cleanse our selues from all fylthyne of the fleshe and spirite and growe up to full holynesse with the feare of God. Understande vs, wee haue hurte no manne, nor haue entred no man, we haue defrauded no manne: I speake not this to condempne you for I haue shewed you before, yf ye are in our hearts to dye and liue with you, I am deper bold ouer you, I reioyce greatly in you, I am filled with conforde comforte, and am exceeding ioyous in all our tribulacion. For when we were come into Macedonia our flesh had no rest, but we were troubled on every syde. Our ward was lere. Neuertheles God y comforted us by the coming of Titus. And not by his coming onely, but also by the consolacion which we receiued of you: wher he tolde us your desyre, your weeping, your fervent mynde for me: so that I reioyced the more. For though I made you ioy with a letter, I repente not, though I dyd repente. For I perceive that the same Spirit made you ioy, though it were but for a season. But I now reioyce, not that ye were ioy, but y ye lozowed that ye repented. For ye lozowed godlye, so that in nothing ye were hurte by us. For godlye lozowe causeth repentaunce unto saluacion, not to be repented of, contrary wyse, & worldly lozowe causeth death. For behold, what dyspence thy godlye lozowe that ye tooke, hath wrought in you: yee, it caused you to cleere your selues. It caused indignacion, it caused feare, it caused desyre, it caused punishment: For in all thynges ye haue shewed your selues, that ye were cleere in that matter. Wherefore though I wrote vnto you, I dyd it not for his cause that had dooen the hurte, neyther for his cause that was hurte: but that your good mynde for vs myght appere amonge you in the syght of god.

Therefore, we are comforted, because ye are comforted: yee, and exceedinglye the more ioyed we, for y hope that Titus had, because his spirit was refreshed of you al. I am therefore not now ashamed, though I boasted my selfe to hym of you. For as all thynges whych we speke vnto you are true, even so our boasting y I made vnto Titus, is found true. And his inward affection is more aboundant toward you, wher he remembreth the obedience of you al, howe with feare and trembling ye receiued him. I reioyce that I may be holde ouer you in all thynges.

The viii. Chapter.

He putted them in remembrance to helpe the poorer at Jerusalem, according as the Macedonians had.

Certify you brethren, of the grace of God, which was geuen in the congregacions of Macedonia, howe that the aboundance of their reioysing is, that they are tried with much tribulacion. And though they were exceeding poore yet haue they geuen exceeding richlye, and that in synclenes. For to the poore, I beare the record: yee, and beyond the poore, they were willinge of thei owne accord, and prayed us with great instance, that we would receaue thei benefite, and suffer them to be partakers with other mynistring to the synctes. And this they did, not as wloked for: but gave their owne selues freelye to the Lord, and after vnto us by the wyl of God: so that we could not but desyre Titus, to accomplishe the same benivolence amonge you also, even as he had begonne.

Howe therefore, as ye are ryche in al parties in faith, in word, in knowledge, in al seruicys and in love, which ye haue to us, euen so, let that ye be pleasured in this benivolence also. Therefore I not, com manding, but because of your gentlenes, I do alowe the vnsaydnes of your loue toward other men. For ye knowe the liberaltye of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was ryche yet for your sakes he became poore y ye through his pouertie, might be made ryche.

And I geue counsel hereto. For this is expedient for you, whych beganne not to do onelye but also to wyl a yere ago. Now therefore, performe the thyng whych ye beganne to do: that as ther was in you a redynes to wyl, when so ye may performe the dede: of that whych ye haue. For yf there be fyrst a willing mynd, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not.

It is not my mynde that other be set at ease, and ye broughe into combiaice: but that there be equalnes now at this tyme: and that your aboundaunce may sucke thei lacke, and that thei aboundaunce maye supplie your lacke: that there maye be equaltye, agreynge to that whych is written: "he that had muche, had not the more aboundaunce: and he that had a litle, had neuertheles. Thanks be vnto God whych put the same good mynde for you in the herte of Tityus, whych accepted the request: yee, rather he was so wel willing, that of his own accord he came vnto you.

We haue sente with hym the brother whose laude is in the Gospell throughout all the congregacions: and not that onely, but is also chosen of the congregacions, to be a feloe with vs in our iourney, concerning this benivolence y is mynistring by us vnto the people of the same Lord: and to stee by your prompte mynde. For this we eschew, y any man should rebuke vs in this plentifulous distribution, "that is mynistring by us: (to the glory of the Lord) y make provision for honest thynges, not onely in the syght of the Lord, but also in the syght of men.

We haue sent with them a brother of ours: whome we haue ofte tymes proued diligent in many thynges: but now much more diligent. The greates confidence whych I haue in you, hath caused me this to do: partly for Tityus sake, whych is my feloe y helper as concerning you: partly because of other whych are our brethren, and the messengers of the congregacions, and the glory of Christ. Wherefore, shew ye vnto them the prouise of your loue, and of our boasting of you in the syght of the congregacions.

The ix. Chapter.

In this chapter both he the same that he dyd in the chapter going before, that is, he moueth them to helpe the poore brethren at Jerusalem.

As the mynistring to the synctes, it is but superfluous soyme to wite vnto you: for I knowe the redynes of your mynd, wherof I boast my selfe vnto them of Macedonia, that Achaia was prepared a yere ago: and your example hath prouoked many. Neuertheles yet haue

hane I sende these brethren, leaue one blessinge which I make of you, should be in you, in that behalf. y<sup>e</sup> as I haue sayd may prepare your selues least peraduenture if they of Macedonia come with me, and fynde ye vnprepared, we (I will not saye) should be ashamed in this matter of blessing. Wherefore I thoughte it necessary to reche the brethren, to come before hande vnto you, and to prepare your good blessinge p<sup>r</sup>incipled afore, that it might be ready, so that it might be a blessing, and not a defraudinge. ¶ This yet I saye he which soweth litle, shall reape litle, and he that soweth (in geapng) largely and frely, shall reape plentifully. And let every man, do accordyng as he hath purposed in his hearte not grudgynge, or of necessity. ¶ For god loveth a chereful geuer.

God is able to make pe riche in al grace that ye in al thinges hauing sufficent vnto the vnto most, may be reche vnto al maner of good wo<sup>r</sup>kes, as it is wyrtten he hath sparred abode & hath geuen to the poze, his righteounes remaineth for euer. he that ministrerth seede vnto the sower, ministrerth bread also for fode: and multiplie your seede and increase the frutes of your righteounes. For as on all parties, ye maye be made reche into all synghenes, whiche cometh through vs, that thankes are geuen vnto God. For the offyce of this ministracion, not one lye supplyeth the neede of the saynctes: but also to aboundaunte herein, that for thys laudable ministringe, thankes mighte be geuen to God of many, which praise God for the obedience of your consentinge to the Gospel of Christ, a for your singlenesse in distributing to them and to al men, and in their prayers for you which long after you for the abundant grace of god in you. Thanes be vnto God, for his vnspenabill gift

The i. Chapter.

The fourth the false Apostles, and defendeth his authoritie and calling.

I Paul my self beseech you by the mehennes and softnes of Christ, which when I am present among you, am of no reputacion: but am bold toward you being absent. I beseech you, that I nee not to be bold when I am present, with that same boldnes, wherewith I am supposed to haue bene bold, agaynst some, whiche repete vs as though we walked carnally. For though we walke in the fleshe, yet we do not warre fleshy ¶ For the weapons of our warfare are not car-nall weapons, but thinges myghty in God, to cast downe strong holdes, wherewith we ouerthrowe counseils and every thyng that exalteth itself agaynst the knowledge of God, and brynge into captiuite al imaginacion to the obedyence of Christ, and are ready to take vengeance on al disobedience, when your obedience is fulfilled. Loke ye on thinges after y<sup>e</sup> better aperaunce P<sup>r</sup>any man trust in hym self, that he is Christian let hym consider this agayne of hym selfe that as he is Christen, euen so are we Christen For though I boast my selfe somewhat more of our authoritie (whiche the Lord hath geuen vs to edifie, and not to destroy you) it shal not be to my shame, lest I should seme as though I wete aboute to make you aspyred with letters. For the epistles (sayth he) are soze and stronge: but hys bodely p<sup>r</sup>esence is weake, and hys speache rude. Let hym that is such thynke on thys wyse that as we are in woordes by letters, wher we ar absent, such are we in dedes, wher we are p<sup>r</sup>esent For we cannot fynde in our heartes to make our selues of y<sup>e</sup> number of them, or to compare our selues to them, which praise the selues. Ac-uertheles, whyle they measure the selues, with them selues, and compare them selues with the selues, they vnderstande naught. But we wyll not reioyce aboute mesure: but accordyng to the measure of the rule, whiche God hath bystru-ted vnto vs, a measure to reach euen vnto you For we stretch not out our selues beyonde measure, as though we reached not vnto you. For euen to you also haue we come with the Gos-pell of Christ, and we boist not our selues oute of measure of other mens laboures. Per, we hope it wyll come to passe that when your saythe is increased among you we shalbe magnified ac-cordyng to our measure more largely, and that I shal preach y<sup>e</sup> Gospel in those regions whiche are beyonde you, and not to boist of those thyn-ges, which by another mans measure ar p<sup>r</sup>epared alredy. But let him that reioiceth, reioice in the Lord. For he that prapleth hym selfe, is not allowed, but he whome the Lord prapleth.

The ii. Chapter.

Paul (vnder sufferance) comendeth hymself, and defendeth his authoritie agaynst the false prophetes.

I Obe to God, ye could haue suffered me a litle in my folynesse: per, ye do also forber me. For I am gelous ouer you with godly gelousy For I haue coupled you to one ma-that ye should make your selues a chaste virgyn vnto Christ. But I feare lest it come to passe y<sup>e</sup> as the serpent begyled Eue through hys sub-tely, euen so your wyrtes shoulde be corrupte fro the synghenes that ye had toward Christ.
For y<sup>e</sup> he that comineth preache another Jesus then hym whom we preached: or y<sup>e</sup> he receiue a nother spyte then that whiche ye haue receaued ether another Gospel the y<sup>e</sup> ye haue receiued, ye myghte right wel haue bene content. For I suppose that I was not behind the chiefe Apostles.
But though I be rude in speaking, yet I am not so in knowlage. howbeit among you, we haue bene well knowen to the vntermolte what we are in all thinges. Dyd I therein synne, because I submitted my self, that ye myghte be exalted and because I preached to you the Gospel of God fre: I robbed other chregacions, & tooke wages of them to do you seruice. And when I was p<sup>r</sup>esence with you, and had neede I was chargeable to no man: for that whiche was lackyng vnto me, the brethren whiche came from Macedonia, supplied, and in all thinges I kept my selfe so that I shoulde not be chargeable to any to any man and so wyl I hope my self.

C For the truth of Chyriste be in me, this reioysng shall not be taken from me in the regions of Achai. Wherefore? Because I know you not?
God knoweth. neuertheless, what I do, that wyl I do, to cutte a waile occasion from them which desire occasion: that they might be found lyke vnto vs, in that wherein they reioyse. For such false Apostles as discretful workers, and fastyon them selues lyke vnto the Apostles of Chyrist. And no man wil: for Sathean hymselfe is chaunged into the falshe of an angel of light.
Wherefore is it no great thyng though hys my-nistres falsen them selues, as though they wer the mynistres of righteousnes: whole ende shal be accordyng to theyr dedes.

I say agayn, least any man thinke that I am foolysh: or els euen now take ye me as a foole that I also may boast my selfe a lytle. That I speake I speake it not after the Loyde: but as it were foolyshe, in this matter of boastyng. Seyng that many reioyce after the flesh, I wyl re-ioyce also. For ye suffer foolcs gladly, seing ye pour selues are wyl. For ye fuder, yf a man bring you into bondag, yf a man deuoure, yf a man take, yf a man exalte hym selfe, yf a man smite you on the face. I speake as concernyng rebuke, as though we had ben weke. in this booke

E howbeit, wherein soeuer any man dare be bolde (I speake foolyshe) I dare be bolde also.
* They are Hebrewes, euen so am I. They are Israelites, euen so am I. They are the sede of Abraha, euen so am I. They are the mynistres of Chyriste (I speake as a foole) I am moze. In laboz moze abundat: In stripes aboute measure.
In prysen moze plentifully: In death oft. * Of the Jewes spye times receiued I euery tyme, ri-stoppes saue one. * Thysle was I beaten wth roddes. * I was once stoned: I suffered thysle shymynge. Nyght and day haue I bene in the depe sea. In ioyneyng oft: in perils of waters in perilles of robbers: in iopardyes of myne owne nacpon: in iopardyes emonge the heathen. * in perils in the cytee: in perils in wildernes: in perils in the sea: in perils emonge false brethren: in laboure and trauayle: in watchynges often: in hunger and thysle: in fastynges of te: in cold & nakednes: beside the thynges which outwardly happed vnto me. I am combed day-ly, and do care for all congregacions. * Who is weke and I am not weke: who is offended, and I burne not? If I must nedes boast, I wyl boast of the thynges that concerne mine infymities.

The. xii. Chapter.

Want to taken up into the thyrde heauen, and hereth wordes not to be spoken.

I he God and father of our Loyde Jesus Chyriste, whych is blessed foze-uer moze knowed that I yenot.

I In the cytee of Damasco, the gouerner of the people vnder hyng Aretas layed watch in the cytee of Damascens, and would haue caught me: and * at a wyndowe was I let doun in a basket through the wall, and so sca-ped I his handes. Doubtes, it is not expedient for me to boast. I wyl come to wilsons and re-uelacions of the Loyde. I know a man in Chyrist about fouerene yeres ago: whether he were in the body, I cannot tell, or whether he were out of the body, I cannot tell. God knoweth: howe he was taken vp into the thyrde heauen. And I knowe the same man (whether in the body or out of the body, I cannot tell, God knoweth) howe that he was taken vp into paradys, and heard secret wordes whych no man can utter.

Of thys man wyl I boast, but of my selfe wil
I not boast, excepte it be of myne infymities.
For though I would boast, I shal not be a foole for I would say the truth. neuertheless I spare you: lest any man shuld thinke of me about that which he seeth me to be, or that he heareth of me.
And least I shoulde be exalted out of measure through the excellency of the reuelacions: there was geuen vnto me vnguytnes through the flesh, euen the messenger of Sathean to buffet me because I shoulde not be exalted out of measure.
For thys thyngedefoughte I the Loyde thysle that it myght depart from me. And he sayed vnto me: my grace is sufficient for the. For my strengthe is made perfecte through weakenes.
Very gladly therfore wyl I reioyce of my werke nes, that the strengthe of Chyriste maye dwell in me. * Therfore, dane I delectacion in infy-mytees, in rebukes, in necessities, in persecucions in anguythes for Chyristes sake. For when I am weake, then am I stronge.

I am become a foole in boastyng my selfe. Ye haue compelled me: for I oughte to dane bene commended of you. * For in northyng was I inferpos vnto the chiefe Apostles, though I be northyng, yet the tokens of an Apostle were wrought emong you wth al pacience, and signes and wonders, and mighty dedes. For what is it, wherein ye were inferpos vnto other congregacions, excepte it be herein, that I was not chargeable vnto you. For geue me thys wrong beholde nowe the thysle tyme I am redy to come vnto you, and yet wyl I not be chargeable vnto you. For * I seke not yours, but you. For the children ought not to lay vp for the fathers and mothers, but the fathers and mothers for the thyrden.

I wyl very gladly bestowe, and wyl be. stowed for your soules, though the moze I loue you, the lesse I am loued agayn. But be it, that I was not chargeable vnto you, neuertheless, when I was crafty, I toke you wth gyle. Wd I pyll you by any of them, whome I sent vnto you: I despyed Titus, and wth hym I sente a brother. Wd Titus defraud you of any thyng walked we not in one spyte: walked we not in lyke steppes? Agayne, thynke you that we excuse our selues vnto you: we speake in Chyriste in the syght of God: but we do al thynges (dery-ly beloued) for your edifyng. For I feare, lest it come to passe, that yf I come, I shal not find you such as I would: and that I shal be founde vnto you such as ye would not. I feare lest ther be emog you * debates, enuynges, wrath, strifes: bachtynges, whyspynges, swellynge, and led ye on: and that when I come agayne, God bryng me lowe unto you, and I be condemned to be with you, as of them which haue sinned: and fornication and wiltonnes whych they haue committed.

The xiii. Chapter.

The psoneth to come into them, and exhorteth them so to where they are that he may find them perfect out of one word.

NOW come I the thirde tyme vnto you in the mouth of ii. or iii. wytnesses that euery worde be stablyshed I told you before, and tell you before: and as I sayd when I was present with you the second tyme, so write I now being absent, to the whych in tymes past haue sined, and to al other that if I come agayne, I will not spare, sayng if ye seeke experyence of Christ whych speeth in me: whych among you is not weke but is my-ghty in you. For though he was crucified in we-kenes, yet lyueth he through the power of God And we (no dout) are weke in him: but we shall be with hym by the myght of God among you.

* Examen your selues, whether ye are in the fayth or not. Prone your owne selues. Know ye not your owne selues, how that Iesus Christ is in you: receyve ye be cast awayes, I trust ye shall know that we are not cast awayes. I desire be-foze God that ye do none euil, nor that we shuld seme commendable: but that ye shoulde do that whych is honest: and let vs be counted as castawayes. We can do nothing agaynst the truth but for the truth. We are glad wher we are weke and ye stronge. Thys also we wythe for, euen

Your perfectnes. Therefore wyte I these thynges, being absent least when I am present, I shoulde vse sharpnes, accordyng to the power whych the Lord hath geuen me to edyfy, & not to destroy. Finally brethren, fare ye wel, be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mynd, lyue in peace, & the god of loue & peace shall be with you.
Greete one another in an holy kysse. Al the sainctes salute you. The grace of oure Lorde Iesus Christ, and the lone of God, and the felowshipp of the holy ghoost be with you all. Amen.

Went from Philpppos, a citee in Macedonia, by Tytus and Lucas.

The Epylle of Saint

Paule the Apostle to the Galathyans.

The first Chapter.

Wanteth to them, because they were fallen away from the Gospel, which by his owne conuersacion, magnifyeth his office and apostolichy, and declareth hym self to be equal with the other Apostles.

IN AN Apostle, not of men nether by man: but by Iesus Christ and by God the father, whych callyd him up from death: and al the brethren which are to me unto the congregacions of Ga-lacia. Grace be with you, and peace from God the father, and from our Lorde Iesus Christ, whych gaue him self for our syn-nes to deliuer us from this present euil world accordyng to the wyll of God oure father, to whom be prayse for euer and euer. Amen.

I maruaile, that ye are so sone turned (from Christ whych called you by grace) vnto another Gospel which is nothing elles, but that there be some whych trouble you, and * entend to preuert the Gospel of Christ. Heertobes, though we our selues, or an angell from heauen, preche any other Gospel vnto you, then that whych we haue preached vnto you, let him be accursed.
As we sayed before, so saye I now agayne, if any man preche any other Gospel vnto you, the that ye haue receaued, let hym be accursed. Do I now perswade me, or God? Either do I seke to please men? For if I had betherto studied to please men, I were not the seruant of Christ.

* I cerrefle you brethren, that the Gospel whych was preached of me, was not after the maner of men. For I nether receiued it, nor leaned it of man, but by the reuelaciō of Iesus Christ.
For ye haue hearde of my conuersacion in tyme past, in the Jewes wyse, howe that beyond me-sure, * I persecuted the congregacyon of God, and spoiled it, and preuailed in the Jewes way about many of my companions in myne owne nacyon: being a very feruent mayntayner of the tradicions of the elders.

But when it pleased God, whych separated me from my mothers wombe, * and called me here vnto by hys grace, for to declare hys sonne by me, that I shoulde preche hym among the heathen: immediatly I communed not of the matter with fleshe and bloude nether returned to Jerusalem, to them whych were Apostles be-foze me: but went my wayes vnto Arabia, and came agayne vnto Damasco. Then after thre yeare, I returned to Jerusalem to se Peter, and abode with hym. xij. dayes. Other of the Apostles sawe I none, save James the Lordes brother. The thynges therfore whych I wyte vnto you: beholde before God I lye not.

* After that I came into the coastes of Syria and Cilecia, & was vnknown as touchyng my person vnto the congregacions of Jewes whych were in Christ. But thys they hearde only that he whych persecuted vs in tyme paste nowe preacheth the fayth, whych before he destroyed. And they glorified God in me.

The ii. Chapter.

The which haneth Peter in the face, and proueth that the law and circumcysion are not necessary to saluacion.

Then fourtene yeres thereafter, I wente by agayne to Jerusa-le with Barnabas, & toke Titus with me. I wote vnto by re-uelacion, & communed with them of the Gospel which I preche among the Gentyles (but specially) with the whych were counted chiefe, least I shoulde runne or had runne in vayne. Also Tytus whych was wyte me

me, though he were a Gentile, yet was not compelled to be circumcised: and that because of Iacob mens being false brethren, which came in privately to spy out our liberty which we have in Christ Iesu, that they might bring us into bondage. To whom we gave no reward, no not for the tyme (by way of subiects) because that the truth of the Gospel might continue with you

Of them whiche seemed to be som what, what they wer in time passed it maketh no matter to me. God loketh on the out ward appearaunce of no man. Reuertheles they whiche seemed great added nothing to me. But contrariwise, when they sawe that the Gospel ouer the vncircumcision was committed vnto me, as the Gospel ouer the circumcision was committed vnto Peter. For he that was mightie in Peter in the Apostleshipp ouer the circumcision, the same was mightie in me among the Gentyles. When they perceived the grace that was geuen vnto me, then James, Cephas, and Iohn, whiche seemed to be pillars, came to me & Barnabas the right handes of that felowship, that we should be Apostles among the heathen, and therein the circumcision onely that they should remember the poore. Wherein also I was diligent to doe the same

But when Peter was come to Antioche, I toptold him openly, because he was worthy to be blamed. For yet that certayne came from James, he dyd eat with þe Gentyles. But when they were come, he toptoldzwe, and separateth hym selfe from them, fearng them which were of the circumcision. And the other Jewes dissembled as wel as he in so much that Barnabas also was broughte into theiꝝ simulacpon. But when I saw that they went not the right way after the truth of the Gospell, I sayd vnto Peter before them al: yf thou beyn a Jewe, liuest after the maner of the Gentyles, and not as do the Jewes: why causeste thou the Gentyles to lynne as do the Jewes? For we which are * Je-wes by nature, and not spynners of the Gentyles, knowe that a man * is not Iustified by the deedes of the lawe, but by þe faith of Iesus Christ.
And we haue beleued on Iesus Christ: that we myght be iustified by the lath of Christe, and not by the deedes of the lawe, because yf the de-des of the lawe nosse the shalbe iustified.

¶ If whyle we seeke to be made ryghteous by Chryst, we our selues are found synners, is the Chryst the mynyster of sinne? God forbid. For yf I dupld again the thynges which I dectrop-ed, then make I my self a trespasser. For I, who row the law) haue bene deade to the lawe that I myghte lue vnto Chryst. I am crucified with Chryst. Nevertheless I lue: yet now not I, but Chyste lyueth in me. The lyfe whiche I now lue in the flesh, I lue by the faithe of the sonne of God, whiche loued me, and gaue hym selfe for me. I despyse not the grace of God. For yf ryghteousnes come of the lawe, then Chyste is deade in vayne.

¶ The.iii.Chapiter.

He rebuketh the wickedness of the Salarbans, shewing the impotence of the law, and declareth nevertheless that it was not given for naught.

of the dedes of the lawe. are ſubject to the curſe.
For it is wyrtten. * curſed be euery one that co-ntynueth not in all thynges whiche are wrytten in the booke of the lawe to fulfyll them. that no man is iuſtified by the lawe in y<sup>e</sup> ſyght of God it is euident. * For the laſt ſhall I ſaye be ſayte.
The lawe is not offayed. but the m<sup>n</sup> that ful-fylleth the thynge. (contaryed in the lawe) ſhall I ſaye in them. Chriſt hath deliuered vs fro the curſe of the lawe. in as muche as he was made accuſed

Abraham myghte come on the Gentyles throtowe Ieſus Chriſte. that we myghte receaue the promiſſe of the ſpſyte through the ſayte.

Brethren, I speake after the manner of men. Though it be but a mans reuerence, yet if it be allowed, no man disspeth it, or addeth any thing thereto. * To Abraham and hys seede were the promysse made. He saith not in thy seedes, as many: but in thy seede as of one, which is Christe. This I saie that the lawe whiche begaune afterwarde, beyonde * foure hundred and thyrtye yeres, dothe not disanull the testamente, that was confirmed lasse o' God vnto Christe warde to make the promysse of none effect. * For yf the inheritaunce come of the law it cometh not now of promysse. But God gaue it vnto Abraham by promysse.

Wherefore then serued the law? * It was added because of transgression (till the seed came to whom the promise was made) & it was ordered * by angels in the hand of a mediator. A mediator is not a mediator of one, but God is one. * Is the law then against the promises of God? God forbid. For if there had bene a law given which could haue given life: then no doubt righteousnes should come by the law. But the scripture concluded all thynges vnder synne, that the promise by the saythe of Iesus Christ should be given vnto them that beleue. ¶ But before that saythe came, we were kept vnder the law.

be instructed by faith. But after that saythe is come we are no longer vnder the scolemayster.
For ye are all chyldren of God, because ye be-lieue in Christ Iesu. For al ye that are baptised haue put on Christ. There is no Jewe, neither Gentyle: there is neither bond nor free: there is neither man, nor woman. For ye are all one in Christ Iesu. If ye be Christes, the are ye Abi-hams seed, and heires according to the promys.
¶ The. iiii. Chapter. ✠

They both thought that they should be deported from the land, and reduced the urban settlements of the Galatians.

3 And I say, that the heire, as long as he is a childe, dyssereth not from a seruante, though he be Lord of al, but is vnder tuttes & gouernours, vntill the time that the father haue appointed. Euen so we also, when we were chyliden, were in bondage vnder the ordinaunces of the woylde. But when the tyme was full come, God sent his sonne, made of a woman, and made bonde vnto the law, to redeme them which wer bond vnto the law: that we, though electio, myght receaue the inheritaunce that belongeth to the naturall sonnes. Because ye are sonnes, God hath sent the spure of his sonne into our hartes, crying Abba father. Wherefore now, thou arte not a seruante: but a sonne. If thou be a sonne, thou art also an heire of god through Christ. Not withstanding, when ye knewe not God by dyd service vnto them, which by nature are no Goddes. But now after that ye haue knowen God, yee, rather are knowen of God: how is it that ye turne agayn vnto the weake & beggerly ordinaunces, wherunto again ye despise a freely to be in bondage? Ye obserue dayes and monethes, and tymes, and yeres. I am in feare of you lest I haue bestowed in you labour in vayne.

Brethren, I beseeche you be ye as I am: for I am as ye are. Ye haue not hurte me at all. Ye knowe howe through the insymptee of the flesh I preached the Gospell vnto you at the synne.
 And my temptation whiche was in the flesh ye despysed not, neither abhorred: but receaued me as an angell of God: such as Christe Iesus.
 What is then your felicity: for I beate you record for it had ben possible ye would haue pluched out your owne eyes, and haue geue them to me. Am I therfore become your enemy, because I tel you the truth? They are gelouse ouer you my selfe. Yet, they intend to exclude you, that ye shoulde be seruente to them wards. It is good alwayes to be seruente in a good thyng, and not onely when I am present with you.

My little chyldren, of whom I travel in byrth again, untill Christ be fashioned in you I wold I were wth you now, and could chaunge my voys: for I stand in a doubt of you. Tel me: ye that desyre to be vnder the lawe, do ye not here of the lawe? For it is writen, that Abraham had two sonnes: the one by a bonde mayd: the other by a free woman. Yea, he whyche was bo:ne of the bondwoman, was bo:ne after the fleithe: but he which was of the free woman, was bo:ne by promise. Whyche thynges are spoken by an allegory. For these are two testaments the one from the mount Sinai, which gendreth vnto bondage, whych is Ager. For mount Sinai is ager in Arabia, and boudreth vppon the cyttee, whyche is now called Ierusalem, and is in bondage wth her chyldren.

But Ierusalem, which is about, is free: which is the mother of vs all. For it is written: Reioyce thou barren, þe bearest no chyldezen: break forth and crye, that thou trauest not. For the desolate hath many mo chyldezen, the which hath an husband. Brethren we are after Ihae the chyldezen of promise. But as then he þ was bozne after the fleche, persecuted hym that was bozne after the spyre, euen so is it now. Neuer theles, what saith the scripture: put away the bond woman and her sonne. For the sone of the bond woman shall not be heire wth the sonne of the free woman. So then brethren we are not chyldezen of the bond woman, but of the free. I

The Epistle of saint

Paul the Apostle to the Ephesians.

The first Chapter.

The exceeding abundance and election of God in saving of all men, through Christ Jesus his sonne, we are hereby called to good works. The dominion of Christ.

Paul an Apostle, of Jesus Christ by the will of God. To the sapientes which are at Ephesus, and to them whiche beleue on Jesus Christ. Grace be with you, and peace frome God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

Blessed be God the father of our Lord Jesus Christ which hath blessed vs with all manner of spirytual blessinge in heauenlye thynges by Christ accordyng as he had chosen vs in him, before the foundations of the world were layed, that we shoulde be holy, and without blame before hym, through the loue. Whiche ordeyned vs before through Jesus Christ to be hepyres vnto hym selfe, accordyng to the good pleasure of his will, to the prayse of the glory of his grace, wherewith he hath made vs acceptid through the beloued.

By whom we haue redemption through his blood, euen the forgiveness of synnes, accordyng to the riches of his grace: wherof he hath mynistrd vnto vs abundantly in al wysdome and prudence: And hath opened vnto vs the mysterie of his wil, accordyng to his good pleasure whiche he hath purposed in hym selfe, to haue it declared: when the tyme was ful come that he myght set vp all thynges perfectly by Christ (bothe the thynges whiche are in heauen, and the thynges whiche are in earth) euen by hym by whome we are made hepyres, and were thereto predestynat accordyng to the purpose of him by whose powre al thynges are wrought accordyng to the purpose of his owne will: that we (whiche before beleued in Christ) shoulde be vnto the prayse of his glory.

In whom also we beleue, for as muche as we haue hearde the word of truth, euen the Gospell of your saluacyon, wher in, when ye haue beleued: ye were sealed wth the holy spirite of promise, whiche is the earnest of our enheritaunce for the recovering of the purchased possession, vnto the prayse of his glory.

Wherfore I also (after that I herd of the sayth whiche ye haue in the Lord Jesu, and loue vnto all the sapientes) cease not to geue thanks for you, makinge mencyon of you in my prayers: that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the father of glory, may geue vnto you the spiryte of wysdome and reuelacion, by the knowledge of hym selfe, and lyghten the eyes of your mindes that ye may know what the hope is, wherunto he hath called you, and howe rych the glorye is of his enheritaunce vpon the sapientes, and what is the exceeding greatenes of his powre

These are contrarye one to the other, so that ye cannot do whatsoeuer ye wold, but and if ye be led of the spirite, then are ye not vnder the lawe.

The deedes of the fleshe are manifest, which are these: aduoutyng, fornicacion, vnclennes, wantonnes, worshipping of ymages, witchcraft, hatred, variance, zele, wrath, strife, sedicions, ferres, enuyng murder, dyonhennes, gloomyng, & such like: of which I tel you before, as I haue told you in tyme past, that the which comit suche thynges shal not be inheritous of the kyngdome of God. Contrarily, the frute of the spirite is, loue, ioye, peace, long sufferyng, gentilnes, goodnes, faithfulness, mekenes, temperaunce. Agaynst such ther is no lawe. Thei truly that are Christes, haue crucified the flesch with the affections and lustes. If we lue in the spirite, let vs walke in the spirite. Let vs not be despyous of vayne glory, prouokyng one another, enuyng one another.

The vi. Chapter

The exhortacion them to brotherly loue, and one to haue with a nother. In the end he warneth them to beware of circuncision Berthen, ys a man also be taken in anye fault, ye which ar spiritual helpe to amed him in the spirite of mekenes: consideryng thy selfe, lest thou also be tempted: Were ye one another's burthen, & so fulfyll the law of Christ. For ys a man seme to hym selfe that he is some: what when in dede he is nothyng, the same deceaueh his owne mind. Let euery man proue his owne worke, and then shal he haue reioysynge onely in his owne selfe, and not in another. For euery manne shal beare his owne burthen.

Let him that is taught in the word, mynistrer vnto him that teacheth hym in al good thynges. Be not deceued, god is not mocked: For what soeuer a man soweth, that shal he also reape. For he that soweth in the flesch, shal of the flesch reape corrupcion: But he that soweth in the spirite, shal of the spirite reape lyfe cuerlastyng. Let vs not be troy of wel doing. For wher the tyme is come we shal reape wythout verines. Whyle we haue therfore tyme, let vs do good vnto al men and specially vnto them which are of the house hold of fayth. Ye se how large a letter I haue wyrtten vnto you with myne owne hande. As many as desire without ward aprearance to please carnally, the same constrain you to be circuncised only lest thei shoulde suffer persecution for the crosse of Christ. For thei the selues which are circuncised, hepe not the lawe, but desire to haue you circuncised, thei might reioice in your flesch.

God forbyd that I shoulde reioyse, but in the crosse of our Lord Jesu Christ, wherby the world is crucified vnto me, & I vnto the world. For in Christ Jesu neither circumcission: anay leth any thyng at all, nor vncircumcission but a newe creature. And as many as walke accordyng to this rule, peace be on them and mercye & vpon Israel, that pertaineth to God. From henceforth, let no man put me to busynes: For I beate in my bodye the markes of the Lord Jesu. Berthen the grace of our Lord Jesu Christ be with your spirite. Amen.

The Epistle vnto the Galathians was sent from Rome.

forward which belongeth according to the wo-wrought in Christ, whiche raised him from uyn alrethynge aboue all rule and power, and myghte, and dominion, and aboue every name that is named, not in this world onely, but also in the world to come: and hath put all thynges under his feet, and hath made him aboue all thynges: the head of the congregacion, whiche is bys body and the fulnes of hym, that filleth all in all.

The ii. Chapter.

¶ I sheweth them what maner of people they were before they came to Christ, and what they are now in Christ.

Ad you hathe he quickened where as ye were dead in trespasses & syn-nes, in the whiche in tyme passed ye walked, according to the course of this world, even after the governer that ruleth in the ayre, the spyte that no we worketh in the chylidren of vnbefele: amonge whom we al had our conuersacion also in tyme past, in the lustres of our fleshe, and fulfilled the wyll of the fleshe and of the minde: and were by nature the chylidren of wrath, even as wel as other. But God whiche is rich in mercye (for his great loue wherwith he loned vs, even whē we were dead by synnes) quickened vs together in Christ: by grace are ye saued; and raysed vs vp together with hym & made vs syt together with hym among them of heauen in Christ Jesu. That in tyme to come, he might shew the exceedyng ryches of his grace, in kyndnes to vs warde through Christ Jesu. For by grace are ye made safe through faith, & that not of poure selues. It is the gyfte of God, and cometh not of workes, least any man should boast hymself for we are his workman shyp created in Christ Jesu vnto good workes, whiche God ordained that we should walke in them.

¶ Therefore, remember that ye being in tyme past Gentyles in the fleshe, were called vncircumcysion in the fleshe, which circumcysion is made by handes: remember (I say) that at that tyme ye were without Christ, being aleaunted from the common welth of Israel, & strangers from the testamentes of the promes, hauing no hope and being without God in this world. But nowe by the meanes of Christ Jesu, ye whiche sometime were farre of, are made nye by the blonde of Christ.

¶ For he is oure peacemaker, whiche hath made of both one, and hath broken downe the wall that was a stoppe betwene vs, and hath also putte away through his fleshe, the cause of hatred, euen the law of commaundmentes contained in the law written, for to make of twain one newe man in hymself, somaking peacemaker, and to reconcile both vnto god in one body through his crosse and there he hath shed his blood, & came and preached peacemaker to you which were farre of, and to them that were nye. For through hym we both haue an entraunce, in our spytte vnto the father.

¶ Now therfore, we are not strangers, and farpyners: but citizens with the sapientes and of the household of God: and are buyle vpon the foundacion of the Apostles and Prophetes, ¶ Jesus Christ hymself, being the head corner stone, in whiche whatsoeuer buyldyng is coupled together, is groweth vnto an holpe temple in the Loyde, in whiche ye also are buylded together to be an habitation of God through the holy ghost.

The iii. Chapter.

¶ I sheweth the cause of his prisonment, desirer them not to fear because of his trouble, and prayeth God to make them steadfast in his spytte.

For this cause, I Paul am a prisoner of Jesu christ for you hethen: If ye haue herd of the mi-nistracion of the grace of God whiche is geuen me to you ward. For by reuelacion the-wed be the mystery vnto me, as I wote afore in few wordes, wherby wha ye rede ye may vnder-stand my knowledg in the mystery of Christ whiche mystery in tymes passed was not opened vnto the sonnes of men, as it is now declared vnto his holpe Apostles and prophetes by the spyt: that the Gentyles should be inherytours also, and of the same body, and partakers of his promes in Christ, by the meanes of the Gospel wherof I am made a minister according to the gyfte of the grace of God whiche is geuen vnto me after the workyng of his power.

¶ Vnto me the lest of al saintes is this grace geuen, that I should preache among the Gentiles the vnsesearchable ryches of Christ, and to make al men se, what the felowshyp of the miste-ry is, whiche from the begynnyng of the world hath bene hyd in God, whiche made all thynges through Jesus Christ, to the intent, that now vnto the rulers and powers in heuenly thynges myght be known by the congregacio, the ma-nyfold wysdome of God, accordyng to the eter-nall purpose, whiche he wrought in Christ Jesu our Loyde, by whom we haue boldnesse and entraunce with the confidence which is by the sayd of hym. ¶ Therefore I desyre: that ye sa-pente not because of my tribulacions: that I suffer for your sakes: whiche is your prayse.

¶ For this cause I bowe my knees vnto the father of our Lord Jesu Christ, whiche is father ouer all that is called father in heuen & in earth that he would graunt you accordyng to the ryches of his glorie, that ye may be strengthened w myght by his spyt, in the inner man, & Christe may dwell in your heartes by sayd, that ye be yncreased and grounded in loue, myght be able to comprehend with all sapientes, what is the breadth and lengthe, depthe and bryghte and to knowe the excellente loue of the knowledg of Christ that ye myght be fulfilled with all fullnes, whiche cometh of God. Vnto hym that is able to do exceedyng abundantly aboue al that we aske or thinke accordyng to the power that worketh in vs, by prayse in the congrega-cion by Christ Jesu, through our all ages world without ende. Amen.

The iii. Chapter.

He rebuketh them with meekness, to lay alive the thread of charity of grace in them, and so walketh in a new life.

Therefore which am a prisoner of Loydes exhort you, that ye walke worthye of the vocation wherewith ye are called, wyth all lowlynes and meeknesse, wyth humblenes of mynde, forbearyng one another thow w loue, and be diligent to kepe the vnitie of the spyte thow w the bond of peace, beyng one bodye, and one spyte, men as ye are called in one hope of yow calling. One Lorde, one saythe, one baptyme, one God, and father of all, whiche is aboue all and thow w al, and in you all. ¶

¶ Unto euery one of vs is geuen grace, according to the measure of the gyfte of Chyrist.
Wherfore he sayeth: when he went vp as hys he led captiuite captiue, and gaue gyftes vnto men. That he ascended: what meaneth hit but that he also descended first into ylowest partes of peth: he that descended, is cussf same also p ascended vp, aboue al heuens, to fulfyll al thynges

And the verpe same made some Apostles, some Prophetes, some Euaγγελistes, some sheperdes & teachers: to the edyfyinge of the sayntes, to the worke and ministraciō, euen to the edyfing of the body of Chyrist, tyll we all come to the vnitie of saythe: & knowlage of the sonne of God, vnto a perfecte manne, vnto the measure of the full perfecte age of Chyrist. ¶

¶ That we henceforth shulde be no more childre, wauerynge and carped aboute wyth euerye wynde of doctryne, by the wylkenesse of manne, thow we craftyness, where by they laye a waye for vs to deceiue vs. But lette vs folowe the truth in loue, and in all thynges growe in him, whiche is the head, euen Chyriste in whome yf al the body be coupled & mytt together thow w oute euerye ioynte wherewith one ministrith to another (according to the operacyon as euery partie hath his measure) he encreaseth the body vnto the edyfing of it selfe thow we loue.

¶ This I say therefore, and testifie thow w the Lorde, that ye hence forth walke not, as other Setils walke, in vanitie of their mynd whyte they are blind in theyr vnderstandyng: beyng farre from a godly lyfe, by the meanes of ignoraunce that is in them, and because of the byndnes of theyr hertes: which beyng past repentaunce, haue geuen them selues ouer vnto wantounes, to worke all maner of vniennes, euen with greyuesse. But ye haue not leaned Chyrist (also be that ye haue heard of hym, and haue bene taughte in hym, as the truthe is in Iesu: (as concerning p conuersacion in tyme past) to lay fro you the olde man, whiche is corrupte, according to the decreable lustes. ¶ ¶ To be renewed also in the spyte of yowre mynde, and to put on that newe man, whiche after God is shapen in righteousnesse and true holynesse.

Wherfore, put awaye lyfage, and speake euery man truthe vnto yowre neyghboure, for as much as we are members one of an other. Be angrye, and stume not: lette not the sunne godowne vnto your wrath, neither geue place vnto the wrath. Let him that stole, steale no more: but let hym each labour with his han-des the thing whiche is good, that he may geue vnto hym that needeth. ¶

Let no fylthy communicacyon procede oute of yowre mouth: but that which is good to edyfy with all as ofte as neede is: that it may minister grace vnto the hearers. And geue not ye the holy spyte of God: by whom ye are sealed vnto the daye of redempcyon. Let all bytternes and fearnes, and wrath, and roryng, & cursed speakyng, be put awaye from you, with al maliciousnes. Be ye courteous one to another: euen as God for Chyriste sake hath for geuen you.

The v. Chapter.

He rebuketh them with loue, waueryng them to be wise of all vniennes. He teacheth how women shuld obey there husbandes and howe lowlyly men ought to entreate their wyues.

¶ Ye therfore folowers of God as dere chyldren, and walke ye in loue: euen as Chyrist loued vs, and gaue hym selfe for vs an offering & a sacrifice of a swete sauour to God. As for fornication & al vniennes, or courtousnes: let it not be once named amonge you, as it becommeth sayntes, or fylthynges, or foolyshe tal-kyng, or testyng, which are not comely: but rather geuyng of thanks. For this ye knowe that no whoremonger, either vncleane person or couetous person, (which is a worshyppe of ymages) hath any inheritaunce in the kyngdō of Chyrist and of God.

¶ Let no man deceyue you with vayne wodes. For because of suche thynges cometh the wrath of God, vpon schylozen of disobedience.
Be not ye therfore companions of the. Ye were somtyme darkenes, but nowe are ye lychte in p Lorde. ¶ Walke as chyldre of light. (For p feute or the spyte consyseth in al goodnes, & righte-ousnes and truthe.) ¶ Searchyng what is acceptable vnto the Lorde. And haue no felowshyp with the vnfrutefull workes of darkenes: but rather rebuke the. For it is shame euen to name those thynges which are done of them in secreete but all thynges, when they are broughte forth by the lychte, are manifest. For whatsoeuer is manifeste, the same is lychte. Wherfore he sayeth: awake thou that sleepest, and stand vp from death, and Chyrist shall geue the lycht.

¶ Take heede therfore howe ye walke cry-stall perfectly: not as vnto pte, but as wyle men: redemynge the tyme, because the dayes are euell. Wherfore, bee ye not vniwyse, but vnderstande what the wyll of the Lorde is, and bee not dronke wyth wyne, wherein is exesse: but bee fylled wyth the spytte, speakyng vnto yowre selues in psalms and hymnes, and spyrituall songes, syngyng and making melodye to the Lorde in yowre heartes, geuyng thanks alwayes for al thynges, vnto God the father, in the name of oure Lorde Iesus Chyrist submytting yowre selues one to another in the fear of God. ¶

Therefore, as the congregation is in subiection to Christ, wherwise let the wyues also be in sub iectyon to the; husbandes in all thynges. Ye husbandes, loue your wyues, eue as Christ al loued the congregacyon, and gaue hymselfe for it, to sanctifie it, and cleanse it in the foun tain of water thow; the word, to make it vn to hym selfe a gloriouse congregacyon, without spot or wrinkle, or any such thyng: but that it shuld be holy, and without blame. So ought men to loue the; wyues, as their owne bodies For that loueth his wyfe, loueth hym selfe. For no man euer yet hated his owne fleche: but no r; hath and cheriseth it, euen as the Lord doth the congregacyon. For we are members of his body, of his fleche, and of his bones.

* For this cause shall a man leaue father and mother, and shall be ioyned vnto his wyfe, & of two shall be made one fleche. This is a great secrete, but I speake of Christ and of the congregation. Reuer thelesse, do ye so, that euery one loue his wyfe euen as hym selfe, and let the wife reuerence her husband.

with the truth, haulg on the brest plate of right trouthe, and hauping shoes on youre fete, that ye maye bee prepared for the Gospell of peace: Aboue al, take to you the shield of faith wherw ye may quench al the fyre dartes of the wy-ard. And take the helmet of saluacyon, and the swearde of the spyghte, whyche is the worde of God. ¶ And praye alwayes with all maner of prayer and supplicacon in the spyghte: and watche there vnto with al instance and supplicacyon for all sapntes and for me. <sup>2</sup> that vteraunce may be geuen vnto me that I may open my mouth frely to vtter þ secrettes of my Gospel (wherof I am a messenger in bondes) þ ther in I maye speake frely, as I soughte to speake.
But that ye may also know what condicion I am in, & what I do. Tichycus the deere brother and faythful mynster in the Lorde shall be we you al thynges, whom I haue left vnto you for the same purpose, þ ye might knowe what case we stande in, and that he myght comfort poure bertes. Peace be vnto the bzerthen & loue with fayth, from God the father & from the Lord Jesus Chryst. Grace be with all them which loue our Lorde Iesus Chryst sincerely. Amen.

¶ The. vi. Chapter.

Some christians should behave themselves toward their partners, fellowmen toward they, masters. An exhortation to the spiritual warfare.

Hylde, obey your fathers & mothers in the Lorde: for it is ryght. <sup>2</sup> Honour thy father and morber. (the same is)

¶ If thou maist prosper, & lye long on earth. Ye fathers moue not your chylidren to whatte: but bring them vnder the doctrine of the Lord.
 ¶ Ye seruantes, obeye them that are your bodily masters, with feare and trembling, even with the fraglenes of your heart as vnto Christ: not doing seruice vnto the eye, as they that go aboute to please men: but as ye ser-uantes of Christ, doing the wil of God from the heart with good wyll, seruing the Lord and not men. Knowing this that whatsoeuer good thing any man dothe, the same shall he receyue againe of God, whether he be bonde or free. And ye masters, do eue the same thinges vnto them putting away the threatenings. Knowing that your master also is in heauen, & nether is there any respect of person with hym.

Finally my brethren, be strong thorow the Loyde and thorowe the power of his might Put on al þe armour of God, that ye may stand against the assaults of þe Druel. For we wrestle not agaynst bloude & fleche: but agaynst rule, a-gaynst power, agaynst worldly rulers, euen gouerners of the darknesse of this world, a-gaynst spiritual craftines in heauenly thynges wherefore, take vnto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to resiste in the cruell daye, and stande perfect in all thynges.

Stand therefore, & and your loynes gird

Grace be vnto you, and peace from God oure Father, and from the Lorde Iesus Chryst.

✠ I thanke my God with all remembrance of you & alwaies in all my prayers for you, and praye with gladnesse, because ye are come into the felowshyppe of the Gospell fro n the fyfthe daye vntyll nowe, & am surely certified of chrs, that he wherbye darbe becomee a good worke in you, shall perfoyme it vntyll the daye of Iesus Chryst, as it becometh me, so Iudge I of you all, because I haue you in my hart: for as much as ye all are companions of grace with me, euen in my bondes, and in the defendynge and stablyshynge of the Gospell.

For God is my record, howe greatly I long after you all, from the very herte rote in Iesus Christ. And this I pray, that your love, maye increase yet more and more in knowlage, and in all vnderstandynge, that ye maye accepte the thynges that are mooste excellent, that ye may

maye be pure, and suche as offende no man vntill the daye of Christe: being fylled with the frute of righteousnes. whiche cometh by Iesus Christ vnto þe glorie and praise of God. I

I woulde ye shoulde vnderstande (brethren) that the thynges whiche happened vnto me, chaunced vnto the greates furtheraunce of the Gospell: So that my bandes in Christ, are manysse thowowe oute all the iudgements helle, and in all other places: In so muche that many of the brethren in the Lorde beynge encouraged thowowe my bandes, dare more boldly speake the worde without feare. Some preach Christ of enuie and streyfe, and some of good wyll.

The one parte preacheth Christ of streyfe and not sincerely, supposyng to adde more aduersitee to my bandes. Agayne the other parte preacheth of loue because they knowe I am set to defend the Gospell. What then? So that Christe be preached any maner of wyse, whether it be by occasyon, or of true meanyng, I am glad thereof, yee and wyll be glad. For I know, that this shal chaunce to my saluacyon, * thowowe your prayer and minystrage of the spiryte of Iesu Christe accordyng to my expectacyon, & hope that in nothyng I shalbe ashamed: but that w all boldnesse, (as alwayes euen so now also) Christe shalbe magnified in my body, whether it be thowow lyle, or thowow death. For Christe is to me lyfe, and death is to me auantage. If it chaunce me to lyue in the flesh, that thyng is to me feutefull for the worke, and what I shal chose I wote not. For I am constrained of those two thynges. * I desyre to be loosed, and to be with Christe whiche is muche and farre better. Neuertheles, to abide in the flesh is more needefull for you. And this am I sure of, that I shal abyde & contynue with you all, for your furtheraunce and lope of your faith, & your reioysyng maye be the more aboundaunte thowow Iesus Christe in me, by my comyng to you againe.

One ly let your conuersacion be, * as it becometh the Gospell of Christe: that whether I come and se you, or els be absent, I maye yet heare of your condicion, that ye continue in one spiryte, and in one soule, labouryng as we doo, to maintayne the faith of the Gospell, and in notyng fearyng your aduersaries, whiche is to them a cause of perdycon, but to you of saluacyon, and that of God: for vnto you it is geuen for Christe that not onely ye shoulde beleue on hym: but also that ye shoulde suffre for his sake, haupyng euen suche a fyghte, as ye sawe in me, and now heare of me.

The ii. Chaptyr.

in mekenes of mynd, let every man attaine vnto the better then hym selfe. * Take not ye euey man on his owne mynges, but euey man on thynges that are of the meyne.

Let the same mynd be in you which was in Christ Iesu: which when he was in the shape of God, thought it no robbery to be equal with God: Neuerthelesse he made hym selfe of no reputacyon, takyng on hym the shape of a seruaunte, and became lyke vnto meene, & was founde in his apparell as a man. he humbled hym selfe, and became obedient vnto death, eue the death of the crosse. Wherefore, god also hath exalted hym on hye, & geuen hym a name which is aboue all names: that in the name of Iesus * euey knee shuld bowe, both of thynges in heauen and thynges in earth and thynges vnder the earth, and that all tonges shuld confesse, & Iesus Christe is the Lord, vnto the praise of god the father. Wherefore, (my dearely beloued) as ye haue alwayes oded, & not when I was present only, but nowe muche more in myne absence: euen so worke oute your owne saluacion with feare & tremblpng. * For it is God which worketh in you, both the wyl and also the dede euen of good wyll.

Do all thynges without murmurpng, and dysputyng, that ye maye bee suche as no man can complayne on: and vnfayned sones of God without rebuke, in the myddes of a croked and peruerse nacion: among whom se that ye shyne as lyghtes in the world, holdyng fast the word of lyfe, that I maye reioyce in the day of Christe howe that I haue not runne in vayne, neyther haue laboured in vayne.

Yee, and thoughte I be offered by vpon the offeringe and a sacrifice of your fleshe: I reioyse and reioyse with you all. For the same cause also doo ye reioyse, and reioyse with me.

I trust in the Lorde Iesus, for to sende Epaphroditus vnto you, that I also maye be of good cofort, when I knowe what case ye stande in. For I haue no man þe is so lyke mynded to me, whiche with so pure affectio wil care for your matters. For al other seke theyr owne and not the thynges which are Iesus Christes. Ye knowe the pyse of him, howe that as a son with the father, so hath he with me bestowed his seruaunce in the Gospell. hym therefore I hope to send, as soon as I knowe how it wil goe with me. I truste in the Lorde, that I also my selfe shal come thowow.

But I supposed it necessarye to sende brother Epaphroditus vnto you, my companion in labour and felowe souldyer, your Apostle whiche also mynystred vnto me at neede. For he longed after you all, and was ful of heynesse, because that ye had heard saye, that he had ben speke. And no doute he was speke in so much þe was ny vnto death. But God had mercy on hym: and not on hym onely but on me also, lest I shuld haue sorrow vpon sorrow. I see hym therefore the more dysgently: & when ye se him, ye may reioyse again and I may be plesse sozowfull. Receyue hym therefore in the Lorde with

With all gladnesse, and a make meche of such because that for the woche of Chyrlie be wene so lated that he was nye unto death, and regar ded not his lyfe to fulfyll that which was lay dyng on your part toward me.

The iii. Chapter.

The thirthe of them to beware of false teachers, whom he cal leth dogges and enmyes of Chyrlie, and reproveth maner of their lyfelyng.

I Owever, (brethren) reioyce ye in y Lorde. It greueth me not to wyte one thyng often to you. For to you it is a late thyng. Beware of dog ges, beware of euell woikers. Be ware of dysceypon. For we are circumcyspon, whiche serue God in the spyrte, and reioyce in Chyrlie Jesu, and haue no confydence in flesch though I myght also reioyce in the flesch. Yea nother man thynketh that he hath wote of he myght trust in the flesch. I haue more, being cir cumcysed the eyght day of the hundred of Isra el, of the trybe of Ben Jamim, an Ebure borne of the Ebures, as concernyng the lawe, a Pha ryse: as concernyng feruentnesse, I persecuted y congregacyon as touchyng the ryghteousnesse which is in the lawe, I was vntreuhable.

But the thynges that were vantage vnto me, those I counted losse for Chyrlie sake. Ye I thynke all thynges but losse for the excellencie of the knowlage of Chyrlie Jesu my Lord. For whome I haue counted all thynges losse, y doo indge them but vyle, that I may winne Chyrlie and be founde in hym not hauyng myne owne ryghteousnes of the lawe: but y whiche is tho row the fayth of Chyrlie: euen the ryghteousnes which cometh of God thow sayd: y I may know hym & the vertue of his resurrection, and felowshipp of his passyons. Whyle I am comfor mable vnto hym (deathe) yf by any meanes I might attaine vnto the resurrection of y deade.

Not that I haue attained vnto it alreedy, or y I am alreedy perfect: but I folow, if that I may comprehend that wherein I am comprehended of Chyrlie Jesu. Brethren, I count not my selfe y I haue gotte it as yet, but this one thing I say I forger those thynges which are behynd, y en deuour my selfe vnto those thynges which are before, and (according to the marke appointed) I prease to the reward of the bie callung of god thowwe Chyrlie Jesu. Let vs therefore as many as be perfect, be thus wise in mynde, and yf ye be otherwyle mynded, God shall open the same al so vnto you. Reuercheles vnto that whiche we haue attayned vnto, let vs procede by one rule that we may be of one accord.

Brethren, be folowes together of me, and looke on them whiche walke euen so, as ye haue vs for an ensample. For many walke (of whome I haue tolde you often and nowe tell y in wepyng) that they are the enmyes of the crosse of Chyrlie, whose ende is dampnacyon whose God is theyr bellye and gloze to theyr shame, whiche are wooldy mynded. But oure conuersacion is in heauen from whence we loke for the sayour, euen the Lorde Jesu Chyrlie which shall chaunge our vyle bodye, y he may make it lyke vnto hym glayous bodye accor dyng to the workyng wherby he is able also to saddue all thynges vnto hym selfe.

The liii. Chapter.

The liii. of them, whiche they say to be of honeste conuersacion, and thanketh them because of the prayse that they make for him beyng in prison.

Herfore my brethren (dearly beloued) and longed for) my toy and crowne so continue in the Lorde ye beloued.
I pray Enodias, and beseech Symi ches, y they be of one accord in the Lorde: Pea, and I beseeche the saythful yoke fe lowe, dealse the women whiche laboured with me in the Gospell, and with Clement also, and with other my laboure felowes: whose names are in the booke of lyfe. Reioyce in the Lorde alway agayn I say reioyce. Let your softnes be knowne vnto all men: The Lorde is euen at hande. Be carefull for nothyng: but in al pray er and supplicacion leat your petycons be ma nifest vnto God with geuyng of thankes. And the peace of God (which passeth all vnderstan dyng) kepe your heartes and myndes thow we Chyrlie Jesu.

Furthermore, brethren, whatsoeuer thynges are true, whatsoeuer thynges are honest, what soeuer thynges are iuste, whatsoeuer thynges are pure, whatsoeuer thynges are conuenient, whatsoeuer thynges are of honest report: if there bee any vertue, yf there bee any prayse (of iust nesse) those same haue ye in your mynde, whiche ye haue both learned and receaued, hearde also and seene in me: those thynges do, and the God of peace shall be with you. I reioyce in the Lorde greatly, that nowe at the laste your care is re uyned agayne for me, in that wherein ye were also careful, but yelacked oportunitie. I speake not because of necessitye. For I haue learned in whatsoeuer estate I am, ytherwyth to be con tente. I knowe howe to be lowe, and I knowe howe to excede. Every where y in al thynges I am instructed, vnde to be full and to be hungry both to haue plenty and to suffer nede I can do all thynges thowwe Chyrlie whiche strengthe neth me. Not withstandyng ye haue well done that ye bare parte with me in my tribulacion.

Ye of Philyppos knowe also that in the be gynnyng of the Gospell, when I departed from Macedonia, no congregacyon bare parte with me, as concernyng geuyng and receauyng, but ye onely. For when I was in Thessalonica, ye sent once and after ward agayn vnto my neces sitye: not that I desire giftes but I desyre a boi daunt frute on your parte. Reuercheles I recei ued all, and haue plentye. I was euen fylled af ter that I receaued of Epaphroditus the thyng es whiche were sent from you, an odoure of a sweete smell, a sacrifice accepted and pleasaunte to God. God shall supplie all youre nede thowwe hym glayous ryche by Jesu Chyrlie vnto God and oure father be prayse for euer more. Amen: Salute all the sayntes in Chyrlie Jesu

Jesu. The brethren which are w me, grete you All p'santes salute you. most of al they whiche are of the Emperours household. The grace of our Lord Jesu Christ be with you al. Amen.

This Epylle was wyrtten from Rome by Epaphroditus.

The Epylle of saint

Paul the Apostle vnto the Collosians.

The first Chapter.

The growth thence vnto God for their faith loue & hope. prayers for their encrease & the word how we at the right hand of god obtainyd by Christ whiche is the head of the congregation.

Paul an Apostle of Jesu Christ by the wyll of God, & brother Timotheus.

To the sayntes whiche are at Collosa & brethren & beloue in Christ. * Grace be vnto you and peace fro God our father and fro the Lord Jesu Christ.

We geue thanks to God the father of our Lord Jesu Christ alwaies for you in our prayers. For we haue hearde of your fayth in Christ Jesu, and of the loue whiche ye haue to all sayn-tes, for the hopes sake whiche is layd vp in store for you in heuē, of which hope, ye herd before by the true word of the Gospel, which is come vnto you: euen as it is into al the world, & it is frut-full & (and groweth) as it is also among you from the day in the whiche ye heard of it, and had experyence in the grace of God thozow the truthe as ye learned of Epaphroditus our dere fellowe ser-uaunt, whiche is for you a faythful mynster of Christ whiche also declared vnto vs your loue whiche ye haue in the spiryte.

For this cause we also enter sence the day we hearde of it, haue not ceased to praye for you and to desyre, that ye myght be fulfilled w the knowlage of hys wyll, in all wysedome and spyrityual vnderstandyng, that ye might walk worthy of the Lord, that in al thynges ye may please & beynge fruteful in all good workes, and encreasyng in the knowlage of God: strenghted wyth all myght, thozowe his gloriously power, vnto al pacyence and longe sufferynge with ioy fulnes, & geuyng thanks vnto father whiche made vs mete to be partakers of penyence & aice of sayntes in lyght.

Whiche hath deliuered vs from the power of darknesse, and hath translated vs into the lyngdom of hys dere sonne & by whome we haue redemypd thozow his blood, euen the forgene-nes of synnes whiche is ymage of the inuisible God fyrst begotte of all creatures. * For by hym were all thynges created, & are in heauen: and that ar in earth visyble & inuisyble, whether they be maiesty or lordshyppe, ether rule or power. Al thynges wer created by hym and for hym, and he is before all thynges, & by hym all thynges haue theyr byng.

And he is the head of the bodye, euen of the congregation, whiche is the begynnyng and fyrst begotten of the dead, & in al thynges he might haue the p'seminence. For it pleased the father, & in hym shoulde all fulnes dwell, and by hym to reconcyle all thynges vnto hym selfe, & to set at peace by hym thozowe the fyleude of hys crosse both thynges in heauen and thynges in earth.

And you whiche were somtyme farte of and enemys, because your myndes wer set in euell workes hath be now yet reconcyled in the bodye of his fleche thozow death, to make you holye, and vnblymeable, and without faule in his owne syghte, yf ye continue grounded, and stablyshed in the fayth, and be not moued away from the hope of the Gospel, whereof ye haue heard, howe that it is preached among al creatures which are vnder heauen, wherof I Paul am made a minister. Howe ioye I in my suf-ferynge for you, and fulfyl that whiche is behynde of the passyons of Christ in my fleche, for hys bodies sake, whiche is in the congregation, wherof I am made a minister, accordyng to the ordynance of God, whiche ordynance was geuen me vnto you warde, to fulfyl the word of God, that mistery whiche hath ben hid sence the world began, and sence the begynnyng of generations: but now is opened to his sayn-tes, to whome God wold make knowen what the gloriously riches of this mistery is among the Gentyles, whiche riches is Christ in you, the hope of glory, whom we preache, warnyng all men, and teachyng all men in all wysedome, to make all men perfecte in Christ Jesu. Wherof I also laboure and stryue euen as far as I ag his strength worketh in me myghtily.

The ii Chapter.

What great care woulde I take for all congregacions, & cryeth them to be heedful in Christ, to beware of false teachers and worldly wysdome, and describeth the false prophets.

If I wold that ye knew how great care that I haue for you and for them that ar at Laodi-cia & for as many as haue not sene my personne in the flesche that their hertes might be conforted when they are knyt together in loue, and in al riches of ful vnderstandyng, for to knowe the mystery of God the father and of Christ, in whome are hpd all the treasures of wysdome & knowlage.

* This I saue, lest any man shoulde begyle you with entislyng wordes. For though I be absēt in the flesche, yet am I wyth you in the spiryte, ioyeng and beholdyng your order, and your sted-fast fayth in Christ. As ye haue therfore recea-ued Christ Jesu the Lord, euen so walke ye in hym, so that ye be rooted and buylte in hym, & stablyshed thozowe faythe, as ye haue learned: and therein be plenteous with geuyng thanks.

* Beware, lest any man spopi you thozow philosophye and dyceitfull vanitye, after the tradycion of men, & after the ordynances of the world, and not after Christ. For in him dwelleth

dweller hall the fulness of the godhead habde and ye are compleit in hym. tosch is the head of all rule and power. by whome also ye are created. and circumsised. which is done without handes. for all maner of ye have put of the synfull bodye of the fleshe thowhe ye circumcission that is in Chyriste. in that ye are buryed wyth hym thowhe baptyme. in whome ye are also risen agayne thowhe faith. is wroughte by the operacyon of God. which caused him to be deare.

* And ye when ye were dead thowhe synne and thowhe the vncircumcission of your fleshe hadde quickened with hym. and hath forgue vs all our trespasses. And hath put oute the bande wypryng that was agaynst vs. contained in the lawe written. and that hath be taken out of the waye. & hath fastened it to his crosse. and hath spoiled rule and power. and hath made a thewe of them openly and hath triumphed ouer them in his owne persone.

Let no man therefore trouble your conscience aboute meate and drinke or for a peece of an holy day. or of the newe moone. or of the Sabboth days. which are shadowes of thynges to come but the bodye is in Chyriste. Let no man make you shooat at a wyonge marke by the humble-nes and holynes of aungels. in thynges which be neuer sawe. beynge causeles putt up with his fleshye minde. and holberth not the heade. wher of all the bodye by ioyntes and couples receaueth nourymente and is knyt together. and en-creaseth wyth the encreasynge that cometh of God. Wherefore yf ye be deade wyth Chyriste from the * ordynauces of the woelde. why as thowhe ye yet lyued in the woelde. are ye ledde wyth tradicions. Touchenot. taste not. handell not: whyche all pertyne thowhe the verpe a duse. after the comman. idementes and doctrines of men. Whiche thynges outwardely haue the similitude of the wysdome by supersticy-on and humblenes of minde. and by buryng of the body. and in that they do the fleshe no wo-gyp vnto the rede therof.

The iii. Chapter.

He putteth them in remembrance of the spiritual resurrection unto the albe al maner of corrupt lymyng. to be frutefull in al godlynes and vertue. and sheweth al degrees theyr durye.

If ye bee then rplen agayne with Chyriste seke those thynges whiche are aboue. where Chyriste sitteth on the ryghte hand of God. Set your affection on heuelly thynges. and not on earthly thynges. For ye are deade. and your lyfe is hid w Chyriste in God. Whensoever Chyriste. whiche is our life. shal thewe himself. then shal ye al so appere with him in glory. For this cause therfore your earthly members: fornicacion. vnclenes. vnnatural lust. euil concupiscence. & conerousnes. which is wo:shipping of ydols: for which thynges sake f wrath of God vleepe to come on the disobedient chyldre among whom ye walked somtyme. when ye lyued in them.

But now put ye also away from you al suche thynges: wrath. fearnes. maliciounes. cursed swearing. fylthy communicacion. out of your mouth. Lye not one to another. syngre that ye haue put of the olde man with his wothes. and haue put on the newe ma whiche is renewed into the knowlage and pimage of hym that made hym. * whiche is neither Gentyl nor Jewe. nor circumcision nor vncircumcision. Barbarous. or Sythian. bond or fre but Chyriste is al in al thynges. * Therefore as electe of God. holy and be-loued put on tender mercye. humylnes. humble-nes of mynde. mekenes. long sufferynge so bea-ryng one another. and forgeyunge one another if any haue a quarel agaynst another: as Chyriste forgaue you. euen so do ye. Thowhe al these thynges put on * loue which is the bonde of perfectnes. And the peace of god rule in your hartes to the whiche peace ye are called in one body. And be that ye be thankfull. Let the woordes of Chyriste dwell in you plenteously with all wysdome.

Teach and exhorte your owne selues: in Psalmes and himnes. and spiritual songes singynge wyth grace in your hartes to the Lorde. And what soeuer ye do (in woerde or deede) do all in the name of the Lorde Jesu. geuyng thanks to God the father by hym. *

* Ye wyues. submytte youre selues vnto your owne husbandes. as it is comelye in the Lorde: Ye husbandes. loue your wyues and be not bitter vnto them. * Ye chyldren. obeye your fathers and mothers in all thynges. for that is well pleasyng vnto the Lorde. Ye fathers. pro-uide not your chyldren: (to anger.) lest they be of a desperate mynde. * Ye seruantes be obedyent vnto them that are your lordely masters in al thynges: not with eye seruyce as men please but in siglenes of hart fearing God. And what soeuer ye do. do it hertelye. as thowhe ye dyd it to the Lorde. and not vnto men: knowynge. that of the Lorde ye shall receyue the reward of inherytaunce. for ye serue the Lorde Chyriste. But he that doth syn. shal receyue for his synne. * Rep-ther is there any respect of persons. (with God.)

The liii. Chapter.

He exhorteth them to be seruent in prayer. to walke wysely vnto the that ar not yet come to the tru knowlage of Chyriste: and salueth them.

Masters do vnto your seruantes that whyche is iuste and equall knowynge that ye also haue a mapster in heauen.

* Continue in prayer. and watche in the same wyth thanks geuyng. prayng also for vs. * that God maye open vnto vs the doze of vterraunce. that we may speake the mystery of Chyriste (wherefore I am also in bonds) that I maye vter it. as it becommeth me to speake.

* Walkie wisely toward the that ar without. & lose no oportynyte. Let your spech be alwayes well sauoyed and powdyed w sale. that ye maye know. how ye ought to answer eury man.

Of all my dulynes shall ye be certyfied by Tychicus. the beloued brother & faythfull my-nyster. and selow seruant in the Lorde. who I haue sente vnto you for the same pourpose. & he myght knowe what ye doo and that ye myght comforte your hartes wyth one Onesimus a faythfull and beloued brother: whiche is one of your

you. They shall be to you of all things. which are a daying here. * Tristarcus my personell saluteth you, and * Marcus Barnabas my sonne touchyng whom, ye receaved commande-mentes. If he come vnto you, receave hym: and Jesus whiche is called Justus, which are of the circumcised. These only are my worke felowes vnto the kingdome of god which haue ben vnto my consolacyon. * Epaphras the seruante of Christ. (which is one of you) saluteth you, & alwaies laboureth feruently for you in prayer, & ye may stande perfect and full, in all the wyl of God. For I beare hym record, that he hath a feruent mynde for you and them that are of Laodicea and them that are of hierapolis. Dete Lucas the phisicion greeteth you, & Demas. Salute the bretheren which are of Laodicea, and salute Symphas, and the congregacyon, which is in his house. And whē the Epystle is red of you make that it be red also in the congregacyon of the Laodiceans: and that ye lykewyls rede the Epystle of Laodicea. And saye to Archippas: take hede to the offyce which thou hast receaved in the Lord: that thou fulfyll it. The salutation by hand of me Paul: remembre my bondes the grace (of our Lorde Iesu Christ) be with you. Amen.

and Onesimus.

The firste Epystle of S. Paule the Apostle vnto the Thessalonians.

The first Chapter.

He thanketh God for them that they are so stedfast in faythe and good wythes, & receiue the gospell with such earnestnes.

Paul and Siluanus and Ty-mothe. Vnto the congrega-cyon of the Thessalonians, in god the father, and in the Lord Jesus Christ.

* Grace bee vnto you, and peace frome God our father, and fro the Lord Iesu Christ.

We geue God thankes alwayes for you all, makinge mencyon of you in oure prayers without ceasing, and cal you to remembrance because of the worke of your fayth, and labour in the Lord, and because ye haue continued in the hope of our Lorde Iesu Christ, in the spych of God our father. * We knowe bretheren, (beloued of God) howe that ye are electe. For oure Gospell came not vnto you by the word only, but also by power, and by the holy ghoſte, and by muche certayntye, as ye knowe, after what maner we behaued our selues among you for your sakes. * And ye became folowers of vs and of the Lord, receyving the word with muche affliction with toye of the holpe ghoſte: so that ye were an ensample to all that believe in Macedonia & Achaia. For from you sounded out the word of the Lord, not in Macedonia and in Achaia onely: but your fayth also by the power of God, which he selleth abrode in all quarters, so that it needeth not to speake any thing at all. For they receiued shew of what maner of entering in, we had vnto you & howe ye turned to God from ymag-es, for to serue the liuing and true God, and for to looke for his sonne from heauen, whome he raised fro death: Ieuen Iesus, whiche deliuereth vs from the wrath to come.

The ii. Chapter.

He pertaineth them in mynde of the godly commutation that he had in our behalfe (when he preached the Gospell vnto them) thanking God that they receiue his word so faithfully: and reuerendly as before.

Knowe ye our entraunce in vnto you, howe that it was not in vaine but even after that we had suffered before, and were shamefully enter-ted at Philippias (as ye knowe) then were we holde in our God, to speake vnto you the Gos-pell of God, in much stryuing. For our exhor-tacyon was not to bypasse you to erreour, nor yet to vncleannes neither was it tophylle: but as we were allowed of God, & the Gospell shalbe be commytted vnto vs: euen so we speake, not as they that please men, but God tryeth our herthes. Neither led we our commutation at any tyme with flattering wordes, as ye knowe: neither by occasyon of couetousnes. * God is recorde: neither sought we prayse of men neither of you, nor yet of any other, when we myght haue bene in auctoritie, as the Apostles of Christ, but we were tender amonge you, euen as a nurse cherisheth her chyldren, so were we affectioned toward you, oure good wyl was to haue deſire vnto you, not the Gospell of God onely: but also our owne soules because ye were deere vnto vs.
* We remembre bretheren our labour, and tra-uayle. * For we laboured day & nyght because we woulde not be chargeable vnto any of you and preached vnto you the Gospell of God. Ye are wytnesses, & so is God, howe holliſe and iu-stely & vnblymeably we behaued our selues emong you that beleued as ye knowe, howe that we beare suche affection vnto every one of you as a father doth vnto his chyldren, exhortyng cofortyng, and besechyng you: that ye woulde walke worthy of God, whiche hath called you vnto his kyngdome and glorie.

For this cause thanke we God also with oute ceasing, because that when ye receaved of vs the word (wherewith ye learned to know God) ye receaved it not as the word of man: but euen as it was in dede, the word of God, which worketh also in you that beleue.

For ye bretheren became folowers of the congregacions of God: whiche in Iewye are in Christ Iesu: for ye haue suffred lyke thynges of your kynemen, as we our selues haue suffered of the Jewes. Whiche as they kylled the Lorde Iesus, and theyr owne prophets, euen so haue they persecuted vs, and God they please not, and are contrary to all men and hinder vs that we shuld not speke vnto the Gentils that they myght be saued to fulfyll theyr syn-nes.

by the name of our Lorde Jesu Christ * whiche hath for vs: that whether we wake or sleepe, we shulde lye together wth hym.

Wherefore, comforte your selues together and exhorte euery one another, euen as ye do. * We beleue pou brethren, that ye knowe the * whiche laboure amonge you & haue the ouersight of you in the Lorde, and geue you exhortacion, that ye haue them in hye reputacyon thozowe loue, for there workes sake, and be at peace wth them.

Wille desyre you (brethren) warne them that are vncirly, comforte the feble mynked, lyfte vp the weake, be pacient towardes all men. * Be y none recompence euil for euil vnto any ma: but euer folowe that whiche is good, both amonge your selues, & to al men. * Receyue euery. * Praye continually. In all thynges geue thanks. For this is the wyl of God thozowe Christ Jesu to-warde you. Quete not the spyt. * Despyse not prophecyes. Examine all thynges, kepe that whiche is good. Abstayne from all euell apper-raunce. The verpe God of peace sanctifye you thozowe our. And I praye God that youre hole spyte, and soule and body, maye be plesered: so that in nothyng ye maye be blamed in the commyng of our Lorde Jesu Christ.

* Raythful is he which called you, which wyl also do it. Brethren, praye for vs. * Grete al y thyng wth an holpe lyfte. I charge you in the Lorde, that this Epistle be rede vnto the holpe brethren. * The grace of the Lord Jesu Christ be wth you. Amen.

The first Epistle vnto the Thessalonians was wyrtten from Athens.

The secōde Epistle of saynet Paule the Apostle to the Thessalonians.

The first Chapter.

The thanketh God for theyr fath and loue, and prayeth for the increase of the same.

Paul and Siluanus and Timo-theus. Vnto the congregacyon of the Thessalonians in God our father, and in the Lorde Jesu Christ. * Grace be vnto you and peace from God our father, and from the Lorde Jesu Christ.

We are bounde to * thank God alwayes for you brethren (as it is mete) because y your fayth groweth excedyngly, & euery one of you swym-meth in loue toward another betwene your sel-ues, so that we oure selues boaste of you in the congregacions of God, ouer your pacient and fayth in al youre persecutions and tribulacions, that ye suffre, whiche is a token of the ryghteous iudgement of God, that ye are counted worthy of the kyngdom of God, for whiche ye also suffre.
It is verely a ryghteous thinge with God that he receyue tribulacion to them y trouble you: & to you which are troubled, rest with vs, when the Lord Jesu shal speake hym selfe fro heauen with y Angels of his power, with flaming fyre whiche shal render vengeance vnto them that knowe not God, & and that obeye not the Gos-pell of our Lorde Jesu Christ, * whiche shal be punished wth euerylastyng damnacyō, from y presence of the Lorde, and from the glory of his power, * when he shal come to be glorified in his sayntes, & to become marvellous in all them that beleue: because our testimonye that we had to you, was beleued euen the same day. * Wherefore, also we praye alwayes for you, your God wyl make you worthy of this calling and fulfill all delectacyon of goodnes and the woiche of sayth, with power: that the name of our lorde Jesu Christ maye be glorified by you, and ye by hym accordyng to the grace of our God, and of the Lorde Jesu Christ.

The ii. Chapter.

The comforteth them, that the daye of the Lorde shal not come tyll the departyng from the earth come first, and therefore he exhort-eth them not to be offeended but to stande faste in the chynges that he hath taught them.

We beseech you (brethren) by the commyng of our Lorde Jesu Christ, & in that we shal assemble vnto him that ye be not suddenly moued from your mynde, nor be troubled, neyther by spete, neyther by woordes, nor yet by letter, which shuld seme to come fro vs, as though the daye of Christ were at hande. Let no man de-ceave you by any meanes, for the Lorde shal not come except ther come a departyng fyre, and that y synfull man be opened, the sonne of perdycion, whiche is an aduersarye: & is exalted aboue all, that is called God, or that is worshipped: so that he both lyt in the temple of God, boaste y hym selfe to be God.

Remember ye not, that whē I was yet with you, I tolde you these thynges: And now ye knowe what withholdeth euen that he myght be uttered at this tyme. * For y mystery of y iniqui-tye doth already worke: tyl he which nowe only letteth, be taken oute of the waye. And then shall that wycked be uttered, * whom the Lorde shal consume wth the spete of his mouth, and shal destroye wth the apperaunce of his commyng: I euen hym whose commyng is after the workyng of Satban, wth hall lyenge power & synnes and wonders and with al decea-blenes of vnrightheousnesse, amonge them that perysh: because they receaued not the loue of the truth, that they myght be saued. * And therfore God shal sende them stronge delusion, that they shulde beleue lyes: that all they myght be damned: which beleued not the truth: but had pleasure in vnrightheousnes.

But we are bounde to geue thanks alwaye to God for you (brethren beloued of the Lorde) for because that God hath from the begynnyng chosen you to saluacyon, thozowe sanctifyng of the spete, and thozowe deluyng of y truty, whereunto he called you by oure Gospell to ob-tayne the glorye of our Lorde Jesu Christ.

Therfore brethren stande faste, and kepe y ordynances which ye haue learned: whether it were by oure preachyng, or by Epistle. Oure Lorde

Lozde Iesu Chyſt hym ſelfe, and God and oure father, whych hath loued vs, and hath geue vs curioſynge conſolacion, and good hope thowthe grace, conſorte your bettes, and ſtablyſhe you in all good ſapenſe and doryng.

C The .iii. Chapter.

The beſtyeth them to praye for hym, that the ſchylde maye praye, and geue the wordes to praye the poſt, & if they maye not labour with theyr hande, & they ſhall not praye.

In the wordes of God maye haue paſſage, and be gloryed, as it is alſo with you, and ſo we may be deliuered from vnrational & ſrowarde men. For all men haue not ſapth: but the Lozde is ſapthfull, whych ſhall ſtablyſhe you, & pieterne you fro euill. We haue conſydence thowthe the Lozde to youwarde, that ye both do, & wyll do the thynges whych we commaunde you. And the Lozde gyfte your bettes to the loue of God and to the patient waytynge for Chyſt.

We requyre you byethen by the name of oure Lozde Iesu Chyſt, & ye withouthe youre ſelues from euery byother, & behaue hym ſelfe inoſdynatly, and not after the inſtitutis, whych he receaued of vs. For ye youre ſelues knowe, howe ye oughte to folowe vs. For we behaue not our ſelues inoſdynatly amonge you. Repether toke we bread of any man for nought: but wought with labour & ſweate nyght & daye becauſe we wolde not be chargeable to anye of you: not but ſo we had aucthoryte: but to make our ſelues an enſample vnto you to folowe vs. For when we were wyth you, thys we warned you of, that yf any wolde not worke, the ſame ſhulde not eate.

For we haue hearde ſaye, that there are ſome whych walke amonge you inoſdynatly, wolyphge at not all, but beyng buſybodyes. That are ſuche, we commaunde and exhort, by oure Lozde Iesu Chyſt, that they worke wyth quyetnes, & eate theyr owne breade: & byethen be not ye worke in well doryng. If any man obey not our ſapenſe: ſende vs wordes of hym by a letter: and haue no company wyth hym, that he maye be aſhamed. And count hym not as an enemy but warne hym as a byother.

The verpe Lozde of peace geue you peace alwayes, by al meanes. The Lozde be wyth you al. The ſalutacyon of me Paule wyth myne owne hande. Thys is the token in all Epistles. So I wyte. The grace of oure Lozde Iesu Chyſt be wyth you al. Amen.

C The fyrſte Epistle of Apouſt Paule vnto Tymothe.

C The fyrſt Chapter.

The apoſtoll Paule to write hym to Tymothe, to ſaye & to praye for hym, & to geue hym the wordes of God. The wordes alſo ſubſtance the ſapth to god, & ſapth & Chyſt Iesu came in to the world to ſapth ſoules.

In an Epistle of Iesu Chyſt by the commiſſion of God our ſapour and Lozde Iesu Chyſt, & which is our hope. Vnto Tymothe by natuall ſonne in the ſapth.

Grace, mercy, and peace fro God our father, and from the Lozde Iesu Chyſt our Lozde.

As I belonge the to abyde ſpyll at Eubelus (when I departed into Macedonia) eue ſo do, that thou commaunde ſome, that they folowe no ſtraunge doctryne, neyther geue hede to ſables and endles genealogyes, whych bye doners moze then Godly doctrynge whych is by ſapth: for the ende of the commaundement is loue oute of a pure harte, and of a good conſcience, and of ſapth vnfayned: from the whych thynges, becauſe ſome haue erred, they are turned vnto vayne ſangelynge, becauſe they wolde be doctours of ſcience & yet vnderſtand not what they ſpeake, neyther wherof they abyde.

We knowe, that the lawe is good, yf a man vſe it lawfully: knowynge thys, howe the lawe is not geuen vnto a ryghteous man, but vnto the vnyghteous and dylobediente, to the vngodly and to ſynners, to vnholy and vncleane: to murderers of fathers, & murderers of mothers, to manſlayers, to whozemongers: to them that deſpyle them ſelues with mankynde: to manſelars: to lyars: to perjured, and yf ther be any other thyng that is contrary to the whole ſome doctryne, accorpyng to the Goſpell of the glory of the bleſſed God, whych Goſpell is comimpyted vnto me.

And I thache Chyſt Iesu our Lozde, whych hath made me ſtronger: for he counted me true, & put me in offyce, where as befoze I was a blaſphemer, & a perſecuter, and a tyant. But yet I obtayned mercy, becauſe I dyd it ignorantly thowowe vndeſe. Therfore, & grace of our Lozde was exceeding aboundant wyth ſapth and loue, which is in Chyſt Iesu.

This is a true ſapenſe (and by all meanes) doctryne to be receaued of vs: that Chyſt Iesu came into the world, to ſaue ſynners, of whiche I am chefe. Not withſtandynge for this cauſe obtayned I mercy, that Iesu Chyſt ſhulde ſpyte ſapth on me all longe pacenſe, to declare an enſample vnto the whych ſhulde beleue on hym vnto eternall lyfe. So then vnto God, kyng euerlaſtyng, immortal, & vnyſyble, wyſe ouerly, be honoure and prayſe for ever and euer. Amen.

This commaundement comyt I vnto the ſome Tymotheus accorpyng to the prophecies, which in tyme paſt were prophesied of the, & thou in them ſhuldeſt ſpyte a good ſpyghte, & apynge ſapth & good conſcience: which ſome haue put awaye from them, and as cheryngge ſapth haue made thys ſach. Of whoſe nolye is hymerus and Alexander, whome I haue deliuered vnto Satan, that they maye learne not to blaſpheme.

C The .ii. Chapter.

The apoſtoll Paule to praye for all men, he wyll not haue men to be ouer cutly apparied, nor to teach in the congreſſion, but to be in ſeyner, and to chape theyr huſbandes.

Exhorte therfore, that aboue al thynges, prayers, ſupplicacyons, interceſſyons, and gruynges of churches be hadde for all men: for kynges, and and for all that are in the world: that we may lyne a quete & peaceable lyfe, wth all honesty nes and honesty. For it is good and acceptable in the syght of God our sauyoure, which w<sup>ill</sup> haue all me to be saued, and to come vnto the knowledge of the truth. For there is * one God, and one mediatour, betwene God and man, euen the man Christ Iesus, which gaue hym selfe a reddemptioun for all men, & it shoulde be testyfyed at hys tyme, * whereunto I am ordayned a preacher & an Apostle. I tel the truth in Christ and lye not:

beynge the teacher of the Gentyles wth sayth and veritie. **¶

B I w<sup>ill</sup> therfore that the men * praye euerye where, lyfing v<sup>er</sup> pure harts wthout w<sup>at</sup>- chynge, & doubtyng. & the wemen, that they araye them selues in comely apparell wth shamefastnes and discrete behauioure, not w<sup>at</sup>- chynge, but as becometh wemen, & professe godlynesse thowthe good workes. * Let the woma learne in silence wth al subiectiō. But I suffre not a woman to teache, nether to vsurpe auctho-ryte ouer the man: but to be in seplece. For Idd was fyrste fourmed, & the Eve. Adam also was not decreaued, but the woma was decreaued, and was subdued to the transgression. For w<sup>at</sup>chynge thowthe hearyng of chyldren the shal be saued, & they contynue in sayth and loue, and holynes, wth dyscrecyon.

¶ The. iii. Chapter.

¶ What maner of man a byshoppe of p<sup>er</sup>fect ought to be.
The properties also requyred in a deacon of mynster.

Bys is a true sayenge: If a man de-syre the offyce of a Byshoppe, he de-syreth an honeste worke. A Byshop therfore must be blameles, the husbande of one wyfe, dysp<sup>er</sup>gent, sober, dyscrete, a keeper of hospitalyte: apte to teache: not geue to ouer much wyne, no fyghter, nor gredy of syllyb<sup>er</sup> lucre: but gentell, abhoryng fyghtyng, abhoryng conetousnes, one that ruleth well hys owne house, one that hath chyldren in subiection wth al reuerence. For if a man can not rule hys owne house, howe shal he care for the congregaciō of God? he maye not be a p<sup>er</sup>ge scoler, lest he swel and fall into the iudgemente of the euell speaker. He must also haue a good rep<sup>er</sup>te of them which are wthout, lest he fall into rebuke, and snare of the euell speaker.

Lphewyse must the mynsters be * honeste not double tonged, not geuen vnto muche wyne nether greedy of syllyb<sup>er</sup> lucre: but holdyng a p<sup>er</sup>- fecte of the sayth wth a pure conspencye. And let them lye to be proued, & then let the mynster so, that no man be able to reproue them.

Euen so must their wyues be honest, not euell speakers: but sober and saythfull in al thynges.
Let the deacons be the husbandes of one wyfe, and suche as rule theyr chyldren well, and theyr owne householdes. For they that mynster wel get them selues a good degre & great lyberty in the sayth, w<sup>ch</sup> is in Christ Iesu.

These thynges wyte I vnto the trustyng to come sp<sup>er</sup>itly vnto the: but and if I tarye longe that thou mayest yet haue knowledg, that thou oughtest to be done the l<sup>et</sup>te in the house of God, & in the congregaciō of the synners.

God our sauyour is a geuener of tyme. And w<sup>at</sup>chynge thowthe geue is that mynster of God.
God was geuen to the l<sup>et</sup>te, and w<sup>at</sup>chynge the sp<sup>er</sup>ite, was sene amonge the synners, was preached vnto the Gentyles, was beleued on in the world, and receaued v<sup>er</sup> in gloire.

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

¶ The propheth of the latter dayes, and exhortaciō to be diligent in studyng of the holye scriptures.

The sp<sup>er</sup>ite spea keth evidently, that * in the latter tymes some shal * departe from the sayth, & shal geue hede vnto sp<sup>er</sup>ites of erreure, and deuelys the doctrynes of the wyche speake false thowthe p<sup>er</sup>- ceptiue, & haue theyr conspencye marchid wth an hoothe p<sup>er</sup>son, for bydyng to marie, and commaunding to abstayne fro meates: w<sup>ch</sup> God hath created to be receaued wth geuyng thankes, of them w<sup>ch</sup> beleue, & knowe the truthe.
For * all the creatures of God are good, and nothyng to be refused, if it be receaued wth thankes geuyng. For it is sanctified by the worde of God and prayer. If thou put the biethen in remembraunce of these thynges thou shalt be a good mynster of Iesu Christ: w<sup>ch</sup> hath bene noystrid v<sup>er</sup> in the wordes of the saythe and of good doctryne, w<sup>ch</sup> thou halte contynuallye folowed. But * call wape vngodlye and olde w<sup>at</sup>chynge fables.

Excepte thy selfe rather vnto godlynes. For * hodely excepte p<sup>er</sup>fecteth lytell: but godlynes is p<sup>er</sup>fectable vnto al thynges, as a thyng whiche hath the p<sup>er</sup>omys of the l<sup>et</sup>te that is nowe, and of the l<sup>et</sup>te to come. Thys is a sure sayenge, and by all meanes w<sup>at</sup>chynge to be alowed. For therfore we both laboure and suffre rebuke, because we haue a stedfast hoope in the l<sup>et</sup>te of God, whiche is the saure sure of all men, sp<sup>er</sup>callye of those that beleue. Such thynges commaunde & teache. * Let no man despyle thy p<sup>er</sup>son: but be vnto them that beleue, an ensample, in word, in couersaciō, in loue, in sp<sup>er</sup>ite, in faith, in purenes.

Eyll I come, geue attendaunce to readyng, to exhortaciō, to doctryne. Despyle not & gyfte that is in the, which was geuen the thowthe p<sup>er</sup>- p<sup>er</sup>cepte, wth the layeng * on of handes by & authorities of p<sup>er</sup>fecthode. These thynges excepte, & geue thy selfe vnto them, & it maye be sene howe thou p<sup>er</sup>fectest in all thynges. Take hede vnto thy selfe, and vnto learnyng, & continue therein.
For if thou shalt so do, thou shalt saue thy selfe, and them that heare the.

to p<sup>er</sup>fecthode.

Re buke not an elder, rygozously: but exhorthe hym as a father: the yonger

The seconde Epistle of the Apostle Saynt Paul vnto Timothee.

The first Chapter.

Paul the Apostle Timothy to Timothy and Timothy to Paul in the first Chapter, and to Timothy in the second Chapter that he had taught him. A commendation of Timothy.

Aul an Apostle of Iesus Christ by the will of God, accordyng to the promys of Ihesu, whiche is in Christe Iesu. To Tymothee hys beloued sonne, Grace, mercy, and peace, fro God the father, & from Iesu Christ our Lozde.

I thanke God, * whom I serue from myne elders with pure conscience, & without any cra-ying I make mencion of the in my prayers night and daye, desyryng to se the, myndfull of thy rea-res: so that I am spiled with ioye, whē I call to reminbraunce the vnsayned sayth that is in y, whiche dwelt fyrst in thy graundemother Lois, and in thy mother Eunice: & I am assured that it dwelleth in the also.

Wherfore I warne the that thou stee by the gyst of God which is in the, * by the putting on of my bandes. * For God hath not geuen to vs smyere of feare: but of power, and of loue, and of sobenes. * Be not thou therfore ashamed of the testimony of our Lozde, neither be ashamed of me * whiche am hys prisoner: but suffer thou aduersitye to the Gospell, accordyng to the power of God, whiche * laued vs, & called vs with an holy calling, not accordyng to our dedes, but accor-dyng to hys owne purpose & grace: which was geue vs thowwe Christ Iesu (before the world begane) but is nowe declared openly by the appearynge of our sauoure Iesu Christ, * whiche hath put a way death, & hath broughte lyfe and immortalite vnto lyghte thowwe the Gospell:

* wherunto I am appoynted a preacher & Apostle, and a teacher of the Gentyles: for the which cause I also suffer these thynges: Heretofore, I am not ashamed. For I knowe and am sure, that he (in whome I haue put my trust) is able to kepe that which I haue committed to his kepyng agaynst that daye.

Wherfore I haue the ensample of the bolosome wozdes, which I haue hearde of me with sayth & loue that is in Christe Iesu. That good thyng whiche was comyted to thy kepyng, holde fast thowwe the holpe goost, which dwelleth in vs.
This I knowest, holwe I all they whiche are in Asia, he turned from me: of which sorte are Pbilus & Hermogenes. The Lozde geue mercy vnto the household of Onesiphorus: for he ofte refresed me, * & was not ashamed of my chayne: but when he was at Rome, he sought me out verie diligently, & founde me. The Lozde graunt vnto hym that he may fynd mercy with the Lozde at y day. And in how many thynges he ministered vnto me as Epheus, thou knowest very well.

The ii. Chapter.

As in the first Chapter, so here he is called to be content in his laboure, to suffer many, and to abide fast in the holme doctrine of our Lozde Iesus Christ.

Don therfore my sonne, be strong in the grace (that is thowwe Christ Ie-su) and in the thynges that thou haue hearde of me by many wyrtes. The same comyted thou * to saye vnto men, whiche shalbe apte to teache other also. Then therfore suffer all thynges as a good souldier of Iesus Christ. A man that warreth, entangleth hym selfe with worldly busynes, and that becometh inapt to teache hym whiche hath chosen hym to be a souldier. And though he a man stryue for a master, yet is he not crowned, except he stryue lawfully. * The husbandman that laboureth, muste fyrst receaue of the frutes. Consyder what I saye. The Lozde geue the vnderstandynge in al thynges. I.

Remember that Iesus Christ * of the seide of David, rose agayne from death accordyng to my Gospell, wherin I suffer trouble as an euell doer, euen vnto bondes. But the woerde of God was not bounde. Therfore * I suffer al thynges for the electes sakes, that they myghte also ob-tayne the saluacion, whiche is in Christe Iesu, with eternal gloze. It is a true sayenge * for yf we be deade with hym, we shall also lyue with hym. * yf we be pacyente, we shall also raygne with hym. * yf we denye hym, he also shall de-nye vs. yf we beleue not, yet abyrdeth he sayth-full. He cannot denye hym selfe. Of these thynges put them in remembrance, and testifie before the Lozde, that they folowe no contempuous wozdes: whiche are to no profyte, but to the peruertynge of the hearers.

Strady to shewe thy selfe laudable vnto God, & a workman * nedeth not to be ashamed of strybutynge the woerde of trueth iustly. * As for vngodly vanytyes of voyces, passe thou ouer the.
For they wyll encrease vnto greater vngodly-nes, & they wozdes shal fret euen as docthe the pyle ale of a canere: of whose nombze is * hymenens and philetus, whiche (as concernynge the trueth) haue erred, sayenge: that the resurreccion is past already, and do destrope the saythe of some. But the sure ground of God standeth styl and hath this seale: * the Lozde knoweth them y are dys. And let every ma that calleth on y name of Christ, depart from iniquyte. For wyrtys an dyng: in a great house are not onely vessels of golde, and of syluer, but also of wood & of earthe some for honoure, and some vnto dishonoure. yf a man therfore pourege hym selfe from such men, he shalbe a vessel sanctyfyed vnto honoure, mete for the vles of the Lozde, and prepared vnto all good wozkes.

Lustres of youth auoyde, but folow ryghtenes, sayth, loue and peace, with them that cal on the Lozde with a pure herte. * Foolyshe and vn-learned questyons put from the, knowyng, that they do but geue stryfe. The seruait of y Lozde muste not stryue: but be gentle vnto all men * apte to teache, and one that can suffer the euell with meekenes, & can * infozme the that respyte of the name of yf that God at any tyme wyll geue them repentance, for to knowe the trueth: and that they maye come to them selues agayne out lik in of the 25 I am no more ready to be offered, and the time of my departing was hāde. I haue fought a good fight, I haue fulfilled my course. I haue kept the faith. From hence forth there is layde up for me a crowne of righteousnes, which the Lorde (that is a righteous iudge) shall grue me at þat day: not to me onely, but vnto all them also that loue his commynge. Doe thy diligence that thou mayest come forth vnto me.

For Demas hath forsaken me, and leaueth this present world, and is departed vnto Thelsalonica: Crescens is gone to Galacia, Titus vnto Dalmacia. Onely Lucas is with me.
Take* hache, and bynge hym with the, for he is profitable vnto me for the minystracye. And Tychicus haue I sent to Ephefus. The clocke þ I left at Troada with Carpus (when thou commest) bynge with þ, and þ haken, but specially the parchment. Alexandre the cooper smyth by me muche well: the Lorde rewarde hym accord-ynge to his dedes, of whom be thou ware also.
For he hath greatly wronged our wordes.

At my spylle aunswerpnge: no man assysted me, but al forsoke me. I praye God, that it may not be layde to theyr charges: For worth an dyngge the Lord assysted me, and strengthed me, that by me the preachyngge shoulde be fulfilled to the veremoost, and that all the Gentyles shoulde heare. And I was deliuered out of the mouth of the Lyon. And the Loyde shall deliuer me from all euill doynge, and shal kepe me vnto his beauently kyngdome: To whome be prayse for ever and ever. Amen. I

Salute Iuliana and * Aquila, and the household of Onesiphorus: Crastus abode at Corinthum. * Tryphimus haue I left at Miletum speke. Do thy diligence, that thou mayest come before wynter. Eubolus greteyth the, and so doth Prudens & Linus: Claudia, and at the byrthzen. The Lorde Iesus Christe be wyth thy spete. Grace be wyth you. Amen.

Paul the Apostle of Iesu Christe and brother Timothe.

Unto Whilimon the beloued, and oure deiser, and to the beloued Appia, & to Archippus our felowe labourer & to the congregation that is of thy house.

Col. 1. 1.

* Grace be vnto you and peace, fro God oure father, and from the Lord Iesu Christ.

I thanke my God, making mencyn on al wayes of my prayers, when I heare of thy lone and sayth, which thou hast toward & Lord Iesu & toward all saynctes, so & the felowshipp of thy sayth is frutefull in & knowledge of euery good which is in you toward Iesu Christe, for we haue great ioye and consolacion in thy lone: because that by the (brother) the saynctes hertes are comforted.

Col. 1. 2.

Wherfore, though I might be holde in Christ to commaunde the & whych was thy deute to do yet for loue sake I rather beseeche the, though I be as I am, euen olde man, & nowe a prisoner of Iesu Christ. I beseeche & for my sonne. Whelimus whom I haue begotten in my bondes, (whiche in tyme passed was to & vnproftable but now profitabill both to & and to me) who I haue sente home agayne. Thou therfore receaue hym, his to save myne owne bowels, whome I wold sayne haue retayned to me, & in thy stede he might haue ministered vnto me in & bondes of & Gospel. Nevertheless, wout thy mynd wold I do nothing, & the good which I doest, woulde not be as it were of necessity, but wyllynge.

For hapely he therfore departed for a season, & thou wouldest receaue him for ever, not now as a seruant, but as a seruante, euen a brother deuis, specially to me, but howe muche more vnto the, both in & flesh, & also in the Lord. If thou count me therfore a felowe, receaue him as my selfe. If he haue done the any hurt, or owesth the pugger, & laye to my charge. (I wold haue wyttent it wth myne owne hande) I wyl re-compence it. So that I do not save to the, howe that thou owesth vnto me euen thyne owne selfe also. Euf to brother, let me enioye the in & Lord. Comforte my bowels in & Lord. Trustynge in thyne obedyence: I wrote vnto the, knowynge, that & wylt also do moze then I say: Wostowre pious me lodgyng, for I truste that thou wolt the helpe of your prayers. I wold be geuen vnto you. Ther salute the, Epaphras my felowe prisoner in Christ Iesu, Marcus, Tristarcus, Demas, Lucas, my helpers. The grace of our Lord Iesu Christ be wth your spete. Amen.

Paul the Apostle vnto the Hebrewes.

The first Chapter.

Paul the Apostle vnto the Hebrewes. The first Chapter.

God in tyme past dyuerly & many wayes spake vnto & fathers by Prophets: but in these laste dayes he hath spoken vnto vs by his owne sonne, whome he hath made heye of all thynges, & by who also he made & world.

* Which (sonne) beynge the byghenes of his glory, and the very ymage of his substance rulyng all thynges wth the worde of his power, hath by his owne person pouerged oure synnes, and sterteth on the ryght hand of the maiesty on hye: beynge so much moze excellent then the aungels, as he hath by indertytaunce obtayned a moze excellent name then they.

For vnto which of the aungels sayde he at any tyme. * Thou arte my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the. And agayne, * I wyl be thy father, and he shalbe my sonne. And agayne, when he byngeth in the first begotten sonne into the world, he sayth: * And let all & aungels of God worshippe him. And vnto the aungels he sayth * he maketh his aungels spetes, and bys mynsters a flamme of fyre. But vnto the sonne he sayth: * Thy seat (o God) shalbe for ever & ever. The scepter of thy kingdome is a ryght scepter. Thou hast loued ryghteousnes, & hated iniquity. Wherfore, God, euf thy God hath anoynted the wth the oyle of gladnes aboue thy felowes.

* And thou Lord in the begynnyng hast layd the foundation of the earth, and the heauens are the workes of thy handes. They shall perishe, but thou endurest, and they all shall waxe olde also as doth a garment, and as a vesture shalt thou chaunge them, & they shalbe chainged. But thou art eue the same & thy yeres shal not faile. * Vnto which of & aungels sayd he at any tyme: * Wyt on my ryght hande, tyll I make thys enemyes thy foostole. Are they not all mynsters & spetes, & are sent to mynster, for they shalbe wthch shalbe deys of saluacion.

The ii. Chapter.

Paul the Apostle vnto the Hebrewes. The second Chapter.

Wherfore he ought to geue the moze earnestly hebe to the thynges that are spoken vnto vs, leaste at any tyme we perishe. For if the word whych was spokn by aungels, was stedfast, And euery trasgesser & dysobedyence receaued a iuste in sufferance of his death. Some shall be scape, if we by his grace be saved. At the first at the first he began to be preached of the Lord hym selfe, and was compassed with his hearers by them that heade it. God bearing witness thereto, both with signes and wonders also and with dyners miracles, and gyftes of the holpe ghost, accordyng to his owne wil.

For vnto the Angells hath he not subdued the worlde to come, wherof we speake, but one in a certayne place testified, saying: What is man: that thou arte myndful of hym? Or the sonne of man, that thou vspyteste hym? Thou madest him a lytle lower then the Angells, thou hast crowned hym with honour and glory: and hast set him above the workes of thy handes.
Thou haste put all thynges in subiection vnder hys fete. In that he put all thynges vnder hym he leste nothing that is not put vnder hym. Ne uertheles, we se not yet all thynges subdued vnto hym, but hym that was made lesse then the Angells, we se that it was Iesus whych is crowned with glory and honour for the sufferynge of death, that by the grace of God, shulde tast of death for all men.

For it became hym, for whom are all thynges and by whome are all thynges, after that he had brought many sonnes to gloire, that he shulde make the Lord of thes saluacion perfecte throwe afflictions. For both he that sanctifyeth and they which are sanctified, are al of one. For whych cause sake he is not ashamed to cal them brethren, saying: I wyll declare thy name vnto my brethren: in the middes of thy congregacy-on wyll I prayse the. And agayne: I wyll put my trust in hym. And agayne, beholde, here am I and the chyldren whom God hath geuen me.

For as much then as the chyldren are parta-kers of the fleshe and bloude, he also hym selfe lyke wyse toke parte with them that (thow we death) he myghte erpel hym that had lordship ouer death, that is to say the Denel, and that he myghte deliuer them, whych the thow we feare of death were al thes lyfe tyme subdued vnto bo-dome. For he in no place taketh on hym the Angells: but the seide of Abraham taketh he on hym.
Wherefore in all thynges it became hym to be made lyke vnto his brethren, that he myght be merciful, and a faithful hye preele in thynges concerninge God, for to pouerage þ peoples synnes.
For in that it fortuneth hym selfe to be tempted, he is able to succure the also that are tempted.

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

¶ We requyre that he be obeynt vnto the worde of Christe, whych is more worth then the ceremonial law of Moyses. The purchasement of such as will nedes between thes brethren.

¶ Herefore holy brethren, partakers he is faithful vnto him that put hi in the office, even as was Moyses in al his house.

For loke howe much honour he that hath buylsuch honour he is counted worthy of more then whych were to be spoken after word. And whych as a soun, hath tunc ouer þ house, whose house are we, þe we be full the confidence and the relopyng of that hope, vnto the ende.

¶ Wherefore as the holy ghost sayth to daye ye wyll heare hys voyce, harden not your he-tes, as in the prouokinge, in the daye of tempta-cion in the wilderness, wher your fathers tempted me, proued me, and sawe my workes: forty yeare. Wherefore I was greued with that generacyon, and sayd: They do alwaye erre in theyr herres: they verely haue not knowe my workes, so that I sware in my wrath: they shall not entre into my rest. Take hede brethren, lest at any tyme there be in anye of you a srowarde herte subiecte vnto vnbellefe, þe shulde departe fro the lyupng God: but exhort ye one another day-ly, while it is called to daye, lest any of you be harde herted thow we the disceatfulness of synne.

¶ We are made partakers of Christ, if we kepe sure vnto the ende, the begynnyng of the substance: so longe as it is sayde: to daye if ye wil heare hys voyce, harden not your hertes, as in the prouokinge, for some when they heard, did prouoke: howbeit not all that came out of Egypt by Moyses. But with whom was he dyspled, forty yeres? Was he not dyspleased with them that had synned, whose carcases were ouer thowen in the deserter? To whome sware he that they shulde not enter into hys reaste, but vnto them that were not obeynt? And we se, þ they coude not entre in, because of vnbellefe.

¶ The. liii. Chapter.

¶ The Sabbath of rest of Christe: purgament of vnbellefe hert, the nature of the worde of God.

¶ Erbs feare therfore, lest anye of you into his rest) shuld seme at any tyme to haue bene disapoynted. For vnto us it is declared, as well as vnto the But it profyted not them, that they hearde the worde: because they whych hearde it, compledis not with sayth. For we which haue beleued, do enter into hys rest, as he sayde: Euen as I haue sworne in my wrath they shal not entre into my rest. And that spake he verely longe after that the workes were made: and the foundations of the world layd. For he spake in a certayne place of the. vii. day, on thes wyse: And God did rest the. vii. daye from all hys workes. And in this place agayne: They shall not entre into my rest.

¶ Being therfore it foloweth: that some must entre therinto, and they (to whom it was fy-re preached) entred not therein for vnbellefe sake, he appointed a certayne day after so a long tyme sayng in Dauid: as it is reherseb, (thys daye

The .v. Chapter.

Every hye preast that is taken fro amonge men, is ordayned for men, in thynges pertaynyng to God: to offer gystes and sacryfices for synne, whych can haue compassion on the ignorant, and on the that erre out of the way forasmuch as he him selfe is compassed with infyrmite. And for the same infymities sake he is bounde to offer for synnes, as well for hym selfe, as for the people. And no man taketh honour vnto hym self: but he that is called of God as was Aaron.

Euen so Christ also glorified not hym selfe to be made the hye preast: but he that sayde vnto hym: thou arte my sonne, then saye haue I begotten the, glorified hym: As he sayth also in another place: thou arte a preaste for euer after the order of Melchisedec: whiche in the dayes of his fleshe, when he had offered vp prayers & supplicacions, with strong crynges and teares vnto hym that was able to saue hym fro death and was heard because of his reuerence, though he were the sonne of God, yet learned he obeyence, by these thynges whych he suffered: and he beinge perfecte, was the cause of eternall saluation vnto al them that obeyed him: & is called of God an hye preast, after the order of Melchisedec.

Wherof we wold speake many thynges but they are harde to be uttered: seinge ye are dull of hearinge. For when as concerning the tyme ye ought to be teachers, yet haue ye ne de agayne that we teache you the fyrste principles of the word of God: and are become such as haue neede of milke: and not of stronge meate, for euerye man that is fed wyth milke, is inexpert in the word of righteousnes. For he is but a babe of stronge meate belongeth to them that are perfecte, euen those, whych by reason of vlti-me they wyttes exercised to dyscerne bothe good and euil.

Berke, knowing the doctrine: that pertayneth to the begynnyng of charyten men, let vs go forth vnto the perfectyon, not layinge agayne the foundatiō of repentaunce from deade woordes and of sayth toward God: of bap-tismes, of doctrine, and of layinge on of han-des, and of resurreccyon from death, and of eter-nall Judgement. And so wil we do. If God per-mytte. For it cannot be that they whych were once lighted, & haue tasted of the heavenly gyft and were become partakers of the holy Ghoſte and haue tasted of the good woordes of God, and the powre of the world to come: If they fall away, and as concernynge them selues crucifye the sonne of God a freſhe, and make a mocke of hym that they shulde be remued agayne by repentaunce.

For the earth whych dynketh in the rayne that cometh ofte vpon it, and byngeth forth her best mete for them that dwell in it, receaueth blis-syng of God. But that ground which beareth thornes and byers: is reſproued, and nre vnto cursynge: whose end is to be burned. Neuerthelesse deare frendes we truste to se better of you, and thynges whych accompanye saluacion, though we thus speke. For God is not vngrate-ful: that he shulde forget your worche and labour that procede of loue, which loue ye shewe in hym name, whych haue mynystred vnthe end that ye saynt not: but be folowers of them, whych choiſowe sayth & patience receaue the inheritaunce of the promyse.

For when God made promyse to Abraham because he had no greater to swer by: he swore by hym selfe, sayinge: Surely I wyll blesse the and multiplye the in dede. And so after that he had tarped pacientely, he enioyed the promyse.
 For men herely sweare by hym that is greater then them selues, & an othe to confyrme the thyng, is to them an end of all stryfe. So God wyllynge very abundantly to shewe vnto the heys of promyse, the stableness of hym counceyl added an othe that by two immutable thynges, in whych it was impossible that God shulde lye, we myghte haue a stronge consolacion: whych hereto haue fled: for to hold fast the hope that is set before vs, which hope we hold as an ancre of the soule both sure and steadfast, whych hope also entred in, into those thynges whych are wrytten in the vayne, where the forerunner is for vs: entred, euen Iesus, that is made an hye pre-est for euer after the order of Melchisedec.

The .vi. Chapter.

For we compared the preasthode of Christ vnto synners whych haue to be better moys apostles.

Chrys

Also Abraham gaue tythes of all thynges (ysyt is called by interpretation, hyng of ryghteous-nesse: after that hyng of Salem: that is to saye: hyng of peace) without father, without mother without hymne, and hath neyther begynnyng of dayes nor yet ende of yste: but is likened vnto the sonne of God and continueth a yere for euer Consydre what a man this was, vnto whome also the Patriarke Abraham gaue tythes of the spoiles. And verily those chyldren of Leui, whiche receyue the offyce of the priestes, haue a commaundemente to take (accoordinge to the lawe) tythes of the people, that is to say, of their brethren: yea though they spronge out of the loynes of Abraham. But he whole hyndred is not counted amonge them, receyued tythes of Aba-ham, & blessed him that had the promysse. And noman denyeth, but that he which is lesse, receyueth blessing of him which is greater. And here men that receyue tythes. But there be receyueth tythes, of whom it is wytnessed that be yuerth. And to saye the truthe, Leui hym self also which vsyth to receyue tythes, payed tythes to Abraham. For he was yet in the loynes of hys father, when Melchisedech met Abraham.

* Prnowe therfore perfection came by the preasthode of the Leuytes (for vnder that prest-hode the people receyued the lawe) what nedeth it furthermore, that an other preast shoulde cyle to be called after the ordye of Melchisedech, and not after the ordye of Aaron: For yf the preasthode be translated, then of necessitye muste the lawe be translated also.

C For he of whom these thynges are spoken prepaymeth vnto an other tribe, of who neuer man serued at the aultare. For it is euident that oure Lorde spronge of the trybe of Iuda, of whiche trybe spake Moses nothyng concerning prest-hode. And it is yet a moze euident thyng, yf after the similitude of Melchisedech, there aryle another preast, which is not made after the lawe of the carnal commaundement, but after the power of the endlesse yste. (For, after this maner doth he testifie: thou art a preast for euer, after the ordye of Melchisedech) Then the commaun-dement that went afore: is disannulled bycause of weakenesse & vnproptablenesse. For: the lawe broughte nothyng to perfection: but was an introduction to a better hope, by the whiche we dyaue nye vnto God: And therfore is it a better hope, bycause the thyng was not done without an oth. For those preastes were made without an oth, but this preast with an oth, by hym that sayde vnto hym. * The Lorde swaue, and wyl not repent: Thou arte a preast for euer after the ordye of Melchisedech. And for that cause was Jesus a stablysher of a better testament.

And amonge them manye were made preastes, bycause they were not luffed to endure by the reason of death. But this ma (bycause hee was luffed to endure by the reason of death)

For he was luffed to endure by the reason of death which is hope, haruicthe, and by which sperateth for synners, made hyer then heauen. Whiche ne-deth not dayly (as ponder hie prestes) * to offe by sacrifice, for his owne synnes, and then for y peoples synnes. For that dhd he once wld he offed by hym selfe. * For y lawe maketh me prestes: whiche haue infymitie: but the woide of the oth that came syns the lawe, maketh the sonne a preast, which is perfect for euer more.

The viii. Chapter:

The offyce of Christ is more worth then the preast offyce of the olde lawe: which was imperfect, and thus saye abrogate.

Con the thynges which we haue spok this is the pyth: that * we haue such an hie preast as syteth on the right hande of the seate of his maiestye in heauen, and is a minstre of holly th ges, & of the true tabernacle, whiche God bygge and not man: For euery hie preast is ordyneyd to offe gyftes and sacrifices: wherfore it is of necessite, that this man haue some what also to offe. For he were not a preast, yf he were on the earth where are prestes, that accoordinge to the lawe offe gyftes which serue vnto the example, and * shadowe of heauenly thynges: euen as the answer of God was gyuen vnto Moses, when he was about to synch the tabernacle. * Take bede (sayde he) that thou make all thynges accoordinge to the patron whiche is shewed to the in the mount.

But nowe hath he obtayned a preasthode so moche the moze excellent, as he is the mediatoure of a better Testament, whiche was confirmed in better promysse. For if the fyrst testament had ben such, y no fault could haue ben found in it, then wuld no place haue ben lought for the seconde. For in rebukynge them, he sayeth vnto the: * Beholde the dayes come (sayeth the Lorde) and I wyl synch vpon the house of Israel, and vpon the house of Iuda, a newe testament, not lyke the testament that I made with they fathers in that daye, when I toke them by the handes, to leade them out of the lande of Egypt For they continued not in my testament, and I regarded them not, sayeth the Lorde.

For this is the testament that I wyl make with the house of Israel: After those dayes (sayeth the Lorde) I wyl put my lawes in their min-des and in theyr hertes I wyl wyte them and I wyl be theyr God, and they shalbe my people And they shal not trache euery man his neygh-bour, and euery man his brother, saying: know the Lorde: for they shal knowe me, from y least vnto the moost of them: For I wyl be merciful ouer theyr vnyghteousnesse and theyr synnes & theyr iniquities wyl I schynke vpon nomore.
In that he sayeth a newe Testament, he bathe wozne out the olde. For that whiche is wozne out and drected olde, is readye to vanishe awaye.

fores be made by a true faith. For as much as the crying hath be made perfect for us, that that we sanctified. The holy Ghost hath been with us with us to receive, even when he to be before. is the testament that I will make with you after those dayes (sayth the Lord) I will put my lawes in theyr heartes, and in theyr mynde will I write them, and their synnes and iniquities will I remembre nomore. And where remission of these thinges is, ther is nomore offering for synne. Meryng therfore brethren, that by the meanes of the bloude of Iesu* we haue liberty to enter into a holy place, by the newe & lyving way whiche he hath prepared for vs, through the vayne (that is to saye by hys fleshe) And se-ing also that we haue an hye priest which is ruler ouer the house of God, let vs draw nye with a true heart in sure sayth, sprinkled in our heates and the euil conscience put a waye and washed in oure bodys with pure water, let vs ke-pe the professyon of our hope, wythoute waueryng (for he is saythfull that promysed) and let vs consider one another, to the intende that we maye prouoke vnto loue, and to good woorkes not forsakynge the felowshyppe that we haue amonge oure selues, as the maner of some is: but let vs exhort one another, & so muche the more because ye se that the daye draweth nye.

* For yf we synne wyllfully after yf we haue receaued the knowlege of yf truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for synnes but a fearful loking for Judgement, and violent fyre, which shal deuoure the aduersaries. He that despyseth Moses law, dyeth wythout mercy * vnder two of these wytnesses, how much soeuer (suppose ye) shall he be punished whych treadeth vnder fote the sonne of God: and counteth the bloude of the Testament, where with he was sanctified, as an vnholpe thyng, and doth dysprouer to the spete of grace. For we knowe him yf hath sayd * It belongeth vnto me to take vengeance: I will recompence sayeth the Lord: And agayne, the Lord shal Judge his people. It is a fearful thyng to fall into the handes of the lyving God

Call to remembrance the dayes that are passed, in the which after ye had receaued lyght ye endured a greate lygh of aduersities, partly whyle al me wondred and gased at you for the same and tribulacion that was done vnto you partlye, whyle ye became companions of them a waye therfore your confidence, whych hath a greate recompence of rewarde. For ye haue rede of pacence: that after ye haue done yf wyl of God, ye myght receaue the promys. For yet a verie lytell whyle, and be that shal come wyl come and wyl not tary. But * the iust shal lyue by sayth. And yf he wythstande hym selfe, my soule shal haue no pleasure in him. It is not we yf wythstande our selues vnto danacion, but we partaker vnto sayth, to the ending of the lawe.

¶ The first Chapter.

¶ The exhorteth to triumphe tremble and thankfully to receaue the word of god, to be ioyful of straunge lernynge, to be content to suffer rebuke with Christ, to be thankfull vnto God and obediēt vnto such as be in auctorite.

Iames the seruaunt of God & I of the Lord Iesus Christ sendeth greetynge to the twelue tribes whiche are scattered abroad. ¶ My brethren, count it for an excedyng ioye whē ye fall into dyuers tempta-ciōs: knowynge this, þe * the trynginge of youre sayth, genyeth pacyence: and let pacyence haue her perfecte woiche, that ye may be perfecte and sound, lackynge nothyng.

¶ If any of you lacke wysedome, let hym aske of hym that geneth it euen God, whych geneth to all men indifferently, and casteth no man in the teth, and it shalbe geuen hym, But let him aske in sayth, and wauer not. For he that doubteth, is lyke a waue of the see, whiche is toft of the wyndes, and caryed with violence. Rather let that man thynke, that he shal receaue any thing of the Lord.

¶ A waueryng mynded man, is instable in all his wayes. Let the brother which is of lowe degree reioyce whē he is exalted agayne, let him that is rich, reioyce whē he is made lowe. * For euen as the flour of the grasse, whē he passe away For as the sunne ysith with heate, & the grasse wythtereth thesame is a puffed man, and a while to tame all the body. Beholde, we put byrtes into puffed mouthes, that they make abeye us, and we turne aboute all the bodye of them. Beholde, all the wyppes, which thoughte they bee so greate, and are dyuyn of feareful wyndes, yet are they turned aboute with a very small helme wherby sooner the violence of the gonermer wyll. Euen so the tongue is a lytle myde also, and dooeth greate thynges.

Beholde, howe greate a thyng a lytle fyre kynndeth, and the tongue is fyre, euen a world of wickednes. So is the tongue sette amonge our membres, that it defyleth the whole bodye, and setteyth a fyre all that we haue of nature, and is it selfe set a fyre euery euil.

All the natures of bestes, and of byrdes, and of serpentes, and thynges of the see are meked and tamed of the nature of man. But the tongue can no man tame. It is an vnclepe catt, full of deadly poison. Therwith blesse we God the father, and therwith curse we men. * wherbye are made after the image and synypetude of God.
Out of one mouth procedeeth blessing and cur-syng. My brethren, these thynges oughte not so to be. Dooth a fountayne sende forth at one place swete water and bytter also. Can the figge tree (my brethren) beare Olyue berres. ether a vine beare fygges. So can no fountayne geue bothe salte water and freche also. If any man be wyle and endued with knowlage among you, let him shewe his workes out of good conuersacion with mechene and wisdom.

But if ye haue bytter enuyng and stryfe in your harte, reioyce not neither be spars agaynst the truthe. For suche wysdome descendeth not from aboue: but is carthy, naturall and deuelyche. For where enuyng and stryfe is, there is bustableness, and al manner of cruel workes. But the wysdome that is from aboue, is spylt pure then peccable gentle and calpe to be entreated, full of meyte and good frutes, withoute in-gyng, withoute synulacion: yee, and the frute of ryghtynesse is sowen in peace, of them that mapynape peace.

The .iiii. Chapter

Ye haue not because ye aske not. Ye aske and receiue not because ye aske amysse: out to consume it vpon your lustes. Ye aduocates, and women that breake matrimony: know ye not how that flictions: and moene, & wepe. Let your longhte be turned to mourning, and your ioye to desynes. * Humble your selues in the sight of the Lorde, and he shall lyfte you up. Backbiter not one another, brethren. he that backbitereth his brother, and he that iudgeth his brother, back-bitereth the lawe and iudgeth the lawe. But and if thou iudgeth, lawe, thou arte not an obseruer of the lawe: but a iudge. There is one lawe geue: (and more) wherbye is able to lase and to Go to now ye that say: * to bay and to moyse

The v. Chapter

¶ He that receiveth the witched cythe men, receiveth into pa-ciance: to be made of lusing. And to knowlage ye shoulde see to another, one to praye for another, and one to lase to byng, another to the truthe.

To now ye perche men, wepe and howle on poure wretched-nes that shall come vpon you.
Poure cythes are corrupte, your garmentes are motteat. Pour gold and syluer is cankered, and the ruste of them shalbe a wyt-nesse vnto you, and shall cate, poure fleys as it were fyre.

Ye haue heped treasure together: (euen in warre) in your selues, in your last dapes. Beholde, * the byrde of laborers wherbye haue reaped downe pour felices: wherbye ye is of you kepe backe by fraude cryeth, and the cries of them which haue reaped, are enter into the eares of the Lorde Sabaoth. Ye haue spured in pleasure on the earthe, and bene wanton. Ye haue nedyed poure her-tes, as in a daye of slaughter. Ye haue condemned and kyled the iust: and he hath not resysted you. * Ye pacente therfore here: in vnto the comyng of the Lorde. Beholde, the husbande man wayted for the pccious frute of the earth and hathe longe pacience therupon. Vntill he receaue the earlye and the later sayne. Be ye li. and all patient therefore And this you see best for the coming of the Lorde. And we knoweth are.

Gentle not one agaynst another brethren. Let ye be patient. For the Lord is slow to anger because he loveth peace. Take my brethren the example of patience. Whiche I make in the name of the Lorde. For he shall reward them happye who endure. For he hath heard of the patience of Job, and hath knowen what ende the Lorde made. For the Lorde is very mercifull and mercyfull.

But above all thinges my brethren I desire not, neyther by heauen, neyther by earth, neyther any other oth. Let you see, see ye, and youe maye have: least ye fall into synne. If any of you be vexed, let hym praye, if anye of you be merry, let hym synge Psalmes. If any be dyspleased among you, let hym call for the elders of the congregacion, and let them praye over hym. * anointe hym with oyle in the name of the Lorde, and the prayer of faith shall save the synner, and the Lorde shall raise hym up: and if he have committed synnes they shall be forgiven hym.

D Knowlage youe sautes one to another and praye one for another, that ye maye be delivered. For the fruent prayer of a righteous man avayleth muche. Heias was a man under in-synnities such as we are, and he prayed in his prayer that it myghte not rayne: * and it ray-ned not on the earth by the space of thre yeares and syre monethes. And he prayed agayne, and the heauen gaue rayne, and the earth brought forth her fruite. Whither if any of you do erre from the trueth, and another convert hym, let the same knowe that he whiche converteth the synner from his synne, shall save a soule from death and shall have the multitude of synners.

The firste Epistle of Saynt Peter the Apostle.

The first Chapter.

It is written that christe the abundant mercy of God we are begotten againe to a lively hope, and have faith which is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. But a living prophesie of life. He saved them to a glorious resurrection, for so muche as they are now born againe by the word of God.

Peter an Apostle of Iesu christe to them that dwell here and there as strangers thowwe out Pontus, Galacia, Capadocia, Asia, and Bithinia, elect according to the forknow-lage of God father thowwe the sanctifying of the spyrte unto obedience * and sprinkling of the bloude of Iesus Christe.

* Grace be with you and peace be multiplied Blessed be God the father of our Lord Iesus Christe, whiche according to his abundant mercy begat us agayne unto * a lively hope (by that, that Iesus Christe rose againe from death) to an inheritance immortal and undefyled, and that perysheth not, reserved in heauen for you, whiche are kept by the power of God thowwe sayth unto saluacion, whiche is prepared already to be shewed in the last tyme in the whiche ye reioyse, though now for a season ye have requyre ye are in heavyness thowwe many fold temptacions, for the triall of your faith being muche more precious then golde that perysheth (though it be * tryed with fyre) myghte be founde unto laude, glory, and honoure at the appearyng of Iesus Christe, whom ye have not sene, and yet love hym, in whome even now, * though ye see hym not, yet do you beleue, & re-ioyse with hope unspeakable and glorious: receayving the ende of your faith, even the salua-cion of your soules.

Of whiche saluacion have * the prophetes enquyred and searched, whiche prophesied of the grace that should come unto you, searching whi-at what time the spyrte of Christe (which was in them) should signifye, which spyrte testifed before, the passions that should happen unto Christe, and the glory that should followe after unto whiche prophetes it was also declared, & not unto them selues, but unto us: they should implye the thinges whiche are now shewed unto you of them, whiche by the holpe good (sent downe from heauen) have in the Gospel preached unto you the thinges, whiche the angels desire to behold.

Wherefore * gyve up fornes of your mynd, be sober, and truste perfectly on the grace that is brought unto you (by the declaring of Ie-sus Christe) as obedient children, that ye generate your selues over unto your old lusts by which ye were led, when as yet ye were ignorant of

of Christe: but as he whiche called you his holpe, euen so bee ye holpe also in all maner of conuersa-tion, because it is written: * Bee ye holpe, for I am holpe.

And if so bee that ye call on the father, whiche without respecte of persone iudgeth * accordyng to every mannes woorkes, see that ye passe frim of your pilgrimage in feare. * For as muche as ye knowe, howe that ye were not redeemed with corruptible thynges (as silver and golde) from your vayne conuersacion, whiche ye received by the tradition of the fathers: but * with the precious bloodde of Christe, as of a lambe undefiled, and without spotte whiche was ordained before hande even before the world was made: but was declared in the laste tymes * for your sake, whiche by his meanes dooe helpe on God, that ray-sed hym vp from death, and * glorified hym, that ye mighte haue faith and hope toward God, eue ye whiche haue purified your soules through the spirite, in obeying the truth with brotherly loue vnfained, see that ye loue one another with a pure hearte feruently: for ye are borne a newe, not of mortall seede, but of immortall, by the wordde of God, whiche lieth and lasteth foruer. * For all fleische is grasse, and all the glorie of manne is as the floure of glasse. The grasse widderech, and the floure falleth a wape, but the wordde of the Lorde endureth euer. * And this is the wordde whiche by the Gospell was preached vnto you.

The ii. Chapter.

Corinthians meane to lape asyde all vice, to abstain from fleschly lustes, and to chepe most hely rulers.
Whom seruantes should behaue them selues toward their masters. He exhorteth to suffer after the ensample of Christe.

heretofore lape asyde all malice, oungnes and all guyle, and fained nesse, and enuy and all backe-biting: * and as newe borne babes, desyre ye that milke (not of the body but of the soule) which is without disceit: that ye may growe thereby. * (vnto saluacion) If so bee that ye haue tasted howe gracious the Lorde is, to whome ye come, as vnto a luyng stone, disallowed of menne, but chosen of God and precious: and ye as luyng stones are made a spirituall house and holpe pfecthode for to edifie by spirituall sacrifici-es acceptable to God by Iesus Christe.

Wherfore it is contayned also in the scripture: * beholde I put in Sion a stone to bee laied in the chief corner, electe and precious, * he that beleueth on hym shall not bee confounded. Vnto you theretofore whiche beleue he is precious: but vnto them whiche beleue not * the stone whiche the builders refused, the same is begone to bee hed of the corner, and a stone that menne stom-ble at, and a roche wherat they bee offended whiche stomble at the wordde, and beleue not that whereon they were set. But ye are a chosen generation, a royal * pfecthode, * an holpe nation, a people whiche are wonne: that ye should shewe the vertues of hym, that called you out of darkenes into his maruelous lightre * whiche in tyme past were not a people, but are now the people of God: which sometyme had not obtained mercy, but now haue obtained mercie. *

* Dearly beloued, I beseeche you as strangers and pilgrims, abstain * from fleschly lustes whiche fight against y soulle, and se that ye haue honeste conuersacion among the Gentiles, that where as they backbite you as euill doers, they may see your good woorkes, and prayse God in the day of visitaciō. * Submit your selues therfore vnto all maner of dynastie of manne, for the Lordes sake, whether it bee vnto the kyng, or vnto the chief hedde: other vnto rulers, as vnto them that are sente of hym, for the punishment of euill doers, but for the laude of them that dooe well. For so is the will of God, * with well dooyng ye may stoppe the mouthes of foolish ignozaunt menne as fre, and not as hauping the libertie for a cloke of malice, but euen as the seruantes of God. * Honour al menne: loue brotherly felowship. Feare God, honour y kyng.
* Seruantes obey your masters with feare, not only if they be good & courteous: but also though they be cruel. * For it is thanke worthy. * if a manne for conscience toward God endure grief, and suffre wrong vnderfured. For what praiseth it, when ye bee buffeted for your fautes ye take it patiently? But if when ye dooe well ye suffer wrong & take it patiently, then is there thanke with God.

For herunto verily were ye called: for Christe also suffered for vs * leauyng vs an ensample that ye should folow his steeppes, whiche did us serue neither was there guile founde in his mouth: whiche when he was reuiled, reuiled not again: woe he suffered, he thretened not, but committed the vengeaunce to hym that iudgeth righteously: * whiche his own: self bare our synnes in his dye on the tree, that wee being deliuered from synne, should liue vnto righteoungnes. By whose steeppes ye were healed. For ye were as shepe gong astraye: but are now turned vnto the shep-herde and bishop of your soules. *

The firste Epistle of Saincte Iohn the Apostle.

The firste Chapter.

For witness of the continuing moneth of God.
For witness of Christ in the paganism from France The manner is written thus.

THAT which was from the beginnyng, which we haue hearde, which wee haue sene w our eyes, which wee haue loked vpon, and our handes haue handled of the woorde of life. And the life appeared, and wee haue sene and heare and weue vnto you * eternall life whiche was with the father, and appeared vnto vs. That which wee haue sene and hearde, de clare wee vnto you, that ye also maye haue felo ship with vs, that our feloship maye bee with the father, and his soonne Iesus Christe. And this write wee vnto you, that ye maye receiue, and maye your love maye bee full.

And this is the tidynge which wee haue heard of hym and declare vnto you, that God is lighte, and in hym is no darkenes at all. If wee saie that we haue feloship with hym, and walke in darkenes, we lie: and dooe not the truth. But and we walke in lighte euen as he is in lighte, the haue wee feloship with hym, and the blood of Iesus Christ his soonne cleaseth vs fro all synne.
* If wee saie we haue no synne, wee deceiue our selues, & the truth is not in vs: * If we knowe lage our synnes, he is faithfull, & iust, to forgiue vs our synnes, and to cleanse vs from all vni righteousnes. If wee saie wee haue not synned, wee make hym a lyar, and his woorde is not in vs.

The ii. Chapter.

Christ in our advocate. Of true love, and how it is to be.

LITTLE children these thynges write I vnto you, that ye synne not. And if any manne synne, wee haue an ad vocate with the father, Iesus Chri ste the righteous: and he it is that obtaineth grace for our synnes, not for our syn nes onely, but also for the synnes of the world.
* And hereby wee are sure that wee knowe hym if wee kepe his commaundementes: * He that saith I knowe hym, & hepereth not his commaun dementes is a lyer, and the verite is not in hym.
But who so hepereth his woorde, in hym is the loue of God perfect in dede, hereby knowe wee that wee are in hym. He that saith: he byde th in hym ought to walke euen as he walked. *

Barthien, I write no newe commaundement vnto you: but that olde commaundement, which ye haue had from the beginnyng. The old com maundement is this: that which ye haue heard from the beginnyng. I gaue a newe commaun dement I wrote vnto you, & is true in hym, and the same is true also in you: for the darkenes is passe, and the true lighte now shineth. * He that loved, how that he is in the lighte, and yet hated his brother, is in darkenes euen vntill this time he that loveth his brother, abydeth in the lighte and there is no occasion of euill in hym. He that hated his brother is in darkenes and walketh in darkenes: and cannot see whither he goeth, because that darkenes hath blinded his eyes.

Woe I write vnto you, so that your syn nes are forgiuen you: for his names sake. I write vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowe hym that is from the beginnyng. I write vnto you young menne, howe that ye haue overcome the wycked. I write vnto you little chyldren, howe that ye haue knowen the father. I haue written vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowe hym that is from the beginnyng. I haue written vn to you young menne, how that ye are strong, and the woorde of God abydeth in you, and ye haue overcome the wycked. See that ye loue not the world, neither the thynges that are in the world.
If any manne loue, the world, the loue of the fa ther is not in hym. For all that is in the world, (as the luste of the flesh, and the luste of the eyes and the pryde of lyfe) is not of the father: but of the world. And the world passeth awaye, and the luste thereof: but he that fulfilleth the will of God abyeth for ever. *

Little chyldren, it is the laste tyme, and as ye haue heard how that Antechrist shall come, eue now are there many begon to bee Antechrists already: wh. reby wee knowe, that it is the last tyme. * They wente out from vs, but they were not of vs. For if they had been of vs, they would no doubte, haue continued with vs. But that is myghtie appare, that they were not of vs. Ac cordinge to this, ye haue an oportunitye of hym that is holy, and ye knowe all thynges. * I haue not written vnto you, as though ye knewe we not the truth: but as though ye knewe it, and knowe also) that no lyer cometh of truth. Whoe: a lyer but he that denieth that Iesus is Christe the same is Antechriste, that denieth the father and the soone, whosoever denieth the soonne, the same hath not the father. * (He that knoweth the soonne, hath the father also.) Let therefore abyde in you that same which ye heard from the beginnyng if that which ye hearde from the beginnyng shall remain in you, ye also shall continue in the soonne & in the father. And this is the promise that he hath promised vs: euen eternall life.

These thynges haue I written vnto, con cernyng them that deceiue you. And the anno yntinge which ye haue receiued of hym that dwelleth in you. And ye neede not, that any man teache you: but as the annoynting teacher you

Beholde, what lone the father hath spoken on this that here should beal-ed (and he is he) the * I knowed of God. Supposedly the world be knoweth you see, because it knoweth not him. Verily becom, now are we the son-nes of God and yet it doeth not appeare, what wee shalbe. But wee knowe that when it shall appeare: wee shalbe like hym. For wee shall see hym as he is. And every manne that hath this hope in hym, purgeth himself, even as he also is pure.
Whosoever committeth synne, committeth vnrighteousnes also, and synne is vnrightrousnes.
And ye knowe that he appeared, to take awaye our synnes, and in hym is no sinne. As many as bpede in hym synne not, but whosoever synneth hath not sene hym, neither knoweth hym.

Babes, let no manne discretur you, be y<sup>e</sup> dooth righteousnes is righteous: euen as he is righteous. He that committeth synne, is of the deuell: for the deuell synneth since the begynnyng. For this purpose appered the sonne of God, to loue the woordes of y<sup>e</sup> deuell. Whosoerer is borne of God, synneth not: for his seede remaineth in him, he cannot synne, because he is borne of God. In this are the chyldren of God knowen, & the chyldre of y<sup>e</sup> deuell, whosoerer doth not righteousnes is not of God, neither he y<sup>e</sup> loueth not his brother.

C For this is the tidynge, that ye hearde from the begynnyng, that ye should loue one another not as <sup>Gen. iii. 15</sup> Cain whiche was of <sup>Gen. iii. 15</sup> wicked, and slew his brother. And wherefoze slewe he hym? Because his owne woordes wer euill and his brothers good. <sup>Gen. iii. 15</sup> ¶ Maruail not my brethren though the world hate you. Wee knowe, <sup>Gen. iii. 15</sup> for we are translated from death to life, because wee loued <sup>Gen. iii. 15</sup> for brethren. <sup>Gen. iii. 15</sup> ¶ He that loueth not his brother, abideth in death. Whosoever hateth his brother, is a man-slayer. And ye knowe that no mansleaver, hath eter-nall life abiding in hym. Herby perceiue wee loue, because he gaue his life for vs: we ought to geue our liues for <sup>Gen. iii. 15</sup> for brethren. But whoso hath this worldes good and <sup>Gen. iii. 15</sup> seeth his brother haue neede, and shutteth vp his compassion from hym, how dwelleth <sup>Gen. iii. 15</sup> for lone of God in hym. <sup>Gen. iii. 15</sup> ¶ If babes let vs not loue in word, next in tounge: but in dede and in verite. Herby wee knowe, that wee are of the verite and can quiet our brethren before hym. For if our hearts condemne vs, God is greater then our feare, and knoweth al thynges. Deeply beloved, if our heart condemne vs not, then haue wee trust to God worde: what soeuer wee aske we receive of hym, because wee keepe his commaundementes, and dooe those thynges whiche are pleasaunte in his sight. And this is his commaundement, that wee beleue on the name of his sonne Iesus Christ, and loue one another, as he gaue commaundementes. And he that keepeth his commaundementes, dwelleth in hym.

rite: but proue the spirites, whether they are of God or noe, * for manie false prophetes are gone out into the worlde. Hereby shall ye knowe the spirite of God. Every spirite that con-fesseth that Iesus Christe is come in the fleshe, is of God. And every spirite that confesseth not Iesus Christe is come in the fleshe is not of God. And thus is that spirite of Antichriste, of whose ye have harde how that he shoulde come: and euen now already is he in the worlde.
Litle children, ye are of God and have overcome them: for greater is he that is in you, then he that is in the worlde.
They are of the worlde, therefore speake they of the worlde and the worlde beareth them. We are of God. He that knoweth God, beareth vs: he that is not of God, beareth vs not. Hereby knowe we the spirite of veritie and the spirite of erroure.

Deerly beloued * let vs loue one another: for loue cometh of God. And euery one that loueth is borne of God, and knoweth God. He that lo-ueth not knoweth not God: for * God is loue.
 In this appeareth the loue of God, to vs ward: because that * God sente his onely begotten sonne into the worlde, that wee myghte lyue through hym. Herein is loue, not that wee loued God, but that he loued vs, and sente his sonne to bee the agremente for our synnes.

Deriſ beloued, if God ſo loued vs, we oughte alſo to loue one another. <sup>1</sup> Romā hath ſente God at any tyme. If we loue one another, God dwel leth in vs, and his lone is perfecte in vs. Herby knowe wee that wee dwell in hym, and he in vs becauſe he hath geuen vs of his ſpūite. And we haue ſene, and dooe teſtifie, that the father ſente the ſonne to bee the ſauour of the world. Who ſooner confeſſeth that Jeſus is ſonne of God in hym dwelleth God, and he in God. And wee haue knownen and beleued ſ lone that God hath to vs. God is lone, and he that dwelleth in lone, dwelleth in God, and God is hym.

Herein is the loue perfecte in vs. & wee should haue trust in the daye of iudgemente: for as he is euen so are wee in this world. There is no feare in loue, but perfect loue casteth out feare, for feare hath paynfullnes. He that feareth, is not perfecte in loue. Wee loue hym: for he loued vs first. If a manne saie I loue God, and yet hate his brother he is a lyar. For how can he that loveth not his brother whom he hath sene, loue God whom he hath not sene / And this commaundment haue wee of hym: that he whiche loveth God, shoulde loue his brother also.

by an alme which was be gotten of hym. For this was knowen, for we loue the children of God when we loue God and kepe his commandements. For this is the loue of God, for we kepe his commandementes, and his commandementes are not grievous. For all that is borne of God, overcometh the world. And this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith. Who is it that overcometh the world, but he which believeth, for Jesus Christ the sonne of God. This Jesus Christ is he that came in water and blood, not by water only: but by water and blood. And it is in the spirit that beareth witness, because the spirit is true. For there are three which beare record in heaven, the father, the sonne, and the holy ghost. And these three are one. And these which beare record - (in earth) the spirit, and water and blood: and these three are one. If we receive the witness of menne, witness of God is greater. For this is witness of God - (that is greater) which he testified of his sonne. He that believeth on the sonne of God hath the witness in himself: for he that believeth not God hath made him a liar because he believeth not the record that God gave of his sonne. And this is the record, how that God hath given unto vs eternal life, for this life is in his sonne. He that hath the sonne, hath life and he that hath not the sonne of God, hath not life. These thynges have I wyrtten unto you for beleue on the name of the sonne of God, that ye maye knowe how that ye haue eternal life, and that ye maye beleue on the name of the sonne of God. And this is the trust that we haue in hym that if we aske any thyng accordyng to his will he heareth vs. And if we knowe that he heareth vs whatsoeuer we aske we knowe for we haue the petitions, for we desire of him. If any manne see his brother synne a synne not unto death, let hym aske, for he shall geue hym life for them that synne not unto death. There is a synne unto death for which he saith I not for a manne should praye. All vnrightheousnes is synne, for there is a synne not unto death. We knowe for who soeuer is borne of God, synneth not, but he for is begotten of God, keepeth hymself and for wicked toucheth hym not. Wee knowe for we are of God, and the world is altogether set on wickednes. Wee knowe that for sonne of God is come, for hath given vs a minde to knowe hym which is true: and we are in hym that is true: throughe his sonne Jesu Christ. This same is verie God, and eternal life. For he kepe your selues from ymagens. Amen.

The seconde Epistle of saincte Ihon.

The whiche to a certayne Lady, reioyseth that her copyist make in the truth, exhorteth them to love whome they knowe to be borne of such a discrecion as he say that Jesus Christ came in the flesh, prayeth that to continue in the doctrine of Christ, and to have no thing to do with them for theyng not this learning.

I greet you to the Lady and her children, whom I loue in the truth: and not I onely, but also all that haue known the truth, for the truthes sake which dwelleth in vs, and shalbe in vs for ever which dwelleth in grace, mercy, and peace, from God the father, and from forsaide Jesus Christ the sonne of the father, in truth and love. I reioyced greatly that I founde of the children walking in truth, as we haue receiued a commandement of the father. And now becom I the Lady, not as though I wrote a newe commandement vnto thee, but that same which we haue heard fro the begynnyng for we should loue one another. And this is the loue, that we should walke after his commandementes.

This commandement is that as ye haue heard, that ye shal not receiue of the world which cometh not that I shal write to you in the flesh. This is a deceit and an angell. For loke on your selues that we told you that we haue wrought: but that we maye haue a full reward. Whosoever transgresseth and bydeth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that endureth in the doctrine of Christ, hath both the father and the sonne. If there come any vnto you and sayng not this learning, hym receiue not to house: neither bid hym god speke. For he that biddeh hym god speke, is partaker of his euill deeds. (Scholde, I haue told you before, that ye should not be ashamed in the daye of the Lord.) I had many thynges to wyte vnto you, neuerthelesse I would not wyte with paper yncke but I trust to come vnto you, and speake with you mouthe to mouthe, that our ioye maye be full: the sonnes of the electe sitters grete thee. Amen.

The thirde Epistle of saincte Ihon.

Christias of Capas, that he walketh in the truth exhorteth hym to be louyng vnto the poore Christians in their persecution, wherewith forwarde healing of Diotrophes, and the good report of Demetrias.

The elder vnto forsaide Sainct I whom I loue in the truth. Be loued, I write in all thynges for thou prosperdest, and faredest well, even as thy soule prospereth. For I reioyced greatly: when the brethren came, and testified of the truth that is in thee, how thou walkest in the truth. I haue no greater ioye, then for to heare how that my sonnes walke in veritie. Beloued thou doest faithfully, whatsoeuer thou doest to the brethren, and to strangers, which beare witness of thy loue before for congregation. Which brethren if thou byng forwarde of their iorneye (after a godly sorte) thou shalt doo well, because that for his names sake they wente forth, and tooke nothing of the Gentiles. Wee therefore oughte to receiue such that we might be helpers to the truth. I wrote vnto the congregation: but Diotrophes which loveth to haue the premyence among the receiueh vs not. Wherefore if I come I will declare hym deedes whiche he dooth, leuynge on vs with malicious wordes, neither is there with contente. Not onely he hymself receiueh not the brethren: but also he forbyddeth them

Dread I should. And thus I shew them out of the congregation. I should, I could not that I liked well, but that which is good. For that hath been in of God but in that doeth much less in God Demonstrating his good reports of all manner and of the church itself, yet, and yet our selves also have to write, and yet knowe, that our selves is true I had many things to say: but I will not withynke and penne waver therein. I trust I shall shortly see thee and we will spake mouth to mouth. Hence bee unto thee. Thy loving slave thus Chaparr is he that heareth the words of God and report it. He reporteth to the seven congregations in Asia, forty seven candlesticks, and in the midst of them: one is the house of manna.

founde them liars, and hast sattered. And hast paciencie: and for my names sake hast laboured, and hast not saynted. Nevertheless I haue som what agaynst thee, because thou hast leste thy firste loue. Remember therefore from whence thou arte fallen, repent, and doe the first workes. Or els I will come vnto thee shortly, and will reimpue thee candlesticke oute of his place, excepte thou repent. But that thou hast because thou hast leste the dedes of the <sup>2</sup> Nicolaitas, whi

Lette hym that hath eares, heare what the spy- rite sayeth vnto the congregacions.

¶ And wryte vnto the angell of the congrega- tion of Philadelpia: thus saith he that is holy and true, whiche hath the keye of Dauid: whi- che openeth and no man shutteth, and shutteth and no manne openeth. I knowe thy woordes. Beholde, I haue sette before thee an open doze, and no manne can shutte it, for thou haste a litte strength, and hast kepte my saynges: and hast not denyed my name. Behold, I make theim of the congregacion of Sathan, whiche call them selues Jewes, and are not, but doe lye: Behold I wyl make them that they shall come, and wor- ship before thy seate: and shall knowe that I haue loued thee, because thou hast kepte the woordes of my patience, therfore I wyl kepe thee from the houre of temptacion, whiche will come vpon all the world, to tempte them that dwell vpon all the earth.

Beholde, I come shortly. Hold that whiche thou hast, that no manne take away thy crowne hym that overcometh: wyl I make a pylle in the temple of my God, and he shall goe oute. And I wyl wryte vpon hym, the name of my God, and the name of the citee of my God, newe Hierusalem: whiche cometh doune oute of heauen from my God: and I wyl wryte vpon hym my newe name. Lette hym that hath eares heare: what the spyrte sayeth vnto the congrega- tions. And vnto the messenger of the congrega- tion whiche is at Laodicea, wryte: Thus saith (Amen) the sayntful and true witness, the begin- ning of the creatures of God. I knowe thy wo- lles, that thou arte nether colde nor hote.

I woulde thou were colde or hote. So then because thou arte betwene bothe, & nether colde nor hote. I will spewe thee out of my mouthe, because thou sayest: I am ryche and increased w goods, and haue nede of nothyng, and knowest not, how thou art wretched and myserable, and poze, and blynde, and naked. I counsayll the to buye of me gold tryed in the fyre, that thou may- ste bee ryche: and whyte raymente, that thou mayste bee clothed: that thy fylthy nakednes dooe not appere, and anoynte thyne eyes with the saluys thou mayste se. As many as I loue, I rebuke, and chasten. See secuntes therfore, & repente. Behold, I stand at the doze and knocke. If any manne heare my voice, and open the doze I wyl come into hym, and wil suppe with him and be with me. To him that overcometh wil I graunte to sit with me in my seate, euen as I ouercame, and haue sitte with my father in hys seate. Let hym that hath eares: heare, what the spyrte sayeth to the congregacions.

The. v. Chaptyre.

The seate heauen open, and the seate, and one sitting vpon it and foure and twenty seates about it with foure and twenty eldres sitting vpon them, and saue beades praying God day and nyght.

¶ After this I looked, & behold, a doze was open in heau, and the first voyce whiche I hearde, was as it were of a trepeter talking with me: whiche sayed come vp hether: & I wil shewe the thynges whi- che must bee fulfilled hereafter. And immediatly I was in the spyrte: and behold, a seate was set in heauen, and one sat on y seate. And he that sat was to loke vpon, like vnto a Jasper stone, and a Sardayn stone. And there was arayne howe a- bout y seate in lyght like to an Emeralde. And aboute the seate wer foure & twenty seates. And vpon the seates foure & twenty eldres sitting clo- thed in whyte raymente, & had on their hedys crow- nes of gold. And oute of y seates proceded light- tenynges and thonderynge, and voyces: & they wer seuen lampes of fyre, burnyng before y seate whiche are y seuen spyrtes of God. And also y seate there was a sea of glasse, lyke vnto Chry- stal and in the myddes of the seate, and rounde a- boute the seate wer foure beades full of spens be- fore and behynd. And the first beade was lyke a lyon alpon, and the second beast lyke a calfe, and the thyrde beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was lyke a flying Eagle. And the six bestes had eche one of them. vii. wynges about hem. And they were ful of eyes within. And they had no rest day neyther nyght sayng: Holy, holy, holy Lord God almighty, which was, and is, and is to come. And when those bestes gave gloire and honour and thankes to him that sat on the seat, (whiche liueth for ever and euer) the. xiiii. elders fell doune before hym that sat on the throne, and worshipped hym that lyueth for ever. And cast they crownes before the throne sayng: thou art worthy O Lord (our God) to receiue gloire, & honour, & power, for thou hast created all thynges, & for thy willes sake they are, & wer created.

The v. Chapter.

The forth the lambe opening the booke, & therfore the foure bestes, the. xiiii. elders, and the angels pray to the lambe & haue hym worshipped.

AND I sawe in the ryghte hande of hym that sat in the throne, a booke wyrtten wythin and on the backe syde, sealed with seven seales. And I sawe a strong aungel, which preached with a loude voyce: Who is worthy to open the booke, and to lose the seales thereof. And no man in heauen nor in earthe neyther vnder the earth, was able to open the booke neyther to loke thereon. And I wept much, because no man was found worthy to open and to rede the booke, neyther to loke thereon. And one of the elders sayed vnto me wepe not: Behold, a lyon of the trybe of Iuda, the roote of Dauid, hath obtayned to open the booke, and to lose the seven seales thereof. And I beheld, and loo, in the myddes of the seate, and of the foure bestes, and in the myddes of the elders, stode a lambe as though he had bene killed, hauyng seven hoynes, and seven eyes, whiche are the seven spytes of God sent in to al the world. And he came, and toke the booke out of the ryghte hand of hym that sat vpon the seat: And when he had taken the booke the. iiii. bestes and. xiiii. elders fel doune before the lambe, hauyng (euery one of them) harpes and golden vyalles full of odours, whiche are the prayres of sayntes, and they songe a newe songe, sayng: thou art worthy to take the booke, and to open the seales thereof: for thou wast kylled, and hast redeemed vs by thy bloude out of al kynedebes, and tounses, and people, and nacions, and hast mayde vs vnto our God, kynges, and prelates, and we shal reygne on the earth. And I behelde, and I hearde the voyce of many aungels aboute the throne, and about the beast and the elders, and I hearde thousande thousandes, sayng, with a loude voyce: Worthy is the lambe that was kylled to receyue power, and ryches, and wysdome and strenght, and honour, and gloire, and blessing. And al the creatures whiche are in heauen, and on the earth, and vnder the earth, and in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I sayng: blessing, honour, gloire, and power be vnto hym that sitteth vpon the seat, and vnto the lambe for evermore. And the four bestes sayed Amen. And the. xiiii. elders fell vpon theyr faces, and worshipped hym that lyueth for evermore.

The vi. Chapter.

The lambe opening the. scales, and many thynge that shal be doon.

AND I saw, when the lambe opened one of the scales, and I heard one of the foure bestes say: as it were the noyse of thonder: come and se, and I sawe. And behold, ther was a white hoyle: and he that sat on hym had a bowe and a crowne was geue vnto hym, and he went forth conqueriug and for to ouercome. And when he had opened the second scale, I heard the seconde beast say: come and se. And ther went out another hoyle that was redde, and power was geuen to hym that sat thereon, to take peace from the earth, & that they should kyll one another. And ther was geuen vnto hym a great swerd.

And when he had opened the thyrde scale I heard the thyrde beast say come and se. And I beheld, and lo, a blacke hoyle: and he that sat on hym had a payre of balauces in his hand. And I heard a voyce in the myddes of the foure bestes, say: a mesure of wheat for a peny, and thre mesures of barley for a peny, and oyle and wyne se thou hurte not. And when he had opened the fourth scale, I heard the voyce of the fourth beast say come and se: and I looked. And behold a pale hoyle: and his name that sat on hym was death, and he set forth after him, and power was geue vnto them ouer the fourth part of the earth to kyll with sword and with hunger, and with death, that cometh of vermen of the earth.

And whē he had opened the fyfte scale, I saw vnder the auter the soules of them that were kylled for the word of God, and for the testimony which they had, and they cryed with a loude voyce, sayng: howe longe tarrest thou Lord, holy and true, to iudge and to aduenge our bloude on them that dwell on the earth? And long white garments were geuen vnto euery one of them. And it was sayde vnto them, that they shoulde rest yet for a lytle season: vntyll the number of theyr felowes, and brethen, and of them that shoulde be kylled as they were, were fulfilled.

And I beheld, when he had opened the syxt scale: and lo, there was a great earthquake and the sunne was as blacke as a sackcloth made of heere. And the mone waxed al, euen as bloude and the sterres of heauen fell vnto the earth, eue as a fygge tree casteth from her vntymely fygges, when she is shaken of a mighty wynd. And benen vanished away, as a scrol whē it is rolled together. And all mountaynes and fles, were moued oute of theyr places: And the kynges of the earth, and the great men, & the rich men, and the cheefe captaynes, and the myghtie men, and euery bondman, and euery freman, had themselves in denmes, and in rockes of the hylls: and sayd to the hylls & rockes: fall on vs, and hyde vs from the presence of hym that sitteth on the seat, & from the wrath of the lambe: for the great day of his wrath is come, and who is able to endure?

Am. The

Chapter.

¶ De fere the four corners of the earth to the four corners of all nations and people, which thought they were secure, but the Lamb will bring them, and lead them to the fountain of living water, and shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

And after that, I sawe four angels stand on the four corners of the earth, holding the four bounden of the earth, that the wynde should not blowe on the earth, neyther on the sea, neyther on any tree. And I sawe another angel ascended from the rising of the sunne, whiche had the seale of the living God, and he cryed with a loud voyce to the four angels, to whom power was given to hurt the earth and the sea, saying: hurt not the earth, neyther the sea, neyther the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads.

And I herd the number of them whiche were sealed, and they were sealed on .C. and xliii. Of all the trybes of the chyldren of Israel. Of the trybe of Iuda were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Ruben were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Gad were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Aser were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Reptalym were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Danas were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Symeon were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Leuy were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Isacar were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Zabulon were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Joseph were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Ben Jamin were sealed. xii.

After this I behelde, and lo a greete multitude, whiche no man coulde number, of all nacions and people, and tounes, stode before the seat, and before the lambe, clothed with longe white garmentes, and palmes in theyr handes, and cryed with a loude voyce saying: saluacion be ascribed to hym that sitteth upon the seat of our God and unto the lambe. And all the angels stode in the compasse of the seat, and of the elders and of the four beastes, and fel before the seat on theyr faces, and worshipped God saying: Amen. Blessing and glory and wysedom and thankes, and honour, and power, and myght be unto our God for evermore. Amen.

D

And one of the elders answered, saying unto me, what are these whiche are arrayed in longe white garmentes, and whence come they? And I sayed unto hym: Lo, I knowe not. And he sayed to me: these are they, whiche came out of great tribulacion, and made theyr garmentes large, and made them white by the bloude of the lambe: therefore are they in the pcesence of the seat of God, and serue hym daye and nyght in his temple, and he that syteth in the seat will dwel among them. They shall hunger nomore, neyther thurst, neyther shall the sunne lyche on them, neyther any heat. For the lambe whiche is in the myddes of the seat shall fede them, and shall leade them unto fountaines of living water, and God shall wype away all teares from theyr eyes.

The viii. Chapter

The viii. scale is opened, that to silence in heuen, the four angels loose their trumpettes, and geue plagues unto the earth.

And whiche had opened the viii. scale, the four angels in heuen about the space of halfe an hour. And I sawe viii. angels standing before God, and to them were geuen trumpettes. And another angel came and stode before the altar, having a golden censur, and much of oyl was geuen unto hym, that he should offer of the prayers of all sayntes upon the golden altar whiche was before the seat. And the smoke of the obours whiche came of the prayers of all sayntes, ascended up before God out of the angels hand. And the angel took the censur, and fylled it with fyre of the altar, and cast it into the earth, and voyses were made, and thondynges and lychtwynges, and earthquakes.

And the seven angels whiche had the seven trumpettes, prepared themselves to blowe. The fyrst angel blew, and there was made hayle and fyre, which were myngled with bloud, and they were cast into the earth: and the thyrde part of the earth was burnt, and all grene grasse was drye. And the second angel blew, and as it were a great mounteyne burning with fyre was cast into the sea, and the thyrde part of the sea turned to bloude, and the thyrde part of the creatures whiche had lyfe dyed, and the thyrde part of the shippes were destroyed. And the thirde angel blew, and ther fell a great starre from heauen, burning as it were a lampe, and it fell into the thyrde part of the ryuers, and into the fountaines of waters, and the name of the starre is called wormwood. And the thyrde part was turned to wormwood. And many men dyed of the waters, because they were made bitter. And the iiij. angel blew, and the thyrde part of the sunne was smitten, and the thyrde part of the moone, and the thyrde part of the sterres: so that the thyrde part of them was darkened. And the daye was smitten, that the thyrde part of it should not shyne, and the nyght was darkened. And I beheld and herd an angel flying through the myddes of heauen, saying with a loud voyce: woe, woe, to the inhabytors of the earth, because of the voyses to com of the thre of the viii. angels, whiche were yet to blowe. The ix. Chapter.

¶ The fyfte and sixte angel blowe theyr trumpettes, the first falleth from heuen, the locusts come out of the smoke. The first two to paine, the fowre angels that were bound are loosed, and the thyrde part of men is kylled.

And the fyfte angel blew, and I sawe a starre fall from heauen unto the earth. And to hym was geuen the kape of the bottomles pye, and the smoke of the pye arose as the smoke of a great furnace. And the sunne and the ayer were darkened by the reason of the smoke of the pye. And ther came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth, and unto them was geuen power, as the scorpions of the earth have power. And it was commaunded them, that they should not hurt the grasse of the earth, neyther any grene thyng, neyther any tree: but onely those men whiche have not the seale in theyr foreheads. And to them was commaunded, that they should not kyll them, but that they should be vexed, and theyr paine should be as the paine that

al yon, and the second beast lyke a calfe, and the thyrde beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was lyke a flying Eagle. And the .iiii. beasts had ech one of them. vi. wynges about him and they wer full of eyes wythin. And they had no rest day neyther night sayng: Holy, holy, holy Lord God almighty, which was, and is, and is to come. And when those beasts gaue glory and honour and thanks to hym that sat on the seat, (which lyueth for ever and ever) the .xxiii. elders fel doune befoze hym that sat on the throne and worshipped hym that liueth for ever. And cast their crownes befoze the throne sayng: thou art worthy O Lord: (our God) to receiue glory, & honour, & power, for thou hast created all thynges, & for thy willes sake they ar, & wer created.

The .v. Chapter.

Defect the lambe opening the boke, and therefore the four beasts, the .xxiii. elders, and the angels praise the lambe and doo hym worshippe.

Ad I sawe in the ryghte hande of hym that sat on the throne, a booke wytten wythin and on the bakside, sealed with seven seales. And I sawe a strong Angel, which preached wth a loude voice: Who is worthy to open the boke, and to lose the seales thereof. And no man in heauen nor in earth neyther vnder the earth, was able to open the boke neyther to loke thereon. And I wept much, because no man was founde worthy to open and to rede the boke, neyther to loke thereon. And one of the elders sayed vnto me wepe not: Behold, a yon of the tribbe of Iuda, the roote of Dauid, hath obtained to open the booke, and to lose the seven seales thereof. And I behelde, and loo, in the myddes of the seate, and of the four beasts, and in the myddes of the elders, stood a lambe as though he had bene killed, hauyng seven hornes, and seven eyes, which are the seven spites of God sent in to al the world. And he came, and toke the boke out of the ryghte hand of hym that sat vpon the seat. And when he had take the boke the .iiii. beasts and .xxiii. elders fel doune befoze the lambe, hauyng (every one of them) harpes and golden byalles full of odours, whiche are the prayers of Sayntes, and they songe a newe songe, sayng: thou art worthy to take the booke, and to open the seales thereof: for thou wast killed, and hast redeemed vs by thy bloude out of al kynredes, and tounge, and people, and nacyons, and hast made vs vnto our God, kynges, and prelatess, and we shall reygne on the earth. And I behelde, and I hearde the voyce of many angels aboute the throne, and aboute the beast and the elders, and I hearde thousande thousandes, sayng, wth a loude voyce: Worthy is the lambe that was killed to receyue power, and ryches, and wysdome and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing. And al the creatures which are in heauen, and on the earth, and vnder the earth, and in the sea, and all that are in theym, heard I sayng: blessing, honour, glozpe, and power be vnto hym that sitteth vpon the seat and vnto the lambe for evermore. And the four beasts sayed. Amen. And the .xxiii. elders fell vpon they faces, and worshipped hym that lyueth for evermore.

The .vi. Chapter.

The lambe opening the boke, and many thynges folow the opeynge thereof.

Ad I saw, when the lambe opened one of the seales, and I heard one of the four beasts say: as it were the noyse of thunder: come and se and I saw. And behold, ther was a whit horse: and he that sat on hym had a bowe and a crowne was geue vnto hym, and he went forth conquering and for to overcome. And when he had opened the second seale, I heard the seconde beast say: come and se. And there went out another horse that was redde, and power was geuen to hym that sat thereon, to take peace from the earth, & that they should kyl one another. And ther was geuen vnto hym a great sword. And when he had opened the thyrde seale I hearde the thyrde beast say come and se. And I beheld, and lo, a blacke horse: and he that sat on hym had a payre of balauces in his hand. And I heard a voyce in the myddes of the four beasts, say: a mesure of wheat for a peny, and thre mesures of barley for a peny, and oyle and wyne se thou hurte not. And when he had opened the fourth seale, I heard the voyce of the fourth beast say come and se: and I looked, and beholde a pale horse and hys name that sat on hym was death, and hel folowd after hym, and power was geue vnto them ouer the fourth part of the earth to kyl with sword and with hunger, and wth death, that cometh of vermen of the earth.

And when he had opened the fyfte seale, I saw vnder the alter: the soules of them that were kylled for the word of God, and for the testimony which they had, and they cryed with a loude voyce, sayng: howe long taryest thou Lord, holy and true, to iudge and to aduenge our bloud on them that dwel on the earth: And long whir garmentes were geuen vnto every one of them. And it was sayed vnto them, that they should reast yet for a lytle season vntyll the number of their felowes, and bryethen, and of them that shoulde be kylled as they were, were fulfilled.

And I beheld, when he had opened the sytte seale: and lo, there was a great earthquake and the sonne was as blacke as a sackcloth made of beere. And the mone waxed al, euen as bloud and the steres of heauen fel vnto the earth, eue as a fygge tree casteth from her vntymely fygges, when she is shaken of a myghtie wynde. And heauen vanyshed a waie, as a scroll when it is rolled together. And all mountaynes and isles, were moued out of their places: And the kynges of the earth, and the great men, and the rych men, and the chef captaynes, and the myghty men, and every bondman, and every freman, had them selues in denes, and in rockes of the hylls: and sayed to the hylls and rockes: fall on vs and hyde vs frome the presence of hym that sitteth on the seate, and frome the wyathe of the labe: for the grete daye of hys wrath is come, and who is able to endure?

The Revelation

The vii. Chapter.

The first the Remembrance of those which in the first book out of all maner of people, whiche they haue made, put the same forth againe, to the Remembrance of keeping historie, and good shall be done all maner of people.

And after that, I sawe four angels stand on the four corners of the earth holding the four wyndes of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, neither on the sea, neither on any tree. And I sawe another angel ascend from the rising of the sunne, whiche had the seale of the living God, and he cryed with a loud voyce to the four angels (to whom power was geuen to hurte the earth and the sea) saying: hurte not the earth, neither the sea, neither the trees, till we haue sealed the seruantes of our God in their foreheades.

And I herd the number of them whiche were sealed, and ther were sealed an. C. and. xliiii. Of the tribe of Iuda were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Ruben were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Gad were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Aser were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Neptalym were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Symeon were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Leuy were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Isaac were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Zabulon were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Joseph were sealed. xii. Of the tribe of Ben Iamin were sealed. xii.

After this I behelde, and lo a greete multitude (whiche no man coulde number) of all nacions and people, and rounge, stode before the seat, and before the lambe, clothed with longe white garmentes, and palmes in theyr handes and cryed with a loude voyce saying: saluacyon be ascribed to hym that sitteth vpon the seat of our God and vnto the lambe. And all the angels stode in the compasse of the seate, and of the elders and of the four beastes, and sei before the seat on theyr faces, and worshipped God saying: Amen. Blessing and glozy and wysedom and thankes, & honour, and power, and myght be vnto our God for evermore. Amen.

And one of the elders answered, saying vnto me, what are these whiche are arrayed in longe white garmentes, and whence came they? And I sayed vnto hym: Lo, I knowe not. They shall hunger no more, neither thurst, neither shall the sonne lyght on them, neither any heat. For the lambe whiche is in the myddes of the seat shall fede them, and shall leade them, vnto fountaynes of lyuynge water, and God shall wype awaye all teares from theyr eyes.

The viii. Chapter

The viii. shall be opened, that is to saye in heauen, the four angels whiche were bounde, and great plagues shal come vpon the earth.

And whyle he had opened the viii. scale ther was silence in heuen about the space of halfe an hour. And I sawe viii. angels standynge before God, and to them wer geuen trumpettes. And another angel came and stode before the auter, baryng a golden censur, and much of odours was geuen vnto hym, that he shoulde offer of the prayers of all sayntes vpon the golden auter whiche was before the seat. And the smoke of the odours whiche came of the prayers of all sayntes, ascended vnto God out of the angels hand. And the angel toke the censur, and fylled it with fyre of the auter, and cast it into the earth, and voyses wer made, and thondrynge and lyghtenynge, and earthquakes.

And the seven angels whiche had the seven trumpettes, prepared themselves to blowe. The first angel blew, and there was made hayle and fyre, whiche wer mingled with bloud, and thei wer cast into the earth: and the third part of the earth was burnt, and all grene grasse was brynt. And the second angel blew: and as it wer a great mountayne burnynge with fyre was cast into the sea and the third part of the sea turned to bloude and the third part of the creatures whiche had lyfe dyed, and the third part of the shippes wer destroyed. And the third angel blew, and ther fel a great starre from heauen, burnynge as it wer a lampe, and it fell into the third part of the ryuers, and into the founteynes of waters and the name of the sterre is called wormwood. And the third part was turned to wormwood. And many men died of the waters, because they wer made bitter. And the iiij. angel blew, and the third part of the sunne was smitten, & the third part of the mone, and the third part of the sterres: so that the third part of them was darkened. And the day was smitten, that the third part of it shoulde not shyne and lykewise the nyght. And I behelde and herd an angel sayng through the midst of heauen, saying with a loud voyce: Wo, wo, to the inhabytors of the earth, because of the voyses to com of the trope of the angels, whiche were yet to blowe.

The ix. Chapter

The fyfte and syxte angel blowe theyr trumpettes the sterre falleth from heauen, the locustes come out of the smoke. The first two to pass, the four angels that were bounde are loosed, and the third part of men is kylled.

And the fyfte angel blew and I sawe a starre fall from heauen vnto the earth. And to hym was geuen the hape of the botomles pit, and the smoke of the pyt arose as the smoke of a great furnace. And the sunne and the ayre wer darkened by the reasyn of the smoke of the pyt. And ther came out of the smoke locustes vpon the earth, and vnto them was geuen power, as the scorpions of the earth haue power. And it was commaunded them that they shuld not hurte the grasse of the earth, neither any grene thyng, neyther any tree: but onely those men whiche haue not the seale in theyr foreheades. And to them was commaunded, that they shuld not kyll them, but that they shoulde be vexed. v monethes, and theyr payne was as the payne that that cometh of a scorpion when he hath stung a man. And in those dayes shall men see death and shall not fynde it, and shall desyre to dye, and death shall fle from them.

And the symilitude of the locustes was like unto horses prepared unto battel, and on their heades wer as it wer crownes, lyke unto golde, and theyr faces were as it had bene the faces of men. And theyr teeth were as the teeth of yrons. And theyr had habbergons, as it wer habbergons of yron. And the sound of theyr wynges, was as the sound of charettes, wher many horses runne together to battayle. And theyr had taples lyke unto scorpions, and theyr wer stynged in theyr taples. And theyr power was to hurt men fyue monethes. And theyr had a kyng ouer the whiche is the angell of the botomles pyt, whose name in the hebreue tong is Abaddon, but in the Greke tong, Apollion, that is to say: a destroyer. One was is past, and behold two woos com yet after this. And the fyrte angel blew, and I hearde a voyce from the four corners of the golden auter, whych is befoze God, sayng to the fyrte angel whych had the trompe: Lose the four angels whiche are bound in the great pyt: Euphrates And the four angels wer losed: whych wer prepared for an hour, for a daye, for a moneth, and for a yere, for to slaye the iii. parte of the men And the number of hostme of warre wer. xx. W.

And I heard the number of them: and thus I sawe the hostes in a vpsyon, and the that sat on them, haupung fyre habbergons of a Jacinct colour, and byrmiston, and the heades of the hostes were as the heades of yrons. And out of their mouthes went forth fyre and smoke and byrmiston. And of these there was the thyrde part of men killed: that is to say, of fyre, smoke and byrmiston: whych proceded out of the mou-thes of the: For theyr power was in their mou-thes and in theyr taples, for theyr taples were lyke unto serpentes, and had heades, and with them theyr did hurt: And the remnant of the me whych wer not killed by these plagues, repented not of the dedes of theyr handes that they shuld not worshippe deuils, and ymages of gold and syluer, and byasse, & stone, and of wood, whych

The. x. Chapter.

The angel hath the booke open, he sheweth ther shalbe no more tyme, he gaweth the booke vnto Ihon, whych eateth it vp.

As I sawe another myghty angel come downe fro heauē clothed with a cloude, and the raiabow vpon his beed. And his face as it wer sunne and his feet as it wer pylers of fire and he had in his hand a litle booke open, and he put his ryght foote vpon the sea, and his lyfte foote on the earth. And cryed with a loud voyce when a lyon roared. And when he had cryed, seuen thunders spake theyr voyces. And when the seuen thunders had spoken theyr voyces:

I was aboute to wyte: And I hearde a voyce fro heauen, sayng vnto me, seale vp thos. thynges whiche the seuen thunders spake, and wyte theim not. And the angell whiche I sawe stond vpon the sea, and vpon the earth, lyt vp his had to heauē, and swore by hym, that lieth for euermore whiche created heauen, and the thynges therin are: (And of earth and the thynges that therein are) and the sea, and the thynges whiche therein are:
that there shoulde bee no longer tyme but in the dayes of the voyce of the seuenth angell, wher he shall begynne to blowe, even the miniscre of God shalbe finished, as he preached by his ser-uautes the prophets. And the voyce whiche I hearde from heauen, spake vnto me agayn, and said: goo and take the litle booke whiche is open in the hande of the angell whych standeth vpon the sea, and vpon the earth. And I wente vnto the angell and sayed to hym: geue me the litle booke and he sayed vnto me: take it, and eate it vp, and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shalbe in thy mouth as swete as honey. And I toke the litle booke out of his hande and eate it vp, and it was in my mouth as swete as honey: and as sone as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter. And he sayed vnto me: I must prophesy again among people, & nacids & toungeues, & to many kynges.

The. xi. Chapter.

The temple is measured. The seconde woos is past.

As then was geuen me a rebe like vnto a rod, & it was sayed vnto me.
Rise & meate the temple of God, and the autler and them & worship ther in, and the quier whiche is within the temple, cast out & meate it not, for it is geue vnto the Gentiles, & the holy cite shal thei treade vnder fote. xlii. monethes. And I will geue power vnto my twoo witnesses, and they shal prophesy a thousande twoo hundred & sixty dayes clothed in sacke cloth. These are two olive trees & twoo candelstickes, standyng befoze the God of the earth. And if any manne wyl hurte them, fyre shall procede out of theyr mouthes, and consume theyr enemyes. And if any man wyl hurt them theyr wyle muste be kylled. These haue power to shut heauen, that it raine not in dayes of theyr prophesying: and haue power ouer waters to turne them to bloude, & to smyte the erth wyth all maner of plagues, as often as they wyl.

And when they haue synished theyr testimony, the beast that came out of the botomles pyt, shal make warre agaynst them, and shal ouercome them, and kyle them. And theyr bodyes shal lye in the stretes of the great cyte, whych spyr-tually is called iudom and Egypt, wher our lord was crucified. And theyr of the people and kyn-reds, and tonges, and theyr of the nacyns, shal se theyr bodyes thre dayes and a halfe, and shal not suffer their bodies to be put in graues. And theyr that dwell vpon the erth, shal reioyse ouer them and be glad, and shal sende gyftes one to a nother, for these twoo prophetes vexed the that dwelte on the earth. And after the dayes and an halfe, the spyrte of lyfe from God entred into them. And they stode vp vpon theyr feet, and great feare came vpon them whych sawe them And they heard a great voyce from heauen, sayng vnto them: Come vphether. And they ascended vpon heauen in a cloud, and they sawe many saue them. And the same hour was there a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the cite fell, and in the earthquake were slayne names of men seuen thousande, and the remnant were feared, and gaue glorye to the God of heauen. The second booke is past, and beholde the thyrde booke will come anon.

D And the vii. angel blew, and ther was made great voyces in heauen, sayng: the kingdome of this world are our Lordes, and hys Chyrlles, and he shall reygne for euer more. A And the viii. elders, which sit before God on their seates, fel vpon theyr faces, and worshyppyd God sayng: we geue the thankes O Lord God almyghty: whych art and wast, and arte to come, for thou hast receyved thy great myghte and hast reygned. And the nacions were angry and thy wrath is com, and the time of the death that they shoulde be iudged and that thou shouldest geue reward vnto thy seruantes the prophetes and saintes, and to them that seare thy name smal and great and shouldest destroy them whych destroy the cite. And the temple of God was opened in heauen, and ther were sene in hys temple, the Ark of his testamente, and ther folowd lightenynges, and voyces, and thondynges, and earthquake, and murbe hayle.

The xii. Chapter

The seventh angel bloweth hys trumpet, there appereth in heauen a woman clothed with the sunne, and she walketh with the dragon, which persecuteth the woman.

I And ther apiered a grete wonder in heauen: A woman clothed with the sunne and the mone vnder her feete and vpon her heade a crowne of xii. sterres. And she was with chylde, & cryed traunaplyng in byrth, and payned readye to be deliuered. And ther appered another woman in heauen, for behold, a great redde dragon hauing vii. heades and senned hornes and seven crownes vpon hys heades: and his tayle byue the part of the sterres, and caste the to the earth. And the dragon stode before the woman whych was ready to be deliuered: for to deuour her chylde as soon as it wer borne. And she brought forth a manchild, whych shoulde rule all nacions with a rod of yron. And her sonne was taken vp vnto God, and to hys seate. And the woman fledde into wyldernes, where she had a place, prepared of God, that they shoulde feede her there a thousand, two hundred and lx. dayes. And there was a great battayle in heauen, Michael and hys angels fought with the dragon, and the dragon fought and hys angels and preuailed not, neither was theyr place founde any more in heauen. And the grete dragon, the olde serpente, called the deuill and satanas, was cast oute. Whych deceaueth all the world. And he was cast into the earth and hys angels cast out also. And I heard a loud voyce, sayng: in heauen is now made saluacyon and strenght and the kingdom of our God, & the power of his Churche. For the accusers of our brethren are caste doune whych accused them before God day and nyght. And they overcame hym by the blood of the lambe, and by the word of theyr testimony, and they loued not theyr lyues vnto the death. Therfore reioyce heuens, and ye that dwell in them. Also to the inhabitants of the erth and of the sea: for the deuill is come doune vnto you whych hath grete wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a shorte tyme.

A And when the dragon sawe that he was cast vnto the earth, he persecuted the woman, which brought forth the ma chylde. And to the woman were geuen two wynges of a grete Eagle, that she myght flye into the wyldernes into her place wher she is noursyd for a tyme, & men, and half a tyme, from the vycesse of the serpent. And the dragon cast out of hys mouth water after the woman as it had ben a riuer, because she shuld haue bene caughte of the floude. And the earth helped the woman, and the erth opened her mouth and swalowed by the ryuer, whych the dragon caste out of hys mouth. And the dragon was wrothe with the woman, & went, and made warre with the remnant of her seede, whych kept the commandementes of God, and haue the testimony of Iesus Chyrl. And he stode on the sea sand

The xiii. Chapter.

A beast comyth out of the sea with senned hornes and senned hooves. Another beast comyth out of the earth with senned hooves.

A And I sawe a beaste ryse out of the sea, hauing senned heddes, and senned hooves, and vpon hys hornes senned crownes, and vpon hys hedde, the name of blasphemie. And the beaste whiche I sawe, was lyke a catte of the mountaigne, and his feete were as the feete of a beare, and hys mouth as the mouth of a lion. And the dragon gaue hym hys power and his seate, & great aucthorite: & I sawe one of his heddes as it wer wounded to deathe, and hys deadly wounde was healed. And all the world wondred at the beaste and they worshipped the dragon, whych gaue power vnto the beaste, and they worshipped the beaste, sayng: who is lyke vnto the beaste? who is able to warre with hym? And there was geuen vnto hym a mouth, that spake grete thynges and blasphemies, and power was geuen vnto hym, to dooe xii. monethes. And he opened hys mouth vnto blasphemie agaynst God, to blaspheme his name and hys tabernacle, and them that dwelte in heauen. And it was geuen vnto hym to make warre with the saintes, and to overcome them. And power was geuen him ouer all kynned, and people, and tongue and nacyon and all that dwell vpon the earth worshipped hym whose names are not wyrtten in the booke of life of the lambe, whiche was killed from the begynnyng of the world. If any mane haue an eare let hym heare. he that leadech into captyuete shall goe into captyuete: & he that killeth with a swerde must bee killed with a swerde. Here is the patience, and the faythe of the sayntes.

And I behelde another beaste comyng vpon out of the earth, and had runne downe from the end he spake an dyd the dragon. And he dyd that the fyfte beast could dooe in his picture and he caused the earth, and them which dwell therein, to worshippe the fyfte beast whose wound was healed. And he dyd great wondrous so that he made fyre come downe from heuen the sight of men. And decreued them that dwell on the earth, by the meane of the dragon which he had power to do in the sight of the beast say-yng to them that dwelle on the earth that they should make an image vnto the beast, whiche had the wounde of the sword, and dyd lyue.

And he had power to geue a spirite vnto the ymage of the beast, that the image of the beast should speake, and should cause that as many as would not worshippe the ymage of the beast, should bee kylled. And he made all both small and great, ryche and poore, fre and bond, to receive a marke in their right handes or in theyr foreheades. And that no man myght buye or sellene he had the marke or the name of the beast or the nombze of hys name. Here is wysedom.
 Let hym that hath wit, compute the nombze of the beast. For it is the nombze of a man, and hys nombze is syxe hundred sixty and syxe.

¶ The. xlii. Chapter.

¶ The lambe standeth vpon the mounte Sion, & the videties congregacion with hym. The angel exhorteth to the care of God, and tellerh of the fall of Babilon.

And I looked, and lo, a lambe stode on the mounte Sion, and with him an hundred. xlii. ¶. hauing his OR (name and his) fathers name written in their foreheades. And I heard a voyce from heauen, as the sound of many waters, and as the voyce of a great thonder. And I hearde the voyce of harpers harpyng with their harpes. And they song as it were a new song, before the seate, and before the four beastes, and the elders, and no man could learne the sog, but the hundred and. xlii. ¶. whiche were redeemed from the earth. These are they whiche were not defyled with women, for they are vyrgynes.

¶ These foloe the lambe wherher soeuer he goeth. These were redeemed from men, beyng fyft frutes vnto God and to the lambe, and in theyr mouthes was founde no guyle. For they are wout spot before the trone of God. And I sawe another angell sty in the myddes of heauen hauying the euerglastyng Gospell, to preache vnto them that lye and dwell on the earth: and to all nations, kynneddes, and toungeues and people, sayng with a loude voyce: ¶ Feare God, & geue honour vnto hym, for the houre of his iudgement is come, and worshippe hym & made heauen and earth the sea, & fountaynes of water. And there folowed another angell sayng: ¶ Babilon is fallen, is fallen that greete ciitee, for she made all nations drynke of the wyne of her fornycacyon.

¶ And the thyrde angell folowed them sayng, with a loude voyce: If any manne worshippe the beast and his ymage, and receiue his marke in his forehead, or in his hande, flame shall drynche the wyne of the wrath of God, whiche is poured in the cuppe of his wrath. And he shalbe punyshed in fyre. ¶ And I sawe, and behelde, a white clowde and vpon the clowde one sittinge like vnto the sonne of manne, hauing on hys head a golde croune, and in hys hande a sharpe syckle. And another angell came out of the temple, cryng to a loude voyce to hym that satte on the clowde Thrusht in thy syckle and reape, for the tyme ys come to reape: for the tyme of the earth is ripe.

 And he that satte on the clowde thurst in hys sy-ckell on the earth and the earth was reaped. And another angell came out of the temple, whiche is in heauen, hauing also a sharpe syckell. And another angell came out from the aulter whiche had power ouer fyre, and cryed with a loud voyce to hym that had the sharpe syckell, and sayed thurst in thy sharpe syckle, and gather the clusters of the earthe, for her grapes are ripe. and the angell thurst in hys sharpe sickle on the earthe and cutte downe the grapes of the vyne-yarde of the earthe: and cast them into the great wynevat of the wrath of God, and the wynevat was trodden withoute the cytee, and bloodde came out of the fatte, euen vnto the hylle hyples, by the space of a thousande, and syxe hundred furlonges.

¶ The. xli. Chapter.

¶ The seuen laste angels, hauing seuen vialles full of wrath.

And I sawe another sygne in heauen grete and meruelous, sent angels hauing the seuen laste plagis, for in them is fulfilled the wrath of God.
 And I sawe as it were a glassy sea myngled with fyre, and them I had gotten victory of the beast, and his ymage & of the nombze of hys name, stand on the glassy sea, hauing the harpes of God and they sang the song of Moses the seruaunt of God, and the song of the lambe sayng: ¶ Grete and meruelous are thy woorkes ¶ Lord God almighty: iust & true are thy waies thou kyng of saintes. ¶ Who shall not feare ¶ Thee, & glorify thy name? For thou onely art holy & all Gentiles shall come and worshippe before thee for thy iudgements are made manifest.

And after that I looked, and beheld the temple of the tabernacle of testimony was open in heauen, & the seuen angels came out of the temple whiche had the seuen plagis clothed in pure and bygghte linnen, and hauing their breastes girded with golden girdels. And one of foure beastes gaue vnto the seuen angels seuen golde vialles full of the wrath of God, whiche liueth for evermore. And the temple was full of the smoke.

And the first of the four angels which stood ready upon the four corners of the altar, and the fourth angel said unto me, Rise up and shew unto the people the plagues of the book of the prophecy.

And the first of the four angels which stood ready upon the four corners of the altar, and the fourth angel said unto me, Rise up and shew unto the people the plagues of the book of the prophecy.

The first Chapter.

And I heard a great voice out of the temple saying unto the seven angels, Go your way, and shew unto the people the plagues of the book of the prophecy. And the first angel went and poured out his vial upon the earth, and there fell a noisome, & a sore, and the fourth angel said unto me, Rise up and shew unto the people the plagues of the book of the prophecy.

And there came one of the angels, whiche had the seven vialles, and talked with me, saying, Rise up and shew unto the people the plagues of the book of the prophecy. And the first angel went and poured out his vial upon the earth, and there fell a noisome, & a sore, and the fourth angel said unto me, Rise up and shew unto the people the plagues of the book of the prophecy.

And the second angel poured out his vial upon the sea, and it turned as it were into the blood of a dead man, & every living thing which was in the sea died. And the third angel poured out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters, & they turned to blood. And I heard an angel say, Lo, he toucheth the earth, & the earth is righteous and holy, because thou hast given such judgement. For they shed out of the bloude of sapientes, and prophetes, and therefore haste thou given them bloude to drynke: for they are worthy. And I heard another say, Amen to Lord God almighty, true and righteous are thy judgements.

And the fourth angel poured out his vial upon the sunne, and power was geue unto him to burne men with heat of fire, and the men were scorched in great heate, and spake euell of the name of God, whiche hath power ouer those plagues, and they repented not of their euell dedes, to geue him glory. And the v. angel poured out his vial upon the seat of the beast, and his kyngdome waxed darke, and they gnawed their tongues for sorrow, and blasphemed the god of heuyn for their sorow, and paine of their sores, & repented not of their dedes.

And the vi. angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates, and the water dried up, that the wayes of the kinges of the east shoulde be prepared. And I sawe ther vncleane spytes lyke frogges com out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the falsse prophet. For they are the spytes of deuyls, doynge myracles to go out vnto the kinges of the earth, & of the whole world to gather them to the battayl of that great day of God almyghtie. Behold, I come as a theefe, happy is he that watcheth, and kepeth his garments, leaste he walke naked, and men se his shyltyness. And he gathered them together into a place called in the hebrewe tonge Armagedon.

And the vii. angel poured out his vial into the ayre. And there came a great voice out of heuyn, saying, it is done. And there folowed voyces, thundrynges, and lyghtnynges, and there was a great earthquake, such as was not sence men were vpon the earth, so myghty an earthquake, and so great. And the great cytye was deuised into thre partes, and the cyties of all nations fel. And greate Babylon came in remembrance before God, to geue vnto her the cuppe of the wine of the fiercenes of his wrath. Every yle also fled away, and the mountaynes were not found. And there fel a great hail, as it

And the angel sayed vnto me: wherfore maruellest thou? I will shewe the the myserie of the woman, and of the beast that beareth her, whiche hath seuen heades and ten hornes. The beast that thou seest, was, and is not, and shall ascende out of the bottomlesse pytt, and shall go into perdyccion, and they shal dwell on the earth. Whose names are not wyrtten in the booke of lyfe from the begynnyng of the world. And when I sawe her, I wondered with a greete maruaille.

And the angel sayed vnto me: wherfore maruellest thou? I will shewe the the myserie of the woman, and of the beast that beareth her, whiche hath seuen heades and ten hornes. Whose names are not wyrtten in the booke of lyfe from the begynnyng of the world. And when I sawe her, I wondered with a greete maruaille.

For God hath put in thep heretes to fulfill his wyl, & to do with one consent, for to geue thep kyngdome vnto the beast, vntill the wordes of God be fulfilled. And the woman whiche thou sawest, is that great cty, which reigneth ouer the kynges of the earth.

C The. viii. Chapter.

The wordes of the woman are sayde for the fall of Babylon, but they that be of God have cause to reioyce for her destruction.

After that, I sawe another Angell come fro heauen, hauing greates power, and the earth was lightened with his bypghenesse. And he cryed myghtyly with a stronge voyce, sayng: * Grete Babylon is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitacion of byuels, and the holde of all foule spertes, and a cage of al vncleane and hateful bypdes, for all nacjons haue dronken of the wine of the wrath of her fornicacyon. And the kynges of the earth haue commytted fornicacyon with her, and the marchauntes of the earth are waxed ryche of the aboundance of her pleasures.

B And I hearde another voyce from heauen saye, come awaye frome her my people, that ye be not partakers of her synnes, and ye receyue not of her plazes. For her synnes are gone up to heauen, and God hath remembred her wickednes. Reward her euen as she rewarded you and geue her double accordyng to her workes. And pour in double to her in the same cup which she fylled vnto you. And as much as she glorified her selfe & luyeth wantonly, somuch more ye in: for her punishment & sorowe, for she sayd in her selfe: * I syt being a quene, and am no wydowe, and shall se no sorowe. Therefore shall her plazes come in one day, death, and sorowe, and hunger, & she shall be dyent with fyre: for stronge is the Lorde God whiche shall iudge her. And the kynges of the earth shall bewep her & wail her, whiche haue commytted fornicacyon with her and haue luyed wantonly with her, when they shall se the smoke of her burnyng, & shall stande a farre of, for feare of her punishment, sayng

And the marchauntes of the earth that wepe and waille in them selues, for no man wyl bye they: ware any more, the ware of golde and syluer, and peryous stones, nether of pearle, & raienes, and purple, and scarlet, and all thyne wode and all maner vessels of pnyer, & all maner vessels of most peryous wode, & of byasse, and pzon (and much) & synamon, and obours, and opntemites, and frankensence, and wyne, & oyle: and fyne flour, and wheat, beastes, and shepe, & horses and charets, and bodyes, and soules of men.

And the apples of the soule lusteth after, are departed from the. And all thynges which were deynfyre: and had in pyce, are departed from the and thou shalt fynde them nomore. The marchauntes of these thynges whiche were waxed ryche, shall stande a farre of from her, for feare of the punishment of her, weappyng and waylyng and sayng.

* Alas, Alas, that grete ctye: & was clothed

in raynes and purple, and scarlette, and decked with golde, and peryous stones, and pearles: for at a houre so grete ryches be come to naught.

And every wypp governour, and all they that occupied wyppes, and wyppmen whiche wouke in the see, stode a farre of, and cryed, when they sawe the smoke of her burnyng, sayng: what ctye is lyke vnto this grete ctye: and they caste duste on they: heades, and cryed wepyng and waylyng & sayde: * Alas, Alas, that grete ctye, wherein were made ryche at that had wyppes in the see, by the reason of her coklynnes, for at one houre is she made desolate. Reioyce ouer her thou heauen, and ye holy Apostels and Prophetes: for God hath geuen you Judgemente on her. And a myghty angell toke up a stone lyke a great myllstone, & caste it into the see, sayng: wyth such vyolence shall that grete ctye Babylon be caste, and shall be founde nomore.

And the voyce of harpers, & mulcyons, and of wyppes, and trompeters shall be herde nomore in the: and no craftesman, of whatsoeuer crafts be shall be founde any more in the. And the sound of a myll shall be herde nomore in the, and the voyce of the bypdegrome and of the bypde, shall be herde nomore in the, for the marchauntes were the grete men of the earth. And with thyne inchauntement wer deceiued all nacjons: and in her was founde the bloude of the Prophetes, and of the sayntes, and of all the wyrt sayn vpon the earth.

C The. xix. Chapter.

Drake is geuen vnto God for iudgyng the wyrt, and for avenge the bloude of his seruantes. The mylls wyl not be luythrypped. The foules and bydes are catched in the draughtes.

After that I herd a grete voyce of much people in heauen sayng: Alleluya. Saluacyon, & glozy, and honour, and power be ascribed to the Lorde our God, for trewe and ryghteous are his iudgements, for he hath iudged the grete wyrt whiche dyd corupte the earth with her fornicacyon, and hath auenged the bloude of his seruantes of her hande. And agayne they sayde: Alleluya. And smoke rose up for evermore. And the xxiiij. elders, and the.iiii. beastes fell downe & wooshypped God & late on the seate, sayng: Amen, Alleluya. And a voyce came out of the seate sayng: prayse our Lord God, all ye that are his seruantes and ye that feare hym both small and grete.

And I herd the voyce of much people euen as the voyce of many waters, and as the voyce of stronge thundrynges sayng: Alleluya, for the Lord our God omnipotent reigneth. Let vs be glad and reioyce, & geue honour to hym, for the maryage of the lambe is come, and his wyte made her selfe ready. And to her was graunted that she shoulde be arayed with pure and goodly raynes. For the raynes is the ryghtewynnes of sayntes. And he sayd vnto me, wyrtte, & happy are they whiche are called vnto the supper of the lames maryage: And he sayde vnto me: these are the true sayntes of God. And I fel at his feet to wooshypp hym. And he sayde vnto me: do it not. For I am thy felowe seruante, & one of the thy brethren, even of them that have the testimony of Jesus. ¶ The testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy. And I saw the heaven open, and behold, a white horse and he that sat upon him was called faithful and true, and in righteousness he doth judge and make battle. His eyes were as a flame of fire and on his head were many crowns, and he had a name written, that no man knew but he himself. ¶ And he was clothed with a vesture dyed in blood, and his name is called the word of God. And the warriors which were in heaven, followed him upon white horses, clothed with white and pure raynes, and out of his mouth went a sharpe two edged sword, that whosoever should smyte the heathen. And he shall rule them with a rod of iron, and he trode the wine press of fiercenes & wrath of almyghyte God.

And bath on his vesture and on his thigh a name written: kynge of kynges, and Lorde of Lordes. And I sawe an angel stand in the sunne and he cryed with a loud voice, sayng: to all the foules that flye by the myddes of heauen: come and gather yowr selues together vnto the supper of the great God, that ye maye cate flesh of kynges, and the fleshe of the hye captaynes, and the fleshe of myghty men, and the fleshe of horses, and of them that syt on them, & the fleshe of all free men and bonde men and of small and greute. And I sawe the beastes, and the kynges of the earth, and theyr warriers gathered together to make batell against hym & sat on his horse and agaynst his souldyars. And the beast was taken, & hym false prophete & wrought myracle before hym, with which he deceyued them that receyued the beastes marke, and them that worshipped hym ymage. These both were cast quykly into a pond of fyre burning with brimstone: and the remnaunte were slayne with the swerde of hym that sat upon the horse, which swerde proceded out of his mouth, and all the foules were fulfilled with theyr fleshe.

The xx. Chapter.

And I sawe an angel come downe fro heauen, hauyng the keye of the bottomlesse pyt, and a great chayn in his hand. And he toke the dragon & olde serpent which is the deuyl and Satayn, & he bounde hym a thousand yeres: & cast hym into a bottomlesse pyt and he shut hym vp, and set a seale on hym that he should deceyue the people nomore, tyll a thousand yeres were fulfilled. And after that he must be loosed for a lytle season. And I sawe seates, and theyr sat vpon them, & iudgement was given vnto them: and I sawe the foules of the earth that were beheaded for the wytnes of Iesu, & for the worde of God: & which had not worshipped the beaste neithyr hym ymage neithyr had taken his marke vpon theyr forehedes, or in theyr handes: and they lyued, & raygned with Christ a. 1000. yeres: but the other of the deade men lyued not agayne, untill the thousande yere were fulfilled. This is that fyre resurrection. Blis-

sed & holy is he, that hath parte in the fyre resurrection. For on such a daye the seconde deathe shall haue no power, but they shall be the byastes of God and of Christ, and shall raygne with hym a thousande yere. ¶ And when the 1000. yeres are fulfilled, Satayn shall be loosed out of his pylson, and shall goe out to dysceyue the people, which are in the four quarters of the earth, which are in the four quarters of the earth, to gather them together to battell, whose nombre is as the sande of the see. And they went in the playne of the earth: & compassed the tentes of the sayntes about, and the beloued cytye. And fyre came downe from God out of heauen, & deuoured them: & the deuyl dysceyued them, was cast into a lake of fyre & brimstone, wher the beaste & the false prophete shall be tormented daye and nyght for euermore.

And I sawe a great white seate, & hym & sat on it, from whose face fled away both the earth and heauen and theyr place was nomore found. And I sawe the dead, both great & small stand before God. And the booke were opened, and another booke was opened, which is the booke of lyfe, and the deade were iudged of those thynges which were written in the booke accordyng to theyr dedes, & the see gaue vp the dead which were in her, and death, and hell deliuered up the dead, which were in them: and they were iudged euery man accordyng to his dedes. And death and hell were caste into the lake of fyre. This is the seconde deathe. And whosoener was not found written in the booke of lyfe, was cast into the lake of fyre.

The xxi. Chapter.

And I sawe a newe heauen & a newe earth. For the fyre heauen and the fyre earth were vanyshe away, and ther was nomore see. ¶ And I sawe the holy cytye, newe Ierusalem come downe from God out of heauen prepared as a wyde garnyshe for her husbande. And I hearde a greute voyce out of heauen sayng, behold the tabernacle of God is with us, and he will dwell with them. And they shall be his people, and God hymself shall be with them, and be theyr God. ¶ And God shall wype away all teares from theyr eyes.

And ther shall be nomore death, neithyr sorrow neithyr cryng, neithyr shall ther be any more pain, for the olde thynges are gone. And he that sete vpon the seate, sayde: ¶ Beholde, I make al thynges newe. ¶ And he sayde vnto me: write, for these wordes are saythfull and true.

And he sayd vnto me: it is done, I am Alpha and Omega, the begynnyng & the ende, I will geue to hym that is athyr, & of the well of the water of lyfe, free. He that ouercomyth shall enheret all thynges, and I will be hym God, and he shall be my sonne. But the fearfull and unbeleuyng, and the abhominable, and the murderers, and whoremongers, & forcerers, and idolaters, and all lyers shall haue theyr parte in the lake, which burneth with fyre and brimstone, which is the seconde deathe.

And

And there came vnto me one of þe seuen aungels which had the seuen vppalles full of the seuen laste plagis: and talked wþ me sayng, come hyther. I wyll shewe the the byrde, the lambes toyle. And he carped me awape in the spete to a great and an hye mountayne, and he shewed me the great cytie holy Jerusalem, descending out of heauen from God: hauyng the byghthens of God. And her bypnyng was lyke vnto a stone most pypous, euen lyke a Iasper cleare as Crystall: and had walles greates and hye, and had. xli. gates and at the gates. xli. aungels: and names wyrtten, which are the names of þe xli. tribes of Israel: on the East parte. iij. gates, and on the Northpart. iij. gates, and towarde þe South. iij. gates, and from þe west. iij. gates, and the wal of þe cytie had. xli. foundations: in the the. xli. names of þe lambes. xli. Apostles.

And he that talked with me, had a golde rebe to measure the cytie withall and þe gates therof and þe wall therof. And the cytie was bypnt. iij. square, and þe length was as large as þe bredth, and he measured the cytie with the. xli. rebe. xli. furlonges, and þe length and the bredth, and the hepyth of it, were equall. And he measured the wal therof: an. C. xli. cubytes: the measure þe Aungell had, was after the measure that man vsyth. And the bypnyng, of þe wall of it was Iasper. And the cytie was pure golde: lyke vnto clere glasse, and the foundations of the walles of the cytie were garnysed wþ all manner of pypous stones. The fyrst foundation was Iaspis, the seconde Saphyre, the thyrde a Calcedony, the fourth an Emerald, the fyfte Sardonix, the syxti Sardonix, the seuenth Chrysolite, the eyght Beccall, the ix. a Tomas, the tenth a Crinopzalos, the eleuenth Iacynth, the tweluenth an Amatyst. The twelue gates were twelue pearles, euery gate was of one perle, and the strete of þe cytie was pure golde as thorothe shynnyng glasse. And I sawe no temple therin. For the Lorde God almyghty and the lambe are the temple of it. And the cytie hath no neede of the sunne, neether of the mone to lpyghten it. For the byghthens of God bypnt lpyghte it, and the lambe was the lpyght of it. And the people which are saued shall walke in the lpyght of it. And the bynges of þe earth shall bypnt the glasse. And þe gates of it are not shutte bydape. For there shall be no nyght there. And into it shall they bypnt the glasse and þe names of the name. And there shall entre into it: none vncleane thyng, neether wharsoeuer woþketh abhominacpon or maketh lyer: but they one lyer whiche are wyrtten in the lambes boke of lyfe.

¶ The xxii. Chapter.

The power of the water of lyfe, the fruchtfulnes and lpyght of the cytie of God. The Lorde gelyfeth euery seruaunt that bypnt of thynges to come the angel wyll not be wroth. To the temple of God wyll nothing be added, nor mynyshed.

And he shewed me a pure ryuer of water of lyfe, cleare as Crystall: procedyng oute of the seate of God, and the lambe. In the myddes of the strete of it, and of ether syde at the ryuer, was the wyde of lyfe: which bare twelue maner of frutes: and gaue frute euery monethe: and the leues of the woode serued to heale the people wþ all. And there shall be no more curle, but the seate of God and the lambe shall be in it: and his seruauntes shall serue them. And they shall se his late, and his name shall be in the bypnt lpyghted. And there shall be no night there, and they neede no candle, neether lpyghte of the sunne: for the Lorde God geueth them lpyght and they shall ray. ne for euermore.

And he sayde vnto me: these saynges are saythful and true. And the Lorde God of þe holye Prophetes sent hys Aungell to shewe vnto his seruauntes, the thynges which must shortly be fulfilled. Beholde, I come shortly. * I saye apoc. iij. I saye he shepeth the saying of the prophete of this boke. I am Iohn, whiche sawe these thynges and herd the. And when I had herd a sene * I fell doun to woþshyp before the seate of the Aungell, which thewed me these thynges. And he sayd vnto me: se thou do it not, for I am thy fellowe, seruaunt of thy brethren the Prophetes, and of them which nepe þe saynges of this boke. But woþshyp God.

And he sayd vnto me: seale not the saynges of the prophete of this boke. For the tyme is at hande. he that doeth euell, let hym do euill syl and he which is spith, let hym be spith syl: he which is ryghteous, let hym be more ryghteous, and he that is holy, let hym be more holy. And beholde, I come shortly, and my reward is with me, to geue euery man accordyng as hys dedes shall be. I am Alpha and Omega, the begynnyng and the ende: the fyrst and the laste. Blessed are they that do his comaundemetes, that they power maye be in the tre of lyfe, and maye entre in thowre the gates into the cytie. * For withoute shall be dogges and inchauntery, and whoz mongers, and murthers, and ydolaters and who soeuer loueth or maketh lyes.

I Iesus sent myne aungell, to testyfy vnto you these thynges in the congregacions. I am the roote and the generacpon of Dauid, and the bypnt moynnyng starre. And the spete and the byrde saye: come. And let hym that heareth, say also come. * And let hym that is a thyrst: come. And let whosoever wyl, take of þe water of lyfe fre. I testyfy vnto euery man that heareth the wordes of the prophete of this boke: * yf any man shall adde vnto these thynges, God shall adde vnto hym yplages that are wyrtten in this boke. And yf any man shall mynysh of the wordes of the boke of this prophete, God shall take awape hys partte oute of the boke of lyfe, and out of the holy cytie, and from the thynges which are wyrtten in this boke. he whiche testyfyeth these thynges sayth: be it. I come quickly. Amen. Euen so come Lorde Iesu. The grace of our Lorde Iesu Christ be with you all. Amen.
